Refuse to Give Up Jurisdiction of Brewery Engineers.

Referendum Vote Goes Heavily Against the Proposition.

Charter of Union Will Probably be Taken Away.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 29.—The executive boar dof the International Union of Brewery Workemen, which has been engaged for the past three days at the headquarters in this city, in compiling the vote of the local unions throughout the United States and Canada on the ultimatum submitted by the American Federation of Labor, relative to jurisdiction over the engineers and firemen employed in breweries, announced today that the count is practically closed and that the vote cast was against giving up jurisdiction. The mandate of the American Federation of Labor, as originally promulgated, required that on or before May 1 the National Union of Brewery Workmen should renounce its claims to jurisdiction over the engineers and firemen. The time was extended afterward to May 28 to enable the brewery workers union to take a referendum vote of its total membership.

It is understood that not more than 1,000 votes out of the total membership of about 60,000 have been cast in favor of accepting the dictum of the American Federation of Labor. If the latter carries out its ultamatum, as it probably will, the charter of the International Union of Brewery Workmen will be annulled and revoked on June 1.

This extreme measure has never been put in force before in the various jurisdiction controversies between the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated national unions. It marks a new and distinct policy, which it is believed the federation officials have adopted and will pursue in a number of similar controversies and the result of the brewery workmen's vote thus becomes a matter of intense interest to thousands of trade union men throughout the country.

KILLING OF TRACKMAN STALLS ALL TRAINS.

New York, May 29—A Sixth avenue elevated train, loaded with passengers, struck and killed Thomas Gallagher, a trackwalker, near Bleecker street curve, today, derailing the front trucks of the first car and tying up the line for an hour or more when traffic was heaviest.

Most of the passengers left the stalled trains and walked to nearby stations. The motorman, Edward Clark, was arrested.

CARPENTERS WIN STRIKE.

Newark, N. J., May 29.—The strike of journeymen carpenters, which began May 1, ended today in a full victory for the men. The strike was for an eight-hour day, at 50 cents an hour, and a half holiday Saturdays; double pay for overtime and holidays, and the closed shop.

ZION CITY IN BAD WAY

Court to be Asked to Sell All the Dowie Property.

Plan on Foot to Reorganize the Entire Outfit.

Chicago, May 29.—On the ground that the estate of the late John Alexander Dowie, now in the hands of Receiver John Chatley, is greatly deteriorating in value in the present state of disorganization, a petition has been prepared for presentation before Judge Landis in the United States court asking for a decree granting authority to the receiver to sell the property without further delay. It is said that it is a plan for reorganization of the Zion City property and may result in the complete overthrow of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, who assumed ecclesiastical authority and temporal power over the church of Zion following the death of the founder, Dowie.

Besides the petition for immediate sale of the Dowie property, it is announced that an injunction will be asked restraining Mrs. Jane Dowie and the trustees, chief of whom is John A. Lewis, named by Dowie in his will as his successor, from exercising any rights in the property in the receiver's hands other than the property at Muskegon, Mich., claimed by Mrs. Dowie.

Trustee Lewis said today that no contest of the petition would be made by the trustees as it was understood the action of the receiver was for the purpose of reorganizing the Zion property and industries and would eventually result in the restoration of peace among the Zionites.

MACHINISTS ON A STRIKE

Men on Louisville & Nashville Railroad Ordered Out.

Want Recognition of Union and Uniform Wage Scale.

Louisville, May 29.—A general strike of machinists on the Louisville & Nashville railroad was ordered at 8 o'clock this morning, to become effective an hour later. There are between 600 and 700 machinists employed on the road, 245 of them working in the South Louisville shops. Vice President Buckalew, who ordered the strike upon receipt of a telegram from President O'Connell of the International Association of Machinists, claimed that 8 per cent of the men would go out on receipt of the order and that they would be followed, if it became necessary, by the blacksmiths, boilermakers and other skilled mechanics in the different shops. The machinists ask recognition of the union and a uniform scale of wages in each shop. No increase in pay is demanded.

EXECUTION OF TWO TRAITORS

San Francisco, May 29.—The steamer City of Sydney, arriving last night from Central America, brings a story of the probable death by execution of Juan Fuentes and M. Bonilla, alleged traitors of Salvador, who were taken into custody aboard the City of Sydney by Senor Figuerea, son of Gen. Figuerea, president of Salvador. Passengers arriving on the steamer believe that the two prisoners were shot soon after they were taken ashore.

Feuntes was formerly private secretary of Gen. Figuerea and was possessed of all the important secrets of the administration. Of Bonilla not much is known. They succeeded in getting out of Salvador safely, taking passage on the Pacific mail steamer Peru, bound for this city. At San Jose de Guatemala, however, they left the steamer and boarded the City of Sydney, bound toward Panama, evidently expecting to avoid possible pursuit.

Their actions appeared to have been known, however, for, when the City of Sydney reached Acajutla, Salvador, young Figuerca went aboard the steamer and demanded their custody. Capt. McLean refused to give them up and Figuerca remained on board as a passenger. At La Libertad, the next port south, he went ashore, returning soon afterward with a squad of soldiers. Again he demanded custody of Fuentes and Bonilla, arguing that they were citizens of Salvador and wanted by the authorities, and this time Capt. McLean gave them up. They were taken ashore without delay or much ceremony.

STRIKE COLLAPSES.

Philadelphia, May 29.—The strike of the longshoremen employed by the Merchants & Miners' company in this city, which was inaugurated several days ago for increased wages, and which spread to one of the Delaware river piers of the Baltimore & Ohio Railway company, has practically collapsed and most of the strikers returned to work today.

HUNDREDS OF LIVES LOST IN TYPHOON WHICH SWEPT THE CAROLINE ISLANDS

Ulie Entirely Destroyed With Its 200 Inhabitants.

Heavy Loss of Life Reported From Neighboring Isles.

Those Who Were Saved Climbed the Cocoanut Trees.

Victoria, B. C., May 29.—Further advices regarding the disastrous typhoon in the Caroline islands recently reported by cable from Sydney, Australia, were received here in the mails from the Orient. The typhoon passed over the Caroline group on March 28, and hundreds of people were killed by the waves, which swept over the smaller islands. Those who were saved were mostly those who had climbed cocoanut trees. The typhoon extended as far west as Guam. At the Manila observatory on March 30, the typhoon was registered as being northeast of Yap in the Western Carolines. March 31 it was found to be north of Yap, indicating a dangerous situation in the southern part of the Carolines and the Philippines. The accuracy of the observations from the Manila observatory were confirmed on receipt of advices from Yap and the Carolines. The island of Ulie was entirely destroyed, and the waves which passed over this island killed 200 people. Heavy loss of life was reported from other islands. Some were entirely covered, and natives were rescued days afterward, clinging to the tops of cocoanut trees. On Wilson island twenty people were killed, and on Sirol or Phillips island, which lies between Yap and Ulie, fifty people perished. The majority of the islands were desolated, and the loss is said to be great.

EX-CONFEDERATE TO MAKE ADDRESS.

Battle Creek, Mich., May 29.—An unusual honor has been bestowed on James J. Reed of Battle Creek, who is this year to give the Memorial day address at Climax, Mich. The doctor, an ex-Confederate, has been made an honorary member of the very regiment he fought against the hardest.

During the Civil war, Dr. Reed, with the Fourteenth Mississippi, participated in the battle of Thompson's Station, Tenn., which the Southerners called the battle of Spring Hill. In this regiment, Reed's regiment captured the Nineteenth Michigan, which has now adopted him as an honorary member.

LAUNCHING OF CRUISER

Brings a Representative Gathering From Alabama.

New Scout Birmingham Will Have 24-Knot Speed.

Quincy, Mass., May 29.—It was an interested party of Southern men and women which Former Governor Joseph F. Johnson of Alabama and Miss Mary Campbell of Birmingham led to the yard of the Fore River Shipbuilding company today for the launching of the scout cruiser Birmingham, the former governor, as the state's representative and the young woman as the sponsor for the new addition to the American navy. Included in the christening party were Maj. James W. Thirley, the representative of Mayor Ward, and a score of other citizens of Birmingham, together with the parents and a bevy of girl friends of Miss Campbell.

The Birmingham, which is designed to make a speed of twenty-four knots an hour, is a new departure in shipbuilding in the American navy.

The estimated speed of twenty-four knots an hour, while slightly less than that of the English scout cruiser, is more than compensated for by the ability to maintain the high speed in all conditions of weather, and in addition, the American type of cruiser has more than twice the coal capacity, and, therefore, a far greater radius of action than the English scout.

The Birmingham is 420 feet over all, 46 feet, 8 inches in breadth and has a draught of 19 feet. The total capacity is 1,250 tons and her steaming radius at full speed is estimated at 1,875, or 6,250 miles at ten knots an hour. It is estimated that she will develop 16,000-horse power.

The hull is built of steel throughout with two longitudinal bulk heads and five decks, the main and berth decks being continuous from stem to stern. Her battery will consist of two five-inch and six three-inch rapid fire guns, and two twenty-one-inch submerged torpedo guns.

Her motive power will be derived from vertical engines with four cylinders triple expansion type and she will have the usual twin screws.

The Birmingham will be distinguished by her two-pole masts and her four short smokestacks.

BAKERS ON STRIKE.

Berlin, May 29.—The journeymen bakers struck last night. About 2,500 bakeries are affected and more than 5,000 men are out. They demanded a minimum wage of $5.75 per week, ten to twelve hours for a day's work and one day's rest each week.

THE RECEIVING VAULT AT CANTON, OHIO.

Vault, where the remains of the late President McKinley lie, pending completion of the national memorial. The body of Mrs. McKinley was placed therein and will later be removed with that of her husband to the mausoleum.

Impressive Funeral Services Occur at the Canton Home.

Attended by President and Members of His Cabinet.

Canton, Ohio, May 29.—Mrs. Ida Saxton McKinley now rests by the side of that of the late President McKinley, in the receiving vault at West Lawn cemetery.

The simple funeral services held at the McKinley residence, on Market street, this afternoon, were witnessed by a distinguished company, including President Roosevelt, Vice President Fairbanks, Governor Harris and many high officials both of the nation and state. During the funeral and the progress of the cortege to the cemetery, all business in Canton, not absolutely necessary, ceased. Banks, stores, factories, amusement houses and parks, all closed in honor of the distinguished dead, and school children were dismissed from the day's task. It was close to 1 o'clock when the presidential party, which included Secretaries Root, Wilson and Garfield, Gen. Corbin, and the president's secretary, Mr. Loeb, arrived. The party was driven immediately to the home of Associate Justice Day, where lunch was served. Among other guests were Governor Harris and members of the board of the McKinley memorial trustees.

The old-fashioned McKinley residence, roomy though it is, was not nearly large enough to accommodate the thousands of people who wished to attend. When seats had been found for the distinguished guests and for intimate friends and relatives, there was little space left. Flowers, with the roses which Mrs. McKinley loved, predominated, filled the house and their fragrance spread out of doors amongst the thousands who lined the walks. So numerous were the floral remembrances, not only from Ohio, but from all over the nation, that the greater part of them had to be sent to the cemetery ahead of the funeral procession. The streets in the neighborhood, containing thousands of carriages, were roped off, street car traffic was stopped, and the entire police force of Can-

BROWN RAT A FEARFUL PEST

Washington, May 29.—The great destruction wrought by rodents is pointed out in a statement which has just been issued by the department of agriculture on "Methods of Destroying Rats." It declares that "an infallible method of extermination of these rodents would be worth more to the people of the United States in a single decade than the department of agriculture has cost since its establishment."

It says the brown rat is the worst mammalian pest in existence, and adds: "If for each cow, horse, sheep and hog on the farms of the United States the farmers support one rat on grain, the toll levied on the cereals by these rodents would reach the enormous total of $100,000,000 a year.

"Their prolificness is the obstacle of their extermination. Three litters of ten each are produced every year, a single pair, breeding without check and without losses by death, in three years would be represented by ten generations, and would number 20,155,392 individuals. The eleventh generation, due at the beginning of the fourth year, would number more than 100,000,000."

A DOUBLE MYSTERY

No Trace Can be Found of Kidnaper's Own Baby.

St. Paul, May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a double mystery surrounding the kidnaping of the four-day-old Glauque baby by Anna Jemuzek, which occurred in Minneapolis last week. So far, the police officials have been unable to discover any motive for the crime, and, furthermore, while it seems absolutely certain that the kidnaper had recently given birth to a child, no trace of it has been found, and she will not divulge what she did with it.

The letter from Celia Polczinska, the Superior acquaintance of Anna Jemuzek, which was translated yesterday, contained a reference to the matter.

The crime with which Anna Jemuzek is charged in the complaint as drawn up by the county attorney, is that of kidnaping. She was arraigned this morning, and after filing of the formal compaint was remanded to jail to await the action of the grand jury which convenes June 11. It is probable that her trial will be during this term of the court, as the next term is not until next September.

COMMITTEE OF SEVENTY-FIVE

Will Soon be Created in Frisco to Direct Matters.

San Francisco, May 29.—Within the next few days a committee of seventy-five, comprising the most influential business men, merchants and manufacturers of San Francisco, will be created.

In personnel the committee is intended to be representative of those elements in the community whose interests are most vitally at stake—the merchants, business men and manufacturers, the large owners of property and the leaders in the financial world. Its size and the character of its members is intended to give it a power and influence that will enable it to take a firm stand in the present crisis and bring an overwhelming influence to bear against the forces of disorder.

Spurred by the declaration of Governor Gillette, in his public statement of Friday last, the executive committee, appointed in joint mass meeting several weeks ago, by the Merchants' exchange, the Merchants' association, the chamber of commerce, the Manufacturers & Producers' association, and the board of trade, and which is back of the present movement, which has been carefully canvassing the ground, and after the deliberation and conference with the governor, is almost ready to announce its plans.

AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT

Not Foreigners or Chinese is the Uprising in China.

Swatow, China, May 29.—A proclamation issued by the Svatvan revolutionary society, declares that the uprising is not directed against foreigners or ordinary Chinese subjects, but against the government, the intention of the revolutionists being to attack and burn every yamen and exterminate the officials with the object of overthrowing the government.

The missions, with the exception of the German mission in Llenchow, have thus far been unmolested, but the missionaries are abandoning their stations and seeking refuge at Swatow.

The local officials take a serious view of the proclamation and are urging the government at Canton to dispatch gunboats here.

ALL HOPE GIVEN UP

Warship Returns With No Tidings of Missing One.

North Sydney, C. B., May 29.—Forty French fishermen have been given up as lost by the officials of St. Pierre, Miquelon, according to dispatches from that place. The men were members of the crews of the schooners Eli Girardin and Le Fleme, which left St. Pierre for the Grand Banks two months ago.

From that day to the present there has been nothing heard from either vessel. The French warship Destries, which was ordered to the fishing grounds in quest of the schooners, returned yesterday with no tidings of the vessels, and all hope of ever hearing from them has been given up.

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

For Securing National Convention for St. Paul, Think Democrats.

St. Paul, May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of Governor Johnson's staff who are interested in bringing the Democratic National convention to St. Paul, think the prospects for success are unusually bright. Quite a number of pledges are announced.

Timothy E. Ryan, national committee man from Wisconsin, was in St. Paul yesterday, in consultation with members of the administration, and announced himself in favor of St. Paul for the convention.

Next week representatives of the Twin City Commercial clubs together with local politicians will go to Duluth for the purpose of interesting the commercial interests there. It will be followed by another general meeting in St. Paul.

VETERAN ENDS LIFE.

Washington, May 29.—William F. Skinner, 70 years old, who served in Stonewall Jackson's brigade during the Civil war, and who was given a medal of honor for bravery, committed suicide here today by inhaling illuminating gas.

SENTENCING OF RUEF POSTPONED

Goes Over for Two Weeks at Request of State.

San Francisco, May 29.—Abraham Ruef appeared before Superior Judge Dunne, in the auditorium of the Jewish synagogue today, to be sentenced for extorting $1,125 from Joseph Maffanti, proprietor of Delmonico's restaurant, to which charge he pleaded guilty a fortnight ago. Assistant District Attorney Heney moved that the passing of sentence be postponed for two weeks. Turning to Ruef, who stood at the bar, Heney said:

"You have no objection to that, Mr. Ruef?"

"None," answered the former boss.

This order was accordingly made by Judge Dunn and Ruef resumed his seat near Mayor Schmitz, whose trial on the identical charge to which Ruef pleaded guilty, was about to be resumed. Theodore V. Halsey, the agent of the Pacific States' Telephone & Telegraph company, indicted with Vice President Glass of that corporation on eleven charges of bribing the supervisors to vote against the granting of a franchise to the Howe Telephone company, was called for arraignment on the last indictment returned against him. It charges that Halsey bribed Supervisor W. F. Sanderson in the sum of $5,000. Halsey's attorneys are Delphin M. Delmas and Charles Singer and Humphrey. Halsey stood up during the reading of the indictment by Clerk McManus, which took about five minutes. At its conclusion the clerk asked:

"To this charge what do you plead?"

"If it please your honor," interposed Attorney Schlessinger, "we desire until next Saturday to plead."

To this the prosecution consented.

"We also ask for a copy of the testimony of Mr. Halsey before the grand jury."

The request was granted and Judge Dunne directed that a copy be furnished.

Memorial Day Proclamation By the Mayor

The true significance of Memorial Day is becoming more and more appreciated as time goes on. The spirit of patriotism is by no means dormant, as evidenced by the recent organization of the Citizens' Staff, comprised of some hundreds of patriotic citizens, who have organized for the purpose of perpetuating the memories sacred to this day.

In order that this day may be properly observed, I hereby request that all business houses close, and that the citizens in general cease all unnecessary labor; that all places of amusement be closed until after 3 o'clock; that the saloons may also strictly observe the law by closing.

M. B. CULLUM,
Mayor.

Address at Moose Lake.
Andrew Nelson, a well known Duluth attorney, will go to Moose Lake tomorrow, where he will deliver the Memorial day address at the exercises to be held there.

Will Visit Switzerland.
A. M. Chisholm will leave Duluth this afternoon for Europe via Montreal, where he will visit his sister for a short time. His principal objective point is Switzerland, where he expects to spend more time than in any other of the European countries. Mrs. Chisholm expects to join him there during the month of July. The trip of Mr. Chisholm will probably occupy about six or seven weeks.

Famous Beauty Coming.

Surprise Party.
A delightful surprise party was tendered to Masters Bert and Webster Arseneau at their home at 210 East Second street Monday evening, the occasion being their birthday anniversary. The evening was spent playing games and before the party broke up each was presented with a handsome gold ring. About twenty young people were present.

Move Their Offices.
O. C. Hartman & Co., have moved their offices, and now have commodious quarters on the second floor of the Lonsdale building.

Married by Rabbi Teplitz.
The wedding of Miss Minnie Rose to Harry Kaner, both of this city, was performed today by Rabbi Teplitz at Odd Fellows' hall. Miss Sadie Kohan attended the bride and Isadore Kaner acted as best man. Miss Rose Kaner and Israel Kaner also attended. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Rose, Winnipeg; B. Karon, Chilsholm, and Walter Kohan, Minneapolis.

Strawberry Festival.
The Ladies' Aid society of the First Baptist church gave a strawberry festival last evening, the proceeds going toward the building fund. In spite of the bad weather, about 150 people were in attendance, making quite a success of the affair. Among those taking part in the program of entertainment were H. Tischer, Miss Lovett, Mrs. Latsham and Miss Dorothy Patton

A Dangerous Combination.
A woman, an ax, and a stick of wood have always been regarded a dangerous combination and one of the young lady clerks at the courthouse bears witness to the fact with a much bruised and skinned nose. According to the best information to be had on the subject, a sister of the young lady in question attempted to chop some wood yesterday when the stick flew over her head and hit the other member of the family on that portion of her countenance not generally intended for such rough usage. The subject is regarded as too painful to mention names.

Demands Heavy Damages.
The complaint in a personal injury case which has been transferred from the district court of St. Louis county was filed in the office of the clerk of the United States court this morning. Mike Arko demands judgment in the sum of $5,000 from the Shenango Furnace company for injuries claimed to have been received while working in their mine near Chisholm. His hand was badly crushed, torn and lacerated so that he has been unable to do any work with it since the accident which is claimed to have been due wholly to the negligence of the company. L. H. Corcoran and Alexander Marshall represent Arko.

To Initiate Team.
At the next regular meeting of Eastern Star court, No. 8, United Order of Foresters, a class of ten members will be put through by the degree team under Capt. Harry Milnes. The court is just at present engaged in a lively campaign for members, seventy-five new ones being much desired. Reports from the finance committee and from the committee in charge of the benefit dance will also be features of the meeting.

Lillie Fix Dies.
Lillie May Fix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Fix of 901 West Fourth street, died at her home this morning of pneumonia after an illness lasting for several weeks. The funeral arrangements have not been completed but it will probably be held Saturday morning.

New Stenographer Arrives.
James H. Daly arrived in the city this morning from Sault Ste. Marie and has already taken up his duties as stenographer in the office of William H. Dean, United States immigration inspector. Mr. Daly has been previously stationed at the Sault and was just transferred to the Head of the Lakes.

WON BY A THREAT.

Philadelphia Record: Years ago there lived a judge down in Mississippi who was a man of parts. He was elected many times before his popularity began to wane. Finally in one campaign, while the tide seemed running strong against him, he saved the day by a master stroke.

A meeting of the voters had been called and the audience listened with rapt attention to the arguments of the 'Squire's opponent. When his time came to address them the 'squire slowly mounted the platform, carrying a large document in his hand. Gazing slowly over the crowd, he said:

"I've been jestice of this yere county for fifteen years or more, and I done my duty well. If you wanter vote agin me you kin, but I say here and now, plain and soleman, if you do I'll burn this yere constitution and bylaws of the state of Mississippi."

He paused to shake the document he held at them, and then continued:

"Yes, sirree, I've got it right here, and I'll burn it up. Then wharr'll you be? Wharr'll you be without no constitution and no bylaws to live by?"

The Evolution of Household Remedies.

In the early history of this country, EVERY FAMILY HAD ITS HOME-MADE MEDICINES. Herb teas, bitters, laxatives and tonics, were to be found in almost every house, compounded by the housewife, sometimes assisted by the apothecary or the family doctor. Such remedies as picra, which was aloes and quassia, dissolved in apple brandy. Sometimes a hop tonic, made of whiskey, hops and bitter barks. A score or more of popular, home-made remedies were thus compounded, the formulae for which were passed along from house to house, sometimes written, sometimes verbally communicated.

The patent medicine business is a natural outgrowth from this wholesome, old-time custom. In the beginning, some enterprising doctor, impressed by the usefulness of one of these home-made remedies, would take it up, improve it in many ways, manufacture it on a large scale, advertise it mainly through almanacs for the home, and thus it would become used over a large area. LATTERLY THE HOUSEHOLD REMEDY BUSINESS TOOK A MORE EXACT AND SCIENTIFIC FORM.

Peruna was originally one of these old-time remedies. It was used by the Mennonites, of Pennsylvania, before it was offered to the public for sale. Dr. Hartman, THE ORIGINAL COMPOUNDER OF PERUNA, is of Mennonite origin. First, he prescribed it for his neighbors and his patients. The sale of it increased, and at last he established a manufactory and furnished it to the general drug trade.

Peruna is useful in a great many climatic ailments, such as coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, and catarrhal diseases generally. THOUSANDS OF FAMILIES HAVE LEARNED THE USE OF PERUNA and its value in the treatment of these ailments. They have learned to trust and believe in Dr. Hartman's judgment, and to rely on his remedy, Peruna.

NO TRACE FOUND OF LITTLE CHILD

Search for Missing One Unrewarded Up to Noon Wednesday.

Bemidji, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The reports sent out from Shevlin and Solway that C. J. Knox, chief of the Bemidji police, had refused to aid in helping to find the missing Shepherd child at Solway unless car fare and wages were guaranteed "his" men is false. Chief Knox has done all in his power to induce men to join the posse in the hunt at Solway, and was instrumental in having the county authorities offer a reward of $100 for the recovery of the body. The mysterious manner in which the child has absolutely disappeared from the face of the earth puzzles every one. Some think the little one sank out of sight in the swamp which surrounds the house, while others believe he was made away with by some wild animal. It is the intention to ask Governor Johnson to offer additional reward on the part of the state if the body is not recovered today.

J. S. LANE'S EDITORIAL

The Spring and Summer Suits I'm making for $30, $35 and $40 are the best values you'll find anywhere in Duluth.

No other tailor would make them for less than $40, $45 and $50, and you couldn't get them at a ready-made "guess-fit" store for any price.

I'm showing the swellest bunch of fabrics you ever saw, and owing to the backwardness of the season am prepared to give you a bargain that will make you my customer the balance of your life.

I'll show you values that'll sicken you from ever buying another hand-me-down, and demonstrate that you don't have to pay a big price for some other tailor's "hot air."

Yours truly,

J. S. LANE,

WEST DULUTH

CAR LINE TO PROCTOR

Feasible Route Laid Out by Assistant City Engineer.

Report to Council Monday Night Will be Favorable.

Assistant City Engineer Axel E. Wilson spent all day yesterday on the hills back of West Duluth making surveys from which to make a report to the council on the feasibility of running a street car line from the present Fifty-seventh avenue west extension to Proctor, as required by a resolution introduced into the council by Alderman Getchell several weeks ago. Residents of the hillside village will be very glad to know that Mr. Wilson's report will be very favorable.

After tramping over the territory between the top of the hill and the Forty-seventh avenue car line for most of the day, the assistant city engineer has picked out a route which he believes would be entirely feasible and over which the maximum necessary grade would be 9 per cent, practically the same as that on Third avenue west at the present time.

The proposed route would leave the Fifty-seventh avenue line at Highland street, go up Highland street to the D., M. & N. right of way, follow along the upper side of the right of way until its intersection with Tacony street, along Tacony street to the easterly line of Bay View division, along Earl street for a short distance and then off and following the westerly bank of Keene creek until reaching what is known as Bay View boulevard.

The Bay View boulevard is at such a height that the rest of the climb can be made in a straight line along Queen street to the top of the hill without incurring a steeper grade than 9 per cent.

Along Keene creek there will be several curves in the line but the grade is nowhere prohibitive. Mr. Wilson says that the scenery along the line where it follows the windings of the creek is almost as pretty as any he has seen in the city.

In short, the engineer will report to the council next Monday night that any move which they may make to secure the extension of the street car service to Proctor and Bay View Heights will be thoroughly practical as far as the grade along the route is concerned.

DIED IN CANADA.

Hugh Blane, Former West Duluth Man, Passed Away Yesterday.

H. R. Patterson yesterday afternoon received a mesasge from Burrows, Saskatchewan, Canada, announcing the death there yesterday morning of Hugh Blane. The news came as a distinct shock to Mr. Blane's friends in West Duluth, where he made his home for a number of years. He was superintendent of the Lesure Mill company's plant here up to three years ago when he went to Burrows to take the superintendency af the mill of the Red Deer Lumber company. He made several trips to West Duluth since that time, the last being only a month or so ago.

No particulars of the cause of death were given, but it is though that the end came suddenly, or friends in West Duluth would have been notified had he been ill for any length of time. The deceased was about 38 years of age, and is survived by a widow. No funeral arrangements have been announced.

ROD AND GUN CLUB MEETING

West Duluth Organziation Will Meet Next Sunday.

The West Duluth Rod & Gun club will hold its annual meeting next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the rooms of the West Duluth Commercial club. New officers will be elected, and the plans of the club for the year will be discussed.

The members of the club are preparing for an active season this year. But for the backward spring, it is probable the meeting would have been held earlier, and the range be in use now. Aftern next Sunday's meeting, steps will be taken to have shoots at regular intervals. The range, located at the foot of Sixty-third avenue will be put in shape immediately. The club has an excellent trap, and some good shoots are in prospect this year, as it has in its membership some clever men with the gun.

BROTHER OF CZOLGOSZ

Said to Have Been Seen in City of Canton.

Police on Alert to Guard President From Danger.

Canton, May 29.—During the night and this morning up to the hour of the funeral, people from various parts of the country continued to arrive here to attend the funeral of Mrs. McKinley.

The rumor apparently originating in Cleveland that Michael Czolgosz, brother of the assassin of President McKinley was in Canton, was discredited by the police. Yesterday Inspector Sutton of the federal secret service held a conference with Chief of Police Smith, relative to preserving order in the crowds in President Roosevelt's vicinity and to guard the president from possible injury. While placing no credence on the Czolgosz story the police are on the alert. Inspector Sutton today again went over the route from the McKinley home to the cemetery and pronounced himself satisfied with the arrangements.

The origin of the Czolgosz rumor became more clearly visible later today when it developed that yesterday afternoon Associate Justice Day of the supreme court had notified the police that a strange man had been prowling about the Day residence. Policemen were sent to the house, but no trace of the alleged prowler was found. Last night some one called Inspector Sutton out of bed with a telephone message to the effect that Michael Czolgosz was in Canton. The telephone message to Inspector Sutton according to the police, came apparently from the residence of Judge Day.

When pressed for details today, Judge Day said: "It is a matter I do not care to discuss."

Up to noon nothing to indicate the presence of any undesirable visitors had been discovered.

United States Marshal Frank Chandler and two detectives who know Michael Czolgosz by sight, arrived here this morning and were close to the president through his brief stay here.

"Stories like this about Czolgosz are always current and usually untrue," said Mr. Chandler, "but we will take no chance. If there is one chance in a thousand they could seize in Canton, we will try to provide against that one chance.

Three arrests were the result of the "drag net" thrown out during the forenoon. The men were strangers in the city, and each strongly protested the absence of malign intentions. The police, however, announced that the men would be held until after the president's departure for Indianapolis.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 29.—The government secret service officials place little credence in the story published today to the effect that Michael Czolgosz, brother of Leon Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, is now in Canton.

Peter C. Dick, chief of the local secret service bureau, said: "I have heard nothing concerning the matter except what I have read in the newspapers. The statement that we are looking for Michael Czolgosz is not true. Even though the man has gone to Canton I see no reason for alarm on that score. If he is there he will be located and watched."

Asked if he would make any attempt to confirm the report that Czolgosz has gone to Canton, Mr. Dick replied in the negative.

The local police officials express no interest in the report that the brother of the assassin would attend the funeral of Mrs. McKinley.

DEPENDS ON HER STORY

Jury Instructed Not to Read Newspaper Accounts of Trial.

Miss Bessie Butchart, the state's principal witness in the assault case against Frederick M. Argyle, was on the witness stand under cross-examination all the forenoon today.

Miss Butchart was first called as a witness yesterday and was off the stand during the interval that she attended the funeral of her grandfather, James Butchart, who died a few days ago.

Her testimony was practically the same as that given at the former trial of Argyle for assaulting his wife, the shooting of Miss Butchart and the alleged shooting at Mrs. Argyle having occurred at the same time and place, at Lester Park, early last March.

Briefly stated, Miss Butchart, in relating the incidents up to and including the shooting, claimed that she had passed Argyle and his wife while they were talking near the railroad track on Fifty-eighth avenue east and had stopped several feet beyond, looking toward the lake and waiting for Mrs. Argyle to join her and go to the Butchart home for supper. She said Mr. and Mrs. Argyle walked toward her and all three continued down the avenue toward the Butchart home, when Mrs. Argyle stepped quickly in front of the witness. Miss Butchart testified that Argyle was walking closely behind and a little to her right, that he reached over her shoulder to take hold of Mrs. Argyle, who fell on the snow. The witness claims that she then saw Argyle's arm extend past her head with a revolver pointed straight at Mrs. Argyle, that she, Miss Butchart, knocked it up and the bullet went over Mrs. Argyle's head. The witness claimed that she struck the revolver when the second shot was fired and the bullet went to the right of Mrs. Argyle.

Miss Butchart claimed that Argyle

seized her by the right wrist and held her while he shot her in the head, destroying her left eye.

The witness claimed that she did not seize Argyle by the coat before the shooting and tear a button and a portion of the cloth. She stated that it she testified in the previous trial that she took hold of Argyle previous to being shot in the head, she wished to correct it.

Mr. Culkin's cross-examination was rigid, and some of the questions related to the hostile feeling that Miss Butchart might have toward Argyle. The witness admitted that she does not feel kindly otward him now and would like to see him punished by a term in the penitentiary. She denied emphatically that she had in any way influenced Mrs. Argyle against her husband or sought to separate them.

It seems to be the understanding that the state expects to put in little or no evidence outside of the testimony of Miss Butchart, that Mrs. Argyle will not be called as a witness in the present trial.

Owing to the objections of counsel over the report of the trial in the morning paper, the court instructed the jury that they should not, while the case is being tried, read any newspaper accounts of the progress of the trial.

DIRECTOR SELECTED

A. J. Frey, Leader of St. Paul Turners, Will Take Maxwell's Place.

Spend Summer at Lake Geneva, Beginning Work in Fall.

After eight months of searching, during which time applications from several of the most noted physical directors in the country have been received and rejected, the board of directors of the Duluth Y. M. C. A. has selected August J. Frey of St. Paul to take the place of Frank A. Maxwell as physical director at the local gymnasium.

The association is to be congratulated upon securing Mr. Frey for the work here, as he was forced to turn down several most flattering offers from elsewhere before coming to Duluth. He is a young man, 26 years of age, but his reputation as a gymnast and physical instructor is widespread. He first came into prominence in Cincinnati, his home town, showing remarkable ability as a gymnast and class leader there. He took an active part in both Y. M. C. A. and German Turner gymnasium work.

From Cincinnati Frey went to Joliet, where he spent two years in charge of an athletic club composed of employes of the Joliet steel works. Mr. Frey, upon leaving there, entered the North American Gymnastic School at Milwaukee, from which he graduated last spring, and since that time he has been physical director of the German Turners of St. Paul, bringing their work to a degree of perfection never before attained and making a reputation for himself which brought him many flattering offers from gymnasiums from all over the country.

While the new physical director has not devoted all of his time to Y. M. C. A. work since he took up physical training as a profession, he has been thoroughly conversant with the work of the association throughout his career and will take up his work here with a full understanding of what is required of him.

During the summer he will attend the association training school which is established at the national camp at Lake Geneva, returning to Duluth about the 1st of September to take up his work in the gymnasium. He is, among his other accomplishments, a master of fencing and when the new building is established it is planned to give this feature of work considerable attention.

LONG LIST OF AUTOS

Duluth Now Has 117 Owners of Automobiles.

Several New Machines Purchased and on Way Here.

Duluth now has 117 automobiles, and the prospect is that the number will go well over the 125 mark within the next two weeks, as several new machines are due within that interval. All the machines in the city, including the motor cycles, are now registered with the city clerk, so that the roll gives the complete list of Duluth's auto owners.

In one or two cases the numbers cannot be counted on, as the machines have been sold to other owners and the number goes with them. Some of the owners in the list purchased new cars and sold their old ones, and in one or two cases exchanges make the list incorrect. In the great majority, however, the numbers are correct. The list follows:

1, F. W. Helmick; 2, A. C. Ribenack; 3, George E. Vincent; 4, A. M. Miller; 5, John T. Black; 6, L. Miller; 7, L. R. Martin; 8, A. E. McManus; 9, W. W. Sanford, 10, William B. Godfrey; 11, C. C. CONCERNING WOMEN.

The members of the local organization of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of this city are looking forward with interest to the series of meetings to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 31 and June 1 and 2, which will be conducted by Mrs. Bessie Laythe Scovel of Minneapolis, state president of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Scovel formerly lived in Duluth and is well known to a large number of Duluth people. She will arrive in the city tomorrow and will be the guest of Mrs. G. W. Smith of West Duluth. Mrs. Scovel will be a speaker Friday morning at the missionary convention held upon that day at the First Methodist church. In the afternoon, Mrs. Scovel will address a parlor meeting at the home of Mrs. N. C. Hendricks of 831 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, on "Home Work," and in the evening she will speak at the Congregational church at West Duluth, with "Be of Good Cheer," as her subject. Saturday afternoon, the state president will be the guest of honor at a reception at the home of Mrs. Alfred Merritt of 2105 East Second street, and she will speak on "Glimpses of World Wide Work." Sunday morning Mrs. Scovel will occupy the pulpit at Asbury Methodist church of West Duluth, with "Gospel of Work and Rest," and Sunday evening she will be the speaker at the First Presbyterian church, on "Life and Its Value." At the devotional service Sunday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. rooms, at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, she will also be the speaker.

Home Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Clara O. Jansen, daughter of Rev. Peter Jensen, and Hartwick O. Hanson, took place last evening at the home of the bride's father at 125 North Twenty-fifth avenue west. The wedding service was read by Rev. H. K. Madson of the Norwegian-Danish Methodist church. A wedding supper followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Hanson left for an Eastern wedding trip. They will be at home at 2217 West Third street, after their return.

Gymnasium Frolic.

The gymnasium frolic of the Young Women's Christian association will be held this evening at 8 o'clock, at the rooms. The association members and their friends are invited to attend.

The rooms of the Young Women's Christian association will be closed all day tomorrow, in honor of Memorial day.

Pupils' Recital.

Pupils from the class of Miss Mabel Fulton appeared in a piano and song recital last evening at the home of their teacher. The compositions of American composers were presented, and the evening was one of unusual interest. George William Sharp, reader, assisted in his numbers "Vagabond Prince" by William Arthur and "Lasco" by James Cardinal was enthusiastically received. The piano numbers were played by Mame Lynch, Eva Baker, Matilda Landfald, Violet Flaaten, Mathilde Olson, Luella Hoar, Ellen Messler, Martha Sanders, Myrtle and Dell Perry, Millicent Fisher, Pauline Solom and Nellie Fisher. A soprano solo, "My Heart is Singing," by Gertrude Sans Souci was sung by Miss Janet Roerner.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hubbell and Albert Hubbell, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Cotton left today for Brooklyn, where they will be guests at the wedding of Miss Janet Welch of that city and Ralph Gideon Hubbell of Duluth, which takes place there next week.

Mrs. Julius H. Barnes has returned from a short visit at Minneapolis. She was accompanied by Mrs. Henry Swart of Winnipeg, who will be the guest of Mrs. H. L. Carey of Lakeside.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lee Gilbert have returned from a several months' European trip.

Mrs. E. LaSalle and Miss Jessie LaSalle of 1226 East First street, left yesterday for a two-weeks' lake trip. They will visit at Cleveland before returning.

Mrs. LeRoy Salsich of Coleraine is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Frazer for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles d'Autremont and Miss Marie d'Autremont left today for Brooklyn, where they will be guests at the wedding of Miss Janet Welch and Ralph Gideon Hubbell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Stone have returned from California where they spent the winter.

Another Great Bargain

$10.00

We have just gotten on another lot of these thin model 15-jewel, 20-year, gold-filled watches for men, and though they cost us more than the first lot, we are going to make the same low price on them.

What Retail Markets Offer.

New beets, 8 cents a bunch.
Carrots, 8 cents a bunch.
Strawberries, 18 cents a box.
California cherries, 50 cents a lb.
Shoulder veal for veal loaf, 15 cents a lb.
Beef tongues, 65 cents each.
Lake Superior trout, 15 cents a lb.

To make a veal loaf you take—but what's the use? Everybody who knows how to make it will probably exclaim: "Why, they've left out the veal," after reading the rule as it might be given, or a bay leaf, or a douse of paprika, or her own special measurement of something that this column would probably advocate leaving out entirely. Make veal loaf any way you like and it will probably find sale. Less combination cooking would be better anyway. About a pound of California cherries and an excellent strawberry shortcake would be far more palatable than all the veal loaves ever concocted. This, however, is a good time of year to buy veal.

The new beets in the market are delicious. Boiled tenderly and cut daintily into cubes and mixed plentifully with pecan nut meats, and dressed deliciously with a salad dressing, they make a lucious salad. There are other things of delight in the market.

A BRIEF ROMANCE

By Ella Rodman Church.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Miss Dilkes and Saidie Porter's mother were cousins, which seemed to Miss Dilkes quite a near relation, as the most distant ramifications of her family were precious to her, inasmuch as no other family, in her opinion, quite equaled it in importance.

Left now with a very small income, and a very inferior house to that in which her childhood and youth were passed, Miss Rebecca received as inmates a cousin of the same type as herself, and Saidie Porter whose 22 years of life found very little congeniality in these somber surroundings. Cousin Rebecca frequently complained to her that "it was almost impossible to get along with Phile's peculiarities," while Cousin Phile was mysterious and confidential over "poor Rebecca's strange ways." Thus these two elderly maidens were constant thorns in each other's sides, and likewise in Saidie Porter's.

Friends of the family, staid, elderly friends, spoke of Saidie as resting figuratively on a bed of roses. It was so splendid, they said, left alone as she was, to have a home with "Cousin Rebecca"—it was such a protection for her; and everything was so neat, and Cousin Rebecca was such an excellent housekeeper. What a pity that Saidie did not see things with their eyes! For, if the truth must be told, that young lady was highly disconcerted, and this dissatisfaction had been creeping upon her of late.

There was a delightful house a few miles out of town, "an Italian villa," it was called; and to this villa went Miss Saidie daily, in the morning train, and spent four hours teaching the English branches to two lovely little girls—favored frequently with the company of their very charming mamma. It was just enough employment, and it was generously paid; while the young teacher was treated in all respects as became her birth and breeding.

This was just the kind of life that Saidie enjoyed. A visit from Mrs. Osbrook's brother did not lessen the pleasure of it. He was very elegant, and had such grand ways and had traveled everywhere, and his name was Otho; and she overheard him telling his sister that the young governess reminded him of a wild rose (Saidie thought this quite original), and many more such things were tumbled together in her memory, and caused a blush of pleasure at the very thought of them.

It was just after this that Dr. Empton had so coolly said: "It will be safer, perhaps, not to go into any house, nor to admit any one here for a few weeks."

"A few weeks!" when life had just begun to be so beautiful to her—what might not happen in a few weeks? She had never been particularly fond of "Cousin Phile," but she felt that she loved her less than ever that morning. For "Cousin Phile" had not been at all well, and unmistakable symptoms of varioloid were now developed. It was the slightest possible type of the disease, the doctor said, and scarcely worth calling by any name at all; but, nevertheless, he recommended prudence; and meanwhile, as a necessary precaution, every member of the family was vaccinated.

Not long before this untoward illness of Cousin Phile's, there had arrived at the house a distant cousin of the family—a single, gentleman cousin, whom Saidie pronounced disagreeable before she had seen much of him. Herman Dilkes was a bachelor of 35, a very quiet, self-contained man, who seemed to understand every subject in the world, and who gave the young lady the unpleasant impression that he was continually reading her thoughts. He certainly did not find them very complimentary to himself.

The next day she sat down and wrote Mrs. Osbrook a letter instead of an orthodox note, as she intended, setting forth in detail her trouble and loneliness, and "pining after little Laura and Annie."

Perhaps that lady's sharp eyes detected another sort of 'pining;' but, be that as it may, no answer was ever received to this epistle. Not even an inquiry was made at the door; and it would have been so easy to send that lazy Thomas when going his city rounds. Once only did Saidie get a glimpse of the familiar faces during that tedious period of quarantine. Mrs. Osbrook and the children were in the carriage, Mr. Lathrop was on horseback beside them; and the party were drawn up in front of one of the shops, while an obsequious clerk brought out bales of goods for the lady's inspection.

So strange, she thought, that Mrs. Osbrook did not beckon her to the carriage door, and ask her with them again—there could surely be no danger of contamination in the open air. The children too, were strange; and there was an inexplicable something about the whole party that was far from satisfactory. It ws very disagreeable to be shunned as a dangerous object, condemned for days and weeks to the society of Cousin Rebecca. There was Mr. Dilkes, to be sure (he had never asked her to call him cousin), but he was rather settled and steady.

The invalid had been mingling with other people for some time before an intimation was received from Mrs. Osbrook that the young governess' existence was remembered. It came at last, in the shape of a very polished note, inclosing a handsome check, thanking "Miss Porter" for "her most acceptable services," and "unvarying kindness to the children," and begging leave in the nicest manner imaginable to have nothing more to do with her, as her place was supplied by a lady of mature years, the list of whose accomplishments was quite appalling.

Mr. Dilkes saw the letter opened and read—he saw the tell-tale color, and the eyes full of tears; and with his knowledge of girl's nature in general, and Saidie's in particular, he had a vision of the outraged damsel, after she had gained her own apartment, in a passion to ate it or crying and the hateful letter to pieces and trampled beneath her feet.

After a suitable pause for these enjoyments, Herman Dilkes invited the young lady to a concert to be given that very evening, at which all who went might reasonably expect a musical treat. At first Saidie sadly declined—she had a headache, and the noise would make it worse; then she looked in the glass and considered a little, and finally, she resolved to revenge herself by wearing her most becoming things and looking her very prettiest. If Mrs. Osbrook, and—and somebody else were there, she thought she should make much of "Cousin Herman."

It was a very lovely, bright face that Mr. Dilkes glanced down upon that evening (it was only about on a level with his shoulder), the excitement of crying had left no traces but a heightened color, and sparkling eyes; and the coquettish little hat, with its white plume and scarlet berries, was perfectly bewitching.

So thought more than one; for Otho Lathrop, who had been gazing admiringly at the vision, (although the vision persisted in not seeing him), said quite audibly to his sister, as they were waiting for a chance to get out, and did not know of two interested listeners near them:

"What a starry softness of beauty there is about that little governess of yours, Lulu! I'm really thankful she was put in quarantine for awhile, or I don't know where I should have been by this time."

"In a cottage draped with vines, probably," laughed his sister, "and nothing to eat. She is bewitchingly pretty, I admit—but you must leave such luxuries to those who can afford them. Did you notice the gentleman with her?"

"Yes, a fine-looking fellow—who is he?"

"One of the wealthiest men in N—" If she marries him, she will do well."

"Let us go!" gasped Saidie nervously.

Her companion speedily cleared a way and got Saidie out into the fresh night air without loss of time. When there, however, he conducted himself in a most unexpected manner, persisted in walking round and round the square, while he poured out his love and indignation in the same breath; and pleaded humbly for some encouragement, or hope of a return in the future.

The poor child was quite bewildered with all the events of the evening, and in a state of undisguised amazement at the proceedings of Mr. Dilkes. She could not understand his "having loved her from the first," because she—well, she was afraid she had been rather rude to him; for she was quite sure that she didn't like him a bit, then.

He assured her that this had been quite an attraction to him; he was accustomed to so much interested attention from ladies of all kinds that he found her "rudeness" really refreshing. He scarcely knew whether to take Saidie's undisguised look of astonishment as personal or not.

Then Saidie stammeringly declared that—that she had once thought she loved some one else; this momentous secret was very unwillingly laid bare, as though it had not been palpable to the eyes of her companion all along; but he was very tender with her, and frankly admitted that he had fancied himself in love with two or three before he met her.

Cousin Rebecca and others thought that Saidie Porter fared a great deal better than she deserved; and perhaps she did. She had just the kind of house and life that she had yearned for in the days when imagination threw such a glamor over Otho Lathrop; but the real master of her home and heart was one whose attractions did not vanish with the mist of romance.

RAILROADS

ADVANCE IN SALARIES

Burlington Employes Get a Raise of 10 Per Cent.

The New Official Freight Classification Has 3,200 Changes.

Chicago, May 29.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Omaha, Neb., says: Salary advances averaging 10 per cent all around have been granted by the Burlington to employes over the entire system. The increases became effective on May 1, and will show up in the pay checks to be distributed Saturday.

Practically every employe of the road shares in the advance, except the trainmen, whose pay is fixed by conference, and the telegraphers, who recently received an advance.

Each department is given a 10 per cent additional allowance, and this is distributed at the discretion of the heads of the departments. The raises are adjusted according to individual merit.

In the Omaha offices alone there will be an increase of approximately $50,000 a year.

TERMINALS SOLD.

A. J. Sullivan Buys Toledo Railway & Terminal Company's Property.

Toledo, May 29.—The Toledo Railway & Terminal company's property was sold under order of the federal court yesterday to Andrew J. Sullivan, chairman of the bondholders' committee, at the upset price of $2,000,000. No other bid was made.

Most of the $3,500,000 of stock is owned by J. Pierpont Morgan, and, according to Mr. Sullivan, this stock is entirely wiped out and worthless.

Mr. Sullivan said there are no agreements with any outsiders regarding the disposal of the road, although it is believed that the road will be sold or leased to steam roads entering Toledo, and used by them on the co-operative plan.

The property consists of a belt road that circles the city, with a passenger and freight station centrally located.

REORGANIZATION.

New Terminal Arrangements Will be Made at Toledo, Ohio.

New York, May 29.—The sale of the Toledo Railway & Terminal company at Toledo yesterday, will be followed very soon, it is authoritatively stated, by the formulation of a plan for the reorganization of the property. Now that the title has passed formally to the organization committee the way has been opened for an agreement between the committee and the several railroads which are expected to share the facilities of the terminal organization.

Most of the roads entering Toledo, it is believed, will become parties to this agreement, but up to the present there has been only informal discussions of the matter.

With the Toledo terminal matter out of the way it is expected that the Pere Marquette situation will be cleared up quickly and that the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton proper, then will be free to enter into arrangements with the security holders for the purpose of ending the receivership.

Further progress was made yesterday in the negotiations between the Pere Marqutte minority and the Morgan interests and may be that a complete agreement will be reached by the close of this week.

In announcing the clearing of the situation regarding the Pere Marquette, the Herald today says it is believed the railway will go to one of the largest coal roads, either the Lackawanna or the Lehigh Valley.

BIG RAILROAD SHOPS.

The Rock Island Has Extensive Plans for Kansas City.

Kansas City, May 29.—The most extensive railroad shop of the Rock Island system west of the Mississippi river, will be in operation at Kansas City, Kan., within the next year. The above statement was made today by O. L. Miller, local attorney for the Rock Island road, immediately after the Kansas City, Kan., council had passed an ordinance vacating the streets and alleys in the territory bounded by Tenth, Eighteenth and Scott streets and the Rock Island tracks. Twelve buildings will be erected and 1,200 men will be employed with a monthly payroll of $100,000.

MANY CHANGES.

New Official Freight Classification Will be Filed This Week.

Chicago, May 29.—The new official freight classification for the control of railroads in the Central Freight association will be filed with the interestate commerce commission this week and will become effective Aug. 1. There are 3,200 changes in the classification, of which 2,966 are advances ranging from 3,000 to 6,000 pounds in the minimum weight for carload shipments 196 additions, nine erasures, thirty-nine reductions, and sixty advances, caused by changes in the classification, or by cancellation of commodity tariffs.

The general advance in rates caused by changes in minimum weights and classifications is less than 6 per cent. The cancellation of commodity tariffs, making the articles subject to classification rates, affects sixty commodities. Lumber, brick, cement, lead, paper, wall and stucco plaster, are the principal commodities affected.

In the lighter iron and steel material minimums were advanced to 36,000 pounds, but the old minimum of 24,000 pounds was retained for bulky light material.

Hills Coming.

It is expected that James J. Hill and President Louis Hill, together with other officials of the Great Northern road, will arrive in the city tomorrow afternoon on a special train, although their visit may be deferred to a later date.

CHANGE OF VENUE GRANTED.

Lovingston, Va., May 29.—The trial of Former Judge Loving, charged with the murder of Theodore Estes, will take place at a special term of court to be held at Houston, Halifax county, beginning June 24. Judge Berkadale's decision granting a change of venue was announced at opening of court today.

SHOWERS PROMISED FOR MEMORIAL DAY IN DULUTH

Weather Will Not be Allowed to Mar Celebration.

Day Will be Observed More Fittingly Than Ever Before.

SERVICES OF DAY.

9:30 a. m., parade to Lyceum along First street.
10 o'clock, services at Lyceum and overflow meeting for boys at Metropolitan.
2 p. m., services at the graves of departed comrades.
4 o'clock, strewing water with flowers from Gopher.
Stores and offices closed all day.
Flags at half mast until noon.
AMUSEMENTS OF DAY.
(None of amusements will begin until after 3 p. m.)
3 p. m., ball games at Athletic park.
Matinees and evening performances at all three theaters.
Dancing in evening at labor pavilion, Lester Park, and White City.

Memorial day will be given a more general observance in Duluth tomorrow than ever before. A patriotic interest in the doings of the day is more widespread than usual, and on all sides actions of citizens will have a bearing on the significance of the occasion.

Forecaster Richardson does not hold out much encouragement in the way of weather. The indications are for showers tonight and tomorrow, with only occasional glimpses of the clear sky. Mr. Richardson says, however, that Thursday will be warmer than today, and that the weather will not be of such a disagreeable quality as that prevailing this morning.

The Order of March.

Maj. H. V. Eva has announced the order of the route of the Decoration day parade, which will begin to move promptly at 9:30 a. m.

Following is the order of march:

Chief Marshal.
Chief of Staff and Aids.
FIRST DIVISION, COMMANDED BY MAJ. F. E. RESCHE.
Third Infantry Band.
Companies A and C., Third Infantry
Minnesota National Guard.
Naval Reserves.
Spanish-American War Veterans.
Citizens' Staff.
SECOND DIVISION—MARSHAL, CHAS. ALDEN SMITH.
High School Boys.
School Boys.
Drum Corps.
Sons of Veterans.
Willis A. Gorman Post No. 13.
Joshua B. Culver Post No. 128.
Carriages.

The first division will form on the lower side of First street, right resting on Second avenue east, facing east. The second division will form right, resting on First avenue east, facing east.

The column will march on First street to Third avenue east, then countermarch to Fifth avenue west and down the avenue to Superior street. When the head of the column reaches Superior street it will be halted and form in line, until the G. A. R. members have passed and entered the Lyceum.

It will be noted that the parade will be on First street only, by order of Maj. H. V. Eva, chief marshal, and C. C. Salter, chief of staff.

The Naval Celebration.

Memorial day will be observed by the Duluth naval militia with the services used in the navy. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the Gopher will take members of the Women's Relief corps of the G. A. R., the G. A. R. veterans, members of the city council, and other civic organizations on board, and steam out into the lake, where flowers will be strewn on the water in memory of sailors who lost their lives in the Civil war. Prayer will bring the services to a close.

All the city ticket and freight offices, all the stores and other places of business, and the public offices will be closed. The library and postoffice will observe the usual holiday hours.

Amusements of the Day.

Aside from the more serious exercises of the day, there will be a variety of amusements offered those who are so inclined. "The Yankee Tourist" will hold forth at the Lyceum both afternoon and evening, with Raymond Hitchcok is the tourist, while the Metropolitan and Bijou theaters will also have matinees and evening performances. Matinees will begin at 3 o'clock. Two ball games will also be played tomorrow, beginning at 3 o'clock.

The Duluth Labor Union Pavilion association will hold a dance at the pavilion, both afternoon and evening. There will be a balloon ascension from in front of the pavilion in Fairmont park, by J. A. Daihl at 4 o'clock. Adequate street car service will be provided. There will also be dancing at both the Park Point and Lester Park pavilions. Lester park will be formally opened for the season tomorrow.

A concert will be given by the First Lutheran choir at the church tomorrow evening, beginning at 8 o'clock.

How to Hoist Flags.

One of the veterans this morning made a suggestion which should be noted by Duluthians.

"The proper method of handling the flag on Memorial day is not generally known," he said. "Up to 12 o'clock the flag should be hung at half mast in memory of the dead soldiers and after 12 o'clock it should fly at full mast in honor of the living soldiers. This is the accepted custom for Memorial day."

HEAR Prof. Reyner and Oscar Gronseth

At the First Norwegian Lutheran church, tomorrow night. Concert begins at 8 o'clock sharp.

BALLOON FOR SIGNAL CORPS

Reaches Washington and Will be Tested Next Week.

Washington, May 29.—The new balloon for the signal corps of the army ordered specially manufactured in New York some months ago, arrived from that city yesterday and will be given its trial test before acceptance next week if weather conditions permit.

Capt. Charles De F. Chandler, who recently made an ascension in an army balloon at St. Louis and who is the aeronautic expert of the corps, will make the ascension test, accompanied by the maker of the balloon and his assistant.

Ballooning is regarded as an essential adjunct to the signal service of the army. The corps now possesses almost a dozen balloons, and the policy is to add to this number gradually. The new balloon is built to use coal gas as the lifting power. It is planned to give the personnel of the signal corps practice in "free ballooning" as distinguished from "captive ballooning." In actual use in time of war the balloon would be captive, but should it break away from its moorings, familiarity with free ballooning will be essential.

AN EXPLOSION OF METAL BADLY INJURES THREE.

Chicago, May 29.—Three men were injured, one probably fatally, today, by an explosion of molten metal at the plant of the Federal Furnace company, at One Hundred and Eighth street and the Calumet river. The explosion was caused by what is known as a slip in the furnace, which allowed a large quantity of molten metal to escape and run into the water alongside the furnace. The injured men were bombarded by the metal, and but for quick work by their comrades, would probably have been killed.

LODGE NOTES

Woodmen Give Card Party

After the regular business meeting held last evening by Imperial camp, No. 2206, M. W. A., the members and friends of the order enjoyed a pleasant card social for the remainder of the evening. Fifteen tables were used, and the first prize for ladies was won by Mrs. William Tunell, and that for gentlemen by Robert Smollet. Mrs. W. E. McEwen captured the consolation prize for ladies, and Phillip Levy for gentlemen. Lunch was served after the completion of the card playing.

Will Give Benefit Dance.

Members of Alpha council, No. 1, Modern Samaritans, will give a dance tomorrow evening at Elk's hall for the benefit of their past watchman. Every member has been asked to constituto himself a committee to do his best to make the affair a great success. The dance is not for members only, as each member can invite as many of his friends as he wishes.

COMPELLED FAMILY TO DROWN THEMSELVES.

Canton, China, May 29.—The Revolutionists in the neighborhood of Swatow recently captured the entire family of a Chinese brigadier general and compelled them all to drown themselves in a well. Thirteen hundred troops have been despatched from Canton to Swatow, and another detachment has gone there from Shuhing.

GOLD FOR FRANCE.

New York, May 29.—Two million dollars in bar gold was engaged in this city today for export to Paris. Lazard & Freres have taken $1,000,000, the Russo-Chinese bank $500,000 and H. Eldelbach, Ichelheimer & Co. $500,000. The gold will be shipped on steamers sailing for France tomorrow.

Cure for Drunkenness

Orrine Treatment to Be Used at Home Without Publicity, or Loss of Time from Business.

Thousands of persons who really want to quit the use of whiskey or beer, realize that they cannot do so without medical help, yet they can not afford the time or perhaps the money to go to a sanitarium. Happily a new cure for drunkenness has been discovered which is to be taken at home and costs less than the average drinker will spend in a day for drink.

In using Orrine there is absolutely no publicity, as the remedy is sold by the leading druggists in nearly every city and town, or it can be sent by mail. Sure relief is positive when Orrine is used. So uniformly successful is this treatment that in every box is a registered guarantee which entitles you to a refund of your money if Orrine fails to effect a cure.

Orrine is in two forms, No. 1, a secret remedy, absolutely tasteless and odorless, which can be given in food or drink without the patient's knowledge; No. 2 in pill form for those who wish to be cured. The price of either form is $1 a box. Send to the Orrine Co., Washington, D. C., for free booklet and consultation blank.

The desire for liquor is soon destroyed after Orrine treatment is commenced, and before long the patient is freed from the terrible drink craving, and the drink will not be missed.

Orrine is for sale by F. W. Kugler & Co., 108 West Superior street, Duluth.

CASS LAKE HAS A FIRE

Fire is Discovered by the Line of Land Seekers.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Spillan building, located near the United States land office, was totally destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning.

The fire originated in some mysterious manner, and it was not until the flames had gained considerable headway that one of the land-seekers waiting in front of the United States land office noticed them. An alarm was quickly turned in, but it was beyond power to save the building from entire destruction. The loss is estimated at about $800 and is covered by insurance.

DROWNS TROUBLE BY POISON ROUTE

Despondent Over Being Out of Work, Rice Kills Himself.

Sauk Center, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a fit of despondency, presumably over his inability to secure work, Berjon Rice, aged 22, took his life here early Tuesday morning by drinking carbolic acid. George Rice, a brother, found the body in a buggy shed.

The dead man was last seen about 7 o'clock the previous evening. He was apparently in his usual health. He seems to have removed his hat and coat, seated himself on an old trunk and taken a draught from a bottle labeled carbolic acid. The empty bottle lay beside the body.

BLACKDUCK CLUB HAS BIG OUTING

Many Live Ones Enjoy Second Annual Meeting at Lake.

Blackduck, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second meeting of the Blackduck Handcar club, held at Blackduck lake, Saturday evening and night and Sunday developed into one of the most enjoyable gatherings of good fellows ever held in this North country.

Many invitations had been sent out by Messrs. W. H. Squier, A. O'Kelliher and Charles Trondson, the promoters who had charge of the arrangements for this year's meeting, and the responses were numerous.

Bemidji sent a delegation of thirteen live ones, who held up the honor of that city as a front rank of hustlers.

The following were present at the second annual meeting of the club:

Blackduck—W. H. Squier, "Jerry" O'Kelliher and Charles Trondson, presidents; A. E. Witting, M. J. Garwood, H. A. McCormick, Alfred Gustafson, Lars Ness, C. W. Jewett, Drs. Monahan and Osborn, J. C. Thompson, Mr. Stevens, R. Turner, Henry Fiek, William Josie, David McAllister, John, C. Parker, A. E. Gilmour, John Cann, James Lappen, John Lavin, John Pacha, Peter Lose, L. G. Townsend, Thomas Reed, Joseph Anderson, Sam Benson, J. M. Reed, Charles Dudley.

Bemidji—Charles L. Decker, F. S. Lycan, Dr. Rowland Gilmore, C. M. Bacon, F. W. Rhoda, J. O. Harris, Eric Ives, J. C. Covington, A. L. Weyler, Fred Jordan, C. Knopke, G. A. Walker, A. G. Rutledge.

Houpt—Richard Leet.

Tenstrike—W. H. Cole.

ST. PAUL TO PROTEST.

Proposed Reduction in Army Posts Arouses the Commercial Interests.

St. Paul, May 29.—The Business Men's league of St. Paul, late Tuesday to oppose the proposed abandonment of Forts Assiniboine and Keogh, and the material reduction of the number of troops at Fort Snelling. It was decided to enlist the commercial and representative bodies of Duluth, Minneapolis and other Northwestern cities in a movement to prevent the carrying out of this inexplainable plan of the war department.

If the orders issued are carried out, the department of Dakota will become the least in importance of any military department of the country. The order of the war department to remove all the artillery and half the cavalry from Snelling, is the less understandable, in view of the fact that a large sum of money has recently been spent there in new buildings, so that the post is now equipped in most modern manner for accommodation of a much larger number of soldiers than are now garrison the post. Senators Nelson and Clapp, and the Minnesota members in congress, are to be requested to use their efforts in preventing the great reduction in importance of the department of Dakota.

STILL HUNTING FOR LOST CHILD

Bloodhound and Clairvoyant Fail to Find Any Clue.

Bemidji, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of county commissioners of Beltrami county has offered a reward of $100 for the recovery of the body of Johnnie Shepherd, who disappeared from his home near Solway last Friday. A large posse of men left here at 3 o'clock this morning for Solway to assist in the search for the recovery of the body.

A bloodhound was brought from Sigley and taken to the Shepherd farm and turned loose, in an effort to locate some trace of the missing boy. The hound was unable to strike the trail.

Peter Dpussaint, a Frenchman living at Wilton, who claims to be a clairvoyant, was induced to exercise his powers to find a clue. Doussaint went into a trance, and after being asleep for several minutes, announced that the boy's body was near the house and that he was dead. Doussaint led the posse to a point some 200 yards from the house, when he claimed that the body was not far from the place where he stopped. The entire premises were again searched, but nothing was found.

The people of Solway will appeal to Governor Johnson to offer a reward for the recovery of the boy, dead or alive.

WELL AT MENTOR REGULAR GUSHER

Spurts Eighteen Feet in Air Beating Local Record.

Crookston, Minn., May 29.—As Nick Dress was sinking a well for George Swift, the well known farmer who reside three miles northeast of Mentor, a gusher was struck. A two and a half inch pipe was sunk, and the result was surprising. The water from even a pipe of that size spurted eighteen feet in the air, and the fact that the pressure was so strong resulted in a decision to leave the outer casing, for fear if it was pulled out that all manner of disaster would result.

As far as could be learned this is the greatest well ever sunk in Polk county, and Nick Dress of Red Lake Falls is advertising the fact well. The well flows four barrels per minute, which means one barrel every fifteen seconds.

KILLS HIMSELF TO ESCAPE PAIN

Stillwater Man's Drastic Method of Stopping His Suffering.

Stillwater, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—"If this pain in my head don't stop I'll kill myself," Gustave Firschow, a lumberman, living on North Second street, is alleged to have remarked to his son, in speaking of a pain in the head that bothered him.

Later he suited the action to the awful prediction, killing himself with a shot gun by placing the muzzle against his left breast and touching the trigger with his toe. His wife heard the shot and rushed into the bedroom where her husband had killed himself, and found him writhing in blood on the floor, with a ghastly hole in his breast. The coroner decided an inquest was unnecessary. A widow and six children survive Firschow. He was 48 years of age, and had worked at rafting on the St. Croix river for T. F. Mackey.

MEMORIAL AT CROOKSTON.

Elaborate Program for Paying Tribute to the Heroic Dead.

Crookston, Minn., May 29.—The program for the Memorial day exercises here will be unusually elaborate this year. Following a parade through the city, the following program will be rendered at the cemetery: Music, band; prayer, Rev. C. C. Markham; music, choir; address of welcome, Mayor John D. McPhee; music, choir; reading memorial orders and exercises, Col. Cobham Post No. 90, G. A. R.; music, band; oration, Rev. A. B. Buckner; music, choir; decorating monument, unknown dead; benediction, Rev. Markham; firing salute; Co. I Minnesota National guards; taps, bugler.

NEW RAILROD ASKS CERTAIN EXEMPTIONS.

St. Paul, May 29.—The state railroad and warehouse commission Tuesday gave a hearing to the Minneapolis, Red Lake & Manitoba railroad on its application to be exempted from compliance with the new freight tariffs demanded by enactment of the last legislature. Former Governor John Lind appeared for the company. He explained that the company has so far this year barely earned enough to pay its operating expenses; that it has already complied with the 2 cent fare rule for passenger traffic; and that to make the cut in freight rates called for by the legislature would be to bankrupt the road and would be confiscatory on the part of the state. The matter was taken under advisement by the commission.

UPPER MICHIGAN

START WORK ON BEACON

Will be Constructed Three Miles Off Keweenaw Point.

Houghton, Mich., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. I. Beyer of the lighthouse engineers' offices in Detroit has arirved in Portage lake with the steamer Neff, which has been chartered for two seasons, and will begin work this week on the proposed beacon to be built on Rock of Ages, three miles off the shore of Keweenaw point in Lake Superior and one of the the most dangerous reefs on the Great Lakes.

Rock of Ages is one of the three very dangerous and sharp points of rock rising from the bottom of the great lake and has always been a source of danger to the mariner, especially at night or during thick or stormy weather. Fifty feet from the rock the water is eight hundred feet in depth, almost immeasurable.

Mr. Beyer brought a crew of forty skilled workmen with him, and depended on being able to get about twenty quarrymen and hammer and drill men in the Copper country but he was unable to do so. It is probable that he will have to send below for the rest of his crew. He said that it would take the best part of two seasons to finish the work on the lighthouse, as the rock is very exposed and the work can be prosecuted only while the weather is calm.

The Neff brought up a part of the material to be used in the construction work, and the rest will be shipped in by rail or the steamer will be sent below for it. Photographs of the work are to be taken from time to time and will be sent to headquarters at Detroit.

FORTY-TWO WILL GET DIPLOMAS

Large Class Will Graduate From Ishpeming School.

Ishpeming, Mich., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The graduating class of the Ishpeming high school numbers forty-two boys and girls. The exercises will not differ greatly from those of other years only that it will require five nights to complete the program, while in previous years two evenings have sufficed for all the young grades to be heard. The following compose the class:

John Luce Harrington, Svend Julius Krogdahl, John Olof Olson, Leonard Flaa, Carl Leonard Holmgren, Walter James Covieu, Ross C. Kelfer, Rhoda Kahn, Elsie Elizabeth Mudge, Carrie Mathilda Moore, Frank Homer Bargh, Klara Louise Kjesboe, Arthur Buzzo, Oscar Sigfred Olson, Carl William Ramquist, Ida Sophia Juntilla, Fern Velzey, Ida May Matherell, Alice Amanada Shaver, Richard Francis Dundon, Agnes Malvina Carlson, Grace Blight Wasley, Mellesina Viola Wivell, Ester Odelia Olson, Lillie Theresa Erickson, Roy James Trebilcock, Ruth Gertrude Goodman, Lillian Maud Davis, Austin Horace Goodman, Benetta Treloar, Mabel Nohomi Metherell, Florence Myrtle Frances, Clarence Herman Jaedecke, Agnes, Esther Hughes, Josephine Jernstad, Marie Lund, Myrtle Irene Quayle, Merill Cooper Adams, Philippa Treloar, Minnie Stiart Ham, Genevieve Catherine Fitzpatrick and Alger Peterson.

This year's program will be similar to those of former years in that each member of the class will deliver an oration or essay. The first entertainment will be on the evening of June 6, in the nature of a debate on "Further Restrictions of Immigration by Reading and Writing Test." The following evening the general topic for the essays and orations will be "Progress of the Ninteenth Century." The general topic for the evening of the 10th will be "The Great Characters of Fiction." Class day exercises will be held on Thursday evening, June 13, and the commencement proper, with the distributing of diplomas, is set for Friday evening, June 14.

On Sunday morning, June 9, the members of the class will attend services at the First Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. C. L. Adams, the pastor, preaching the baccalaureate sermon.

BECOMING OSSIFIED.

Michigan Farmer is Said to be Turning Into Stone.

Carsonville, Mich., May 29.—It is said that Charles McNaughton, a farmer living near here is dying from ossification. His joints are now solid, his jaws set and eyelids are drooping, so that only by supreme effort can he raise them. Three years ago McNaughton was stricken with rheumatism and tuberculosis of the bones followed. He is unable to move a single joint, and can eat only liquid food.

HIS DEATH A MYSTERY

Body Found in Red River That of Gust Thorne.

Disappears Just Prior to Arrival of His Wife.

Fargo, N. D., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of a man found in the Red river Sunday by a boy named Listico and a young companion, has been identified as that of Gust M. Thorne, a machinist, who worked nights in the local shops of the Northern Pacific, who had been missing from his boarding house for a dozen days.

Just how the man met death is a mystery. Whether he tripped and fell in crossing the railroad bridge to Moorhead or was the victim of foul play is conjectural.

Mrs. Thorne arrived here about May 15, from Clinton, Iowa, and expected to meet her husband at the depot, but, after waiting for some time, she left and went to his boarding house, where inquiry revealed the fact that he had not been seen since he left the house to go to meet her. In his pockets were found over $1 in money, besides the certified check, and the money order receipts, showing that it is hardly likely that an attempt at robbery was the cause of his death. He is described as having been a man of about 38 years old, of Swedish descent; that he was sober and industrious, not given to carousals, and that his death is very likely to have been caused by an accident.

CAUGHT FINE FISH.

Grand Forks Man Hooks Big Whitefish in Cass Lake.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Eckman, Charles Bartles and F. A. Brown, comprising a local party of fishermen, have returned from a two days' outing at beautiful Cass lake.

Among the several crates of fish shipped to this city was one which was tenderly handled throughout the journey for it contained the prize catch of the year—a beautiful white fish, caught by Frank A. Brown. This catch is one of the most unusual ever recorded as old fishermen of the lake state that this was the first of this variety ever hooked in Northern Minnesota. Mr. Brown had considerable trouble in landing the gamy fighter and it was only with the assistance of Dr. Eckman and a landing net that it was finally scooped into the boat.

MEMORIAL DAY AT MARQUETTE

Philip Cheek of Baraboo Will Pay Tribute to Dead.

Marquette, Mich., May 29.—The arrangements have been perfected for the observance of Memorial day. There will be a parade, speaking at the opera house to be followed by a banquet at the Baptist church to be served by the Ladies Aid society under the auspices of the G. A. R. post. The members of Albert Jackson post, No. 300, G. A. R., expect to make the coming observance of the day one of the most memorable in this section. Hon. Philip Cheek of Baraboo, Wis., has been selected to deliver the address of the day.

F. C. Homeier will be the marshal of the parade which will be headed by the Negaunee band, and made up of members of the G. A. R. soldiers, sailors and mariners of the Civil war, both Union and Confederate; the Spanish War veterans; the National League of Veterans and Sons; city officials and citizens.

The line of march will be on Washington to Front, north to Ridge, east to Cedar, north to Arch, west to Front, south to Washington, dispersing at the opera house, where the following program will be given: Prayer, Rev. J. M. Rogers; music, Negaunee band; Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg, M. J. Sherwood; solo, Miss Norma Ross; reading to the dead, G. A. R.; salute to the dead, G. A. R.; selection, quartet; address, Philip Cheek, Baraboo, Wis.; detail to decorate graves; "America," audience; benediction, Rev. Bates Burt.

NEGAUNEE HIGH SCHOOL.

Commencement is to be Held on June 13.

Negaunee, Mich., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—This year's graduating class of the Negaunee high school will consist of the following: Cora Lee Wells, Josephine Houle, Elsie F. Koob, Alice Sterling, Adelaide McDonald, Minnie L. Harris, William Eyers, Elmer D. Mitchell, Pauline McCall, Eleanor M. Reidy, Hilda Fullberg, Maria Heinonen.

The commencement exercises will be held June 12, and a public speaker will officiate, as no essays or orations have been prepared, Mr. Orr Schurtz believing the time is put to better advantage on the school work. The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered at the Presbyterian church by Dr. Smith, on Sunday morning, June 16.

WISCONSIN

LEFT CHILD, IS ARRESTED

Frank Heiderer Alleged to be Involved in the Affair.

Ashland, Wis., May 29.—(Special to The Herald).—Mary Bauer, living at Butternut, Wis., was arrested here on the charge of abandoning her child. Later Frank Heiderer, also of Butternut, was arrested on a statutory charge and released on $250 bonds, pending a hearing June 5. The girl has also been released on $100 bonds to appear as a witness against Heiderer. Both belong to well-to-do Butternut families, and the affair has created no little comment.

It appears that the girl left Butternut Friday and spent the night at Glidden, where she purchased a ticket for Superior. She is said to have left her child in a shed at Glidden. It was discovered, its identity soon established and a message sent to Ashland to arrest the girl before she left town. Sheriff La Flamboy found her and placed her under arrest. The child has been returned to the girl's parents at Butternut.

The officers here say the girl acts queerly and they question whether she was possessed of her right senses when she abandoned the little one.

LOOK OVER PAVING.

Grand Forks Officials Pay a Visit to Calumet.

Calumet, Mich., May 29.—Monday a party composed of the mayor, city engineer, and council of Grand Forks, N. D., arrived in Calumet for the purpose of inspecting the streets of Red Jecket. The party consisted of Mayor George E. Duis, City Engineer J. J. Smith, and Messrs. O. E. Ellstad, E. J. Davidson, K. C. Hunter, John Vallely, Oscar Knudson, M. W. Day, R. A. Sprague, L. W. Sanness and John Lynch. W. J. Sinik of the R. S. Biome Paving company and P. McDonnell of Duluth, who laid the brick pavements here, were also with the party.

NO IDLERS THERE.

Plenty of Work to be Had Around Negaunee, Mich.

Negaunee, Mich., May 29.—There is no necessity for men being idle around here if they care to work, as there is plenty of employment to be had in this section.

In spite of the fact that nearly 200 men were recently thrown out of work by a curtailment of the force at the Regent group of mines, owned by the Oliver Iron Mining company, there is now a shortage of miners and laborers in Negaunee. Since the reduction at the Regent some of the other properties have taken on additional hands, and some of the men laid off have left the city.

It is said that several of the mines have places for additional miners, and practically all of the men applying for work underground are being taken on. The surface forces have also been increased at all the mines since the opening of navigation, so that there are now as many, if not more, men working at the properties in and about the city than at any time during the winter.

While the demand for common laborers is not as great as it was a year ago, there are no idle men here, and several employers are now seeking additional hands. The Marquette County Gas & Electric company has had a sign, "men wanted" in the window of its Negaunee office for several days past.

GRAND TEMPLE REUNION.

Calumet Members of Order Are Invited to Attend.

Calumet, Mich., May 29.—Calumet members of the Temple of Honor have accepted the invitation of the Trimountain branch of the order to attend the reunion of the grand temple at Trimountain on the last day of the grand temple session, June 29. A local committee has been appointed to make the necessary arrangements to attend.

The grand temple will be in session at Trimountain on June 27, 28 and 29, when considerable business will be transacted including the annual election of officers, the hearing of the grand temple reports, and the selection of the next meeting place. The local branch of the order will send delegates, yet to be selected.

JUDGE HAIRE TO SPEAK.

Will Deliver the Address to Veterans at Hancock.

Hancock, Mich., May 29.—The committee in charge of the Memorial day exercises has decided upon the order of march in the parade, the program to be rendered at the City park, and other matters pertaining to the observance of the day.

The day will be observed in this locality as follows:

Firing a salute and decoration of graves by detachments from the G. A. R., Spanish War veterans and Hancock Naval reserves at 9:00 a. m.

Parade at 2:00 p. m., with the following order of march: Quincy band, G. A. R., Spanish War veterans, Houghton Light Infantry, Hibernian Rifles, Hancock, Houghton and Hurontown fire departments, students, village officials of Houghton and city officials of Hancock.

After parading Hancock and Houghton the procession will break line at the Hancock City park where the following program will be rendered: Selection, Quincy band; invocation, Rev. James Pascoe; selection, Finnish Mixed choir; address, Judge Haire; selection, Congregational Church quartette; address, Judge Carey; selection, Maennerchor; Lincoln's Gettysburg address, Norman Starrett; selection, Portago Lake band.

Angus McDonald of Houghton was appointed grand marshal of the parade with Dr. G. E. Gallen and H. T. Llebert as aides.

TO BEGIN TERMS.

Two Convicts Are Brought to Marquette Prison.

Marquette, Mich., May 29.—Lugi Cameria and Peter Thompson have been brought to the Marquette prison by Sheriff Richard G. Spencer of Gogebic county. Calmeria was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced from four to fifteen years, with a recommendation of five. The man, while in an intoxicated condition, killed a comrade in cold blood after the latter had refused to drink. Thompson was sentenced to from one to fourteen years for forgery, with a recommendation of two years.

KIDNAPER SILENT.

Anna Ostroski Still Refuses to Explain Her Action.

Minneapolis, May 29.—Anna Ostroski, the girl who kidnaped the 4-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Glauque of Minneapolis, and took her to an orphan asylum in Superior, will be arraigned in the police court here, today, charged with kidnaping. It is thought the girl will waive examination. In such event she will be bound over to await the action of the grand jury, which will convene June 11. She still refuses to tell her motive for taking the baby. She will tell a story one hour, and the next hour deny it.

MEMORIAL DAY'S ORIGIN.

The observance of Memorial day, or Decoration day as it was more generally known until recent years, was begun very soon after the close of the Civil war. Indeed, the din of battle had hardly died away before the first celebration was held, in Charleston, S. C., on May 1, 1865, within a month after the surrender of Lee had practically ended the strife.

The originator of the custom was John Redpath, at that time superintendent of schools in Charleston. He had been a newspaper correspondent, a Kansas country editor, and a printer who divided his time between the case and the desk. He was given an editorial position on the New York Tribune, because his articles written while a member of the composing room force attracted the attention of the editor. Ill health compelling him to abandon this confining ocupation, he toured the South, working as a strolling printer in various communities, and giving his observations in a series of letters to the Anti-Slavery Standard. During the war he was correspondent for the New York Tribune with Gen. Sherman at Atlanta, with Gen. Thomas at Nashville, and in other important engagements.

After Lee's surrender he offered his services gratuitously to those in charge of affairs at Charleston, and reorganized the schools. It was one of his little negro pupils that gave him the idea of decorating the graves of the soldiers on May day, and though he had intended only to have a few people that he talked with participate, the idea spread, and ten thousand people, with a battalion of soldiers, participated in this first Decoration day exercise. Feeling was still at red heat, and there were several slight disturbances during the observance, and much harsh and acrimonious talk about the event afterward.

It is a far cry from that day, when it was impossible to strew flowers on the graves of the soldier dead without having trouble over it, to this day, when the North and South are one, when the bitterness of civil strife has passed away, and when those who wore the gray and those who wore the blue join in honoring the dead soldiers, without regard to the color of their uniforms, or to the flag under which they fought.

From the start at Charleston the custom spread rapidly, and in 1869 Gen. John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, changed the date to May 30.

The change of name, from Decoration day to Memorial day, came about naturally as the significance of the day became more deeply felt by the people. The difference in the two words, indicating a growth in appreciation of the solemnity of the occasion, has recorded a corresponding change in the feeling of the public toward the day, which is rapidly coming to be a day of real holiness and tender memories, rather than a day for heedless sports and desecrating noise.

PARTIES AND PRINCIPLES.

Governor Hughes of New York said something that ought to stick in the minds of a certain class of political partisans when he uttered this epigram recently:

> Government does not exist for parties, and parties do not exist for the exclusive benefit of their members. A party that is thinking of itself alone is doomed to failure.

Most righteous is the punishment of failure that comes to a political party that seeks its own profit alone, and that becomes imbued with the opinion that party is greater than country and that parties exist for the pleasure and profit of their members, or rather of those who lead their members about by the nose.

Govenor Hughes' epigram is in thorough accord with modern political affiliations. It is the common acceptance of principles of this nature that has lately resulted in the downfall of bosses and the disruption of corrupt political machines.

The old days when partisans were really partisans, and when the majority of men voted their party ticket straight with little regard to how it was created or to the qualifications of those who had places upon it, did much harm, but those days are happily passed away.

Nowadays, to win, a party must prove that it is aiming at the country's welfare first, instead of its own, and party leaders must show themselves to be in harmony with that idea.

Parties that exist for the country first, and not for themselves first, must put principles above men, which involves putting men of principle above mere partisanship.

There was an imitation of "putting principles above men" in the old partisanship, but it was far from being the real thing. Members of parties were whipped into line for a time by high-sounding platform platitudes, which bosses put out as a bait, with no intention of remembering them after election. That sort of clap-trap fools nobody these days. It is performances, rather than promises, and action, rather than attitude, that the voter looks to for his guidance.

A selfish party, seeking its own ends even at the sacrifice of its country's good, and controlled by members who deem that the party was created for the purpose of finding them profitable places in government pay, can no more hope to succeed in the glare of modern enlightenment than an individual who is thoroughly selfish can expect to be popular and sucessful.

Parties are useful only for the purpose of putting high principles into practice, and when they are diverted to other uses, their time is brief.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

Dangerous and full of possibilities of injustice is the conviction of men accused of crime upon the sort of evidence called circumstantial. Many a life tragedy has been caused by its acceptance, and since it is often the only evidence available, and since it must therefore be considered to a certain extent, many more lives will be wrongfully blighted before time has run its course.

The recent death in Colorado of Alfred Packer, aged 64, once a famous army scout, recalls a case in point that is full of the wild life of the West that has passed away, and pathetic with its thought of a life ruined by the injustice of circumstantial evidence.

In 1873 Packer was engaged to guide a party of five men from Salt Lake City to New Mexico. The party was lost in the mountains, when the snow was six feet deep, and only the guide survived. Subsequently the bodies of the five men were found, but in the meantime Packer had disappeared, called elsewhere into the wide West by his occupation, and it was not until 1883, ten years later, that he was captured and convicted of murdering his five companions. In spite of his protestations of innocence, he was sentenced to forty years' imprisonment.

Packer's strange story was that the food supply of the party ran so low that after enduring great hardships they were reduced to eating the moccasins from their feet, cut in strips and boiled. They had lost their bearings, and Packer volunteered to climb a high peak and look for an Indian agency which he believed to be somewhere at hand. Though he suffered terribly, and his journey took several days, he located himself, and returned to lead the party to shelter and safety.

When he approached the camp he saw one of the party bending over the fire. He called, and the man grasped a hatchet and rushed at him, with a fearful cry. The man was mad, and Packer shot him to protect his own life. Packer's claim was that this man had gone mad in his absence and killed his companions, and improbable though the story seemed, he always stuck to it. After he had served eighteen years he was released, because of a general belief in his wild story, which was strangely slow in coming to a head.

The weirdness of the tale appeals to the imagination, and whether or not Packer was innocent, the loneliness of the storm-swept mountains, the direness of the party's necessity, the sudden madness brought on by deprivation and hardship, the guide's struggle with the madman in the snow, all join to make a thrilling story.

The strange disassociation of probability and truth, whereby the improbable becomes often the fact, while the probable is far from the truth, has created many a similar story of tragedy and injustice.

THE LEGISLATURE IS BLAMELESS.

Several Minnesota newspapers, in commenting upon the new 2-cent passenger rate law, have mentioned the fact that there is no provision for carrying children under 5 years free, though there is a provision that children under 12 years of age must pay half fare, or 1 cent per mile. Most of these newspapers have discussed this either as a "woodchuck," slipped in at the request of the railroads, or as an absurd oversight on the part of the legislature.

As a matter of fact, the legislature is guiltless of any wrong in this matter, either intentional or otherwise.

When the bill was up for discussion, a number of members pointed out the fact that it made no provision for children under 5 years of age, which have always been carried free by the railroads, and wanted to know why such an important omission had been made.

It was then, carefully and with great pains, explained to these honest objectors that a law compelling the railroads to carry anybody free, whether they were babes, grown-ups or grandparents, wouldn't be worth the paper it was written upon, and such is the fact.

The railroads have not been carrying children under 5 years of age free because the law required them to do so, but because they wanted to, because they did not believe the public would like paying fare for small children, and because it was the custom not to charge for them. That custom has not changed, and though the 2-cent fare law is in effect, so far as can be learned the railroads are not charging even now for children under the age of 5 years.

So that though the legislature may be and doubtless is guilty of many other sins of omission and commission, it is blameless in respect to this particular charge. It could not and should not have done otherwise, because if the law had provided that children must be carried free, the railroads would have had a pretty good point on which to knock out the entire law.

It should be noted that the new law does not compel the railroads to charge 2 cents a mile for adults and 1 cent a mile for those under 12 years, but it prohibits them from charging more than these figures, and that was the intent of the law. If the railroads want to carry all babies free, they can do so. If they want to carry everybody free, they can do that, too, anti-pass law to the contrary notwithstanding, because all the anti-pass law does is to prohibit their giving favors to some that they do not extend to everybody.

The 2-cent fare law is a pretty good law, and the legislature is entitled to all possible credit for its enactment, even though it is true that it wouldn't have been passed if it had not been that the people wanted it so much that they would be very angry about it if they did not get it.

THE PASSING SHOW.

You can judge of the efficacy of a pure food law pretty accurately by the amount of opposition it arouses.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"They had several inches of snow down around Marquette the first of the week," said E. Hickok of Chicago at the Spalding. "It did not remain on the ground in the city more than a day or two, but back in the woods I understand there still is a lot of the beautiful on the ground. Northern Michigan has a reputation established in the way of snowdrifts, and last winter this reputation was ably sustained. It was one of the snowiest of many snowy winters. Snow was so deep in the woods that there will probably be some of it in evidence in June.

"I left Milwaukee last week. Down there the weather was fine. It is hard telling how it is now. It is a backward spring all over the country, and Duluth has no kick coming on account of the weather. Reports from almost everywhere are that the spring is very backward, with an abundance of cold weather and rain. A friend of mine was last week showing some freak photographs he took in Iowa. They showed an apple orchard in full bloom, while the ground was covered with snow.

"Iowa had decent spring weather for a time, and flowers came out in good shape on the fruit trees. Then came a snow and frost, resulting in scenery such as one doesn't often run across. The frosts did great damage to the farmers' interests through the state, as has been the case in numerous other sections of the country this year."

"Bemidji is a closed town now," said W. B. Sherman of Bemidji, Minn., at the Lenox. "The place is closed up tight, so far as gambling is concerned. The order for closing came direct from the governor this time, so I guess it will hold all right. Bemidji has in the past enjoyed spells of virtue, when all the gambling places were closed, but these spells came to an end. The opinion now, however, seems to be that the order will be enforced for all time.

"The town has reached a position now where it can get along without this form of amusement, or dissipation, anyway. In a new frontier town, gambling houses are to be expected, but as the village expands and develops into a city, with a good class of people, and homes for these people, public sentiment turns against the practice of allowing such places to continue in business.

"A lot of building is being done at Bemidji this spring. The progress made by the town in the last two or three years is quite remarkable. It looks 100 per cent better now than it did three years ago. Business is good, and the prospects are for a busy season. Lake Bemidji is getting more popular every year as a summer resort, and numerous pretty cottages stud the shores of the lake."

Raymond Hitchcock, who will appear in "The Yankee Tourist" at the Lyceum tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night, stayed at the Hotel Superior last night after the performance in the city across the bay. When asked by a friend why he did not come to Duluth, following down the custom of many actors, instead of staying in the Wisconsin town over night, Mr. Hitchcock said:

"It seems to me it would be a pretty mean trick for me to shake the dust of Superior from my heels immediately after the show. They treat me square over there. Why shouldn't I patronize their hotels? I come to Superior and get a full house. The audience is enthusiastically appreciative. The people pay out good money to see us, and I can see no reason why I shouldn't at least remain there over night, if for nothing more than to show my appreciation of the friendliness shown me. I would have a guilty conscience if I did otherwise. How would Duluth like it if show people playing both towns put in all their time at the Head of the Lakes in Superior hotels?"

Mr. Hitchcock follows out the same policy wherever he goes, and no matter what attractions a nearby town has to offer, he insists on staying over night in the city where he plays, thus displaying a characteristic that adds to the general respect and esteem in which he is held.

A party of officials of the Berwind-White Coal Mining Company of New York and Philadelphia were at the Spalding last evening. It consisted of Joseph Paul, Thomas Fisher and H. A. Berwind of Philadelphia and F. G. Hartwell of Chicago. The company is constructing a coal dock at Superior, and C. J. A. Morris of St. Paul, of the contracting firm of Frankman Bros. & Morris, who are doing the work, met the officials here.

Some of the preparations used in finishing the woodwork of the Spalding lobby last night caught fire from a match that was carelessly thrown aside by a smoker, and in a fraction of a second the newsstand was enveloped in flames. A chemical fire extinguisher put the fire out in very short order, and no damage of any consequence resulted.

THE WEATHER.

After a warm day yesterday, when the thermometer got up to 66 degs., it turned cooler yesterday afternoon, and the night registered 35 degs. The drop brought with it a fog, and this morning the air was thick, the hoarse and melancholy note of the fog horn sounded over the waters, and the deeper notes of the boat whistles startled the placid air. The fog was thick, so thick that it was almost rain, and the wind came from the lake. The weather man says the wind is likely to remain easterly, and to bring showers, but it will be a little warmer tonight.

A year ago today it was cloudy and cool.

The sun rose this morning at 4:18 and sets tonight at 7:52, making 15 hours and 34 minutes of sunshine.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The barometer continues low from Saskatchewan southward to New Mexico, with lowest pressures near Qu'Appelle and Santa Fe. This disturbance caused showers over the Rocky mountains, eastern slopes, Mississippi valley and Lake Superior during Tuesday or last night, easterly winds on Lake Superior, and warmer weather in Atlantic and Gulf states. The barometer is high over Oregon, the eastern lake region and Ohio valley. These conditions favor showery weather and easterly winds in this locality during tonight and Thursday."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

PLAYMATES.

You hear his name and you read his fame, and your eyes light up and shine,
And you crack your hands and you shout: "Why, he was an old playmate of mine!"

Maybe he fights in his country's wars, maybe upon the seas
He carries the flag of his old, loved land to triumph and victories;
Maybe they vote him a leadership in the deep affairs of state;
Maybe his voice is a voice that rings in the ardor of high debate—
Over the glory and over the awe, ah, only one thing you see,
And that is the lad that once he was in the days that used to be:

"He was an old playmate of mine!" Ah, warrior upon the trail,
Admiral under the starry flag on the far, wide seas ya sail;
Scholar, bent over the dusty tomes; philosopher, artist, seer;
Tradesmen, leading the vans of trade, hero or pioneer;
Wherever the hailing voices call, wherever the luring trends,
Isn't it fine to feel the flood of the heart's love of old friends,
And dream them back again, as they dream you back, under the tangled vine,
With pride's sweet spirit who claim you were "an old playmate of mine!"

Senator, governor, kings or clowns, builders of steam and steel,
Magnates ruling the myriad marts where trade and traffic reel,
Poets far in a little room filling the world with sweet,
If only a rose and a crust of bread may be cast at your feet—
Haven't you heard it and haven't you seen the old face glow with pride,
To read your name on the high carved scroll that honors the living tide;
The old, sweet face of the comrade there whose memories cling and twine
To the old sweet days and the old sweet place when "you were a playmate of mine!"

Ah, princes fade from the face of earth and kings are drifting dust,
And old oblivion hides the fame alike of cruel and just,
But time nor change can bring no dearth to that sweet zeal of one
Who sits far off in the quiet ways under the rose and sun,
And smiles and says when the great names glow of those who went away
From old home towns and old home haunts in long ago's far day:
"I know him well, I knew him well; ah, isn't it sweet and fine
To see him rise who used to be an old playmate of mine!"

Conquerers, climbing the hill of fate; captains, under the gleam
Of cannon carrying the creed of force to valleys that sleep and dream;
Statesmen, potentates, leaders of thought —isn't it, after all,
Sweeter to think of the old friend's voice than hearing the multitude call,
Sweeter to wander backward again under the fine old trees,
Sweeter to romp as a lad who romped in meadows of bloom and breeze,
Sweeter to gather into your heart the praise of the eyes that shine,
When old lips whisper your name and shout: "Why, he was a playmate of mine!"

GOVERNOR JOHNSON'S VIEWS.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Two prominent Democrats, representing different sections of the country, have given their views as to the proper attitude of the party in 1908. They are Senator Daniel of Virginia and Governor Johnson of Minnesota. Both have been mentioned as presidential possibilities, though neither professes to take seriously the things said about him in that connection. Presumably neither would refuse a nomination, though neither expects it. They evidently regard it of more importance to settle what attitude the party shall assume in 1908, what it shall stand for in its bid for the confidence and support of the country.

On the subject of the tariff, Governor Johnson speaks in a tone not subject to misinterpretation. "It seems to me," he says, "that the slogan of the Democratic party in the next campaign, and in every succeeding campaign until the question is settled, should be the revision of the tariff." And he is not afraid that this will go too far. "A most thorough revision," he says, is what is wanted. He differs with the president and believes that the tariff more than any other cause has a direct bearing on the trusts, and places a burden, direct and indirect, on the people of the country, benefiting no general class and good only for a privileged few. There is no misinterpreting this sort of talk, and it makes a distinction between the parties which affords a rational basis for an appeal to the country. The notion that a party that exists by and for the trusts is going to suppress them, or pass laws to suppress monopoly, is not suggested.

Governor Johnson, like Senator Daniel, is opposed to the government owning the railroads, though he rather inconsequentially qualifies it by saying "until all other means have been exhausted." This rather implies that, as a last resort, government ownership might be a good thing, an idea in which many Democrats do not concur. However, it is sufficient that no immediate declaration on the subject is favored. It will be time enough to talk of some other method when those now favored have been thoroughly tried.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

International Falls Press: Mr. Foraker's "fire alarm" seems to have been turned in too late. His prospects are a total loss and no insurance.

Walker Pilot: Talk of R. C. Dunn for governor grows stronger as the months go by. Minnesota Republicans have been punished sufficiently for their political mistake of four years ago. The party would make right a great wrong by making Mr. Dunn the next nominee by acclamation.

Worthington Herald: Those Minnesota politicians in Washington, who are delivering this state to Bill Taft in his race for the presidency should first get the consent of the people. A license to go to Washington doesn't carry with it the ownership of the state. When a man assumes that responsibility the people some times ask him to remain at home. This has happened several times in the past.

Mankato Free Press: The National Association of Manufacturers of the United States went on record in favor of a revision of the tariff at the earliest possible moment. Do you hear that, you congressmen?

Floodwood Broadaxe: Future history will make this record—on March 4, 1909, W. J. Bryan was inaugurated president of the United States, and delivered one of the greatest inaugural addresses that ever came from tongue or pen of her wisest statesmen.

Eveleth Star: The farmers out in the country around Eveleth are beginning to come here for their dry goods, groceries, etc., and exchanging eggs for the other necessaries of life.

Cass Lake Times: The people are tired of cold weather and—Fairbanks. If the Republicans can find no better man to fill the place occupied by Theodore Roosevelt than Indiana's iceberg, Republicanism will go begging for votes and lose them.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The court is having a hard time in securing a jury to try Haywood. It is a brave man who would willingly serve on the jury in this case. If he finds Haywood guilty he is liable to be mobbed by the Socialists, and if he finds him innocent he might fare even worse from the mine owners' trust.

Two Harbors Iron News: A prophet has predicted another earthquake for the Western hemisphere. The most disgusting thing about earthquakes seems to be the kind of men they unearth. If the one at San Francisco had buried Abe Ruef and Mayor Schmidt, the relief fund grafters, the American public would have been spared from taking another step downward in the respect of the world in general, and the earthquake sufferers would have fared much better.

Baltimore American: "I understand that the De Styles are to have a real novelty at their next function."

"What is it?"

"That's nothing new."

"Oh, but they're going to have skeletons from family closets to rattle the bones."

Washington Star: "Why don't you improve your roads?" asked the disgusted traveler.

"We dash't," answered Farmer Cornstassel. "We've got to keep 'em this way to discourage automobiles from comin' along an' scarin' the hosses."

Philadelphia Press: "But," said the persistent suitor, "if I were to swear to you that I would go to the ends of the earth for you—"

"First of all," interrupted the Boston beauty, "you would have to prove to me that the earth really has ends, and that, you know, is quite impossible."

Washington Herald: Galley—I tell you we had a hot old time last night.

TRAGEDY IN THE BEAR COLONY AT LESTER PARK

Old Bears Kill and Devour One of the Cubs.

Two large black bears which have for some time past been one of the menagerie attractions at Gunderson's pavilion, caught one of the three little cubs which had just been added to the collection, tore it to pieces and devoured it before several spectators, and, in spite of the incensed efforts of three men to stop the horrible feast, the bears devoured the cub even to the hide and bones.

L. A. Gunderson, who is the proprietor of the popular Lester Park resort, has owned the black bears ever since they were small cubs. They are now about 3 years old, and practically full grown. Up to the present time they have seemed quite playful and harmless.

Last week Mr. Gunderson secured from a Mr. Thomas, who resides on the north shore, three small cubs, about a month old and the size of puppies.

Mr. Thomas found the cubs in a hollow stump after he had shot and killed the mother.

Mr. Gunderson kept the cubs in the barn over Sunday and, Monday, he built an addition to the bear kennel or coop, leaving a woven wire mesh partition between the apartments of the large bears and the cubs.

Seized the Cub.

The cubs, it is claimed by eye witnesses to the tragedy, had been in their cage about five minutes when the large male bear jumped to the side of his cage, and, with lightning-like swiftness, he thrust one paw through the wire mesh, seized one of the cubs, and drew it against the wiring. The bear then thrust the other paw through the mesh and began tearing off pieces of flesh.

Three men who stood nearby the cage rushed to the rescue of the little cub, which was crying shrilly and in heartrending manner. The men beat the bear over the head and snout with all the force they were capable of, one of them even going so far as to get into the cage, but the big fellow paid no more attention to the blows than if he had been hit with straws. Holding the cub tightly against the wire with one paw, he seized one of its hind legs and literally tore it off, by pulling it through. With another blow he tore out the entrails of the little fellow and it was all over with the cub.

By this time the female bear got a smell of the blood and she joined in the affray. Between them the two bears pulled all that remained of the little cub through the wire mesh and devoured it, bones, fur and all, and wound up with a savage fight between themselves.

Sickened by Sight.

The men who witnessed the affair were so angered that they wanted to kill the old bears, but were restrained by the fact that they were private property. Several small boys, who were also involuntary spectators were so sickened by the horrible sight that their parents say they could not eat their dinners Monday evening.

Since the killing of the cub, Mr. Gunderson has built a strong fence about the bear cages to keep the people at a safe distance and, it is understood, that he will put bars on the cage, the outbreak of the big fellows having shown what they might do to the wire protection about the cage should they make an effort to get out.

MAYOR DISAPPROVES BILL.

New York, May 29. — Late yesterday Mayor McClellan recorded his official disapproval of the public utilities bill, which he sent back to the legislature, where, it is expected, it will be repassed without the mayor's signature.

BUYS OREGON LAND.

Twelve Good Breakfasts for 12 Cents

If you buy two packages of

Shredded Wheat

Biscuit for a quarter you have a delicious, breakfast for a penny—more real nutriment than is to be found in any other food in the world for the same money. It contains all the body-building elements of the whole wheat made digestible by steam-cooking, sheddding and baking.

For breakfast heat the Biscuit in oven to restore crispness, pour hot milk over it, add a little cream and a little salt; or, sweeten to taste. Shredded Wheat is also delicious and wholesome for any meal in combination with fresh or preserved fruits. At your grocers.

BIJOU—Vaudeville.

Likes "The Yankee Tourist."

"I like 'The Yankee Tourist' better than any role I have ever essayed," said Raymond Hitchcock, in speaking of the new comic opera in which he will be seen at the Lyceum this evening and tomorrow.

"The part fits me better than any I have ever had, I believe, and we have had a very successful run with it. I hope the Duluth people will like it as well as they seemed to like 'The Yankee Consul.'

"This has been a very backward spring all over the country, but we have missed the cold weather, and yesterday was the coldest day we have experienced this year. The company has been traveling through the South, and later playing in California."

Compares Favorably.

After last week's exceptionally strong bill, it was rather expected that this week's program at the Bijou would suffer by comparison. Such is not the case, however, and those who have seen the performances are agreed that it is fully up to the high mark set last week.

Change of Bill.

"Elected to Congress," the political comedy which has been making audiences at the Metropolitan laugh since Sunday afternoon, will be given at that popular play house for the last time tonight. Tomorrow afternoon, when a bargain matinee will be given, the play will be "From Rags to Riches," which will hold the boards during the remainder of the week. There will be a complete change in the specialties between the acts.

No Successor to Mrs. Eddy.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The rumor to the effect that there is strife in the Christian Science movement concerning leadership, which has periodically appeared in the public press, and which has recently been revived, has not become true with age, but is quite as much a myth now as it was when first put into circulation.

It is quite as much out of place to talk of a successor to the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, as it is to talk of a successor to the discoverer of America. Moreover, there is nothing in the position of the revered pastor emeritus of the Christian Science church which could be succeeded to by any man or woman. Already Mrs. Eddy's teachings have in a large measure become her successor, and she will never be succeeded by anything else than the spiritual influence she has planted in human consciousness. We believe that every Christian Scientist in the world will agree that there is not a student of this science anywhere who has ever dreamed of being a successor to Mrs. Eddy, or has had the slightest aspiration in that direction.

The recent change at Pleasant View has absolutely no significance, except that a man served out his time and it was not convenient for him to continue. Therefore, out of necessity another took his place. Yours very truly,

ALFRED FARLOW.

A BROKEN FLANGE.

It Caused a Train Wreck Near Little Falls.

Little Falls, Minn., May 29.—A broken flange on the wheels of one of the cars of a freight train on the Little Falls & Duluth line, sent four cars and the caboose into the ditch Monday night.

The conductor and two brakemen, who were riding in the caboose at the time escaped injury, but were badly shaken up.

A wrecking crew from Staples soon cleared the track, and traffic was resumed.

AT THE GHOST CLUB.

New York Mail: The Ghost Club is the name of a new society formed to discuss all sorts of spirits. At the initial meeting, held in the ratskeller of a Broadway hotel, where the lights are dim if not religious, the founder of the organization set the ghostly ball rolling with this one:

"About the middle of July, 1879, I was staying with my wife and four children at a friend's house in Larchmont. One evening while at dinner, about 7 o'clock, and in broad daylight, my wife asked me to go up to the top of the house to see if two of the children who were sleeping alone were all right. It being a large house, and one with which I was quite familiar, I went up the back stairs, which were unusually broad and well lighted.

"On reaching the first floor landing I saw a woman in a gray gown walking up the flight immediately above me. She had no headdress. I knew she was not one of the servants of the household, and I took her to be a workwoman or dressmaker from her general appearance. As she had her back to me as she went up the stairs I could not see her face, and, in fact, I was not particularly inquisitive about her. However, when she reached the top landing, while I was about six steps below her, she walked hurriedly across to one of the rooms, the door, of which was shut, and appeared to pass right through it. Her sudden and noiseless disappearance so astonished me that, without hesitating a moment, I rushed to the door of the room through which she had appeared to vanish and opened it. It was a large, well-lighted room, and full of lumber of all sorts. I searched carefully round the room, but saw no more of the woman clothed in gray.

"Having satisfied myself that the children were sleeping comfortably, I returned to the dining room and asked our host about the woman dressed in gray who had so mysteriously evaded me on the top landing. 'Who was she?' I said. He was evidently much distressed at my question, gave me an evasive answer, and said something about one of the servants. As it was plain to me that he did not wish me to follow up the subject, I said no more at the time; but after dinner, when alone with him, I again questioned him about it. He then told me that such an apparition as I had seen was occasionally met with in the house, but he could not tell me the reputed origin of it.

"The house has long since changed owners, and I do not know whether the gray-clothed woman still appears or not. I am perfectly certain that I actually saw this apparition, and that it was not mere fancy on my part. The whole thing was much too real."

"Pretty good!" said another member, a military man. "Now listen to my experience.

"In August, 1880, I was stationed at the Presidio, in San Francisco. One night (I regret that I cannot put my hand on my diary, so cannot give you the exact date) I woke up shortly before 2 a. m. feeling there was something in my room. Looking about, I saw a large, oval, bluish light on the right side and close to the end of my bed. This light, dim at first, soon grew bright, and a figure (life size) from below the waist upward began to appear, holding a double-barreled gun at the ready position.

"I was soon able to distinguish the features of the figure, and to my amazement found they belonged to a very great friend of mine who had left years ago for Australia. The face was ghastly and very sad. We looked at each other for a time, when the gun slowly raised to the shoulder of the figure and pointed straight at my head. I stood this for a time, and then put my foot through the figure. At this a look of terrible sadness came over the face, the gun was lowered, and the figure first, and then the blue light, slowly faded away.

"Almost immediately the different guardroom gongs near me sounded 2 a. m. I got up, lighted a candle, and made a note at my writing table of what I had seen. I may add that from the day my old friend came to say good-by to me he quite passed out of my life, as, though he promised to write to me, he never did so, and I did not know his address."

WISCONSIN'S LARGEST ELM.

Appleton Daily Post: "I believe that Appleton has the largest elm tree in Wisconsin," writes an observer. "About five feet from the ground the body of the tree measures 153 inches in circumference; about six feet above the ground the body of the tree branches and forms two large trunks, both of which are the same height, branching in all directions.

"The branches spread and slightly droop and extend over a space of seventy-eight feet in diameter, making a 245 foot circle. The area covered by the shade of the leaves of this mammoth tree is 477 square feet. Allowing two and one-quarter square feet to a man,, 2,123 men could stand in the shade of this tree if the sun shone directly from the zenith. No limbs have been trimmed from its trunk and it seems to be sound to the center.

"No house has ever been built on the lot, for it stands just where a house would naturally be erected. When its foliage is full grown there is perhaps no tree in existence that has a greater breathing and absorbing capacity than this stately elm of our city."

Winneconne Local: The wild ducks in this vicinity are affected with a new and fatal disease which is killing them off by scores. Dead ducks are drifting ashore in numbers, which shows that the disease is epidemic among the fowls. An old trapper and duck hunter of this vicinity, who has spent practically all his life at those vocations, gives a theory for the epidemic which sounds rational. He says: "Put a shot of the smallest kind in a kernel of grain and feed it to any kind of a fowl and the first thing you know the fowl will die. Now, if you will bring up sand from the bottom of a river or lake you will be surprised at the number of shot you will find, which has been fired away by duck and goose hunters. In the spring the ducks are ravenous for gravel or sand and dive to the bottom to secure them, getting shot into their gizzards with the sand or gravel and dying in consequence. If you don't believe it, examine as many of the dead ducks as you please and if you don't find one or more shots in each of their gizzards just set me down as a numbskull. That's all there is of it."

ROSY TEACHERS

Look Better in the School-Room Than the Sallow Sort.

Young folks naturally like comely objects, and a good looking, healthy teacher can do vastly more with pupils, everything else considered, than the skiny, dyspeptic teacher can. The instructor in Latin and mathematics in a young ladies' seminary, had an experience worthy the attention of any teacher.

She kept running down a little more each until finally a genuine case of nervous prostration set in and she was confined to her bed for eight months, a perfect wreck, physically and mentally. She and her friends thought it was due to overwork, but she now knows it was due to improper food.

Of course, the physicians were called in, but there is almost nothing that can be done in such cases, except to rely on well selected food and proper care. She was put upon Grape-Nuts, all medicines, also tea, coffee and iced drinks were taken away. She had Postum Food Coffee once a day. The larger part of her food was Grape-Nuts, for this food is made with special reference to rebuilding the gray matter in the brain and nerve centers.

The lady says: "I had been reduced to 95 pounds in weight when I began using Grape-Nuts. The new food was so delicious and strengthening that I felt new life at once. I have now developed into a perfectly healthy, happy, stout woman, weighing 135 pounds, the greatest weight I ever attained, and have a wonderful clear, fresh, rosy complexion, instead of the sallow, bilious hue of the past.

"Now I never have a symptom of dyspepsia nor any other ache or ail. Am strong physically and I particularly notice strength of mind. I never experience that tired, weary feeling after a hard day's labor that used to appear. My brain seems as clear and active at night as it was in the morning and I am doing twice the amount of work that I ever did." "There's a Reason." Read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

DE RAYLAN'S BODY EXHUMED

Identity of Corpse Established—The Person Was a Female.

Phoenix, Ariz., May 29.—The body of Nicholai De Raylan, whose sex has been the subject of dispute and litigation since last December, was exhumed Monday afternoon and taken to an undertaking parlor, where the facts of the disinterment were made known upon the arrival late yesterday afternoon of Baron Schlippenbach, the Russian consul at Chicago, accompanied by Samuel J. Schaeffer, attorney for Mrs. Anna De Raylan.

The body was in a fine state of preservation and the face was entirely unchanged.

When the white casket was opened the body was seen attired in a woman's white robe.

It had been previously announced that the body would be exhumed on Thursday, but this date was anticipated by two days, it is said, to avoid publicity.

Michael Feinberg, representing Public Administrator Reddick of Chicago, was present throughout the proceedings and expressed satisfaction. Baron Schlippenbach, after viewing the body, said: "This is the body of Nicholai De Raylan, who was for twelve years my secretary."

Attorney Schaeffer, though here, has not visited the body.

The result of the inquest establishes beyond a doubt the identity of the corpse of De Raylan, and that the person in question was a female.

RESULT OF THE CONTROVERSY

Bowery Bartender Arrested for Assaulting Army Recruit.

Private Perry Swedburg of the Duluth army recruiting office yesterday swore out a "John Doe" warrant for assault which resulted in the arrest of Charles Landstrom, a bartender at A. Goldburg's saloon, 501 West Superior street, yesterday afternoon. The arrest is a direct result of Lieut. O. H. Dockery's impeachment of Duluth's patriotism, which appeared Sunday morning, and of Chief Troyer's and the mayor's replies to him.

The assault referred to in the warrant is alleged to have taken place two weeks ago, when it was decided that it would be wiser to drop the case. Chief Troyer's reference to it in his reply to the lieutenant, however, at once decided the officer to see it through and he caused the warrant to be sworn out.

Landstrom pleaded not guilty to the charge, and the case was continued until Tuesday, June 4, the prisoner being released on $15 ball.

DISCRIMINATION

Against Naval Uniform Causes a Strong Protest by Secretary Metcalf.

Washington, May 29. — Discrimination against the bluejacket uniform of the navy, at a dancing pavilion of the Pine Beach and Amusement park, a resort adjacent to the Jamestown exposition, has led Secretary Metcalf to vigorous action and a protest has been filed with President Tucker of the exposition and also with Governor Swanson. Both officials promised to do all in their power to do away with such discrimination.

LESTER PARK.

Grand opening of Perotti's War and Historical Museum, TOMORROW. Dancing afternoon and evening.

INDICTMENTS

Returned Against Former Comptroller Jordan of the Equitable.

New York, May 29.—The May grand jury, which has been investigating the affairs of the Equitable Life Assurance society, yesterday, returned eighteen indictments against Thomas D. Jordan, formerly comptroller of the Equitable. Perjury and forgery in the third degree are charged. No indictments were found against the present officials of the society.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

A verdict of murder in the first degree was returned by the jury at Cleveland in the case of John Saloy, charged with murdering his sweetheart, Varnia Vargo, 15 years old, late Tuesday afternoon. The jury did not recommend clemency and Saloy will be sentenced to the electric chair.

Believing that her husband was about to be killed by his two infuriated partners, with whom he was engaged in desparate battle with knives, beer glasses and other missiles, Mrs. Matty Ringwood Tuesday shot and killed one of the men, A. Dacis, and fatally wounded Webb Stone, the second. The shooting occurred in a saloon at Rawlins, Wyo.

Dr. W. T. Lynn, who has been a prominent physician at Pana, Ill., for years, celebrated the 102nd anniverasry of his birth Tuesday by entertaining 700 guests at dinner. He is apparently hale and hearty.

In a meeting of the Brass Workers' union at Cleveland Tuesday night, it was decided to call out all brass workers in the automobile trade unless they were included in the benefits asked for by the machinists who have made demands for an increase in wages and an eight-hour day.

Angered by comments said to have been made against his race, an unknown negro plunged a knife into the breast of Fred Thomson, an employe of the Western Packing company at Denver, fatally injuring him Tuesday night. The assault occurred on a crowded street car.

Former Judge W. J. Loving, manager of the Thomas F. Ryan estate at Lovingston, Va., was Tuesday indicted for the murder of Theodore E. Estes at Oak Ridge, near Lovingston, on April 22, following a drive during which Loving claims Estes drugged and assaulted Miss Loving, the daughter of the defendant.

The employes of the Chicago City railway who threatened to go on a strike unless their demands were granted Tuesday night decided to accept the company's terms. Every motorman and conductor will receive an advance in pay ranging from 2 to 4 cents an hour. The wage advance will average 7 per cent and affects about 2,800 men.

THEY COME HUNDREDS OF MILES TO SEE HIM

DR. REA

Practising Hyperdermic Medication Treatment

—FOR—

Cancer, Tumor, Tubercular Enlargements and All External Abnormal Growths.

At St. Louis Hotel, Duluth, Minn., June 1st.

This Hyperdermic Injection Fluid Process consists of injecting into the parts a fluid which destroys the substance and renders the parts immune from spreading and entering the blood. Since Dr. Rea has announced his success in this treatment, he has demonstrated both to himself and to the public, and to the satisfaction of his patients that his treatment is certainly a terror to disease.

The treatment has a special affinity for diseased tissues and by reason of its peculiar combination, it does not attack to any degree the normal tissues. This, the latter, is by far the greatest obstacle that has been overcome by the many forms of treatment that have heretofore been discovered. In many instances, one treatment is sufficient to complete the cure, although where the case is severe and where it is of long standing, and where it has invaded the deep-seated tissues, it may require from three to a dozen treatments to cure the growths, but in all events, good results are noticeable after the first treatment, and each treatment thereafter brings about a noticeable change in its active results.

We herewith publish the names of a few of the many cures he has made. These embrace in part, a list of the many different kinds of diseases that his system is applicable to the treatment and cure of.

Mike Curren, Minto, N. D. Says Dr. Rea's treatment worked wonders on him; after taking it a short time felt better than he had for years.

E. C. Brimmer, 16 Nourse St., St. Anthony Park, Minn., cured of spinal trouble.

Mrs. C. S. Howard, Edgerton, Minn., cured of tubercular glands of neck and early consumption.

Mrs. T. L. Quandrall, Mehnnock, N. D., cured of brain disease, loss of memory, nervousness and female troubles.

S. M. Moore, Gladstone, N. D., writes: "Dr. Rea, you cured my son over a year ago. I have another sick boy, and want you to doctor him."

Fred L. Dicker, Gilby, N. D., cured of diseases of the kidney. Was very bad. A few months' treatment completely cured him.

Mrs. N. C. Olson, East Grand Forks, Minn., cured of big knee, varicose vein and rheumatism.

O. H. Larson, Bue, N. D., cured of chronic rheumatism.

Miss Emma Geving, McIntosh, Minn., cured of consumption.

W. H. Nulph, Wyndmere, N. D., cured of cancer of the face in two treatments.

A. S. Sweden's daughter, Bird Island, Minn., cured of consumption.

Mrs. Albert Tessman, Excelsior, Minn., cured of chronic eczema.

Mr. Albert Tessman, Excelsior, Minn., cured of ulcerated leg (big leg).

Miss Anne Geving, McIntosh, Minn., cured of early consumption.

C. J. Wendt, Duluth, Minn., cured of chronic eczema all over the body. Of two years' standing.

William Reid, Little Falls, Minn., cured of cancer of the hip in one treatment.

H. P. Jackson, Morris, Minn., cured of long standing piles. Cured it without operation.

L. S. Dreasler, Ellison, N. D., cured of fistula of the rectum. Quickly cured of this most terrible disease.

Mrs. George Kasanke, St. Cloud, Minn., cured of cancer of the womb.

John Feuchte's child, Brainerd, Minn., cured of blindness.

Mrs. John Greiner, Long Prairie, Minn., cured of chronic ulcerated sore legs.

Mrs. George Jacobson, St. Cloud, Minn., cured of stomach and liver troubles.

Mr. Mat Stoning, Beaver, Minn., cured of epilepsy.

Mrs. Martin, Beaver, Minn., cured epilepsy.

Mr. R. R. Grey, Sheldon, N. D., cured of deafness.

H. E. Allen, 911 10th St. S., Fargo, N. D., cured of cancer of the lip with one injection.

Mrs. W. C. Messenger, Milton, N. D., cured of cancer of the breast. Four injections.

C. F. Eriksen, Elkwood, N. D., cured of cancer of the lip. One injection.

Mrs. Millie Hanson, Hope, N. D., cured of tuberculosis of the glands.

These are only a few of the many remarkable cures made by Dr. Rea. He makes a special request to those who are afflicted and who would want to know some more of this plan of treatment, to write to any of the above named people whom he has cured. His charges are reasonable and his cures are quick, lasting and complete.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Rea will make his next regular professional visit to Duluth, Minn., at the St. Louis Hotel, Saturday, June 1st. This is the tenth year of Dr. Rea's professional visits to Duluth. He has cured thousands of cases of chronic diseases after they have been given up as incurable. Dr. Rea is highly educated, having studied his profession both in Europe and America. It does not, perhaps, look reasonable to say, but it is a fact, that Dr. Rea has one of the largest professional practices in the world. His office in Duluth is always crowded. If you want to see him, go early in the day to avoid the rush.

Consultation and examination, $1.00.

RAINY LAKE TO BUILD A BRIDGE

Will Cross River at International Falls on Own Track.

International Falls, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—For some time it has been an open question whether the Rainy Lake railroad would cross the river on a bridge of its own, at its point above town, but this has been settled by Maguire & Penniman receiving the contract for putting up the bridge and by their beginning work.

Nine piers are to be built of concrete, five of which will be on the Canadian shore, where considerable approach must be built to get the elevation and provide for high water. It is estimated that two months' time will be required for the concrete work, which will be in charge of Charles Nolan, who has been connected with the work on the dam. Maguire & Penniman also have the contract for the placing of the steel superstructure, which is to be on the ground by the time the masonry work is completed. Developments in this section are now coming fast and are interesting, as they mean much to all of us.

Steel laying and other work on the extension of the Rainy Lake road is progressing nicely. It is possible that the steel will reach the Rat Root at Ericsburg in time for a Fourth of July celebration, and in case it does, it will be up to Eric Franson, the owner of the townsite, to arrange for the blowout and provide means for getting there.

BRAKEMAN HAS A NARROW ESCAPE.

North Branch Minn., May 29. — (Special to The Herald.)—W. J. Sidhoffner, a brakeman on the local frieght, had a miraculous escape from death Sunday afternoon. He stumbled and lay flat on the ties, while one car, engine and tender passed over him, when he was caught by the firebox and tender and had a large piece of his scalp torn loose and received injuries to his hip. His clothes were torn to pieces, but he was not seriously injured.

THE CHANGE OF LIFE

Sensible Advice to Women from Mrs. Henry Lee, Mrs. Fred Certia and Mrs. Pinkham.

MRS HENRY LEE MRS. FRED CERTIA

Owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms.

This is the most critical period of her whole existence and every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.

When her system is in a deranged condition or she is predisposed to apoplexy or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active and with a host of nervous irritations make life a burden. At this time also cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, melancholia, dread of impending evil, palpitation of the heart, irregularities, constipation and dizziness are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period of life when this great change may be expected.

Mrs. Fred Certia, 1014 So. Lafayette Street, So. Bend, Ind., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the ideal medicine for women who are passing through Change of Life. For several months I suffered from hot flashes, extreme nervousness, headache and sleeplessness. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I had made up my mind there was no help for me until I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, my bad symptoms ceased, and it brought me safely through the danger period, built up my system and I am in excellent health. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound unsurpassed for women during this trying period of life."

Mrs. Henry Lee, 60 Winter Street, New Haven, Conn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"After suffering untold misery for three years during Change of Life I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I wrote you of my condition, and began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and followed your advice, and to-day I am well and happy. I can now walk anywhere and work as well as anyone, and for years previous I had tried but could not get around without help. I consider your medicine a sovereign balm for suffering women."

Women passing through this critical period should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If there is anything about your case you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. It is free and has guided thousands to health.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health, actually thousands of women, you cannot well say without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." It is your duty to yourself and family to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

INTEREST IN GRAFT CASES

San Francisco, May 28.—Interest in the local graft cases centered today in the resumption of Mayor Schmitz's trial before Judge Dunne and in the expected appearance of G. H. Umbsen, Joseph E. Green, William Brodek and Abraham Ruef, before Judge Dunne to be arraigned on charges of bribery of supervisors in connection with the attempt of the Parkside Transit company to secure a trolley franchise. Theodore V. Halsey, former agent of the Pacific States Telephone & Telegraph company, indicted on a separate count charging him with bribing Supervisor Sanderson, was also cited to appear before Judge Dunne for arraignment. It was arranged that P. G. Drum, Eugene de Sabla, John Martin, Mayor Schmitz and Abraham Ruef should appear before Judge Lawlor for arraignment on fourteen counts charging bribery in connection with the gas rate ordinance.

Prior to the resumption of the Schmitz trial Attorney Slessinger appeared for Mr. Halsey in the matter of the indictment charging the bribery of Supervisor Sanderson.

Mr. Slessinger stated that Attorneys D. M. Delmas, W. P. Humphrey and himself would defend Halsey and ask that the name of Mr. Delmas be entered as one of the attorneys of record for the defendant. He said Halsey was in court ready for arraignment on this indictment but through a clerical error the case had not been entered on the calendar, so the arraignment was set for tomorrow.

In order to allow Mr. Delmas to examine the ten indictments previously returned against Halsey and the transcribed testimony before the grand jury, arraignment on these counts was postponed until Saturday, June 1.

FOUND IN RIVER.

Frank A. Sperry, One Time Prominent Man, Drowns Himself.

New York, May 28.—The body of Frank A. Sperry of Brooklyn, former corporation tax commissioner, was found in the East river today. Mr. Sperry was private secretary to Secretaries of the Treasury Folger and Gresham, was an assistant corporation counsel of Brooklyn during the administration of Mayor Schieren and later served a term as a member of the state legislature. The loss of employment Jan. 1 and the mental collapse of his wife are supposed to have so depressed Mr. Sperry that he drowned himself.

GOV. CUMMINS A CANDIDATE

For Senatorship From Iowa to Succeed Senator Allison.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 29.—It was announced definitely yesterday that Governor Cumins would be a candidate for the United States senate, subject to endorsement of Republicans at the next year's primary election under the recently enacted primary law. It has been rumored that Governor Cummins would seek a seat in the senate, but no definite announcement was made until yesterday.

Senator William B. Allison is the Iowa senator directly affected. Senator Dolliver was re-elected by the last legislature. Under the primary law, Governor Cummins' name will go on the primary ballot in 1908, and the people will be given an opportunity to express their preference for the guidance of the next legislature which in 1909 will elect a successor to Senator Allison. Whether Senator Allison will be a candidate is not definitely known. Governor Cummins' announcement may mean a precipitation of another fight such as was waged among Iowa Republicans last year.

LOOKS LIKE MURDER.

Chicago Man Found at Cleveland With His Head Crushed.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 28.—Robert Strong, 22 years old, of Chicago, was found dead today in Collinwood, a suburb, with his head crushed. The police believe the man was murdered. Strong came east a week ago to visit his mother, Mrs. N. A. Strong, a Christian Science practitioner in Elyra, Ohio. Strong's body was lying in a secluded place, not far from an interurban car line.

SCIENTIFIC BURGLARY.

Criminal Savant in Brussels Gets Away With $20,000 Booty.

Brussels, May 29.—The latest development of scientific crime is the chemical burglary. It was operated with success at Antwerp by a criminal savant, who cleared $20,000 in cash and securities. He took a room in the Hotel Terminus, immediately over the offices of Glabbeek & Van Laet, stockbrokers. His valises contained carboys of oxygen, and he obtained a large quantity of water, ostensibly for bathing purposes.

At night he cut through the floor of his room into the stockbrokers' office. There having stopped up all apertures with blankets, he applied his chemical skill to forcing the safe. He made acetylene gas by pouring his bath water on calcium carbide, and by burning this with the oxygen, he produced heat intense enough to melt the steel safe. As the safe was a double one, the process had to be repeated, but the contents were transferred to the pockets of the enterprising chemist.

In the morning he departed with a small hand bag, leaving all his chemical apparatus behind, and the stockholders' office in confusion. He had regained his bedroom by a rope ladder.

NEW SECT ASKS MARTYRDOM

Six Loyal Converts Agree to be Hanged in Church.

Memphis, Tenn., May 29.—After five weeks of nightly worship lasting from 7:30 p. m., to 6:30 a. m., during which many members of the colored population have been "converted,' followers of a new religious order among the negroes have attracted enough attention to call for the constant attendance of patrolmen to shield converts from physical harm.

Rev. Dr. J. H. Mason, hailing from Indianapolis, presides at the meetings of the "Sanctified Spirits," as the new order is known, and on June 6 it is planned to hold a supreme test of faith through six loyal converts who have expressed the desire to give their lives and their souls to the "spirit."

All ceremony is held in a tongue foreign to all who have visited the meetings. The six loyal subjects have agreed to be hanged by ropes suspended from beams in the church on Wellington, near Vance. Rev. Mason says happier days are in store for all who give up their lives in this manner.

The new religious order has had a damaging effect on the servant problem in many homes here, the new converts invariably showing no signs of consciousness after once being "converted" by Dr. Mason. They are apparently in a hypnotized state and fail to report for work.

Harvey Parker, who predicted the destruction of Memphis a year ago, is one of the subjects who has resigned himself to the religious hangman's noose, on June 6.

FAMOUS "MADONNA"

Of Albert Duerer Was Stolen---American Art Collector Suspected.

Rome, May 28.—Some American art collector is suspected of knowing the whereabouts of Albert Duerer's famous "Madonna," which has disappeared. This masterpiece, which is of almost fabulous value, was kept in a carefully closed cupboard at one of the many churches at Fabriano, and, as it was never exhibited, the theft may have been committed some time ago. The Italian police believe the picture has been smuggled out of the country, and they have not much hope of recovering it.

IROQUOIS CASE DISMISSED.

New York, May 29.—Fifteen cases asking in the aggregate for $250,000 damages for personal injuries and deaths caused by the Iroquois theater fire in Chicago, were dismissed yesterday by Judge Hough in the United States circuit court on the motion of Lawyer David Garber, counsel for Klaw & Erlanger, the defendants. There yet remain twenty-nine similar cases, none of which, however, have been placed on the calanders of the federal courts for trial.

TO DISCHARGE OVER 1,000 MEN

Northwestern Railroads Will Curtail Every Expense This Summer.

St. Paul, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Recent railroad legislation in both the state and national government has had the effect of bringing about a curtailing of expense on all railroads. Every line is now making every effort to cut down the running expenses and all unnecessary details have been cut out, in hopes that the loss occasioned by cheaper rates may be made up.

All companies have temporarily abandoned all unnecessary improvements. The Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads had made plans in the beginning of the season for making great extensions as well as sidetracking, but the extensions have been dropped since the adjournment of the legislature, and only such double tracking is being pushed through to completion as will be necessary to further business in the immediate future. Furthermore the companies are cutting off expenses by dropping employes, and it is said that the four roads which have their general offices in St. Paul will drop upwards of 1,000 men this summer.

ITALIAN EDITOR HAS CLOSE CALL

Would-be Assassin Cuts Him Seriously With a Stiletto.

Pittsburg, May 28.—An unknown Italian made an attempt today to assassinate M. Cancelliere, proprietor and editor of La Trinacria, an Italian paper. The assault took place about 1 o'clock on Grant street, near the office of La Trinacria.

Cancelliere was conversing with W. E. Billows, an attorney, when the would-be assassin came up from the rear, and, before Mr. Billlows realized what had happened the man had slashed Cancelliere across the right side of the face with a small stiletto. The weapon made a wound about three inches long and one inch deep, the blade just grazing the jugular vein. Had it been penetrated one-eighth of an inch at this part of the neck the vein would have been severed. The Italian then fled and escaped.

The case was immediately reported to Superintendent of Police McQuaid and detectives are now making an investigation.

Cancelliere was cool after the attack and said the man was a stranger, but he believed he had been hired to kill him, as enemies had made threats of assassination.

"I have been vigorous in my denunciation of certain Italians who have been swindling their countrymen," said he, "and have incurred the enmity of these men."

My Best Friend.

Alexander Benton, who lives on Rural Route 1, Fort Edward, N. Y., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is my best earthly friend. It cured me of asthma, six years ago. It has also performed a wonderful cure of incipient consumption for my son's wife. The first bottle ended the terrible cough, and this accomplished, the other symptoms left one by one, until she was perfectly well. Dr. King's New Discovery's power over coughs and colds is simply marvelous" No other remedy has ever equaled it. Fully guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

A Friend in Need—Always with You.

WHEN you have Heartburn, Colic, Coated Tongue, Suspected Breath, Acid-rising-in throat, Gas-belching, or an Incipient Cold, take a Cascaret.

Remember, all these are not merely Discomforts, but indications of a serious Cause.

Nip them in the bud—eat a Candy Cascaret. Cascarets don't purge, nor punish the stomach like "Bile-driving" "Physics."

They act like Exercise on the Bowel-Muscles that propel Food, and that squeeze the natural Digestive Juices of the body into Food.

Constipation	Bad Breath
Biliousness	Headache
Indigestion	Diarrhœa
Dyspepsia	Flatulence
Torpid Liver	Jaundice
Appendicitis	Nausea
Colic	Vertigo
Worms	Pimples
Piles	Blotches

In such cases a little Cascaret in time is worth fifty dollars worth of Treatment later on, to say nothing of the suffering, discomfort, loss of Business Energy, and loss of Social Sunshine it saves.

Headaches, Heartburn, Gas-belching, Acid-risings in the throat, and Colicky feeling are sure signs of bowel trouble from food poisons, and should be dealt with promptly.

One Cascaret will stop the coming trouble, and move on the Bowel load, if taken at the first signs.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC." 746

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, the undersigned, do hereby associate ourselves together as a body corporate under and pursuant to and in conformity with the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of Minnesota, 1905, for the purpose of organizing a corporation and do certify that, to effect said purpose, we have adopted and signed the following Articles of Incorporation.

ARTICLE I.

The name of the corporation shall be "The Myers Company."

ARTICLE II.

The principal place of business of the corporation shall be at Biwabik, in the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota.

ARTICLE III.

The general nature of the business of the corporation shall be to loan money upon real or personal property, or other security; to negotiate and effect loans of money for other persons and corporations for a compensation; to buy, own, hold, hypothecate, transfer, sell and deal in bonds, notes, mortgages and other property and security, and to collect, foreclose, realize and compound mortgages and other obligations; to buy, own, mortgage, lease, let, sell, deal in and improve lands, tenements and hereditaments, real, personal and mixed property in the State of Minnesota, and elsewhere, both for itself and as agent for other persons and corporations; to act as agent for other persons and corporations in the management, improvement, purchase and sale of property and in the collection of rents and revenues therefrom for a consideration; to act as agent for fire, life, casualty, plate glass, accident and other insurance companies to act as agent for surety companies and in general to perform, execute and do all and singular acts and instruments necessary to be done, executed and performed in carrying on a general insurance, investment, real estate and brokerage business.

ARTICLE IV.

The time of the commencement of the corporation shall be the first day of June, 1907, and the period of its continuance shall be thirty years.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of the capital stock of the corporation shall be $50,000, divided into 500 shares of the par value of $100.00 each and the same shall be subscribed for, paid in and issued at such times, in such amounts and upon such terms and conditions as shall be ordered by the Board of Directors of the corporation.

The capital stock of the corporation shall be assignable and transferable upon the books of the corporation in accordance with its By-Laws and not otherwise, and no stock issued to any stockholder shall be sold or transferred or shall be assignable until the stockholders of the corporation have first been given due opportunity to purchase the same.

ARTICLE VI.

The management of the corporation shall be vested in a Board of three directors who shall be stockholders of and in the corporation and shall be elected yearly at the annual meeting of said stockholders to be held on the first Monday in June in each year beginning with the year 1907. Each director shall be elected to serve for the period of one year and until his successor is duly elected and qualified. Vacancies occurring in the Board shall be filled by a majority vote of the Board of Directors. Immediately following the annual stockholders' meeting the Board of Directors elected at such annual meeting shall convene and shall elect from among their number four officers of the corporation, namely: A President, a Vice-President, a Treasurer and a Secretary, but any two of said offices, except President and Vice-President, may be held by the same person. Until such annual meeting to be held in the year 1907, A. L. Myers of Biwabik, Minnesota, be S. Andresen and A. J. Roth, both residing at Duluth, Minnesota, shall constitute the first Board of Directors. Until the election and organization of a new Board of Directors of said corporation, A. L. Myers of Biwabik, Minnesota, shall be its President, A. J. Roth of Duluth, Minnesota, shall be its Vice-President and O. S. Andresen of Duluth, Minnesota, shall be its Secretary and Treasurer. The Board of Directors shall adopt a corporate seal and shall have power and authority to establish by-laws for the government and regulation of said corporation and to alter and repeal the same.

ARTICLE VII.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation shall be at any time subject shall be $50,000.

ARTICLE VIII.

A. L. Myers, Biwabik, Minnesota.
O. S. Andresen, Duluth, Minnesota.
A. J. Roth, Duluth, Minnesota.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We have hereunto set our hands and seal this 11th day of May, 1907.

WOULD OUST ALL GAS COMPANIES

From New York by Preventing Them From Using Streets.

New York, May 28.—Suit to compel the Consolidated Gas company and the eight other companies doing business in this city to relinquish their franchises and to take from them all the permits to use the streets which they now enjoy, was begun in the supreme court today by Corporation Counsel Ellison on behalf of the city.

The actions begun by the corporation counsel are against the Consolidated Gas company, the New York Mutual Gas Light company, the New Amsterdam Gas company, the Standard Gas Light company and the following subsidiary companies of the Consolidated company: The New York, Manhattan, Metropolitan, Harlem, Municipal and Knickerbocker Gas Light companies. The capital stock of the Consolidated company, which controls all the other companies, is $80,000,000. The suits are brought separately so that if the Consolidated be declared illegal the subsidiary companies may be declared illegal also and their franchises declared null and void. The Mutual, New Amsterdam and Standard are proceeded against separately because their franchises originally contained provisions prohibiting consolidation with any other company. The corporation counsel alleges that all of the franchises originally granted the gas companies with two exceptions, have expired by limitation, and he moves to oust the companies from the use of the streets and entirely cut off the right of eminent domain or the use of public or private property for distributing gas to consumers.

In commenting on the suits today Mr. Ellison said they were brought in fulfillment of a determination made several months ago to begin action as soon as the conditions of the present 80 cent gas litigation would permit. He believed then and he believes now, he said, that under the law the gas companies have no rights at all in the city.

Mr. Ellison said his suits will not interfere in any way with the action begun last week by Attorney General Jackson to have the charter of the Consolidated Gas company annulled.

STRANGE ESCAPE

Of a Valuable Sea Lion From the Washington Zoo.

Washington, May 29.—Shaking the hated dust of civilization from his fins and barking joyfully to celebrate his escape from bondage, a young male sea lion, which was brought to the Zoo Saturday night, took French leave of the institution somewhere in the wee small hours of Sunday morning. Wending his way up Rock Creek to the P street bridge, he proceeded to enjoy himself there all day long, while half of West Washington watched the anguished efforts of the Zoo people to catch him, which was finally accomplished.

How the sea lion escaped is still a mystery at the Zoo. Together with his mate he arrived Saturday night from Denver.

Neither of the two seemed from their appearance to have been accustomed at any time to high living, and their long trip had made them very thin. Because of the bad temper of Bobby, the old sea lion, which has long been the hero of the Zoo, it was thought best that they should not be put in the cage with him, lest he make things unpleasant for them. A separate inclosure was prepared for them.

The space in the wire fence which surrounded it was not more than three inches in any place, and the keepers are at a loss to explain how the sea lion could have managed to squeeze through. The animal is about 30 years old, and is valued at $200.

PET COLLIE PULLED

Dinner Bell and Saved Farmer's Family From Cremation.

Oxford, Pa., May 29.—A trick taught a pet collie by the children saved the family of William Beattie, a farmer of this section, from death by fire. The dog found the house in flames at midnight, and, not being able to awaken the household by barking, he grasped the rope to the dinner bell, as he had been taught to do when summoning the hands from the fields, and in an instant the wild pealing of the gong aroused the entire neighborhood.

The warning came in the nick of time, for the members of the family barely escaped with their lives. Mr. Beattie was almost overcome by the dense smoke as he groped his way to the third floor to save the boys. The farmhouse and pumphouse were razed. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

The Beattles' home was a landmark in this neighborhood, being finished throughout with walnut and mahogany.

Certificate of Incorporation OF THE TRADERS LAND COMPANY.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS: That we, whose names are hereunto subscribed, have agreed to and do hereby associate ourselves together under the constitution and general laws of the State of Minnesota, and more particularly under the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of said State of the year 1905, as a corporation under the name and for the purposes hereinafter set forth, and to that end, do hereby adopt the following ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION:

ARTICLE I.

The name of this corporation shall be THE TRADERS LAND COMPANY, and the general nature of its business shall be buying, selling, leasing, dealing in and improving lands, tenements, and hereditaments in the State of Minnesota and elsewhere, and the principal place of transacting the business of said corporation shall be in the City of Duluth, in the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, and with such branch offices at such other places as may, from time to time be determined by the management of said corporation.

ARTICLE II.

The time of the commencement of this corporation shall be the first day of June, A. D. 1907, and the period of its continuance shall be thirty (30) years.

ARTICLE III.

The names and places of residence of the persons forming this association for the purpose of incorporation are as follows:

Ward Ames, residing at Duluth, Minnesota.
A. D. Thomson, residing at Duluth, Minnesota.
J. F. McCarthy, residing at Duluth, Minnesota.
D. T. Helm, residing at Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE IV.

The government of this corporation and the conduct and management of its affairs is hereby vested in a board of three directors, who shall all be stockholders, and, except as herein provided, shall be elected by the stockholders at their annual meeting, which shall be held on the first Tuesday in May of each year, and who shall, within ten (10) days thereafter, elect the following officers, to-wit: a President, a Vice President, a Secretary and a Treasurer. Any two of said offices may be held by the same person with the exception of the office of President and Vice President.

The first annual meeting of the corporation shall be held on the first Tuesday of May, 1908, but until such time and such directors have been elected and qualified, the following persons shall be and constitute the board of directors of this corporation:

Ward Ames, A. D. Thomson and J. F. McCarthy.

And until such annual meeting is held, and the directors thereat chosen shall elect officers, as hereinbefore provided, and until such officers shall have been duly elected and qualified, the officers of this corporation shall be as follows:

Ward Ames, President.
A. D. Thomson, Vice President.
J. F. McCarthy, Secretary.
D. T. Helm, Treasurer.

The officers and directors of this company, except those herein designated to act as such in the first instance, shall hold office for the period of one year, or until their successors are elected and qualified, and in case any vacancy occurs in any of the offices or in the membership of the Board of Directors of this corporation, the same shall be filled by the Board of Directors until the next annual meeting and until such vacancies shall be filled by election held in accordance with these articles and such by-laws as may be adopted providing for elections.

The Board of Directors of this corporation may adopt, and is hereby authorized to adopt, such by-laws, rules and regulations for the corporation and management of its business, not inconsistent with these articles or with the constitution and laws of the State of Minnesota, as it may deem needful for the government of the officers and the conduct of the affairs of the corporation, and may create such other offices in addition to those herein provided, as may from time to time be deemed necessary, and may fill such offices as it may so create and may abolish and discontinue such offices at will.

The Board of Directors shall also have the power, when in its judgment cause exists, to remove any officers of this corporation from their positions and declare the offices vacant.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of capital stock of this corporation shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000), and the same shall be divided into five hundred (500) shares of One Hundred Dollars ($100) each, and said stock shall be sold only at par, either for cash or for property and things of value deemed by the Board of Directors to be equivalent thereto, such determination by the Board of Directors to be deemed final and binding upon the parties in interest. Stock of this corporation shall be paid for as called for by the Board of Directors, and no stock which has not been subscribed for and upon which the payments have not been made as required by the Board of Directors shall be entitled to vote or representation in any of the proceedings of this company.

ARTICE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subject shall be the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000).

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, The parties have hereunto set their hands and seals this 25th day of May, A. D. 1907.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

CALUMET WINS LAST

Michigan Men Won Short Game by 3 to 0 Score.

Cummings Was Erratic and Shroeder Almost Unhittable.

Cummings had an off day yesterday, he was wild and extremely hittable in spots, some of the Sox were off with him and, as a result, the Calumet Aristocrats walked off with an abbreviated game at Athletic park by a score of 3 to 0. But a couple of hundred people saw the contest, which wasn't calculated to quicken their pulse and arouse them to a pitch of wild enthusiasm. In fact, it was a commonplace exhibition, without a feature to bring the fans to their feet.

The Aristocrats played just well-enough to win. Schroeder was in good form and the Sox were unsuccessful in their efforts to "hit them where they ain't." The light haired boy just lobbed them over the plate and the boys in blue poked them out into the fielders' mits. Frank Summers tried to do something in his first two times at bat, singling the first time and making his next bingle good for two. He got around to third the first time, but there was nobody to send him in. In the fourth, Roy and McLaughlin singled in succession after two men were down, but Olmstead wasn't there.

Al Cummings was off from his usual form. He walked three men, hit another, and allowed seven hits in the first five innings. In the third two bases on balls, a single and a double were bunched for two runs and two singles and Olmstead's error added another in the fifth. Ragged support and his wildness put him in a hole in nearly every inning and then good work prevented Calumet from scoring. Then Aristocrats were left on the sacks in the six innings.

Before the game began, an agreement was made that it should be called at 4:15, in order to allow the Calumet team to catch the South Shore train from the Union depot at 5:30. Cummings started out badly in the first inning. Corrigan singled and went to second on Taylor's sacrifice. Dolan walked and Ball went out on a fly to Leighty. Olmstead filled the bases by falling down on Rognas' grounder. Newcombe went out on a fly to Leighty. Summers started things for the Sox by bingling. Tracey laid one down and Dolan dropped Taylor's heave, both men being safe. Haney and McCormick fanned and Leighty went out on a foul to Taylor.

A single, a hit batsman, and a double steal placed the Aristocrats on the second and third stations in the second, but they died there. The Sox went out in one-two-three.

Calumet took enough to win in the third. Dolan led off with a double and Ball fanned. Rognas and Newcombe walked in succession, filling the sacks. Schroeder singled, scoring Dolan. Orig hit to Leighty, who fumbled the ball, Rognas registering. Newcombe was nabbed off third base and Mullane fanned.

Calumet scored the final run in the fifth. Newcombe started with a single. Schroeder fanned and Oriet went out on a fly to McLaughlin. Mullane singled to right and Newcombe tried to take home on it from first. He was caught off third and while chasing him, Olmstead threw the ball, it striking on the head of boy's back and bounding to the stand. Newcombe scoring and Mullane landing on third base. In the sixth it was one-two-three both ways, Calumet batting in the seventh, but three men fading Cummings, but the game was called and reverted to the sixth inning.

The detailed score follows:

CALUMET	AB.	R.	H.	PO.	A.	E.

ANGLERS FORM AN OUTING CLUB

Duluth Tenderfeet Establish Clubhouse on Gooseberry River.

Members of the Gooseberry Tenderfoot Fishing club propose to have a pleasant season of it.

This organization was recently formed by a number of well known Duluthians, and a camp on the Gooseberry river has been established. The clubhouse is about completed, and the club will formally open its season the latter part of this week, when P. G. Kelly, who is to be camp custodian, will begin his duties.

The camp has a picturesque location on Gooseberry, at a spot where the leading lights of the club have been wont to visit in the past. They say the fishing is very good there. Several parties, comprising members of the club, will go out to the camp the latter part of this week.

The clubhouse has sleeping accommodations for twelve men, and it is expected that every bed will be filled while the fishing season lasts, and then during the hunting season. The membership is limited to 100 and, of course, the privileges are limited to the members.

Robert Armstrong is president and W. H. Longstreet is secretary and treasurer. Nearly fifty names are on the membership rolls already.

MINNESOTA IS ELIMINATED

Results of First Day's Play in the Chicago Tennis Tourney.

Chicago, May 29.—Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois were eliminated in the singles and Minnesota and Illinois for the doubles in the Western intercollegiate tennis tournament yesterday on Marshall field courts. This leaves Wisconsin and Chicago in the semi-finals in singles to be played today, and Iowa, Wisconsin and Chicago in the doubles for the second round. Yesterday's results:

Singles—
F. W. Carr, Chicago, defeated Stone, Minnesota, 6-1; 6-2; Loesch, Wisconsin, defeated Selg, Iowa, 6-4; 7-5.

Doubles—
Oliver and Selg, Iowa, defeated Stone and Muir, Minnesota, 6-4; 6-4; 6-3.

Loesch and Roehm, Wisconsin, defeated Donohue and Berrin, Illinois, 6-3; 6-1.

RIVALRY IS VERY KEEN

Boat Race This Evening Should be Most Interesting.

"We would rather win tomorrow night than go to White Bear," was the statement by some of the members of the rival boat crews last evening, and it expresses the interest that has been aroused in the contest scheduled for tonight.

The two crews tried several short dashes last evening and they are apparently as closely matched as it is possible for two crews to be. On the last and longest dash last evening, about a quarter of a mile in length, the seniors jumped their opponents at the start and gained half a length, but this distance was regained by the juniors, and the two crews crossed the finish line with the bows practically even, the juniors having probably two or three feet the advantage.

The opening smoker will also be held this evening, and a most attractive program has been arranged by the house committee, consisting of W. H. Norton, Guy E. Warren, George Sufferl, Arthur Burg, Frank P. Church, Joseph G. Harrison, Arthur Kreiger, Ralph Moore, and J. E. McGregor. Members may bring their friends this evening. The first dance of the season to which the ladies will be invited, will take place early in June.

CULLED FROM THE SCORE BOOK.

'Twas Cummings day off. They all have them, so let's not mourn.

If Duluth will only take four out of six, they will be able to hold their own playing the Copper country teams. If they go wrong, it will be up to them to make it up in the Copper country.

Jim Haney hasn't made an error in center field yet. If he doesn't last in the box as long as he wants to play baseball, the outfield is open to him, for he is no mean hitter.

Summers is playing great ball at second base. He makes errors, but more than makes up for them by sensational stops. He is hitting the ball, too.

Roy caught a nice game behind the bat yesterday. He is a good sub-catcher and his batting helps some, also.

• • •

The tactics of the Calumet team in stalling after they took the lead yesterday, drew down upon them the censure of the crowd. They played for time after the third inning and succeeded in having the game cut short.

Schroeder is a mighty good pitcher. He makes his long wings flop to good effect when he's in the box, and thus far he has been Mullane's mainstay. He's only a youth, too, and there should be good things in store for him.

• • •

Calumet and Houghton will have a little session of a week before the lions from the West swoop down upon them. Neither Copper country team looks dangerous, thus far, and they will not damage each other much this week. They may be able to do things on their own lots, when Winnipeg and Duluth invade.

Wonderful Eczema Cure.

"Our little boy had eczema for five years' writes N. A. Adams, Henrietta, Pa. "Two of our home doctors said the case was hopeless, his lungs being affected. We then employed other doctors, but no benefit resulted. By chance we read about Eclectric Bitters; bought a bottle and soon noticed improvement. We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy was completely cured." Best of all blood medicines and body building health tonics. Guaranteed at all drug stores. 50c.

Two Games Tomorrow Afternoon, Beginning at 3 O'Clock.

Tied with Duluth for first place in the Northern-Copper Country league race, the Winnipeg Maroons have arrived in Duluth for a series of six games. The series is a crucial one, for it is to decide which team shall go to the Copper country next week leading the league. This afternoon the two teams play at Athletic park and tomorrow, they are on for a double header. The first game will be played at 3 o'clock and the second at 4:30.

The two teams should be able to furnish the fans with good ball. Duluth had something of an easier time winning four out of five from Houghton and two out of three from Calumet than did Winnipeg, but in the percentage column, their victories bear the same weight, so the teams are about evenly matched. Both are well fixed in the matter of pitchers, and if the men give the proper kind of support, close contests will be the rule. Eddie Herr, the new manager of the Maroons, is a hustler and he is bent on making a good showing on the first trip abroad.

Umpire Jack Nolan, who worked here during the Houghton and Calumet series, has been let out by President Glass. Nolan's work was unsatisfactory to fans and players. He evidently tried to be fair, but his judgement was poor, and the kicking on his decisions detracted from the interest in the games. Tom McGraw, the Chicago cop, is here for the Winnipeg series and the fans can depend upon seeing baseball every minute. McGraw takes no back talk or long wrangles. He keeps the game on the go all the time and that is what pleases the fans.

The teams drawn up in batting order are as follows:

Winnipeg—	Duluth—
Piper, cf	Summers 2b
Ludlerus, 1b	Tracey, 1b
Cox, rf	Haney, cf

ST. PAUL BOY KILLED BY AN ELECTRIC CAR.

St. Paul, May 29.—Charles A. Turner, 4-year-old son of Gustave Turner, 974 Rice street, was struck by a street car Tuesday. His hip was broken, and he was internally injured as well. He died at the City hospital in the afternoon.

SPAWNING SEASON ON

Fishermen Advised Not to Take Bass for Time Yet.

Conditions Said to be Extremely Abnormal This Spring.

The bass season in Minnesota opened yesterday, but it is probable that there will be very little bass fishing for some two or three weeks to come. The state game and fish commisison is sending out an appeal to the fishermen of the state asking them to desist from bass fishing for at least two weeks after the opening of the season. The spawning season for bass is unusually late this year, and is just on now, whereas under ordinary spring conditions, they would have spawned a month ago. Every bass taken from the streams now means the loss of just that much spawn, and in order to prevent the depletion of the streams, the fishermen are being asked to hold off for at least two weeks.

S. F. Fullerton, secretary of the state game and fish commisson, is quoted as saying:

"I consider a genuine sportsman in duty bound to put off his first visit to the lakes until after the spawning season. Every fish that is taken now means the killing of thousands, which would be prevented if the sportsmen waited until the proper time before trying their luck at the sport."

On their recent pike spawn gathering expedition the members of the state fish and game commission found the same condition existing among pike, as to the lateness of the spawning season. For the last twelve years, experience has shown that the pike eggs were ready to be gathered about April 25, but this year nothing could be done until the middle of May when a good haul was made.

DEMANDS APOLOGY

Dr. Long Makes Public Letter Sent to the President

In Reference to Recent Attack Made in a Magazine.

Stamford, Conn., May 29.—Dr. William B. Long yesterday made public a letter sent by him to President Roosevelt. The letter says in part:

"To His Excellency Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States.

Dear Sir:

"The issue between you and me is no longer of animals, but of men. It is not chiefly a matter of natural history but of truth and personal honor. In a recent magazine article you deliberately attack me as well as my book. You have used the enormous influence of your official position to discredit me as a man, to injure my reputation, and incidentally to make a poor man even poorer by destroying, if possible, the sale and influence of his work. In my book I have given the result of long years of watching animals in the wilderness, with no other object than to study their habits, and so far as man can, to understand the mystery of their dumb life.

"In every preface I have stated, and I now repeat the statement, that every incident that I recorded from my observation is true as far as an honest, educated man can see and understand the truth. In your recent attack this is what you chiefly deny. I have spoken the truth, and you accuse me of deliberate falsehood and misrepresentation. As president of the United States you have gone out of your way to injure the private citizen, who was attending strictly to his own business; as a man you have accused of falsehood another man whose ideals of truth and honor are quite as high as your own.

"This is the whole issue between us. I meet it squarely, and so must you. If I have spoken falsely, if in book or work of mine I have intentionally deceived any child or man regarding animal life, I promise publicly to retract everything in such work, and promise never to write another animal book. On the other hand, if I show to any disinterested person that you have accused me falsely, you must publicly withdraw your accusation and apologize.

"As a man and as president no other honorable course is open to you. You base your recent charges chiefly on the matter of a big white wolf killing a young caribou by a bite in the chest, described by me in 'Northern Trails.'

"You declare the thing to be a mathematical impossibility, and aver it is not possible for a wolf to perform the act."

Dr. Long declares he knows from his own observations and from the testimony of Indians that wolves do sometimes kill in this way, and then quotes the signed and witnessed statement of S. J. Hapidan, an educated Sioux Indian, who states he saw a horse which a wolf had killed by tearing its chest. In addition to this, Dr. Long says he himself had seen a deer, which had been slain in this manner by a wolf, and further recites that the Indian, Matty Mitchell of Bonny Bay, N. F., declares that the big white wolf frequently kills caribou in this manner.

Continuing, Dr. Long says: "These are the facts underlying the incident which you declare to be impossible and false. If this testimony is not enough I will fill it up to full scripture measure.

"You cannot, at this stage, Mr. Roosevelt, take refuge behind the presidential office and maintain silence. You have forfeited your right to that silence by breaking it by coming out in public to attack a private citizen. If your talk of a square deal is not all a sham; if your frequent moral preaching is not hypocrisy, I call upon you, as president and as a man, to come out and admit the error and injustice of your charge in the same public way in which you made it."

Do You Think For Yourself?

Or, Do You Open Your Mouth Like a Young Bird and Gulp Down Whatever Food or Medicine May be Offered You?

If you are an intelligent, thinking woman, in need of relief from weakness, nervousness, pain and suffering, then it means much to you that there is one tried and true, honest medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, sold by druggists for the cure of woman's ills.

The makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of weak, nervous, run-down, over-worked, debilitated, pain-racked women, knowing this medicine to be made up of ingredients, every one of which has the strongest possible indorsement of the leading and standard authorities of the several schools of medical practice, are not afraid to print, as they do, the list of ingredients, of which it is composed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper.

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, so injurious to delicate women even in small quantities when long continued. Neither does it contain any narcotics, or other harmful, or habit-forming drugs and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famed medicine is advised by its manufacturers.

No other medicine for woman's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the unqualified recommendation of each of the several ingredients by scores of leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration? It certainly is entitled to far more weight than any number of non-professional, or lay testimonials.

A booklet of ingredients, with numerous authorative professional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the organs distinctly feminine. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

If a woman has bearing down, or dragging pains, low down in the abdomen, or pelvis, backache, frequent headaches, dizzy or fainting spells, is nervous and easily startled, has gnawing feeling in stomach, sees imaginary floating specks, or spots before her eyes, has melancholia, or "blues," or a weakening disagreeable drain from pelvic organs, she can make no mistake by resorting to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will invigorate and tone up the whole system and especially the pelvic organs.

No woman suffering from any of the above symptoms can afford to accept any secret nostrum or medicine of unknown composition, as a substitute for a medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and has a record of over forty years and sells more largely to-day than ever before. Its makers withhold no secrets from their patients, believing open publicity to be the very best guaranty of merit.

Dr. Pierce invites all suffering women to consult him by letter free of charge. All letters of consultation are held as sacredly confidential and an answer is returned in plain sealed envelope. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. They are the original Little Liver Pills having been put out for sale by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. One to three a dose. Tiny sugar-coated granules; easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a most potent alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, or invigorator, and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucuous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

WILL GET SUNDAY TRAIN.

Biwabik and McKinley to Have Improved Service.

Residents of Biwabik and McKinley are to have the Sunday train service they have been trying for during the past year or so, for the Duluth & Iron Range announces that, commencing next Sunday, a train will be run over the line from Allen Junction on the main line to Eveleth.

The towns mentioned are located on that part of the Iron Range system and have been asking for a Sunday train for a long time. One of their principal arguments in favor of the Sunday train was the fact that under the old arrangements, they received no mail between Saturday and Monday.

The Allen Junction-Eveleth Sunday train will connect with the regular Sunday passenger running to and from Duluth.

WILL BUY A STEEL TUG

Must be Built and Delivered by May 1, 1908.

The government needs a steel tug for the use of the engineering department in the harbor improvement work in the Lake Superior district and Maj. Graham D. Fitch, engineer in charge, is about to advertise for bids on a vessel according to the specification prepared.

Last year the government advertised for bids for a steel tug, but the offers submitted were all so much in excess of the amount that would be available for the boat, that none of them were accepted.

The government intends to spend about $35,000 for a tug of the style and dimensions wanted, and it is probable that if the bids do not fall somewhere within the amount available the contract will not be awarded.

Maj. Fitch will open the bids at noon, June 15 next.

The government will require the contractor, if a contract is awarded, to commence the construction of the tug twenty days after date of notification of approval of the contract by the chief of engineers, United States army, and will prosecute the work faithfully to completion on or before May 1, 1908.

The specifications call for a steel tug 85 feet 6 inches over all with a beam of 21 feet and depth of 11 feet 6 inches.

The hull must be built, launched, and equipped with a boiler and engine, steam steering gear, pumps, electric lighting plant, searchlight and heating plant. It must be fitted and made complete with pilot house, cabin, galley, pantry, messroom, bathroom and water closets, all hull fittings, pumping arrangements, speaking tubes, signal bells, etc. The material used must be of steel to conform to the specifications adopted by the American Shipbuilders' association.

The specifications call for an engine of the inverted cylinder direct acting, fore and aft compound type, with cylinders 16 and 34 inches in diameter with a common stroke of 26 inches.

The screw propeller will have four cast iron blades of eight feet diameter and of such surface and pitch as to enable the engine to make 140 revolutions per minute.

The government will require a two weeks' working test before final payment is made for the tug.

The new tug, if one is secured by the government, will be constructed along the lines of an ice-breaker. It will also be a sea-going boat capable of running out on Lake Superior, if necessary, when there is a northeast storm on.

FOG CAUSES DELAY.

Few Boats Are Moving in or Out of the Harbor.

A heavy fog hanging low over Lake Superior and the Duluth-Superior harbor caused considerable delay in the movements of vessels, and a fleet of half a dozen big freighters is waiting in the bay for better weather or a chance to get to the docks.

Work at the ore docks is hindered badly by the wet weather, and a number of boats have been compelled to wait before they could get a chance to load. A few have been ordered light to Two Harbors to load ore.

Few boats have moved in or out of the harbor today on account of the thick fog, which makes it impossible to distinguish anything which is distant more than the length of one of the big ships. Fog whistles have been going all day.

Masters Must Use Care.

Detroit, May 29.—Vessel masters are requested by the lake survey to use care on the course north of Thunder Bay island, Lake Huron, and avoid running down the buoys now set there. A survey of the shoal area is being made.

Months to Repair Damage.

Buffalo, May 29.—It was discovered yesterday that the storm of Monday had filled in the channels which had been dredged out, by which the stranded steamers Hurlbut Smith and William Nottingham were to be taken back to deep water. It will take several months to repair the damage caused by the storm.

More Men at Manitowoc.

Manitowoc, May 29.—Skilled labor is now being brought to the city by the Manitowoc Dry Dock company, the regular force of men having been swamped by the great amount of repair work now on hand at the yards.

SAY BOATS ARE SPEEDY

Rivalry Exists Between Crews of America and Easton.

Duluthians Will Have Good Service to Isle Royale.

Considerable rivalry exists between the crews of the Booth line steamers America and Easton this spring, and a speed contest may be arranged in the near future to see which is the faster boat. Both boats received a thorough overhauling at the beginning of the season and are in the best of condition. It is generally conceded that the America is the faster boat, but the crew of the Easton are loath to believe it.

So far this season the Easton has been used on the south shore run to Houghton while the America has been running to Fort Arthur and Isle Royale. A special trip was made to Port Arthur last week by the Easton and coming back an excellent record was made by the boat. After leaving Port Arthur she made the trip to Duluth in about thirteen hours and the crew believe that she can make as good time as the America.

An excellent service will be afforded to Duluth people this season to Isle Royale by the steamers America and Easton according to the new time table which has just been issued by the Booth line. The Easton will be placed on the Isle Royale run when the new schedule goes into effect some time next week. Each boat will make three trips a week.

The trip of the America will probably be the most popular one for excursionists going to Isle Royale as the trip will be made via Port Arthur while that of the Easton is made direct to Isle Royale and then to Port Arthur. The American leaves Duluth twenty-four hours ahead of the Easton but reaches Washington Harbor and other ports on Isle Royale only twelve hours ahead.

As soon as the Easton is taken off the south shore run the steamer Moore will take her place and the steamer Bon Ami will be used as an emergency boat.

The Sault Passages.

WELCOME NEW BOAT

Citizens Will Turn Out to See Steamer T. F. Cole.

Special Train Will Meet New Vessel at Two Harbors.

Duluth citizens will welcome the arrival of the new steamer Thomas F. Cole, the largest freight ship on the Great Lakes, in a fitting manner tomorrow. The vessel passed the Sault canal yesterday afternoon, bound for Duluth via Two Harbors and will steam through the Duluth canal entrance tomorrow forenoon.

This new freighter will be the flagship of the Pittsburg Steamship company and is named in honor of one of Duluth's foremost citizens in recognition of the service which Mr. Cole has bestowed upon the iron business and the Head of the Lakes. The Pittsburg Steamship company has spared no expense to make this vessel the finest freight ship on fresh water.

In order that Duluth citizens may be given an opportunity to view the new vessel upon its first appearance in the harbor, Mr. Coulby, president of the Pittsburg Steamship company, has arranged that the Cole will pull in at Two Harbors some time tonight and wait until morning before resuming the trip to Duluth. A special train will be run from Duluth to Two Harbors with a number of invited guests of the Pittsburg Steamship company aboard and these will proceed to this city on the new steamer.

When the big vessel arrives in Duluth Thursday morning she will be towed into the slip at the foot of Sixth avenue, where she will be open to an inspection by the public.

After the arrival of the special train at Two Harbors the passengers will board the Cole and an address of welcome will be delivered to Capt. Morgan of the Cole by Mayor Cullum. Capt. Morgan will respond with an address which will be followed by a light luncheon on board the boat and then the journey to Duluth will be resumed. Capt. Morgan is one of the best known navigators on the lakes.

Extensive plans are being made at the Head of the Lakes by the vessel owners to give the steamer Cole a rousing welcome. When the big vessel enters the harbor all the ships in the bay and the elevators and factories will blow their whistles in salute.

The steamer Thomas F. Cole is just six inches longer than the next largest ship on the lakes and her total length is 603½ feet. She was built at the Great Lakes Engineering works, Detroit, and the extra six inches were added in her length to give her the place of honor among fresh water boats. Her beam is 58 feet, and her depth 32 feet. She has triple expansion engines 24, 39 and 65 by 42 inch stroke. She has two boilers 15 feet 6½ inches in diameter and 11 feet 6 inches long and has installed the Ellis & Eaves system of induced draft.

It is confidently expected that before the summer is over the Thomas F. Cole will have exceeded the records formerly held in the ore carrying trade by the H. H. Rogers, which took out the largest cargo of ore ever transported on the lakes, 13,005 gross tons, from Escanaba to South Chicago, and by the J. Pierpont Morgan, which carried 11,868 tons of iron ore from Lake Superior.

Coal and Ore Boats Scarce.

Cleveland, May 29.—Coal and ore cargoes are offered freely, but boats for this week's loading are scarce in both trades. Coal shippers are having trouble in moving small cargoes. Rates hold steady all around.

Water In Hold.

Alpena, May 29.—The steamer Patrick Culligan, coal-laden for Chicago, went into Thunder Bay yesterday with four feet of water in her hold, the result of a severe pounding during the gale Monday. The vessel is but little damaged.

CHARGE WILLIAM FRENCH WITH VIOLATING LAW.

Hibbing, Minn., May 29.—Charged with selling liquor on Sunday and after hours on week days William French of the town bearing that name, located about twelve miles from here, has been arrested and will have a hearing June 18. He promptly furnished bonds, as he is an old citizen of this locality and owns considerable property.

ON THE IRON RANGES

SUPT. GREENWAY VISITING GARY

Is Looking Over Steel Corporation's Model Indiana Town.

Coleraine, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—John C. Greenway, superintendent of the Oliver Iron Mining company, at Coleraine, who is greatly interested in developing the new town, is spending a few days at Gary, Ind., which is to be the model town for the manufacturing part of the United States Steel corporation.

Gary is situated at the southern point of Lake Michigan, about twenty miles from Chicago. The conditions for building a new town there are somewhat similar to those at Coleraine. At both places vast sums of money are being expended in converting a wilderness into desirable residence towns.

ORE SHIPPING IS VERY HEAVY

Forty-One Trains Per Day From Iron Region.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ore stripping business has about reached a maximum. With one ore dock out of commission about forty ore trains per day are being run and about 2,000 cars of ore received daily. If the present gait continues next month will be a record breaker in shipments from this port.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS.

Will Grade Grounds Around the Town Hall of Mesaba Mountain.

Eveleth, Minn., May 29.—At a meeting of the town board of Mesaba Mountain, last night, it was decided to make some improvements around the town hall, and fix up adjacent roads. The grounds are being graded and when this is completed, an iron fence will be erected around the hall, and a cement walk laid in front of Adams avenue. A piano, with pianola attachment, has been ordered for the use of those desiring to dance in the hall. The board will accept the invitation of Dr. C. W. More to take a trip over adjacent roads in his automobile, and decide upon needed road improvements.

It is expected that about $20,000 will be expended in road work in this section during the present year.

All of the members of the town board were present: D. A. Springer of Eveleth, Thomas J. Trengrove of Fayal and D. M. Mouser of Sparta, and Town Clerk Helps of Eveleth.

MAYOR DENIES CHARGE.

Spite Work Did Not Prompt the Moving of Oil Tanks.

Virginia, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was a lively incident at the meeting of the city council last night growing out of the charge made by Agent Lang of the Duluth office of the Standard Oil company, who was present, that the order of the council to remove the company's oil tanks, outside of the city limits, was due to spite work.

Mayor Eaton sharply denied the charge, which he construed to be aimed at him, because he formerly did hauling for the company, but owing to differences gave up the work. He promptly resented the accusation made by the Duluth man. Before the council adjourned, the mayor denied that any member of the administration had prompted the action of the council, but that it was in response to a petition from citizens who claimed the tanks in their present location were a menace to human life.

Mr. Lang said that the tanks would be removed as ordered.

IN IT TEN YEARS.

An Unconscious Slave to Coffee.

CMFW YMBF WMFW MF WMFW

"I had not the slightest idea that coffee was the cause of my continued sickness for the last ten years, and I quit its use and took up Postum Food Coffee. I never had a natural movement of the bowels during a number of years, because of chronic constipation, and I was continually taking medicine.

"Very frequently, just after breakfast a dizziness would come on, which would force me to lie down and remain absolutely quiet until relief came. I was also the victim of severe headaches, and miserable all the time. Finally, it occurred to me that coffee was the real cause of my trouble.

"I therefore procured a package of Postum Food Coffee and began its use in place of coffee. At first I did not like it, but I soon discovered that I had not made it properly. When it is boiled long enough, it has a delicious Java coffee taste, a beautiful, deep rich brown color, and altogether it makes a charming beverage.

"I soon grew very fond of it; in fact, I liked it better than I did the old coffee. My health improved and this gradually increased. The bowels resumed their natural functions and the old dizzy feeling disappeared entirely; also the headaches.

"This happy change in health fixed my mind permanently and forever; never, under any circumstances, to go back to a drug that had held me a slave for ten long years. A curious thing about all this—is that people do not realize the cause of their troubles. They go on year after year, just as I had, in drugging themselves with something that holds them in a condition of sickness and they don't seem to understand what it is that causes the trouble. If such people would leave off coffee and use Postum Food Coffee, the trial would tell its own tale."

"There's a reason."

CLASS PLAY IS GREAT SUCCESS

Eveleth, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual play given by the senior class of the Eveleth high school, assisted by other members of the high school, was given last night in the high school auditorium before a large and enthusiastic audience.

The play chosen for this year's production was a three-act comedy farce entitled "A Busy Liar," the scene of which is laid in America at the beginning of the Spanish-American war, and the play has just enough sentiment and military flavor to make an interesting plot.

The production was a success in every way. The parts were uniformly well taken, and showed much painstaking preparation on the part of every member of the cast. The play was rehearsed and produced under the direction of Principal R. C. Lowe.

The proceeds from last night's production will be used by the senior class to buy a class memorial, either a picture or a piece of statuary.

The cast of characters was as follows: Simon Meeker, lawyer, real estate agent, etc., Abe Feldman; Judge Quakely, a portly old party, John Saari; Senator Carrollton, a dandified old party, Earl Ellsworth; MacAlister Macbeth, a young Scotchman, Hilding Sholund; Dick Carrollton, the senator's son, John A. Kellow; William Trott, servant to Meeker, Anthony Pryor; Job Lotts, a recruit, Dale Cerveny; Mrs. Macfarlane, who has everybody's welfare at heart, Esther Rabinowitz; Tennie, the judge's daughter, Mollie Donovan; Janet, a Scotch lassie, Cora Williams; Mrs. Eva Brighton Early, a young widow, Teckla Jackson.

RUNAWAYS INJURE TWO.

Coleraine's Assistant Postmaster and a Grocer Are Hurt.

Coleraine, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Monday evening, as E. J. Anderson, the Coleraine postmaster, and Miss Mary Withrow, his assistant, were returning from Grand Rapids, their horse became frightened at a passing train as they were entering town, and ran away. Miss Withrow was thrown from the buggy and quite severely injured. Mr. Anderson escaped with a few bruises. The buggy was wrecked.

O. J. Nyberg, proprietor of one of the Coleraine grocery stores, was also injured in a runaway Monday evening. His horse became frightened at a train. For a time it was feared that both Mr. Nyberg's ankles were broken, but upon a more thorough examination it was found that they were only severely sprained.

BOYS BOTHER RILEY.

Grand Rapids Youth Persist in Climbing Into the Cars.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 29.—The boys that persist in climbing on and off of moving cars of the Swan River Logging company are giving John Riley, the master mechanic and acting trainmaster of the line, no end of trouble. He says that boys ranging in age from 9 to 15 years have acquired this habit and it seems almost impossible to put a stop to it. The train men do their best to keep these youngsters away from the trains, but their efforts are often of no avail. When a boy sneaks up the ladder on the "blind side" of a train and fails under the wheels the public is always ready to blame the train crew, when in fact the fault lies wholly with the unfortunate youngster. There is a law forbidding persons from climbing onto trains without authority, and Mr. Riley says he will have to strictly enforce it by instructing the local police to arrest every boy caught in the act. Every violator will be put in jail and dealt with according to law hereafter.

HAD PLEASANT JOURNEY.

E. N. Remer Met Many Former Itasca County Men in Travels.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. N. Remer, who returned home recently from a pleasant journey, during which he visited many Pacific coast and other points, reports not only having had a pleasant time, but having met with many former residents of Itasca county, with whom he visited, and altogether he had a very pleasant and profitable trip. He met Sheldon, Mather, Sims, Dewey and the Johnson boys, who left here recently. They are across the line in Canada, where much valuable pine timber is falling into the possession of the Sheldon-Mather company. He visited W. J. Moore and the McHardys at North Yamhill, Or. Moore & McHardy own over 200,000,000 feet of pine. They are running a sawmill and are doing a fine business. Their holdings are sufficient to make them rich men in a very few years. Mr. Remer says George Moore is just as happy as ever, and still keeps things on the move. George would be happy if he were fifty times a millionaire. Among the old-time Itasca boys he met at this place Mr. Remer mentioned Dan McCormick, Joe and Will McHardy, Frank Bell, John Gill, F. McCarthy, John Erickson, Hugh Johnson, R. O. Downing, who left here a short time ago, is keeping books for the Reliance Lumber company, which is owned and operated by Moore & McHardy. He also visited St. John's, Or., where Sherman Cochran is doing a thriving hotel business.

TWO HARBORS COUNCIL.

Several Municipal Matters Disposed of by City Lawmakers.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 29. —(Special to The Herald.)—Among important matters disposed of by the council at its meeting last night was the adoption of the following rates for electrical motors: Motors of one horse power or less, 5 cents per kilowatt; one to five horse power, 4 cents per kilowatt; five to ten horse power, cents per kilowatt; ten or more horse power 2½ cents per kilowatt.

It was decided to purchase a thirty-horse power electrical motor from Joseph Beck, local agent for the Wagner Electric company of St. Louis, Mo., and it will be installed for the use of the stone crusher. The council also ordered the purchase of a ten ton road roller for $2,575.

Bills and other claims in the sum of $728.15 were allowed.

The contract for laying 412 feet of water mains on Eleventh avenue was awarded to Louis R. Erickson, whose bid of $506.70, was accepted. There was one smaller bid. It was Christ Haugstein, who offered to do the work for $597.40.

Chisholm.—The plaintiffs in the case of Rogers vs. the Clarke mine have appealed to the supreme court to have the verdict of the district court set aside and a new trial ordered.

Chisholm.—S. W. Lundall has purchased a lot on Chestnut street near Fourth avenue and is clearing it this week, getting read to build this season.

Eveleth.—Charles Kangas has been appointed road foreman by County Commissioner McInnis in place of August Esselstrom, who died last winter.

MAYOR PRODS DRONES.

Men Employed on Hibbing Streets Must Get a Move on.

Hibbing, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Among the subjects discussed at the city council meeting last night was the recent demand of city teamsters for an increase in their per diem from $4.50 to $5.50. The committee on streets reported in favor of an increase of 50 cents per day being granted, but it is possible that a still larger figure will be allowed.

Mayor Welrick told the council that he thought many of the men at present working on the streets for $2.50 per day were not hurting themselves by their industry. He said unless better results were shown there would be some wholesale discharging in the near future. About forty men are working on the streets.

The plumbing ordinance was read a second time.

Bids were received for a third furnace in the city power plant and referred to the water and light committee, which will make the award at the council meeting next Tuesday night.

The Holly Down Draft Furnace company of Chicago put in a bid of $2,500 and the Gogebic Steam Boiler works of Duluth bid $2,375.

FOR STREET RAILWAY.

Franchise for the Privilege Before Virginia City Council.

Virginia, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first reading of the franchise for a street railway was listened to by the city council last night. It provides for any power but steam or animal, and will be in existence forty-five years. The line is to run through the main part of the city, entering on the south from Eveleth. The fare in the city limits will be 5 cents. After three more readings of the franchise, bids will be invited.

The successful bidder will have six months in which to signify his intention of accepting the franchise. Meanwhile the city will be protected by an indemnifying bond, the amount of which will be fixed later by the council.

Within three years after the acceptance of the franchise the line must be in operation between the towns of Virginia, Eveleth and Mt. Iron. It is expected that the Northern Traction company and the Mesaba Traction company will both submit bids.

GOVERNOR SPEAKS AT TWO HARBORS FRIDAY.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor John A. Johnson will speak at the high school commencement here next Friday evening. He is to be the guest of City Attorney John Dwan, one of his staff, during his visit here.

RANGES IN BRIEF

Bovey.—The report that Tony DeCoretos, the alleged Holman murderer, had been captured is said to be premature. Sheriff Holman has added $50 to the reward offered for DeCoretos, making the total amount now $300.

Ely.—Capt. Franklin, who has arrived from St. Paul, will start a crew of men exploring on lands owned by the Iron Queen Mining company between here and Tower Junction as soon as the weather permits.

Virginia.—A fishing club called the Pirates, composed of Eveleth and Virginia men is planning for the annual fishing trip to Vermillion lake at Tower.

Tower.—August Strand has gone to Ely to accept the position of foreman at one of the lumber camps of the St. Croix Lumber company.

Chisholm.—The plaintiffs in the case of Rogers vs. the Clarke mine have appealed to the supreme court to have the verdict of the district court set aside and a new trial ordered.

Chisholm.—S. W. Lundall has purchased a lot on Chestnut street near Fourth avenue and is clearing it this week, getting read to build this season.

MRS. M'KINLEY'S FUNERAL

ton, assisted by some from neigaborling cities, preserved order in handling the crowd. Secret service men from Washington, mingled in the crowd. The police also had been instructed to watch for any suspicious persons in the throng.

The black casket rested in the library, surrounded by flowers, in the same place that President McKinley was placed after the tragedy at Buffalo. On the walls of the room hung photographs of President McKinley, Senator Hanna and other friends of the late President McKinley, together with framed documents marking the public career of Mr. McKinley.

The funeral service was brief and was confined to the Methodist Episcopal ritual and four songs identical with those sung at the funeral of the late president. The songs were: "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," "Lead, Kindly Light," "Nearer My God to Thee," and "The Angel." The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Buxton, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church and the Rev. Dr. Holmes, former pastor of that church.

The pallbearers were: Judge Henry W. Harter, John C. Dueber, Joseph Biechele, Robert A. Cassidy, George B. Frease, who were honorary pallbearers at the funeral of President McKinley; and Austin Lynch, R. S. Shields and Judge C. C. Bow. Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou was in charge of arrangements at the McKinley home.

The receiving vault, which is still guarded by United States regulars, will be the resting place of the body of both Mr. and Mrs. McKinley until the magnificent McKinley mausoleum built by public subscription is completed, probably in September.

Among others present during the services were the following: Mr. and Mrs. George Barber of New York, Mrs. Mabel McKinley Baer and her husband, Dr. Herman Baer of New York; Miss Helen McKinley of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. La Fayette McWilliams of Chicago, Former Postmaster General Gary and Mrs. Gary, Senator Knox of Pitusburg, Senator Dick and Mrs. Dick, Former Comptroller of the Currency Charles D. Dawes and Mrs. Dawes, and ex-Governor Herrick of Cleveland. The sons of the two former presidents met at the funeral—Webb Hayes of Cleveland, and James R. Garfield.

Mrs. Fairbanks could not attend owing to illness.

The floral tributes were: Vice President and Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, a wreath; Justice and Mrs. W. R. Day, American beauty roses; Mrs. Garrett A. Hobart, flowers; First M. E. church, large anchor; Miss Eva Booth, wreath; Mr. and Mrs. George B. Frease, roses.

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

S. S. S. is recognized everywhere not only as the best of all blood purifiers and the greatest of all tonics, but the one medicine that can be taken with absolute safety by everyone. Young or old, those in robust health, or those whose systems are delicate and run-down, may use it with the same good results, and equally without fear of any unpleasant or injurious after effects. Next in importance to removing the cause of any disease is the condition in which the system is left after a course of medical treatment. Medicines containing mercury, potash or other strong mineral ingredients often do permanent injury by eating out the delicate lining and tissues of the stomach, producing chronic Dyspepsia, unfavorably affecting the bowels, and so deranging the system otherwise, that even if the original disease had been removed from the system it is left in such a weakened and deranged condition that the health is permanently impaired. S. S. S. enjoys the distinction of being the only blood medicine on the market that does not contain a mineral ingredient of some kind. It is made entirely of the healing, cleansing extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks gathered directly from the forests and fields of nature, under our own supervision, and when they reach our laboratory contain all their original valuable tonic and blood purifying properties. We offer a reward of $1,000 for proof that S. S. S. contains a particle of mineral in any form. Being made entirely from these vegetable ingredients S. S. S. is absolutely harmless to the system, and while curing disease adds health and strength to every part of the body. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other blood troubles by removing the cause and supplying the circulation with health-giving and strength-producing qualities.

ARTICLE I.

The name of the corporation shall be "Aurora Mercantile Company."

ARTICLE II.

The principal place of business of the corporation shall be at Aurora, in the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota.

ARTICLE III.

The general nature of the business of the corporation shall be the manufacturing, buying, purchasing, selling, exchanging, disposing of and dealing, investing and trading in goods, wares and merchandise of every class and description, in general, to carry on and conduct a general wholesale and retail mercantile, jobbing and merchandising business. The corporation shall have power to buy, purchase, hold, own, sell and convey, mortgage, lease or otherwise dispose of all such real estate as the Board of Directors of the corporation shall deem necessary or convenient for the purpose of conducting and carrying on the said business and to do all things as the Board of Directors deems necessary or convenient for the furtherance of the purposes and objects of the corporation.

ARTICLE IV.

The time of the commencement of the corporation shall be the first day of June, 1907, and the period of its continuance shall be thirty years.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of the capital stock of the corporation shall be $50,000, divided into 500 shares of the par value of $100 each and the same shall be subscribed for, paid in and issued at such times, in such amounts and upon such terms and conditions as shall be ordered by the Board of Directors of the corporation.
The capital stock of the corporation shall be assignable and transferable upon the books of the corporation in accordance with its by-laws and not otherwise, and no stock issued to any stockholder shall be sold or transferred or shall be assignable until the stockholders of the corporation have first been given due opportunity to purchase the same.

ARTICE VI.

The management of the corporation shall be vested in a Board of three directors, who shall be stockholders of and in the corporation and shall be elected yearly at the annual meeting of said stockholders to be held on the third Monday in May in each year beginning with the year, 1907. Each director shall be elected to serve for the period of one year and until his successor is duly elected and qualified. Vacancies occurring in the Board shall be filled by a majority vote of the Board of Directors, immediately following the annual stockholders' meeting the Board of Directors, elected at such annual meeting, shall convene and shall elect, from among their number, four officers of the corporation, namely: a President, a Vice President, a Secretary, and Treasurer, but any two of said offices, except President and Vice President, may be held by the same person. Until such annual meeting to be held in the year, 1907, C. H. Taylor and O. S. Andresen, both of Duluth, Minnesota and J. L. Stewart of Aurora, Minnesota, shall constitute the first Board of Directors. Until the election and organization of a new Board of Directors of said corporation, C. H. Taylor of Duluth, Minnesota, shall be its President; J. L. Stewart of Aurora, Minnesota, shall be its Vice President, and O. S. Andresen of Duluth, Minnesota, shall be its Secretary and Treasurer. The Board of Directors shall adopt a corporate seal and shall have power and authority to establish by-laws for the government and regulation of said corporation and to alter and repeal the same.

ARTICLE VII.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation shall be at any time subject shall be $50,000.

WHEAT HAS EASY TONE

Most of the American Markets Close a Little Off.

July Flax Has Slight Advance at Close Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 29.—Wheat had a weaker tone in most of the American markets today. Rains fell in the Southwest last night and weather conditions in the Northwest are improved. Chicago and Kansas City were slightly stronger at the close but the other markets on this side of the Atlantic were weaker. Liverpool closed ½d higher, Berlin ¾c lower and Budapest ¾c lower.

The July option closed ⅛c lower in Duluth and Minneapolis, unchanged in Chicago and New York, a shade lower in St. Louis, ⅜c higher in Kansas City and ¼c lower in Winnipeg. The September option closed ⅛c lower in Duluth and New York, ¼c higher in Chicago, ⅜-½c lower in Minneapolis, ¼c lower in St. Louis and unchanged in Kansas City. The October option closed ⅝c lower in Winnipeg.

July corn closed ⅜-½c higher in Chicago and was ½d lower in Liverpool. July oats closed ⅛c lower in Chicago.

Car receipts at Duluth were 56, and at Minneapolis 213, making a total for the Northwest of 272. Chicago making 24.

Primary receipts of wheat were 356,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 675,000 bus.

Shipments 541,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 149,000 bus.

Wheat was dull throughout the session of the Duluth market. The opening prices were weak. During the session, prices went over yesterday's close but went down again, closing a little off. May wheat was inactive and closed ¼c lower than yesterday at $1.06¾. July wheat opened ⅝c lower at $1.03⅝, advanced to $1.04⅛, declined to $1.03⅜, reacted to $1.03¾, went off to $1.01⅝, reacted to $1.03¼ and closed at $1.01, a loss of ¼c from yesterday.

Durum wheat was unchanged and cash spring wheat was selling at the July price for No. 1 northern.

Flax was quiet and prices irregular at the close. July tax was a little up. May flax opened ¼c higher at $1.25½, advanced to $1.25¾ and closed at $1.25, a loss of ¼c from yesterday. July flax opened unchanged at $1.26½, advanced to $1.27, went off to $1.26½, rallied to $1.27 and closed at $1.26¾, a gain of ⅜c over yesterday. October flax opened ¼c lower at $1.25¾, advanced to $1.26, went off to $1.25⅝, reacted to $1.26, declined to $1.25¾, rallied to $1.25⅞ and closed at $1.25⅝, a loss of ¼c from yesterday.

The coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Favorable Weather Conditions Causes a Weakness in Wheat.

Chicago, May 29.—Wheat was weak this morning. Weather conditions over the afflicted wheat fields were again favorable, and the effect of this was shown in a rather sharp decline at the opening. There was an immediate recovery under demand from commission houses, but the underlying tone of the market was weak as was evidenced by the decline which took place as soon as the commission house demand slackened. July opened ⅛@⅞c lower at 97⅝@98c; it advanced to 98¼c and reacted to 98⅛c. September opened ⅝@⅞c lower at 98⅜@99c, advanced to $1.00¼ and reacted to 99½c. December opened ⅝@¾c. Rains were general this morning over the country west of the Missouri river, with more predicted, and temperatures in the Northwest were reported higher. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 286 cars, compared with 384 last week. The corresponding day last year was a holiday.

Wheat showed nervousness all day, but the general tone was firm until late in the session, when profit-taking caused an easier feeling. The market closed about steady. July sold as high as 99½c and closed unchanged at 98½c. The high point for September was $1.00¾ and the close was at 98½c. December sold at $1.01¾c and closed a shade lower at $1.00½@¾.

Corn was quiet. The opening was a little easier on the continued favorable weather conditions in the West. Prices rallied sharply with wheat and the market showed more steadiness than the major market. July opened a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 52@¼c and sold up to 53¾c. Local receipts were 176 cars, with 64 of contract grade.

Corn held strong throughout the session. July advanced to 54½c and closed firm and ⅝@¾c higher at 53⅝c.

Oats were dull, but firm, the advance in wheat, following the weak opening, being the factor. July opened ¼c lower to ¼c higher at 47⅜@47¾c and advanced to 48c. Receipts not reported.

Provisions were quiet but firm, following an advance in hog prices. July pork opened 5c higher at $16.35; July lard 2½c higher at $9.10; July ribs unchanged at $8.75.

Close: Wheat—July, 98½c; September, 99⅞c. Corn—May, 54⅝c; July, 53⅝c. Oats—May, 47¾c; July, 48¼c. Pork—May, $16.20; July, $16.37½. Lard—May, $9.12½; July, $9.20. Ribs—May, $8.72½; July, $8.82½. Broomhall cables from Liverpool: There was steady tone to the wheat market at the start, although values were ⅜c lower being influenced by the weaker American cables yesterday. The more favorable weather and crop advices from both Russia and Roumania together with free offerings from the Black Sea prompted larger pit offerings which resulted in selling for profits. Later, however, the market steadied, prices advancing slightly due to the fact that America buying here.

There was a narrow market in corn. The tone was steady with values ¼c lower. The offering in America together with a good demand for spot demand stimulated amore small holders.

Logan & Bryan, Chicago—Wheat: Because of some additional rainfall in Kansas there was further attempt on the part of local bears to press the market for further decline. Commission houses absorbed the offerings and early shorts were forced to cover. The recovery of the market at the best point was nearly two cents. There is a large volume of resting orders under the market but there was no aggressive buying. Prices gradually settled back and closed about the same as yesterday. Toronto reports big foreign inquiry for wheat. It looks as if the bearish influences of what little rain fall there has been West and abroad has been discounted on the recent decline and the market now in a position for a fresh bull start if former holders attempt to replace long wheat sold out.

GREATEST SINGING CANARIES.

Chicago Tribune: Bird dealers seldom give any information about the breeding and raising of canaries, for if there was too much competition, their business, no doubt, would be affected. The bird stores buy the imported stock, commonly known as "jobbers," for $12 a dozen and sell them at an average of $2.50 each. The birds are of such a beautiful yellow and warble so sweetly at times, that the unhabituated think they are getting a bargain. To the connoisseur, however, the "chip, chip, chip," which the birds use as a finale to their warbling, would convince him in an instant of their mediocrity.

Some dealers handle many better grades of German singers, but they always are kept in a separate room from the common stock, for it is a well-known fact that birds are great imitators, and a poor bird can spoil a good singer in a short time if both are kept in the same room. The high-grade birds bring as much as $15 or $20, but few are sold in the city, the preference of most people going to the common jobber.

The greatest singing canaries in the world are bred by an American of Philadelphia, who crossed an Andresburg canary with that of another breed, which breed, however, no one ever has been able to ascertain. The secret has brought hundreds of dollars into the hands of the Pennsylvania man. Some of his birds have sold for $75.

MORAL EVOLUTION IN JAPAN.

K. Asakawa, in Atlantic Monthly: Japan, it would seem, has just entered a critical stage of her moral evolution, the early effects of which are beginning to be reflected in the conduct of certain classes of the nation. Here the question is much broader than that of the Christian church, and it is not enough to say that after the costly experience of nearly fifty years, Japan and Christianity have begun to understand each other, and that the understanding has bred sympathy among the middle classes. During these years Japan has completely transformed herself from a feudal into a constitutional state, from a secluded nation hidden among the eastern seas into a leader of the Orient, and a first power in the world's council. The transformation has, however, been partly scientific and industrial, but, above all, political, for the nation has been too busily occupied with the more urgent affairs to find leisure for a new social, spiritual and artistic development.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

But the Feeling Was Good and Close Was Firm.

List Had Healthy Tone and Standard Issues in Demand.

New York, May 29.—First prices of stocks today showed a strong rebound from yesterday's closing level. Gains ran in Baltimore & Ohio to 1¾, Anaconda, 1⅝, Union Pacific, Reading and American Smelting, 1¼. St. Paul, Canadian Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, Amalgamated Copper and American Car a point, and Pennsylvania, Northern Pacific, Brooklyn Transit and United States Steel large fractions. The market was broad and the trading showed considerable animation.

Very few selling stocks were put out on the opening advances, and after Reading and Union Pacific had reacted ½, the advance was resumed with increased vigor. Atchison, Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific, Northern Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, Brooklyn Rapid Transit, United States Steel and International Paper rose 1 to 1½. Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Rock Island preferred, Smelting, Consolidated Gas, Amalgamated Copper and Anaconda, 2¼.

The demand for stocks quited down and some reaction ensued which reached 1¾ in St. Paul and about a point in some other active stocks. Delaware & Hudson and Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie rose 2¼. Northern Pacific 2, Sloss-Sheffield Steel 2. Chesapeake & Ohio 1⅝, United States rubber first preferred 1¾, Kansas & Texas, Interborough-Metropolitan preferred, National Lead 1 and Metropolitan Street Railway 3. St. Louis, San Francisco second preferred fell 1, Central Leather preferred 2½ and Northwestern 1⅝. Bonds were irregular.

The market was left pretty well to itself between 12 and 1 o'clock, but displayed marked firmness and better prices for a few stocks. People's Gas was bid up 1, Southern Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio 2½. Sloss-Sheffield Steel preferred yielded 3 and Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis 1¼.

Progressive dullness was due largely to the unwillingness o fthe professionals to open new accounts over the holiday. New York Central lost all of its advance and several others also receded a point. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, and New York Air Brake gained 4 and Erie second preferred and United States Steel preferred 1. Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis gave way 2.

The market closed firm, but slightly below the best. Union Pacific's rise to 134 added 1⅝ to the recovery of the dividend declared today. The close was dull, but there was no important reduction of prices after the level had risen to the highest of the day. Rock Island gained 2¼, Canadian Pacific and American Smelting 3, Louisville & Nashville 2¾, Chesapeake & Ohio 2¼, and American Car 2. Southern Railway preferred 1¼ and Rock Island, Texas & Pacific, Chicago & Alton, Colorado Fuel, International Paper preferred and Westinghouse Electric 1. Reading declined 2¼. Brooklyn Union Gas 7 and Western Union and Northwestern preferred 2.

Stock Gossip.

Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: Yesterday's good feeling was reflected in today's trading and the list had a healthy tone throughout. Standard issues were in good demand. The president's speech tomorrow was the one topic of conversation and sentiment as to the outcome seems about evenly divided. There was no news of importance and no feature to the market. Would not be surprised to see the list do better, should the president's speech not be taken as unfavorable.

New York to Gay & Sturgis: There was a temporary reversal in the market from yesterday and after a rather weak opening the active issues advanced from one to two points and held very firm, the greater part of the session. London sold about 20,000 shares by balance. There was very little news to affect prices either way. No more gold was engaged for Europe and exchanges were a little more favorable to this market. There was also a break of 2 cents in wheat. On the other hand, foreign agricultural advices were not reassuring and consols sold down to the March 14 figure. Some attention was paid to these incidents and in the closing hour weakness returned and several active stocks lost pretty much. Call money 1¼ to 2 per cent.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 29.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 7 to 17 points and shortly after the call was 11 to 16 points net higher, on the active months on covering of shorts and fresh buying throughout wire and commission houses, which were attracted by bullish acreage and condition reports and encouraging Liverpool cables. There was active realizing for over the holiday tomorrow at the advance, but offerings were wellabsorbed and prices were at about the best in the middle of the morning with the tone firm and demand good in volume.

Cotton, spot closed steady, 25 points higher; middling uplands, 12.25; middling gulf, 12.75; sales, 100 bales. Futures closed firm. Copper Gossip.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: For a time today it looked as though the market had turned, but just before the close there was a fresh liquidation, and the final dealings were about the lowest. When copper was 18 cents Amalgamated sold about 95, and so on down the list; now they say copper is going off and Amalgamated is selling at 84 and weak at that. The trouble is that everybody is in a pessimistic mood and will pay no attention to anything but bearish talk, and good news is thrown to the winds. It is a very discouraging outlook at the moment, but it often looks this way when it really is at its worst.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: The Calumet & Hecla directors have declared a dividend of $20 per share on the stock to stockholders of record May 31.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market looks like better tonight. The short interest is large and will have to cover soon. I expect a rally of a few points, but see nothing to cause a prolonged upturn. A strong bear party has been depressing Greene-Cananea, but they are getting discouraged by the heavy buying around it.

Boston to Gay & Sturgis: London cables: Only trouble reported has been that of an outside financial firm with liabilities estimated at 70,000 pounds. Its difficulties have been settled by formation of an assets company to take over its holdings. There was better feeling all around in stock market and substantial recovery led by Rio Tinto and the more active American stocks, but particularly Harriman issues and B. & O., which all gained over a point. Volume of business was rather light in all departments.

THE PRODUCE MARKET.

The following prices, with the exception of those on hay, feed and meats, are the official quotations of the Duluth Produce exchange and shippers can rely upon them as being correct. The list is corrected daily by the secretary, and it shows accurately the market conditions up to 12 o'clock on the date of issue. several weeks, both by reason of the light that he is putting up against extradition, and his communications written in the jail and sent out to newspapers, and city, county and state officials, in which he takes occasion to declare he is being persecuted unjustly, and claims malfeasance in office of various well-known city and county officials.

His appeal from the order of the district court dismissing his writ of habeas corpus is now pending before the supreme court.

RESCUERS ASK FOR SALVAGE

Steamers Which Went to Rescue of Naomi Libel Vessel.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 29.—In the United States district court here today there was an echo of the Naomi disaster last week when the Crosby line steamer was burned in midlake. The Zenith Steamship company, owner of the Saxonia, and the Provident Steamship company, owner of the Kerr, the two boats that first came to the rescue of the Naomi's passengers, filed a libel against the Naomi claiming $25,000 salvage. An attachment in admiralty was issued, and Deputy United States Marshal O'Donnell went to Grand Haven to serve the papers. The action was brought on behalf of the officers and crew of the two rescuing vessels.

MAYOR CAN'T GO.

City Attorney Will Act in His Place Tomorrow.

Owing to the fact that Mayor Cullum is unwilling to be absent from the city on Memorial day, City Attorney Bert Fesler will go to Two Harbors tomorrow morning with the party which will meet the new steamer, Thomas F. Cole.

The mayor expressed his regret at being unable to assist in the little tribute to a citizen who has done so much for Duluth as Mr. Cole, but said that he had promised to attend the Memorial day services here. He accordingly delegated his authority to Mr. Fesler, and the latter will act for the mayor in handing over the symbolical key to the harbor to the captain of the new steamer.

SUPERIOR NEWS

STABBED IN THE BACK

Peddler Strikes Assailant With Whip and Comes to Grief.

Angered by a blow in the face with a whip as he was about to climb on to the wagon of Max Weiner, a Jewish peddler yesterday afternoon, a man whom the police believe to have been James Foley, now under arerst, pulled the peddler from his seat, threw him to the ground, beat and bruised him, and finally stabbed him in the back so seriously that Weiner is now lying at St. Mary's hospital in a dangerous condition as a result of the encounter. The assault occurred near the corner of Banks avenue and Twelfth street, and Mrs. Mike Mills, who resides near there, was an eye witness to the affair. She said that two men, one of whom answered the description of Foley, were sitting on the curb when Weiner drove by. One of the men called several times for him to stop, and when he did not he ran up to the rig. Weiner, according to Mrs. Mills, struck one of the men with the whip, and the assault followed.

In the meantime, Foley had been locked up on a plain drunkenness charge, but when the stabbing affair was reported to the police, the description given, at once led them to suspect that the drunk was the man wanted.

When questioned, Foley said that he had been on a drunk and did not remember what had happened during the day. Foley said that he had been in Superior only about three weeks, working nights as a switchman at the Great Northern yards.

Weiner, for some reason, did not realize that he had been stabbed until he had driven to his home, when profuse bleeding revealed a gash several inches long in his back. The ambulance was at once summoned, and he was taken to St. Mary's hospital. Weiner is about 45 years of age, and has a family of six children. Foley said he was 25 years old.

BIG REWARD OFFERED.

County Board Increases Price on Head of Murderer.

The sum of $800 is the amount of the reward now hanging over the head of the murderer of Walter O'Neil. The county board of Douglas county yesterday increased the city's offer of $500 by $200, and this with the $100 offered by Chief McKinnon on the first day after the affair, makes the total of $800.

No furthern evidence of any note has been found in regard to the case, however. A blood stained handkerchief was found on the ground a few feet from the car, where the body was found yesterday, but as the car was moved to this spot some time after the death of the O'Neil boy must have occurred, the police do not think that it has any connection with the crime. An effort is being made to trace the boy and locate some of his companions. The police feel that boys who know something of Walter's whereabout on the afternoon of his disappearance are withholding valuable information for fear of becoming implicated in the affair.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

Dr. Bradford Says He Did Not Steal Harness Rings.

Dr. B. I. Bradford, who was arrested yesterday on a charge of petty larceny, was arraigned in municipal court this morning, and pleaded not guilty. His case was set for Saturday, and bail at $100.

B. E. Borgman was the complaining witness against Bradford, and claimed that Bradford had stolen four strings of harness rings, valued at about $5.

The store of the Grand Union Tea Company, Fourteenth street and Tower avenue, was broken into last night and about $7 removed from the money drawer. The police have no clue as to the perpetrator of the robbery.

Mail Carrier Wants Reward.

J. M. Cotey, a Superior letter carrier, has filed a demand with Mayor Linley of Superior for the $250 reward offered by a newspaper for the arrest of Mrs. Stens Jemuzek, who kidnaped a Minneapolis baby more than a week ago.

The woman was arrested Sunday morning by Detective Dill of the Superior police department, but the letter carrier claims that he furnished the police with information which led to the arrest. The police deny it, saying that when Cotey telephoned his information, Detective Dill walked into the station with the woman and the missing baby.

Exercises in Schools.

Delegations from Alonzo Palmer post, G. A. R., visited the different Superior schools where Memorial day exercises were held, yesterday afternoon.

The pupils of the Kimball, Lincoln, Cooper and Nelson-Dewey schools gave interesting program. The exercises at the Lincoln school began at 10:30 a. m., and consisted of patriotic songs and recitations by the pupils. Members of Palmer post gave short talks. Similar exercises began at the Kimball school at 10. The Cooper building held its exercises last evening.

Three rooms at the Nelson-Dewey school collaborated on a program, which began at 2:30 p. m.

Important Meeting.

A meeting is being held this afternoon at the office of the city attorney, and the mayor, city attorney and members of the finance committee of the city council will be present and an attempt will be made to arrive at a decision to settle the outstanding bonded indebtedness of the city.

FLAGS AT HALF MAST

Every Loyal Citizen Should Observe Memorial Day Custom.

Line of March of Parade Changed at Last Moment.

Decorate this evening!

Every American flag in the city of Duluth should be flying at half mast tomorrow.

Never before has there been such a spirit of patriotism and of honor to the heroes of the Civil war as is manifested this year. The Citizens' auxiliary has done much to stimulate this spirit, and tomorrow, whatever the weather may be should be a Memorial day long remembered in Dultuh.

Until 12 o'clock flags should remain at half mast out of respect to the memory of the dead soldiers, and after that hour they should be raised to the top of the staff in honor of the living defenders of the country.

All the other arrangements are complete, and the citizens are asked to co-operate with the veterans and the Citizens' auxiliary in this respect. It is hoped that every public building, store and residence in Duluth will have some kind of a flag floating tomorrow.

Late this afternoon, the committee in charge of the Memorial Day parade, decided to change the line of march as announced this morning. The new line will be down Second avenue east and along Superior street, instead of First street, as previously announced.

Mayor Cullum has issued an order to the police to clear the street of all carriages, automobiles, etc., during the parade and the motormen on the street cars will be requested to exercise due diligence.

Arrangements are being made for a detachment of some 300 to 400 Herald newsboys to participate in the parade tomorrow. The boys will meet at The Herald building at 9 o'clock in the morning. The arrangements include the West Duluth and the West end newsboys.

It is hoped that from 1,000 to 1,500 boys, in all, will take part in the parade tomorrow, and every boy in the city is invited to turn out.

Col. Heller of the Sons of Veterans, this afternoon, extended an invitation to all sons of veterans whether members of the order or not, to turn out and join the members in the parade.

Kodol for Indigestion and Dyspepsia not only digests what you eat, it tones the stomach and adds strength to the whole body. Sold by all druggists.

ATTENTION
Spanish-American Veterans

At the request of Maj. H. V. Eva, all veterans of the Spanish-American War are invited to meet at the Armory at 9 a. m. Memorial Day, to act as escort to the G. A. R. and participate in the parade.

COST IS NOT PROHIBITIVE

$4,500 Would Put Piedmont Avenue in Shape for Cars.

E. K. Coe of the city engineering department yesterday went over the line of the proposed street car extension on Piedmont avenue west, between Third street and Twenty-fourth avenue, with a view to estimating the cost of regrading the street in order to make it practicable to run street cars thereon. Basing his figures on the supposition that a 9 per cent grade is permissible, Mr. Coe has submitted a report saying that the probable cost of the work would be $4,500. The average grade of the avenue is all right, but one or two blocks are slightly steeper than would be practical.

Between Fourth and Fifth streets and between Sixth and Seventh streets are the steepest portions of the work, and the grade over about one-third of a mile on the avenue will have to be slightly altered.

Should the Duluth Street Railway company express a willingness to make the extension if the street were brought to grade the cost of the charge as estimated by Mr. Coe, would probably not be prohibitive, although the conditions of the permanent improvement fund would hardly warrant the expenditure of this amount this year.

It has been pointed out that the street car line would be enough of a benefit to the owners of the property along the line of the extension to warrant their paying a portion of the expense, and it will probably be recommended, if it is decided to push the matter, that a petition should be circulated among them for the resurfacing of the avenue. Should they pay for this portion of the work and the city pay for the grading only, the expense to the permanent improvement fund would be cut in half.

The street car people are reluctant in expressing themselves for publication along this line, but when an informal survey was made of the line of the extension some time ago by City Engineer McGilvray in company with Manager Warren of the street car company, Mr. McGilvray stated that he thought there would be no difficulty in inducing the company to make the extension if it were demonstrated that the grades were practical. The line would serve a big territory and would be a paying investment from the start, and the development which it would bring to the territory reached would still further assist along this line.

FORTUNES IN THE AIR.

St. Nicholas: "It is not gold, silver nor copper—no, nor diamonds, either—that will make the great fortunes of the future. It is the hidden power in the air, the water and the sunshine, which will build up the wealth of the next few centuries."

This statement was made not long ago by a mining engineer of world-wide reputation. The value of water power, wind power and sun power as commercial factors is indeed just beginning to be realized. It is estimated that throughout the world about 2,000,000 electrical horse-power is generated today from waterfalls and streams. More than one-quarter of this great horsepower is generated in the United States with Canada second and Switzerland third.

At the lowest estimate it would require some 25,000,000 tons of coal to generate 2,000,000 horse-power continuously by the ordinary steam engine, and allowing $5 a ton for the cost of coal, this would represent a saving of $125,000,000. There are thousands of streams capable of producing from 10 to 50,000 or more horse-power; a few others, like Niagara, the Victoria Falls in South Africa and innumerable falls of the Mississippi, the Colorado and the Missouri, with powers in this direction that seem unlimited. If every part of the mighty torrent of Niagara was harnessed it would easily generate sufficient electrical power to do do all the work of this country. But Niagara is no greater than Victoria Falls, in the heart of Africa—some say not so great in its unmeasured possibilities.

The value of a stream for power purposes depends upon the amount of water flowing and also upon its head—that is, the height of its fall, whether in a sudden cataract, or in rushing down a slope; and so the small mountain stream which tumbles noisily down steep slopes and gullies is often worth more than the broad, sluggish river that flows through low, level stretches of country. One cubic foot of water a second may equal in energy the total stored energy of many tons of coal. What is even more wonderful, a stream can be made to operate an electric pump which in turn will pump the stream itself to levels where ordinary irrigation ditches could not conduct it. In other words, the water could be used twice, first for generating electric power, and second for irrigating our farms. Electricity could be made to light and heat the homes of the city and country population and run the threshing machines and reapers of the farmer as well as turn the wheels of the cars and factories.

The use of wind power for mechanical purposes is older than that of any other. But a windmill for electrical generation is one of the most recent of accomplishments. The first windmill electric plant ever installed in this or any other country was built privately by Dr. Charles F. Brush, the inventor of the arc lamp, in 1889 at his home in Cleveland for the purpose of lighting his house and laboratory. In Europe commercial windmill electrical plants have been built. One such plant, established at Wittkell, in Schleswig, lights the town and another windmill plant at Hamburg has been successfully used in running a factory. A windmill electric plant at Bayle Hall, Ardsley, in England, has a capacity for running 110 lights in winter.

CHILDREN CLEAN STREETS.

The Pierce school, in Brookline, Mass., has solved the problem of littered streets, insofar as the children of that school are concerned.

At first an attempt was made to abstract teaching, says the Boston Transcript, but it was without effect. Then something practical was devised. Each room held an election and selected four representatives for the Good Citizens' club, making about fifty in all.

These met and selected officers, divided up the streets of the neighborhood and assigned a portion of each grade, making it absolutely responsible for conditions in its territory. Waste receptacles were needed and the children interviewed the assistant superintendent of streets and got them.

To keep up interest the teachers are conducted by the various squads over what they call their "beats." Healthy emulation has produced most desirable results.

Cleanliness and freedom from possible contagion made it necessary that the children should not handle dirty paper, skins of fruit and other refuse with their fingers, so the manual training teacher got some volunteers from the club and collecting sticks were prepared for the workers.

The results of the experiment are manifest, and many favorable comments have come in from citizens and from the officials of the street department. School papers, which may easily be detected, are rarely found on the streets. It is observed, however, that refuse from other sources continues about the same, and it is thought it will probably remain so until the adults learn from the children or until the younger generation takes the places of the present careless one.

The principal of the school says that one thing is certain; the members of the Good Citizens' club of that Pierce school who have lent their backs 2,000 times in the course of a single week to pick up papers can never in the whole course of their lives look upon scattered papers in our streets with indifference.

You are an exceptional person if you have "nothing to sell;" and an eccentric person if you think to sell to good advantage without using Herald want ads.

San Francisco, May 30.—According to to the figures based on an investigation conducted by Harbor Commissioner W. V. Stafford, there are approximately 40,000 persons idle in San Francisco as the direct result of the existing labor troubles. Stafford, who was formerly state labor commissioner, has submitted the following report to Governor Gillette:

"The San Francisco Musicians' union has a membership of 900. At this time but fifty are working regularly. The majority of the members in the union are taking turn about for this employment.

"Of about 6,000 clerks and salesmen in retail stores, 2,000 are out of employment and those that are working get two days on weekly, some with and some without pay.

"There are 12,000 iron workers, 2,000 carmen, 500 telephone girls and 1,500 laundry workers out on strike.

Ten thousand men of the building trades are out of work through strikes, lack of material and lack of money.

Three hundred laundry wagon drivers are out of employment as a result of the laundrymen's strike.

"Up to a year ago architects took draftsmen that could not speak English and were glad to get them. Now there are four or five applicants in each office every day.

"The restaurant business is cut in half and the help diminished proportionately.

Four thousand laborers on street railroad work are laid off. They walk the streets in droves looking for work and congest the employment offices."

The Chinese gunboat Sumhong, having on board the Fifteenth regiment of Chinese troops, has sailed from here for Swatow, to defend that city against a possible attack on the part of the rebels.

TOT PLAYS WITH FIRE WITH USUAL RESULT.

Little Falls, Minn., May 30.—Playing with the fire may cost Anlli Nelson, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson of this city her life. The child was very seriously burned Wednesday while poking a piece of wood into the fire.

While the mother had gone out to hang up some clothes the child found a long sliver of wood which she poked into the kitchen stove. Seeing it blaze up she withdrew the stick and soon her cotton dress was ablaze. Mrs. Nelson, hearing a scream rushed into the house, grasped the babe and dropped her into a barrel of rain water. The burns and breast are serious and it is doubtful if she can survive.

HALE OPERATED ON.

Baltimore, May 30.—The condition of Senator Eugene Hale of Maine, who yesterday underwent an operation at Johns Hopkins hospital, was today pronounced to be favorable.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED IN A MORE FITTING MANNER THAN EVER BEFORE

Memorial Day!

A day of sentiment—of memories—of the finer impulses which spring in every loyal American heart.

It is not the empty show which the true patriot sees. The parades, the music, the speeches, the ceremonies are but symbolical. Back of them there is something deeper—more sacred. There is that unfaltering stiffnecked independence and the true, warm love of country which led men to risk their lives for an opinion and a flag.

The Grim Reaper is decimating the ranks of the veterans. One by one they are slipping away to join their comrades, and year by year their numbers are growing less. Five years—ten years—fifteen years perhaps and the last of them will have crossed The Great Divide. But the spirit they have fostered will never die. Everywhere the words "Grand Army" are synonymous for "patriotism." Perhaps the eyes of the veterans may be growing dim, but their mental vision is clear, and they see the things that are most worth while. They see beyond the race for wealth, and the hurry and bustle of the busy daily struggle, to the beautiful things of life; and first among these they see the love of home and country. This is the spirit they are striving to hand down to posterity, and never before has Duluth caught the spirit as it has this year. Young and old alike are uniting to honor the memory of the dead heroes, and the day is less of a holiday and more of a day of tribute than ever before.

The Memorial day parade, by far the largest and most imposing military and civic pageant ever witnessed in Duluth, started promptly at 9:30 o'clock from the Armory at Second avenue east and First street, proceeded down Second avenue east to Superior street, and westward to Seventh avenue west.

The largest contingent, and by far the most enthusiastic, was the boys' staff of the G. A. R., as the school boys were called. Thousands of them, ranging from 5 and 6 years to 19 and 20 years of age, with flags flying, four abreast, joined in the parade of honor of the old soldiers.

The militia and the naval reserves made a splendid appearance, and bore themselves throughout with characteristic soldierly mien.

The inspiring strains of the Third Regiment band and the stirring martial music of the Willis Gorman Post Drum corps were two of the best features of the parade.

Crowds of Spectators.

Thousands of people lined both sides of the avenue and street from the Armory to Fifth and Sixth avenues west, easily the largest and most enthusiastic crowd that has ever turned out in Duluth to do honor to the nation's heroes.

The surviving veterans of the Civil war, many of whom have now passed that milestone in age when a march of even a few blocks is something of exertion, put away all thoughts of any hardship and marched erect and with firm tread down the streets between applauding thousands. Flags were waved and hats raised in honor of the nation's defenders as they passed.

Gorman post had sixty men in line, and Culver post had twenty-six men.

Following was the order of the parade:

SOME INCIDENTS RECALLED BY VETERANS.

"In the spring of 1862 when Gen. Banks crossed the Potomac at Harper's Ferry for the purpose of reconnoitering down the Shenandoah, the whole army went as far as Charlestown and then the brigade commanded by Gen. Willis A. Gorman, the first colonel of the First Minnesota, was detailed over to Berryville to occupy the turnpike road which runs from Winchester to Snicker's gap," said Capt. T. H. Pressnell. "Our brigade, consisting of the First Minnesota, the Fifteenth Massachusetts, Thirty-fourth and Eighty-second New York, entered the village just before dark and soon disposed the small body of cavalry stationed there.

"The men bivouacked in the roads near the village and to prevent pillaging in the town Gen. Gorman immediately placed a number of safe guards all through the streets. One of these guards was placed in front of the office of the Berryville Conservator, the village newspaper. In our regiment there were a number of printers who had formed an association called the Typographical Fraternity of the First Minnesota, which was very prominent in the social affairs of the regiment.

"The first night we were in town I had a camp leave of absence, and going down the streets of the village noticed the printing office, and the idea struck me that it would be a good thing for the boys of the association to take possession and issue a paper, provided we could get permission of the proper authorities. I eluded the guard in front of the shop and entered by the way of one of the winodws. It was one of the best equipped little printing offices I had ever seen, and I found that the outside page of the next issue of the paper had already been printed and lay on the 'bank.' Everything was in good shape, and I concluded to get the rest of the boys together and get out a paper.

"I left the office and soon met Ed A. Stevens, now a resident of Minneapolis, and Frank J. Mead, now editorial writer on the New York Post, and they agreed to go into the deal with me. We went to the general's headquarters and soon had an order to take possession of the printing office and go ahead getting out a paper. We asked Ole Nelson, Charles S. Drake and Julian J. Kendall, who are now dead, and Henry W. Lindergreen, who is now a publisher in Ohio, to assist us, and soon took over the whole plant.

"As our time was somewhat limited, we used the outside part of the edition, which had already been printed for the Conservator and printed the first edition of the 'First Minnesota' on the other side. The next morning they were distributed among the soldiers and brought all kinds of prices from 5 cents to a dollar each. As the command was required to remain another day we issued a half sheet edition on March 12, the first one having been printed on March 11. On March 13 we started work on another, but orders came to march and we returned to Charlestown.

"Copies of the paper are now a very scarce article, and are worth a good deal in these days. The first page of the issue was reproduced in a well known New York magazine with the pictures of the printers and the office a number of years ago.

"One of the incidents of the Civil war that comes to my mind quite vividly," says Capt. Asa Dailey of Gorman Post G. A. R., who was a member of Company A, Thirteenth Wisconsin Volunteer infantry during the rebellion, "happened at Paducah, Ky., in the fall of 1864.

"Three companies, A, B and K, of our regiment, comprising all told about 400 men, had been detailed with some Iowa regiments to suppress the Indian outbreak in the Northwest. After it was over, we were ordered to join our regiment with Gen. Sherman at Nashville.

"We had reached Paducah by rail and boat and were waiting there to take a boat down the river to Louisville, expecting to go from there to Nashville.

"Just about that time, Gen. Hood, who, with his Confederate soldiers, had been practically living off the country, determined to capture Paducah, which was at the junction of the Tennessee river with the Ohio river and quite a strategic point.

"We had with us a detachment of a colored battery and ten miles out of Paducah, on the pike, lay the U. S. colored cavalry.

"Somehow the force of 1,200 men that Hood sent out against us had gone around the cavalry on another pike, and early on the morning of Nov. 3 they appeared before Paducah. An officer was sent under a flag of truce to demand our surrender, but our commanding officer sent back word that if the rebs wanted Paducah it was up to them to come and take it.

"They tried it all right. The way they came over the hill and into the town was a sight never to be forgotten. We were ordered to support the colored battery and, though inferior in numbers, fought stubbornly all day without giving an inch. Along in the afternoon the rebels were breaking up, when the U. S. colored cavalry, attracted by the noise of the fighting, hove in sight like a whirlwind. Those black soldiers, 1,200 of them, all mounted on black horses, went through the rebel lines and completed the demoralization. We rounded up 600 prisoners that night.

"This was the presidential election day, 1864, and the boys were all anxious to get back to Paducah to vote. We put those prisoners through at a double quick and reached Paducah about an hour before the polls closed.

"As quickly as possible the men lined up in companies to vote, when a civilian, who was working in opposition to Abraham Lincoln, stepped out and declared that the left platoon could not vote. The average age of the company was less than 21 years. I was only 19 years old at that time. Our captain walked up to the fellow and demanded the reason. He was told that we were too young to vote.

"I will never forget what followed. Drawing his sword our captain shouted, 'I want you to understand that these boys have been with me since 1862, fighting like men. If they are old enough to fight they are old enough to vote and by —— if you try to stop them I'll cut your arm off.'

"The captain's announcement was greeted with a tremendous cheer and every mother's son of us voted, and voted for 'Abe' Lincoln."

"Patriotism is a magic word," said Ernest R. Jefferson. "Its meaning is not the same to everybody. Civilians of today hardly understand its full significance. That is because they never have been where examples of patriotism stood out with the vividness of a gunshot flash in the night.

"Almost any veteran of the Civil war can cite scores of instances where has has witnessed devotion to country, which stamped the true import of the term indelibly upon his mind, making him appreciate more clearly than the average person the fitness of observing Memorial day, with the beautiful sentiment that goes with it.

"I think the greatest example of patriotism I ever saw was immediately following the battle of Gettysburg. At least it made a deeper impression on my mind than any other I ever witnessed. At best the story is a simple one. The sight of such things is always more impressive than any mere word description, you know.

"I was among the wounded in a strip of woods that had been turned into an impromptu hospital. All the wounded were lying under the trees, exposed to the elements. They had absolutely no covering. There were 12,000 to 15,000 of them. It was July 4. It was a sad Independence day for the thousands writhing there on the ground.

"Fighting had been going on for three days. Confederates and Union soldiers alike were intermingled. The Union men were in the big majority, however.

"To add to the pitifulness of the scene, the weather was nasty. There had been rains and winds. The men were soaked to the skin. They were dying every minute. Wounds were of all kinds and all stages of severity. Some of the soldiers were suffering untold agony, while others merely had a bullet in arm or leg. And then came the news that made all forget, momentarily, their individual troubles and sufferings.

"A man came riding through the camp, spreading the news of the victory of the Union army at Gettysburg. In the same breath he told of the surrender of Vicksburg. It was the first intelligence we had of how the battle was going. Before that we had no idea what direction the fortunes of war were taking. But the news changed all that. We knew that the North was victorious. Forgetting their misery, their pain, and everything else in the world, men in tattered blue uniforms leaped to their feet and shouted and cheered in a perfect frenzy of joy. Hats, cups, plates and anything that came to hand were thrown in the air.

"The news spread down the line with the rapidity of an express train. Men who could not stand up feebly raised themselves on one elbow, waving their free hand in the air and shouting themselves hoarse, perhaps only to fall back the next instant dead, but happy in the knowledge of victory. Every boy in blue was alike affected, while the boys in gray leaned back wearily and smiled their friendliness at the Northerners."

TOT PLAYS WITH FIRE WITH USUAL RESULT.

Little Falls, Minn., May 30.—Playing with the fire may cost Anlli Nelson, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson of this city her life. The child was very seriously burned Wednesday while poking a piece of wood into the fire.

While the mother had gone out to hang up some clothes the child found a long sliver of wood which she poked into the kitchen stove. Seeing it blaze up she withdrew the stick and soon her cotton dress was ablaze. Mrs. Nelson, hearing a scream rushed into the house, grasped the babe and dropped her into a barrel of rain water. The burns and breast are serious and it is doubtful if she can survive.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED IN A MORE FITTING MANNER THAN EVER BEFORE

Memorial Day!

A day of sentiment—of memories—of the finer impulses which spring in every loyal American heart.

It is not the empty show which the true patriot sees. The parades, the music, the speeches, the ceremonies are but symbolical. Back of them there is something deeper—more sacred. There is that unfaltering stiffnecked independence and the true, warm love of country which led men to risk their lives for an opinion and a flag.

The Grim Reaper is decimating the ranks of the veterans. One by one they are slipping away to join their comrades, and year by year their numbers are growing less. Five years—ten years—fifteen years perhaps and the last of them will have crossed The Great Divide. But the spirit they have fostered will never die. Everywhere the words "Grand Army" are synonymous for "patriotism." Perhaps the eyes of the veterans may be growing dim, but their mental vision is clear, and they see the things that are most worth while. They see beyond the race for wealth, and the hurry and bustle of the busy daily struggle, to the beautiful things of life; and first among these they see the love of home and country. This is the spirit they are striving to hand down to posterity, and never before has Duluth caught the spirit as it has this year. Young and old alike are uniting to honor the memory of the dead heroes, and the day is less of a holiday and more of a day of tribute than ever before.

The Memorial day parade, by far the largest and most imposing military and civic pageant ever witnessed in Duluth, started promptly at 9:30 o'clock from the Armory at Second avenue east and First street, proceeded down Second avenue east to Superior street, and westward to Seventh avenue west.

The largest contingent, and by far the most enthusiastic, was the boys' staff of the G. A. R. as the school boys were called. Thousands of them, ranging from 5 and 6 years to 19 and 20 years of age, with flags flying, four abreast, joined in the parade of honor of the old soldiers.

The militia and the naval reserves made a splendid appearance, and bore themselves throughout with characteristic soldierly mien.

The inspiring strains of the Third Regiment band and the stirring martial music of the Willis Gorman Post Drum corps were two of the best features of the parade.

Crowds of Spectators.

Thousands of people lined both sides of the avenue and street from the Armory to Fifth and Sixth avenues west, easily the largest and most enthusiastic crowd that has ever turned out in Duluth to do honor of the nation's heroes.

The surviving veterans of the Civil war, many of whom have now passed that milestone in age when a march of even a few blocks is something of exertion, put away all thoughts of any hardship and marched erect and with firm tread down the streets between applauding thousands. Flags were waved and hats raised in honor of the nation's defenders as they passed.

Gorman post had sixty men in line, and Culver post had twenty-six men.

Following was the order of the parade:

SOME INCIDENTS RECALLED BY VETERANS.

"In the spring of 1862 when Gen. Banks crossed the Potomac at Harper's Ferry for the purpose of reconnoitering down the Shenandoah, the whole army went as far as Charlestown and then the brigade commanded by Gen. Willis A. Gorman, the first colonel of the First Minnesota, was detailed over to Berryville to occupy the turnpike road which runs from Winchester to Snicker's gap," said Capt. T. H. Pressnell. "Our brigade, consisting of the First Minnesota, the Fifteenth Massachusetts, Thirty-fourth and Eighty-second New York, entered the village just before dark and soon disposed the small body of cavalry stationed there.

"The men bivouacked in the roads near the village and to prevent pillaging in the town Gen. Gorman immediately placed a number of safe guards all through the streets. One of these guards was placed in front of the office of the Berryville Conservator, the village newspaper. In our regiment there were a number of printers who had formed an association called the Typographical Fraternity of the First Minnesota, which was very prominent in the social affairs of the regiment.

"The first night we were in town I had a camp leave of absence, and going down the streets of the village noticed the printing office, and the idea struck me that it would be a good thing for the boys of the association to take possession and issue a paper, provided we could get permission of the proper authorities. I eluded the guard in front of the shop and entered by the way of one of the winodws. It was one of the best equipped little printing offices I had ever seen, and I found that the outside page of the next issue of the paper had already been printed and lay on the 'bank.' Everything was in good shape, and I concluded to get the rest of the boys together and get out a paper.

"I left the office and soon met Ed A. Stevens, now a resident of Minneapolis, and Frank J. Mead, now editorial writer on the New York Post, and they agreed to go into the deal with me. We went to the general's headquarters and soon had an order to take possession of the printing office and go ahead getting out a paper. We asked Ole Nelson, Charles S. Drake and Julian J. Kendall, who are now dead, and Henry W. Lindergreen, who is now a publisher in Ohio, to assist us, and soon took over the whole plant.

"As our time was somewhat limited, we used the outside part of the edition, which had already been printed for the Conservator and printed the first edition of the 'First Minnesota' on the other side. The next morning they were distributed among the soldiers and brought all kinds of prices from 5 cents to a dollar each. As the command was required to remain another day we issued a half sheet edition on March 12, the first one having been printed on March 11. On March 13 we started work on another, but orders came to march and we returned to Charlestown.

"Copies of the paper are now a very scarce article, and are worth a good deal in these days. The first page of the issue was reproduced in a well known New York magazine with the pictures of the printers and the office a number of years ago.

"One of the incidents of the Civil war that comes to my mind quite vividly," says Capt. Asa Dailey of Gorman Post G. A. R., who was a member of Company A, Thirteenth Wisconsin Volunteer infantry during the rebellion, "happened at Paducah, Ky., in the fall of 1864.

"Three companies, A, B and K, of our regiment, comprising all told about 400 men, had been detailed with some Iowa regiments to suppress the Indian outbreak in the Northwest. After it was over, we were ordered to join our regiment with Gen. Sherman at Nashville.

"We had reached Paducah by rail and boat and were waiting there to take a boat down the river to Louisville, expecting to go from there to Nashville.

"Just about that time, Gen. Hood, who, with his Confederate soldiers, had been practically living off the country, determined to capture Paducah, which was at the junction of the Tennessee river with the Ohio river and quite a strategic point.

"We had with us a detachment of a colored battery and ten miles out of Paducah, on the pike, lay the U. S. colored cavalry.

"Somehow the force of 1,200 men that Hood sent out against us had gone around the cavalry on another pike, and early on the morning of Nov. 3 they appeared before Paducah. An officer was sent under a flag of truce to demand our surrender, but our commanding officer sent back word that if the rebs wanted Paducah it was up to them to come and take it.

"They tried it all right. The way they came over the hill and into the town was a sight never to be forgotten. We were ordered to support the colored battery and, though inferior in numbers, fought stubbornly all day without giving an inch. Along in the afternoon the rebels were breaking up, when the U. S. colored cavalry, attracted by the noise of the fighting, hove in sight like a whirlwind. Those black soldiers, 1,200 of them, all mounted on black horses, went through the rebel lines and completed the demoralization. We rounded up 600 prisoners that night.

"This was the presidential election day, 1864, and the boys were all anxious to get back to Paducah to vote. We put those prisoners through at a double quick and reached Paducah about an hour before the polls closed.

"As quickly as possible the men lined up in companies to vote, when a civilian, who was working in opposition to Abraham Lincoln, stepped out and declared that the left platoon could not vote. The average age of the company was less than 21 years. I was only 19 years old at that time. Our captain walked up to the fellow and demanded the reason. He was told that we were too young to vote.

"I will never forget what followed. Drawing his sword our captain shouted, 'I want you to understand that these boys have been with me since 1862, fighting like men. If they are old enough to fight they are old enough to vote and by —— if you try to stop them I'll cut your arm off.'

"The captain's announcement was greeted with a tremendous cheer and every mother's son of us voted, and voted for 'Abe' Lincoln."

"Patriotism is a magic word," said Ernest R. Jefferson. "Its meaning is not the same to everybody. Civilians of today hardly understand its full significance. That is because they never have been where examples of patriotism stood out with the vividness of a gunshot flash in the night.

"Almost any veteran of the Civil war can cite scores of instances where has has witnessed devotion to country, which stamped the true import of the term indelibly upon his mind, making him appreciate more clearly than the average person the fitness of observing Memorial day, with the beautiful sentiment that goes with it.

"I think the greatest example of patriotism I ever saw was immediately following the battle of Gettysburg. At least it made a deeper impression on my mind than any other I ever witnessed. At best the story is a simple one. The sight of such things is always more impressive than any mere word description, you know.

"I was among the wounded in a strip of woods that had been turned into an impromptu hospital. All the wounded were lying under the trees, exposed to the elements. They had absolutely no covering. There were 12,000 to 15,000 of them. It was July 4. It was a sad Independence day for the thousands writhing there on the ground.

"Fighting had been going on for three days. Confederates and Union soldiers alike were intermingled. The Union men were in the big majority, however.

"To add to the pitifulness of the scene, the weather was nasty. There had been rains and winds. The men were soaked to the skin. They were dying every minute. Wounds were of all kinds and all stages of severity. Some of the soldiers were suffering untold agony, while others merely had a bullet in arm or leg. And then came the news that made all forget, momentarily, their individual troubles and sufferings.

"A man came riding through the camp, spreading the news of the victory of the Union army at Gettysburg. In the same breath he told of the surrender of Vicksburg. It was the first intelligence we had of how the battle was going. Before that we had no idea what direction the fortunes of war were taking. But the news changed all that. We knew that the North was victorious. Forgetting their misery, their pain, and everything else in the world, men in tattered blue uniforms leaped to their feet and shouted and cheered in a perfect frenzy of joy. Hats, cups, plates and anything that came to hand were thrown in the air.

"The news spread down the line with the rapidity of an express train. Men who could not stand up feebly raised themselves on one elbow, waving their free hand in the air and shouting themselves hoarse, perhaps only to fall back the next instant dead, but happy in the knowledge of victory. Every boy in blue was alike affected, while the boys in gray leaned back wearily and smiled their friendliness at the Northerners."

"They, at Least, Are In Perfect Peace. The Cause Over Which They Struggled Is at An End."—Gov. Hubbard, Vicksburg.

First division commanded by Maj. F. E. Resche—Third Infantry Band; Companies A and C, Third Infantry, Minnesota National Guard; Naval Reserves; Spanish American War Veterans; citizens' staff.

Second division, Marshal Charles Alden Smith—High school staff; school boys, drum corps, Sons of Veterans, Willis A. Gorman Post No. 13; Joshua B. Culver Post No. 123; carriages.

Old Soldiers in Carriages.

The second division was followed by carriages containing old soldiers, who, because of their age or health, were unable to march.

The guard of honor comprised about a hundred of Duluth's representative citizens.

As the head of the column proceeded to Seventh avenue west the old soldiers halted at Fifth avenue west and lined up in front of the Spalding hotel, the procession countermarching and passing in review, officers and men saluting as they passed and the citizens' staff raising their hats.

After the parade the veterans and their friends proceeded to the Lyceum for the exercises.

Assembly call by the bugler was followed by the invocation by Rev. Roderick J. Mooney, a selection by Willis A. Gorman Post Drum Corps, a song by the Glee club and the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address by John H. Norton, one of the Sons of Veterans.

Mrs. Annie Farrell Ball rendered "Star Spangled Banner," and Miss Effie Brotherton, the "Daughter of Gorman Post," recited "The Tramp of Sherman's Army." The exercises closed with the audience singing "America."

Mr. Powell's address was as follows:

"As he stood on the site of one of the fiercest and bloodiest battle of history, the great-hearted Lincoln could not fail to see that the significance of the war lay deeper than the question of state rights, deeper even that the problem of human slavery; that the real issue was the possibility of political liberty, of government of the people, by the people and for the people. And he saw, what we are coming more and more to see, that the price paid by the heroes of Gettysburg and their fellows of a hundred battlefields, is the last full measure of a devotion which all must yield, a price which all must pay, if a nation like ours, 'conceived in liberty and dedicated to equality,' shall long endure.

"It is inevitable that with the passing years a day like this should lose the quality of personal grief in which it had its rise, and should take on a broader and more universal significance. The generation which fought, the war has passed away. The ranks of the veterans are growing thinner each year and it is with profund sorrow that some of us who remember the days when these gray and worn old men were in the prime of life, realize that they will not always be with us. The tragedy and heartbreak of the wartime is but a tradition to most of us; to the stranger within our gates it is less than that. If Memorial day is not therefore to sink into a mere commonplace holiday ,we must look within, to the hidden meaning of the patriot's sacrifice, that in the time to come Americans of whatever parentage may learn from this day a better citizenship.

"In a Jewish household of the present time, when the feast of the Passover is observed, the youngest child of the household asks, 'What mean ye by this feast?' In reply the head of the family recites the wonderful story, how, in the olden time, for the sake of the blood of the lintel and the doorposts, the angel of the Lord passed over the houses of the Israelites in Egypt when the firstborn of the Egyptians were slain; and how in this manner He bought all the firstborn of Israel for Himself. In like manner should this day be for a memorial throughout all our generations, to tell to the end of time how, by the blood of a great sacrifice God hath bought this people for Himself, to work out among the nations of the earth the problems of human freedom. It is fitting that we celebrate the birthday of our independence, and on the Fourth of July rejoice in the favor of God vouchsafed us hitherto. But this is the day which should teach us the meaning and the cost of our liberty, the responsibilities of our blessings; that in the words of the martyred president, we shall 'be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us; that we here highly resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain.'

Tribute to Dead.

"Before, however, I shall speak at length of the message of this day to the American people, I may be permitted to lay my wreath upon the tombs of the nation's soldier dead. And to pay my tribute to their comrades who still survive. Ladies and gentlemen, it is easy for those to whom a great tragedy is but a tale that is told, to be thoughtless or even impatient of the emotion of those to whom it is the heart of reality. In these days, when nine-tenths of the American people either were born since the war, or have come to our shores from foreign lands; it is easy to look with a rather pitying superiority upon the jealousy with which the Grand Army of the Republic has guarded the honor of the old soldier. But we must not forget that while to us the Civil war has been hid beneath the pressing burden of our own problems and our own tragedies, it was none the less the greatest event in our history since Washington; and had it not been for the self-forgetful valor of those men, this nation today, instead of holding the proud position we boast as the arbiter of the world's peace, would have been but a loose aggregation of petty states, or at best a twin sisterhood of struggling federations, torn with mutual jealousy and forgotten of the world. These men saved the Union, and when their task was finished, with a devotion and singleheartedness no less signal than their valor, they laid down their arms and gave themselves to the duties of peace. Whether, therefore, they died on the field of battle, or survived till yesterday, let us lay upon their graves the flowers of our love and veneration, thanking God for the example they have left to us of patriotic devotion. And as we behold the thinning ranks of their surviving comrades, let us in all sincerity delight to do them reverence, and bring their gray hairs down in honor to the grave.

Message of the Day.

"When, like the child in the Jewish household, we ask the meaning of this festival, and seek to pass behind the story that it tells, to know the deeper message, among other things there are three which seem to me of chief importance, and of these I would speak today.

"The first is the solidarity of the American people. The first purpose of the war was to preserve the Union. It was the culmination of the old struggle between state rights and the idea of a centralized government. Webster had prayed for 'liberty and union, now and forever, one and inseparable.' Lincoln had said to the slave-holding states, 'we won't go out of the Union, and you shan't.' Lee, believing secession to be an error, sadly followed his state into war against the nation. Honest patriots had differed on this deep problem. But the logic of events lay beneath the supreme court decisions of John Marshall, the hope of Daniel Webster, and the determination of Lincoln. It was not merely that liberty was possible in conjunction with union, but rather that liberty was impossible without union. The American states were one people; their problems were one, their interests were one, their character at bottom was one. France, at the end of the eighteenth century, had tried to establish liberty, equality and fraternity, but on the basis of disunion, that every man should do what was right in his own eyes. The end thereof was the reign of terror and the empire of Napoleon.

"The American colonies, during the Revolution, had been surrendered by mutual jealousies and distrust, but they were held together by the gigantic personality of Washington, and by the exigencies of a common defence. When the Revolutionry war was ended, however, it was seen that there must be a closer bond if their common interests were to be protected and their common destiny achieved. Out of this sense of national oneness, the constitution was born. The several states were not yet united, however. The gulf which separated the freedom-loving North from the slave-holding South grew deeper. In the Roman forum, ages ago, such a chasm yawned. The oracle declared that not until Rome's costliest treasure had been cast into the gulf would the chasm close. Gold, jewels, treasures uncounted were cast in, without result. At length a young knight, of deeper insight than the rest, arrayed himself in his armor, mounted his finest charger, and crying, 'What treasure is dearer to Rome than her young manhood?' rode headlong into the abyss, which closed above his head. It was so when this gulf of divided interests separated a people one at heart. Plans for bridging the gap by compromise failed. The truest minds of a generation devoted themselves to a solution of the problem without avail. Not until the millions of golden treasure, not until the flower of American manhood, North and South, the dearest, costliest treasure of the land, had been cast into the abyss in an abandon of patriotic devotion, could there be an American nation. Not until the separate states, heated white-hot in the fires of civil strife, of fraternal bloodshed, of sorrow and suffering unspeakable, had been welded into one under the hammer of the god of war could the motto of the Union be fulfilled, and there be but of many, one.

"This day should stand, therefore, as the memento of this deep-lying unity. The American people are one.

"Their character is one. When Henry Ward Beecher went to England to win for the Union the sympathy of the English people, he was met with bitter hostility. When he attempted to speak in Manchester, for two hours he faced a very storm of hisses, cries and cat-calls, before by sheer force of a magnetic personality he gained a hearing and by the splendor of his oratory won his cause. One of his retorts on that occasion has passed into history. Someone called out to him from the crowd, 'Why didn't you put down the rebellion in ninety days, as you said you were going to do?' Quick as a flash came the response, 'Because we were fighting Americans, not Englishmen, that's why!' The harshness of the retort grew out of the bitterness of the occasion; but the tribute to the magnificent manhood of the soldiers in gray was well-deserved. From Bull Run to Appomattox, the soldiers of the West as well as the East, of the South no less than the North, showed themselves the true heirs of American history. Not in courage alone, but in all the qualities that make up soldierliness, in endurance, in resourcefulness, in quickness to master a situation, as well as in the qualities of generosity to an enemy, philosophic humor under trying circumstances, and other purely American traits, they showed themselves blood brothers, as well as the peers of the finest armies of history. No wonder that one general exclaimed that with such soldiers he could storm the gates of hell.

Problems Are One.

"Their problems also are one. The Civil war was due to this. Slavery was not a southern problem, though the South supposed it was. North as well as South had sinned, and North as well as South must pay. Massachusetts ships had carried the negroes from Africa to the Georgia cotton fields. Northern statesmen had compromised with the representatives of slave-holding planters. Massachusetts and Georgia, Maine and Minnesota and Mississippi must pay the penalty. The problems of today are no less one. A dishonest ballot in New York may mean a president whose policy affects the destiny of the smallest hamlet in Texas. Graft in San Francisco poisons

MISS EFFIE BROTHERTON,

the whole life of America. William R. Hearst, reared in the Far West, becomes the candidate for political honors in the Far East. We speak sometimes of the race problem today as a southern problem. It is not so. The South must bear the brunt today as in '61, but it is the nation's problem. For better or worse, the negro is one with us, and we must climb to civic and social freedom with him upon our shoulders.

Unity of Interests.

"An unexpected light has been thrown upon this solidarity of our problems in the change that has come over the attitude of the railroads to government control in the last few months. Two years ago they were crying out against the usurpation of authority by the government at Washington. Today they are appealing piteously to that government to save them from the conflicting authority of forty-five states, thirty-eight of which last winter passed laws affecting railroad rates. We are beginning to see that in modern life so great is the unity of our interests, that only a great and unified state can guard and control them. Mr. Root was right in saying, last winter, that because the several states had neglected certain functions, the national government must assume them. He might, however, have gone still further, and have declared that so unified have the problems and interests of modern life become that they have passed beyond the possibility of direction at the hand of the several states, and a centralized government is the only possible one. Even Mr. Bryan, the foremost representative of the political party which opposed Hamilton and Marshall in their interpretation of the constitution, is an advocate of an almost Socialistic extension of the functions of the national government.

"My purpose in referring to these things is not to raise a political issue, but to emphasize the need of recognizing the fundamental unity of the American nation in all its interests and problems. So great has this unity become that the old question of state rights has well nigh disappeared. With it should disappear every vestige of the bitterness and strife which marked the conflict. This day, which commemorates the sorrow of the great war, and signalizes the unity which the war secured ought to become an abiding influence to soften the hearts of brethren toward each other, North and South. We ought this day to remember what the Southern people bore in sustaining the brunt of war. We ought to bear in mind the knightly fashion in which they accepted the issue of the conflict and set to work loyally to regain their place in our national life. The lines of Alfred Austin in recognition of the growing friendship between England and our own country come to mind.

Kinsmen, Hail!

We severed have been too long,
Let us have done with a worn-out tale,
The tale of an ancient wrong,
And our friendship last long as life shall last,
And be stronger than death is strong.

Tribute to McKinley.

It is fitting at this point to call to mind that sweet and queenly woman who was laid to rest but two days ago in Canton, and the noble man who was called so suddenly from her side six years ago. Lovely and pleasant were their lives, and in death they were not divided. No man did more than William McKinley to promote the spirit of oneness and forgiveness between the South and the North. The Spanish war had awakened the spirit of loyalty all over the land, and Joe Wheeler and Fitzhugh Lee fought by the side of Miles and Shafter. When President McKinley ordered the return of the Confederate battle flags, and when he advocated the decoration of Confederate soldiers' graves, he touched the heart of the whole Southern people, and in the common sorrow which brought all hearts together over his bier, almost the last trace of old-time bitterness disappeared. On this Memorial day, North and South will again clasp hands at the tomb of Ida McKinley, and will thank God that these loving hearts are at last united, where the day breaks, and the shadows flee away.

And in this unity we must not forget to include the newcomers to our land, of every kindred and blood. On this day let there be no German-Americans nor Swedish-Americans, nor Norwegian-Americans, but only and always, Americans, people of one blood and one heart and soul, uniting heart and hand in the boundless task of solving in a free land the problems of human destiny.

"No small part of the function of this holiday should be to teach these citizen-strangers, and above all their children, what it is to be an American, what a glorious heritage the past has handed down to us, and what manner of men we ought to be in all courage and patriotic devotion.

Lesson of Courage.

"This leads me to the point out that the second great lesson of Memorial day is the lesson of courage.

"It is the boast of the American people that they need no one to teach them this duty. Bravery has been a chief American characteristic, from the days of the pioneers down to the present. Nevertheless, there is nothing which could be a greater tonic to the manhood of our people than to familiarize themselves with the heroic history of our country. Every Minnesota schoolboy ought to know by heart the story of that great charge of the First Minnesota on the second day at Gettysburg, when Hancock's lines on Little Round Top would have been penetrated by Longstreet's corps had not this devoted handful of less than 300 men charged an army and held it for five minutes, leaving all but forty-seven upon the field. He ought to know how the Fourth Minnesota held Altoona Pass while Sherman signaled 'Hold the fort for I am coming.' He ought to read how Adjt. Gere of the Fifth captured the Confederate flags at Nashville, and was detailed to carry them with the others that had been taken that day, to Washington. He ought to learn the adaptability of the Eighth at Murfreesboro, where a captured rebel said, 'We-uns changed front three times, and you-uns took us endways every time.' These and a hundred other stories he ought to read, until his heart throbs every time he remembers that he lives in Minnesota. But because he is an American as well, he ought to read how the Second Massachusetts and the Twenty-seventh Indiana emulated the Light Brigade, 'though someone had blundered,' and in obedience to a mistaken order charged across an open meadow whence only half the men returned. And because he is an American, and honors courage whether shown by North or South, he ought to read the story of Pickett's splendid charge at Gettysburg that last awful day, when the dead were piled in windrows, and whole battalions were blown to pieces by the Union grape and canister. The story of the 'deadly angle' will blanch his cheek and send the tears down his face, but he will rise from the story holding his head high, tingling to the soles of his feet, and thanking God from his heart that he is a man and an American.

"And then, lest he think that the present generation has lost this high heritage, let him read the stories of the Spanish war, and the royal valor of our troops among the wire fences at San Juan or in the jungles of the Philippines. I am reminded of one tale that has never ceased to thrill my heart for its victory of moral courage over physical timidity. On the morning of San Juan Hill, as the troops were mustering, a newspaper correspondent stood by a tree, watching the sight. Presently a company of soldiers appeared, led by a beardless boy. His captain had been wounded, his lieutenant was in the hospital with the fever, and the command that day devolved upon him. His face was pale and distortedwith dread. The newspaper man looked at him in astonishment at the suffering he betrayed. The lad noted the look, and smiled a wry-faced smile. Said he, 'I'm sweating blood with fear, but I'll lead my men all right, just the same.' He dragged his quivering, protesting body into the fight, and died that day at the head of his men, and no braver heart than his was ever stilled.

Not to Glorify War.

"Have I told you these tales to glorify war? Have we not been holding a peace conference; are we not sending our delegates to The Hague to ordain a universal truce? All this is true. War, said Sherman, is hell, and no man can read of these battles of which I have spoken and not acknowledge it. But two things need to be said. One is, that sometimes the only way to a just and lasting peace is through the arbitrament of arms. War is bad, but a cowardly or an indifferent and careless peace is infinitely worse. Suffering and tears are not the worst things that can come to men. Some diseases are so deepseated that nothing but the surgeon's knife can excise them. Some wrongs are so intolerable that nothing but a righteous anger can cope with them. The New Testament knows nothing of the emasculated Christianity of which we hear not a little nowadays, which would bid men put up with any sin, however hideous, any evil, however intolerable, on the ground of a weak and sentimental humanity. Our God is a consuming fire. Christ was born the Prince of Peace, but also his servants are called to war a good warfare. They follow one who drove the traders from the temple with a scourge of ropes. He scourged the Pharisees with the lash of His scorn. It is written of Him that he shall rule the nations with a rod of iron, and dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel; and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked. Tolstoi does well to pour his wrath upon the false patriotism which exploits the devotion of the ignorant, and makes the peasant a slave to the ambition of the boastful arlstocracy; but there are times when a free people must fight for their freedom, and the God of Nations becomes the God of Battles. We may pray for

'Peace in our utmost borders,
And light on the road we tread;
But these are dealt or diminished
At the secret will of God.'

"It is well for us to seek peace and pursue it, but we must be able to fight when fighting is necesary.

"The other thing I would say is that the soldierly qualities are needed no less in peace than in war. Not by accident did it fall out that for a generation in this country every man of prominence in public life, every leader of the community in private life, with scarcely an exception, was a veteran of the war. Every president from Grant to McKinley, with the exception of Cleveland, was a Union officer. Our present fighting president, whose warfare against every sort of wrong has made him the most popular hero since Lincoln, is every inch a soldier. It takes no less courage to stand against the arrogance of privilege than to face an army entrenched. It takes no finer manhood to lead a forlorn hope than to lay one's political future on the altar of fealty to duty and the oath of office. Men like Roosevelt and Bryan, and Root and Taft, like Folk and Hanly, and Hughes and Johnson, are of the temper and breed of Nathan Hale and John Brown, the finest blood of our American life.

Need Same Courage Today.

"There is need of this courage today, for courage is the element which makes possible the lofty thing which comes to me among the lessons of this day, and that is, sacrifice. The deepest meaning of Memorial day is the cost of freedom. This great country of which we boast, these splendid institutions which are our pride, did not come of themselves. Every foot of our territory was won with blood. Not alone the wars by which we held it; not alone the endless strife of the frontiersman with the savage; but the unending struggle with the inclemencies of an inhospitable climate, every battle with the wilderness and the forest, the desert and the plain, every climb of mountain, every fording of rivers, all the long battle of civilization with the residence of a new land—all has gone into the price we have paid for liberty. Our splendid isolation which made it possible for us to grow unhampered until we had become great enough to give our word for peace among the nations was bought at immense cost at Lexington and Saratoga, and Valley Forge and Yorktown. The unity that made our industrial development possible was welded at Shiloh and Antietam, at Gettysburg and Vicksburg. The long patience which shall in the end enable us to take up the White Man's burden, and carry freedom to the Isles that wait for His coming we are slowly learning under the tropic sun in Luzon and Mindanao.

"Most of this price has been paid for us. The youth who have grown up since the war, the millions of immigrants from all lands, these have so far paid nothing. Other men have labored, and we have entered into their labors. This day is the memorial of that price, and bids us cast up the reckoning, and acknowledge the debt we owe. But the lesson is not alone for the past. It is not enough that we prize at its true worth our heritage. Every man must bear his own burden, every generation must pay its own price. Liberty is not, after all, a gift, but an achievement. It cannot be tied in bundles and sold over the counter. It cannot be handed down from father to son. Danton and Robespierre could not give it to France, nor Alexander II to Russia. Abraham Lincoln could not give it to the negro, nor William McKinley to Cuba, nor Taft to the Filipinos. Liberty is a matter of character, not of conditions. You can set men free from laws, but they will fall into bondage to themselves. Ours is a great and glorious heritage. We have the Declaration of Independence and Washington's farewell address. We have the emancipation proclamation and the second inaugural, and the Gettysburg speech. Ours is all the inspiring story of military achievement, from Lexington to San Juan hill. Ours the mighty names, from Washington and Greene, and Warren and La Fayette, to Lincoln and Grant, and Sherman and Robert E. Lee. But we must make this heritage our own; we must earn it; we must pay the price of liberty.

Function of Government.

"These sacrifices today may not be on the field of battle, but they will be no less real. The sole function of government is not to guarantee the value of our bonds. The business man may have to sacrifice a measure of his profits in the interest of the public weal. Railroads may return smaller dividends, coppers may yield only a fair return instead of a fortune. Young men may have to be content with good wages instead of getting rich quickly. We all may have to satisfy ourselves with food and raiment rather than with brownstone mansions and annual trips to Europe. But freedom means responsibility, the whole people standing or falling together. Life is more than meat and the body than raiment. The development of iron and copper mines, the reorganization of railroads.

"Though a pretty trade, Are not the imperative labor after all? "There can be no justice for all, no universal opportunity, no 'square deal,' except as all shall learn to sacrifice for justice's sake.

"Not that the sacrifice shall be all or chiefly of material things. The error of Socialism is that it lays chief emphasis on equality in material wealth. That may never come about. It is of secondary importance after all. What this country needs is not that there shall be no rich men, nor that the rich shall give their wealth back to the poor. What it needs is the earnest, self-sacrificing loyalty of all its citizens. It needs its Harrimans and its Rockefellers, its Carnegies and its Thomas F. Coles shall lend their splendid brains to the solution of the problems of justice and the relation of railroads and mines and oil trusts to all the people. Let these men do this, and we shall grudge them no fair reward. These are the sacrifices the country needs, and if men will not make them of events will in the long run bring the price from them mingled with blood and tears. It is not the great alone; it is all the people who must pay the price. It is all the people who must serve the people, for only thus is liberty achieved.

Heritage to Children.

"As I passed by this morning, I looked with joy at the beautiful flag that flung its stripes to the breeze above the schoolhouse grounds. I thought what a splendid heritage to the children of our schools, what a splendid object lesson to the youth of foreign parentage, who must grow up to American citizenship. We do well to let them grow up under the shadow of this banner. But our most beautiful flag, the true emblem of our liberty, is not fresh and new, spreading its unsullied silken glory in the morning sun. You will find it behind glass doors in the rotunda at St. Paul; you will find it in the other capitals of our states. Perhaps you will find it even where its stripes were turned to Confederate bars, for even there was loyal patriotism though sore mistaken. But the flag I love is stained and dragged. Its folds are torn with shot and shell. Its stripes are red with the blood of heroes. Its stars glow in the purity of stainless honor on a background of courageous blue. Scarred, powder-stained, threadbare banner, I love you well. We pledge you here our hearts' devotion. And the hero who carried you on a hundred battlefields and sealed their love for you in their own hearts' blood, there we will leave and cherish while they remain with us, and their graves will we ever strew with the fairest flowers of immortal hope. Their example also will we take to heart, the lesson of loyal and unselfish sacrifice, 'that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth.'

An overflow meeting for the boys at the Metropolitan Opera house packed the theater. The exercises were well carried out and highly patriotic and interesting in their nature. Rev. M. S. Rice was the speaker, and his stirring talk aroused the boys to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

Watson S. Moore acted as chairman and Capt. Bates also said a few words to the boys.

Dog Owners!

Take Notice!

Dog licenses are now past due. No officer will be sent around to collect such license this year, but it must be paid at the city hall.

Payment must be made prior to June 10th. The city of Duluth does not have a dog catcher. The ordinance makes it a criminal offense to harbor an unlicensed dog, and anyone found owning or harboring an unlicensed dog is liable to criminal prosecution.

RAILROADS

WHOLESALE INCREASE

Unorganized Railroad Labor of West to Have Wages Raised.

Reported That 200,000 Employes Will be Thus Benefited.

Chicago, May 30.—The Record-Herald today says: Before the end of the summer more than 200,000 unorganized laborers and clerks employed by Western railroads will receive voluntary increases in wages which will average 10 per cent. The aggrgate increase will be several millions of dollars.

The movement to increase the wages of clerks and unorganized laborers began early in the year and has proceeded quietly until some of the big systems have completed their new schedules.

The increases are said to have been apportioned in a manner intended to show that it is unnecessary for labor to organize to receive proper recognition.

WILL CONTINUE WORK.

Milwaukee Directors Say Nothing of Abandoning Coast Extension.

New York, May 30.—The directors of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad company at their regular monthly meeting yesterday, took no action on the proposal to abandon work on the Pacific coast extension. There has been no curtailment of work, it was said, after the meeting and none need be expected in the near future. The abandonment proposition is pigeon-holed, is said, and in all probability will never be brought up.

INCREASE THE TIME.

Schedules of Burlington Trains Are to be Lengthened.

Chicago, May 30.—Commencing June 9, the running time of passenger trains on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad between Denver, Omaha and Chicago, and Chicago and Kansas City and Denver will be made materially slower. Under the new schedule the increase in the running time of the Denver limited between Chicago and Denver is four hours and forty-five minutes.

Corresponding changes in the running time of passenger trains are expected from other Western roads. The recent action of the legislatures of Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois in passing 2-cent fare bills is assigned as the reason for increased running time in passenger train service.

Italy Wants Battleship Limit.

The Italian cabinet has decided to introduce at The Hague conference a preposition to fix the maximum limit on the tonnage of warships, and it is to be supported by Great Britain and the United States. CORNELL IS THE FAVORITE

In the Varsity Race to be Rowed With Harvard.

Ithaca, N. Y., May 30.—A brisk northwest wind is blowing across Cayuga lake course on which the Cornell-Harvard varsity race is to be rowed this afternoon. The weather is cold. The race course is along the east shore of the lake and is paralleled by the Auburn branch of the Lehigh Valley railroad on which an observation train of thirty-five cars will be run.

The crews are made up as follows:

Harvard: R. M. Tappan, bow; S. W. Fixh, 2; R. M. Faulkner, 3; H. L. Lunt, 4; W. Severance, 5; R. Bacon, 6; J. Richardson, 7; E. Farley, stroke; E. Blagden, coxswain.

Betting early today was 10 to 7 on Cornell.

STATUE IS REJECTED FOR LACK OF DRAPERY.

Kansas City, May 30.—A duplicate of the statue Venus Genetrix, declining, the gift of William J. Buchan, ex-state senator and intended for the public library, was rejected last night by the school board of Kansas City, Kas., because of its lack of drapery. The statue, valued at several hundred dollars, was recently purchased by Mr. Buchan in Rome.

WILL LAY CORNERSTONE OF MONSTER CATHEDRAL

BISHOP JAMES McGOLRICK.
Who Will Lay Cornerstone of New Cathedral at St. Paul.

Right Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of Duluth, has been selected to lay the corner stone of the big $2,000,000 cathedral at St. Paul at the impressive ceremonies which will take place there next Sunday, when the great block of stone which is to occupy a prominent place in the finest church edifice in the West, will be swung into place.

Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul, who will preside at the new cathedral when complete, will give the Memorial day address and thirty-six other bishops from all over the United States are pleasing to be in attendance.

Before the laying of the corner stone there will be a great parade of 40,000 people from all over the state, and Catholics from the neighboring states being in line for this portion of the celebration.

Over 300 Duluthians have signified their intention of going down and it was at first planned to run a special train for their benefit.

At a meeting of representatives of the various Catholic societies of the city, which was held last evening in cathedral hall, however, it was reported that the railroads in this section had refused to give reduced rates on a special train for those wishing to go down, and it is feared that owing to their adverse action, the attendance may be somewhat diminished.

Reduced rates have been secured from other parts of the state for these occasions, and local Catholics are wondering why they were not granted similar privileges, however, it is thought that the attendance of 300 can be counted on, even under present conditions.

Raymond Hitchcock has a lot of friends in Duluth. He has not been here for two years, but the royal reception tendered him at the Lyceum last evening showed very plainly that he has not been forgotten. "A Yankee Tourist" is this year the vehicle for the man who can make people laugh without the assistance of outlandish clothes. He steps to the footlights, bows slightly, turns up the corners of his mouth and laughter rolls up from the audience in a huge wave. There is that mysterious something about his personally required in the making of a comedian.

"A Yankee Tourist" affords an evening of excellent entertainment. Friends of Mr. Hitchcock who saw him in a "A Yankee Consul" are hardly willing to admit that the new production is quite as good as the old, but they enjoy it very much, nevertheless. The songs are pretty, and incidentally, it might be said that the singers are also pretty, or the feminine portion of them at least, and the men are not hard to look at. The plot is not radically different from other comic opera plots, so far as deepness is concerned, although the story told is, of course, a new one.

The first scene is laid at Athens. A group of war correspondents are introduced to the audience. One of them, Kirke Warren, is very popular with the ladies, and because of serious entanglements with them that are not entirely to his liking, he seeks to dodge an assignment directing him to cover a war going on on some island or other. The only way to do this is to send some man in his place. At this juncture Raymond Hitchcock, in the character of Copeland Schuyler, a Yankee tourist, happens along, and after considerable persuasion, that furnishes the audience with several good laughs, he consents to take the place of Warren.

It develops that Schuyler is in love with one Grace Whitney, who fancies she lives in love with the famous war correspondent, Mr. Warren. Schuyler's object in going to the war is to be on the same boat with her. The Yankee poses as Warren, whom it appears she has never met. It doesn't take him long to find that the real Warren has troubles of his own, for a divorced wife in search of alimony, and a widow, weighing several hundred pounds, together with eight valiant officers, looking for a duel, camp on his trail, and he is kept busy dodging them, and that's where the funny part comes in.

Mr. Hitchcock goes through with his lines in his own original way. He looks like a Yankee. He has a droll way about him that is irresistible. His support is good. Whitlock Davis is actively energedc as the real Kirk Warren, and Wallace Beery puts on a sober front and makes good as Mr. Hewitt, a brother correspondent. Herbert Cawthorn is typically English as correspondent for the London Times, and E. R. Phillips impresses one as a hustler after business in the capacity of Billy Ash, manager of the paper for which Warren works.

James E. Feeney puts up a good form as Capt. O'Malley, and his songs appear to please the audience greatly. Flora Zambella and Helen Hale appear as the leading women in the case, and both are pretty and graceful, of entirely different type sof beauty, but both with pleasing voices. They have a happy way with them that is contagious, and seem to thoroughly enjoy being there on the stage. The audience also enjoys their presence, and it is not slow in showing its appreciation. Susan Forester Cawthorne, literally speaking, fills the part of the fleshy Mrs. Schwartz. It seems inevitable that Mr. Hitchcock should have a fat person in the cast. His success with one in "The Yankee Consul" will never be forgotten. There were some very pretty dances, and all the songs took well.

The performance will be repeated this afternoon and tonight.

BIG CROWDS AT BIJOU.

The entertainers at the Bijou theater this week have been crowded with crowded houses at every performance thus far. This afternoon and this evening, it is expected that record-breaking audiences will enthuse over the bill. The Manning Trio, A. Jolson, the Three Keltons, Grace Orma, Cavana, Ellsworth and Burt, and all the rest make the time pass very pleasantly while they are on the stage.

NEW BILL AT METROPOLITAN.

"From Rags to Riches" is being given by the Frank E. Long Stock company at the Metropolitan, for the first time this afternoon. This clever and interesting melodrama will be repeated this evening and will also be given tomorrow night, Saturday afternoon and Saturday night. There will be a complete change in the specialties given between the acts. The number of ladies attending is increasing with every performance by the Frank Long company and all of them go away pleased with what they have seen.

OBSERVED GENERALLY

Memorial Day Exercises Are Held in Many Cities.

Gen. Kuroki an Interested Observer of Chicago Program.

Chicago, May 30.—Memorial exercises in honor of the nation's dead were held today at all the cemeteries around Chicago, at Fort Sheridan and at Lincoln park, around the monument to Abraham Lincoln. Flowers and flags were placed on the graves of all the 4,000 soldiers of the Union and of those who fought for the cause of the Confederacy. From Rose Hill, where 950 soldiers are buried, to the outlying cemeteries where but three or four are interred bands of veterans paid their annual tribute to their dead comrades, and listened to addresses extolling patriotism and exalting the memory of the dead.

Gen. Baron Kuroki, the hero of the Yalu, accompanied by all the members of his party, took part in the Decoration day exercises and watched by thousands placed a wreath on the monument of Abraham Lincoln in Lincoln park.

Members of the United States Confederate veterans were in charge of services for dead Confederate soldiers, many of whom are buried at Oakwood and other cemeteries, and were assisted in paying their tributes to the memory of their comrades by the veterans in blue.

A parade of military civic and fraternal organizations, in which nearly 1,000 veterans of the Civil war took part, was one of the features of the day's exercises. The march of the veterans was brief, just a few squares up Michigan, past the reviewing stand at Grant park, where Governor Deneen stood with bared head. But the other bodies taking part in the parade marched through the downtown streets and later took part in the exercises at the various cemeteries.

At the Bohemian National cemetery at Irving park, Lieut. Governor Sherman was the speaker at the exercises which formed a part of the ceremony of decorating a few scattered graves of veterans.

Philadelphia, May 30.—One of the features of the Memorial day celebration in the city was the casting of flowers into the Delaware river by the naval veterans, in memory of their departed comrades. Prior to the exercises, a parade was held, which was participated in by a battalion of marines and sailors from the League Island navy yard.

The Pennsylvania naval reserves, the United States naval veterans and kindred associations also participated. The parade was halted at Independence square, and the statue of Commodore John Barry was decorated with flowers. The parade marched to Race street wharf, where the ceremony of casting the flowers on the water was held. Mayor Reyburn and Admiral Melville, U. S. N., retired, made addresses.

Winchester, Va., May 30.—The graves of more than 5,000 Union soldiers buried here were decorated today by members of the Ladies' National Memorial association. Memorial services also were held.

Colon, May 30.—The isthmian canal commission and the Pennsylvania railroad declared Decoration day to be a public holiday here. Only work imperatively necessary was carried on and athletics were the order of the day.

Paris, May 30.—The customary memorial services at the grave of Lafayette were not held today, but Consul General Mason and a number of members of the American colony visited the Picpus cemetery and decorated the tomb with flowers. The American embassy, in behalf of Lafayette post of New York, sent a handsome wreath.

CITY BRIEFS

Accountants Coming Here.

Duluth, Lake Minnetonka and the Minnesota Transfer will be the objective points of the sightseeing expedition which has been planned for the entertainment of the American Association of Transportation and Car Accountants, which will meet in St. Paul June 25 and 26. On Thursday, the day after the meeting, the accountants will go to Lake Minnetonka, and on Friday they will start for Duluth. A boulevard drive and an excursion up the river are planned for their entertainment here, and they will return to St. Paul Saturday.

Miner Sues for Damages.

The Shenango Furnace company has been sued by Dan Malikocick for $1,965 damages for injuries the latter claims to have received in a mine near Chisholm. Malikovick claims that he fell into a hole or chute 135 feet deep and sustained a broken leg and other injuries. He alleges that he had not been warned of the danger to which he was exposed; also that the chute was not properly protected.

Asks Damages for Broken Leg.

Thomas Dicklish has begun a suit in the district court to recover $5,000 damages from the Adriatic Mining company for injuries claimed to have been received while working at a mine in Aurora, Feb. 6, 1907. He claims that while he was clearing out some rubbish from the bottom of the shaft by order of the foreman, he was struck by a car and sustained severe and permanent injuries.

Will Appoint Appraisers.

Judge Amidon of Fargo will be in Duluth Saturday to hold a brief session of the United States court. At that time the court will appoint three appraisers to appraise lot 87, block 26, to be condemned for the new federal government building. The appraisers will receive $10 per day while they are engaged in their special work. The lot in question is the one owned by Charles Sergeant, a resident now of Alaska. Judge Amidon will at the same time act on petitions for naturalization of some forty applicants.

The Golden Rule Reopens.

The announcement that the Golden rule department store, which has been closed for several weeks on account of fire, will reopen Saturday morning with a record-breaking fire, smoke and water sale, will be of much interest to those who have been accustomed to obtain striking values from this store in the past. Sensational price-cutting will be the feature of this sale.

Serve Strawberry Shortcake.

The ladies of Pilgrim congregation will serve supper tomorrow evening at the church, a special feature of which will be strawberry shortcake. Supper will be served from 6:15 o'clock until all are served.

KILLS HIS CHUM.

Minneapolis Boy Fires a Revolver in Spirit of Fun.

Minneapolis, May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gilbert Winter, 14, lies dead in his father's house, 418 Groveland avenue, Minneapolis, from a bullet fired from a revolver in the hands of his boy chum, Erick Passmore, also 14, of 333 Oak Grove street. The Passmore boy is now at his home prostrated with grief and under a physician's care.

The two boys were alone in the Winter residence Wednesday night, and were playing in Gilbert's room on the second floor. They were examining a revolver belonging to Mr. Winter. Evidently Erick, not knowing that the weapon was loaded, fired it at his friend in a spirit of fun. The report of the revolver and Erick's screams brought neighbors to the house. When they reached the scene of the tragedy they found the lifeless form of Gilbert Winter stretched on the floor, a bullet hole in his right breast.

The grief of young Passmore was so overwhelming that it was necessary, Wednesday night, to administer opiates.

Mr. Winter was spending the night at his summer home at Lake Minnetonka. Mrs. Winter is visiting friends in Boston.

AGED NEGRO USES SHOVEL

Fierce Altercation Occurs at a Resort in Stillwater.

Stillwater, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Almost a tragedy of death was enacted between a white man and a negro at the "Keough High Board Fence," a resort at the Western limits of the city. It is stated that Matt Roney, an elderly white man, threatened Jim Carter, a negro, with a revolver. The white man has two ugly gashes on the head and a broken right wrist.

The wounds were inflicted with a heavy shovel, and the colored man, on being told that he had killed his man, planned to go to the cemetery today to place a wreath of flowers on his grave, being told that the man was taken direct to Fairview cemetery.

Carter, the negro, is one of the blackest of his race. He is so old that neither he nor anyone can tell his age. He was a former slave and came to this city decades ago. Withal, he has a very crooked leg, that makes him lame. For many years he has been porter for Company K, First regiment, and for a great many years has gone with it to camp, wearing a discarded uniform of a major general, with big epaulettes. He was always regarded as harmless, and not over bright.

According to a story well vouched for Jim went to the resort and got into an altercation with Roney, who with a revolver, made the negro kneel on the floor and plead for his life. Jim got close enough to Roney to catch him about the legs and throw him to the floor, where the pair tussled for some time and the colored man succeeded in taking from Roney the revolver. Getting to his feet, Jim seized a heavy shovel and used it with the effect stated.

WIZARDRY OF WATER.

New York Evening Post: Few persons, when they drink a glass of water, realize that they are drinking, in an unharnessed form, the most powerful substance in the world. Every year we drink as much of this loose power as it would take to run an elevator or heat a house.

Water can be made to do the most peculiar things when it is properly hitched up. The father of a sleepless baby some years ago evolved a scheme during his midnight walk up and down the bedroom of attaching a hose to the kitchen faucet and, by a series of paddle wheels and ropes, have water power take the place of arm power in subduing insomnia. The same principle has been tried with washing machines, fans and knife sharpeners. A single glass of water is enough to cause death when it is harnessed in the way they use it in China, where it is a form of capital punishment. The water is made to fall one drop at a time upon the top of the victim's head.

Switzerland runs a steep-grade railroad up a mountain side by water power. There are two lines of track and two trains, one on each track. When stable, one train is at the upper and the other at the lower terminal. The front of the train at the bottom is attached to the rear of the one at the top by a cable running up the middle of the track to the top, and thence over by pulleys. Likewise, a cable runs from the front of the top car, down the grade, to the rear of the bottom car. On the ends of the trains are large tanks. The one on top fills up with water, the brakes are loosened, and, since it is heavier than the one on the bottom, it slowly drops, pulling the other up. Then, when the brakes have been put on, the water is poured out of the tank, and the train which is now on top loads up. Grease for the wheels is the only expense of this railroads.

Hardly ten years ago the only use made of rivers was to run the old-fashioned mill wheel, which can now seldom be seen outside of picture galleries. Its place has been taken by powerful generating plants that have harnessed rivers so that it does something more useful than just drift down from the mountains to the sea.

There is some dispute as to who first thought of using waterfalls for generating power. An Englishman claims the distinction, and it came, like most inventions, accidentally. This Englishman was standing under a barrel full of water, when the bottom dropped out. The force of the blow knocked him over. Being a thoughtful man, he reasoned that if a barrel full of water could knock him over, a river full could do wonders.

But whether the Englishman claims the credit or not, the idea is now in full swing at dozens of waterfalls. Huge wheels are placed under these falls so that the fall of the water makes them revolve with tremendous speed, and these wheels are connected with generators which store up the power, and supply it to all who want to buy.

There have been numerous devices for harnessing the tides, but none, as yet, have been eminently successful. Several schemes have been patented for using the power of waves, but they have usually met with a sad ending. Some years ago Ocean Grove sprinkled her streets with water that was pumped by one of these wave machines, but its life of usefulness was cut short by a wave that was more powerful than the machine.

The latest scientific use of water, for the plunger type of elevator, engineers say, will make the 50-story skyscraper possible, and incidentally brings out one of the simplest and prettiest of water devices. To the bottom of the elevator car is attached a steel column equal in length to the run of the elevator, which runs up and down a shaft in the earth. At the bottom of this shaft are two pipes, one for supplying water and the other for drawing it off. As the water is poured into this shaft, the steel rod rises, pushing the elevator upward. When the desired story has been reached, the operator in the car moves the handle, which instantly checks the flow, and the car rests upon the body of water in the shaft.

TRAPPING ANIMALS.

New York Press: "Elephants are easily trapped," said a zoo keeper, "very easily trapped and very easily tamed. The trapper chooses a spot popular with elephants and digs a hole five feet deep and twenty feet square. He surrounds this hole with a high board fence, except in one place, where hangs a swing gate. Next he finds a herd of elephants, chooses the animal he wants, maddens it and makes it chase him. The man tears along on his nag, the elephant thunders close after, and just at the gateway the man swerves to the right, but the elephant, to heavy to swerve, bangs right on through into the hole. He's mad at first—terribly mad. But they give him no food nor drink, they build around the pit fires of damp wood that almost suffocate him with smoke, and they daze and stupefy him with shouts and banging of brass pans. The elephant is completely broken and subdued in three or four days. He comes forth and follows the trapper humbly, and timidly, with tears in his eyes.

"Monkeys are trapped with—what do you think?—booze. You rush in among a flock of them, and they take to the trees, chattering and watchful. You pull out some bottle of strong, sweet booze, pretend to drink, then lay the bottle down and go away. On your return an hour later the floor of the jungle is strewn with bodies of drunken monkeys, and, of course, it's easy then to pick them up. Giraffes are the most difficult animals to trap. They are caught with lassos, bolos or ratatas, a kind of net. The only animal impossible to trap is the gorilla. He is too strong and fierce."

KNEW HIS OWN RACE.

Kansas City Star: Moses Williams, an Indian, who lives in Horton, Kan., lost his railroad ticket at the union depot last night. He told Lee Mitchell, the depot master, that his ticket had been stolen, and that two of his companions, also Indians, were missing.

"Go through your pockets," suggested Mitchell, "perhaps you have overlooked it."

The Indian searched his pockets, but all he could find was a half-pint bottle of whisky. He had no money.

"I guess your Indian friends stole your ticket," said Mitchell.

"Huh! Indian steal whisky first," replied the Indian. "White man got it."

CURIOUS RESTING PLACES.

London Chronicle: Curious resting places of birds have been discovered at Hinton St. George. In the slaughterhouse at Earl Poulett's kennels a pair of corduroy overalls, used when tarring or painting is being done, had been thrown carelessly over a beam, and in one of the legs a robin has built and completed its nest.

Within a yard of this an old coat had been similarly suspended, and in a tear in the shoulder lining a wren has completed a perfectly shaped nest. Notwithstanding that the kennel man was frequently going in and out, the birds continued their work.

The Bohn Syphon Refrigerator

Good and Economical Refrigeration depends upon a constant circulation of pure air within the provision chamber. The stronger the current of cold air the less odor.

Bohn Syphon Refrigerators are built under the Bohn Air Syphon patent that draws the cold air through the syphon against the ice, and returns it to the provision chamber—condensed and deodorized. Let us explain these points to you before you buy a refrigerator—your health and your family's depend on it.

The Bohn is the only perfect Syphon Refrigerator—there are many imitators, but only one Bohn, and this fine, superior refrigerator costs no more than others ask for an inferior grade.

We will be pleased to place one in your home on ten days' free trial—if not satisfactory return at our expense.

Hoosier and Elwell Kitchen Cabinets

IT USED TO BE that a woman would clutter up the whole kitchen in baking one batch of pies.

In bringing the material together and "clearing up" she took steps enough to send her to bed.

Now the cook stands in front of her Kitchen cabinet, simply puts her hands out to get the things she needs and doesn't take a single step.

The pies are just as good as they ever were, but work is lighter, spirits correspondingly brighter and the kitchen kept in spick-and-span order with little trouble.

The Elwell and Hoosier Kitchen Cabinets hold everything you need in cooking and are the most convenient places to work at ever devised.

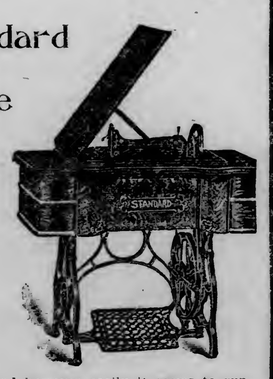
In hardwood and at different prices at our store.

We invite you to come in and inspect our splendid showings of these fine Cabinets.

We Sell Them at Factory Prices and on Very Easy Payments.

The two finest lines of Kitchen Cabinets on the market today. And by the way, if you're looking for the best thing on the market for the money—here's where you make your choice.

The Standard Sewing Machine



When you pay out your money for a sewing machine you have a right to know something about the works.

It is real economy, true economy, to buy the best sewing machine made. The difference in price between a GOOD sewing machine and a CHEAP one is soon made up in repair bills.

Dragged out, tired out, money out and loss of time—

That's what the poor machine means to you, however glib-tongued the salesman, no matter in what glittering terms the cheap machine may be described, and however easily it seems to run at first.

But a Standard keeps right on, easily doing satisfactory sewing year after year—decade after decade—many have used the Standard a lifetime.

Let us tell you more about pleased Standard customers.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The Indianapolis police are searching for Frederick William Hoen, who is charged with the larceny of $50,000 worth of bonds and stocks from a safety deposit box in Fletcher's National bank belonging to his sister, Mrs. Christina Noltl. A warrant was issued for Hoen's arrest on the charge of grand larceny.

QUEEN VICTORIA TAKES WALK IN THE GARDEN.

Madrid, May 30.—For the first time since the prince of the Asturias was born, Queen Victoria yesterday took a short stroll in the palace garden. With the baby prince in his arms King Alfonso went out on the balcony yesterday while the guard was being changed. The soldiers saluted the king and the prince.

FEARS ENTERTAINED FOR BRITISH BALLOON.

London, May 30.—A military balloon, with six men in the car, which was sent up from Aldershot camp, May 28, during the review in honor of Prince Fushumi of Japan, is missing, and it is feared that it has been blown out to sea. King Edward and Prince Fushumi witnessed the ascent. A strong wind was blowing at the time, and the balloon was soon carried out of sight.

PRIVATE PRISONS.

London Tit-Bits: With the death of Herr Muller, recently at Vienna a private prison, which in the course of the last thirty years had received many occupants, has closed its doors. Possessing the reputation of being a thorough Smartinet, Herr Muller was much sought after by parents of recalcitrant sons, who, needing punishment or discipline, were confided to his keeping.

For faults of which the law would have taken cognizance, not a few delinquents received their due in the house of Herr Muller, preferring to undergo this unofficial imprisonment to being haled before the authorities. Scandal was thus avoided at a moderate cost, while at the same time the fault that had been committed received its just corrective.

A somewhat similar establishment was some years kept at Birmingham by a man who had a great reputation as disciplinarian. Many a boy reputed to be incorrigible was confided to his care, with the happiest result, for there were but few instances in which a week or two enforced sojourn under his roof did not work the desired change.

For a while after his removal from Fonthill to Bath, William Beckford, the author of "Vathek," may be said to have been an amateur jailor, as he paid a man a large wage to undergo a voluntary imprisonment of some months' duration, during which time he was neither to wash his body nor cut his nails or hair. Another condition was that his only sustenance should consist of bread and water, barely sufficient to support his existence.

An amusing case was heard some while back in the Bavarian law courts, when a man accused his wife of having incarcerated him in a cellar of his house. The woman pleaded guilty to the charge, but advanced in extenuation the fact that the good looks of her husband had had such a magnetic effect upon the women of the neighborhood that unless she had taken strong measures her husband would have become the common possession of all her female acquaintances and neighbors.

But of all keepers of private jails, perhaps the most singular is a rich landowner of Foggia, in Italy, who built one solely for his own use. Sentenced in 1898 for the murder of his servant to ten years' imprisonment, he managed to escape from custody.

His whereabouts remained unknown until lately, when the police raided his house and effected the capture of the long lost criminal, who was discovered locked up in a cell which he had himself constructed, and in which by his orders one of his servants held him confined on the usual prison diet of bread and water. Already has he thus served eight years of his sentence, but it is more than doubtful whether this self inflicted punishment will be taken into consideration by the authorities.

The man who never tries to trade something he needs slightly for something he needs badly overlooks a ures in the answer.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SOX HEAD LIST AGAIN

Maroons Went Down in First Game of Series.

Sox Batted Sawyer Hard and Won Easily 6 to 3.

If one may take their performance of yesterday as conclusive, Herr's Winnipeg Maroons, the vaunted first choice for the pennant of the Northern Copper Country league are a series of false alarms. They may have looked good to the subjects of King Edward away up in Happyland, but they are across the border now, in the home of baseball, and it's up to them to do things to show the natives that they are all there. They didn't do it yesterday. After a series of inexplicable victories over Calumet and Houghton, they came across the line to show the Sox in the low lustres of the worst kind, making pretentions to a pennant. The showing was on the other side. The Sox played around the Maroons in the field at bat, and in every other department, and there never was a time when the gang from the Dominion had half a show to pull out with a victory.

Sawyer, the boy who has been drawing the applause of multitudes in Winnipeg, went all to the bad when he returned to the land of the free. Herr, bent on taking the first game, sent his star man to Hurling Hill and after hanging with all his might to a rather precarious foothold for four innings, he tumbled down and lay in a heap at the bottom. The Sox resulted his position from the jump-off and after they had rolled up eight hits and six runs, Herr decided to call the ambulance and Sawyer was carted to the rear. Then the manager himself took command. How he got away with it, nobody knows, but he held the Sox to two hits and no runs for the remainder of the game. Whoever told Eddie he was a pitcher was stringing him. He lobbed them over the pan as big as push-balls and there wasn't a break to them. He didn't have speed enough to punch a hole in a wall of butter under a hot sun, but he made the Sox fall to them. After Sawyer had been shooting them across for four innings, the Sox couldn't hit the slow ones and Herr came out of the woods with a clean cut record. But if he goes into the box again in this series, there'll be some fireworks. He'll get shoving them along in the groove to a few of these Knights of the Spotless Hosiery and they'll be disappearing over the fence just as fast as he can pass them along.

Jim Haney was the bright illumination for the Sox. The southpaw was in beautiful shape and he had the Dagers dangling at his left before he threw a ball. If Freddie Olmstead and dimmie Leighty hadn't fallen down on the old boy in the fifth and assisted the visitors to a few runs. Even after the Maroons had scored their three, Haney was right there, and prevented further damage.

Show Up Sawyer.

The Maroons went down as they marched to the front in the first inning. Then the Sox started to show up Mr. Sawyer. Summers fanned, in order that the confidence of the gentleman in the box might not be shaken. Tracey also went down on a grounder to start. Cummings drew a pass and Bill McCormick took his stand. Oh, joy! Oh, happiness!! Such imprudence for Mr. Sawyer to lay one in the center of the alley. Bang and Chesty Cox strode to the fence with long, fearless strides. Al Cummings centered across the plate and Duke stood on third and survived the wreck which he had wrought. Another bang and Leighty stood on first, McCormick scoring. Smith bingled and Leighty took third. Smith started to steal and Leighty went out on the short throw.

Haney showed the Dagers a few things in the second. Zeider drew a pass. Monroe singled and Crisp took first on a bunt, which failed to get anybody. With the bases full and nobody out, Haney pushed the throttle up a notch. King fanned. Sensenback hit to Summers and Zeider was nabbed at the plate. Sawyer whiffed and there was nobody across.

The Sox renewed the festivities as the guests of Mr. Sawyer in the second. McLaughlin opened with a single and Olmstead fumbled. Haney sent them both along with a neat sacrifice. Summers hit to right field and Chesty dropped the ball. McLaughlin registering. In trying to catch Summers off first, Sawyer threw the ball through Landrus' hands Olmstead scoring and Summers taking third. He tried to take home and was nabbed at the plate. Tracey went down on a grounder to short.

Nothing for the Maroons in the third or fourth. In the third, Cummings opened the proceedings for the Sox with a smashing double. McCormick fanned and Leighty went down on a grounder. Smith singled and Cummings scored. McLaughlin singled and stole second, but Olmstead fanned. Summers scored the last run for the Sox in the fourth. He took first on Sensenback's error, stole second and scored on Tracey's single. Herr went in the box in the fifth and only two lonely singles were chalked up in the Duluth column afterwards.

The Maroons took three in the fifth. King opened with a double. Sensenback dumped one at Olmstead, who packed it up, and obligingly threw it to the fence. Lack of Tracey, King scoring and the man with the jaw-breaking name holding down the third sack. Herr singled and Sensenback scored. Piper hit to Leighty, who dropped the ball in trying to head off Herr at second. Ludcrus hit to Haney and Herr was caught at third. Haney tickled Cox's short ribs and Chesty walked to first. Zeider hit a long fly and Piper registered from third on the return throw.

That was all for the Maroons. In the seventh, they put three men on base again, but they all died on the stations, good fielding upholding Haney in his attempts to prevent further injury to his cause.

CALUMET WINS FIRST GAME

Houghton Giants Shut Out Yesterday, 4 to 0.

Calumet, Mich., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The season of the Northern Copper Country league in the Copper country opened here yesterday, when Calumet defeated Houghton by a score of 4 to 0. Before the game the teams and city officials, headed by a band, paraded the principal streets of the city.

The game itself was a good exhibition. Roy Newcombe made his debut in Calumet as an Aristocrat, and he trimmed the Giants nicely. He allowed them but two stingy hits, and there was never any danger of Houghton scoring. Newcombe's support was excellent, there being but one misplay. Rogers was in the box for Houghton and he pitched good ball. The home team was only able to secure five hits, but they were so well bunched with passes on balls and errors in the early innings that more than enough runs to win were scored easily. After the fourth inning both pitchers were strong, and there was nothing done on either side.

This afternoon the two teams will play at Houghton. E. F. Weisler of Rock Island, Ill., has been engaged to succeed Jack Nolan as umpire. Weisler was selected before the season opened but only two umpires being necessary Nolan was given a try. He having failed to make good, Weisler will report for duty here this week.

FEELING.

Pearson's Weekly: "The feelings of women are far deeper and finer than those of men," cried the lady orator in a fierce tone. "We are told by those who style themselves the stronger sex that we are much inferior. Is that so?"

A loud chorus of "No," from the ladies greeted this question, and the orator went on:

"I say that woman feels where man thinks—"

"Is that the reason your husband is bald?" inquired one of the few male members of the audience.

It was lucky for him that he got two seconds start in the race for the door.

S.S.S. CURES CHRONIC ULCERS

Chronic Ulcers are the result of a deeply polluted and foul blood supply. The blood is filled with impurities and germs which are being constantly fed into the place through the circulation, until all the surrounding flesh becomes diseased and the sore an obstinate and permanent trouble. Every symptom of an old ulcer suggests pollution; the discharge, the red, angry looking flesh, the inflammation and discoloration of surrounding parts, all show that the ulcer is prevented from healing by the constant drainage through it of impurities from the blood. This impure condition of the blood may be hereditary, or it may be the remains of some constitutional disease, or the effects of a long spell of sickness, leaving disease germs in the system, or the absorption of the refuse of the body which has not been properly expelled through the natural channels. But whatever the cause, the blood is so weakened and polluted that it does not properly nourish and stimulate the place, and the sore cannot heal. Salves, plasters, lotions, etc., keep the sore or ulcer clean, relieve pain, and perhaps reduce inflammation, but can never permanently heal them because they do not reach the blood. S. S. S. goes down to the very fountain-head of the trouble, drives out all poisons and germs, builds up the weak, sluggish blood, gives energy and strength to the system, and by sending a fresh, healthy stream of blood to the diseased parts, allows the ulcer to heal naturally and permanently. Nothing reaches inherited taints like S. S. S. It cleanses the circulation of every trace of hereditary disease or impurity, and those who have nursed and treated an old sore for years will experience good results as soon as the system becomes influenced by S. S. S. Book on Sores and Ulcers and medical advice free to all who write.

EIGHTS IN GOOD RACE

Seniors Win Over Mile Course by Less Than Two Lengths.

More Than 400 Attend Opening Smoker at Boat Club.

Pulling a stroke of about thirty-six to the minute, the "senior" eight-oared crew of the Duluth Boat club crossed the line last evening with about three-quarters of a length of open water on the juniors, who were vainly trying to pull up the ground they had lost at the turn.

The race was a good one, in spite of the weather and water conditions. The "bantam" four in the bow of the senior boat stood up well under the fast stroke set by Church and the two senior men behind him, and they kept their form throughout the race, in spite of the choppy water. The juniors were rowing a slower stroke, and at times when they got together on it, their boat traveled fully as well as the senior boat, but they were plainly nervous and their work grew ragged at times.

The seniors jumped their opponents at the start, as was expected, and drew away until they had nearly a boat-length lead. The juniors, however, then began to swing together and they steadily pulled up, until at the beginning of the turn there was a scant quarter of a length between the boats. It was at the turn that the juniors lost the race. They were slow in getting their boat around, and the seniors pulled away at least two boat lengths before the juniors got squared into the course again. The juniors were then facing the proposition of regaining two lengths in a half-mile row. For the first quarter of a mile they made a game fight, and the boat ran better than it did at any time during the race, the men swinging together and getting their backs into the work. They regained nearly a length of the lost ground, but one or two crabs put them to the bad, and their form was ragged during the remainder of the race. The seniors picked up some of the lost ground, and finished with about a length and three-quarters to the good.

While much of the credit for the victory was due to the three senior men, Church, Skelton and Haroldson, who steadied the boat and set a terrific stroke for so early in the year, too much credit cannot be given the five juniors behind them, who were able to follow the stroke and who pulled a hard and consistent race. They earned their victory fairly and showed the best form yet exhibited this season. Every man rowing for all that was in him.

The juniors have no cause for discouragement in the race. Eliminating the ground lost at the turn, the two crews would have finished almost on an equal basis, and during the stretches that the juniors get together and put their backs and legs into the work, they held their opponents. Practice will eliminate the raggedness.

It was certainly by long odds the best race the boat club has ever been able to pull off on the 30th day of May.

The smoker following the race was attended by more than 300 members and their friends, and the chilly northeast wind did not put a damper on the proceedings. A cheerful fire was kept burning in the open fireplace, and the musical program arranged by Prof. Custance was most thoroughly enjoyed. The soloists were C. O. Applehagen, George Suffel, Leon Cooley and Frank Hughes, the latter giving a trombone solo. The boys' choir of St. Paul's church assisted, and all the guests joined in the choruses.

President Julius H. Barnes and Clarence B. Miller spoke, and the gathering broke up after light refreshments had been served in the cafe.

CHICAGO, 6; ST. Louis, 5.

Chicago, May 30.—Several scattered hits had little effect on the scoring in yesterday's game, which Chicago defeated St. Louis, 6 to 5. The locals scored all their runs in the fourth inning on four battery and two fielding errors and two singles. White's bases on balls and poorly judged fielding resulted in the St. Louis tallies. Score:

BEER AND COFFEE

The difference between beer and coffee is this:

Coffee is not in any respect a food, while pure, rich beer is full of nutrition.

Coffee is a temporary stimulant, whose use is often followed by a depressing reaction that racks the nervous system.

Moose Beer

As a table beverage is an excellent substitute for coffee at meal times and is being used as such by an ever-increasing list of patrons.

THE LIST OF ENTRIES

Boys Who Will Compete in Interscholastic Meet.

Herald Trophy Will Go to the Winning School.

The interscholastic field meet committee met at the Boys' department last evening and completed arrangements for the big meet which will be pulled off Saturday afternoon at 2:30, at the driving park, West Third street.

The backward summer has dampened the ardor of some of the schools with the result that five have withdrawn. The ones that are entering, however, are going in with the determination to win and the contest promises to be most keen. In the fifteen events there are 102 entries. The winning school will receive a silk banner and in addition to this they will receive The Herald trophy, a magnificent silver loving cup. The Winning school will have its name engraved on it and it will remain in the school until the next meet. When it has been won three times it will become the property of the school winning it. The winning boy will receive a gold medal, and the boy winning second place will receive a silver medal, donated by the Kelley Hardware company. The winners of a first or second place will receive a silk badge. The following will act as officials: Track Judges, George M. Brace, Fred Ryan; time-keeper, William Eklund; field judges, Elmer McDevitt, David Duncan; scorer, Max Pulford; starter, T. S. Philips; announcer, A. Helmer; clerk of course, N. D. McLeod. TROPHY IS PRESENTED

Oarsmen Will Have Cup and Medals to Row for.

Announcement was made last evening at the boat club smoker that M. Kelley and J. F. Killerin, two old oarsmen, had presented the club with a handsome silver cup and four gold medals. The cup and the medals are for competition among the four-oared crews in the clubs, and the rules governing the contest will be drawn up by the rowing committee. The announcement was greeted with much enthusiasm.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Memorial day is not a holiday, in the common acceptance of the term, which means a day for merry-making and pleasuring. It is a holy day, in the original and deeper sense which gave birth to the word. It is a day for solemn commemoration of the heroic deeds of those who were strong and active in their youthful vigor upwards of forty years ago, when they said good-by to their wives and sweethearts, shouldered their muskets, and set forth to do battle for the integrity of the nation and to prove with their lives, if need be, their belief that freedom is not confined by limitations of race or color.

Today, more than a generation later, those gallant ranks are pitifully thin. Thousands lie under the sod, in the home cemeteries and upon far-off battle grounds. The ranks of the living heroes are dwindling every day, and as they shrink, the sanctity of the day takes on a new and deeper tinge of meaning.

In the early days of the observance of the day, when the surviving veterans themselves were still strong and vigorous, unless perchance they carried with them, as many did, the lasting effects of wounds, sickness or deprivation, it was a sacred day. But how much more so now, when so many of those who went out in their youth and hope have lain themselves down in their last rest, in the bivouac of the dead.

It is not alone to pay our respects to the memories of those that fought and died upon the battlefield or to those who have passed into their honored graves in the many pregnant years that have gone by since North and South again clasped hands as brothers to rebuild and to repair the ravages of the great civil conflict, that we have set this day apart. It is to honor the living, as well as the dead, to show our love and appreciation of the feeble battalions that march today to pay their annual homage to the comrades that have gone before, but whom they will, alas, soon join.

It is the growing sense of the deeper significance of the day that has given birth to the new spirit of Memorial day, which is, to the lasting credit of the patriotism of Duluth, so evident in this city. A few years ago many thoughtlessly abandoned the day to sports, and while a band shamefully small attended the memorial exercises, the mass of the people indulged in sports, games and outings. Today this is frowned upon, and rightly.

Today, instead of leaving the entire burden upon the feeble shoulders of the veterans, there is a large Citizens' staff to undertake the hard work, to march with the old soldiers in their parade and to prove to the survivors of the great civil conflict that the citizenship of Duluth appreciates them, honors them, and would make their few remaining days as peaceful and pleasant as may be.

This is well. It speaks well for Duluth, and it proves that patriotism, which many have feared was dwindling, is as strong and purposeful today as it ever was.

LINCOLN AT GETTYSBURG.

It is a peculiarly fitting thing that it should be the custom at nearly every Memorial day ceremony to read to the assembled people Lincoln's address at the dedication of the Gettysburg national cemetery. That address is one of the world's greatest utterances. In its spirit, instinct with patriotism, and in its diction, strong with the strength that simplicity and purpose provide, it is a perpetual stimulus to high-minded citizenship. As a bit of literature, it is unexcelled. As a national document, it is worthy of a place alongside the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

It is a strange and characteristic thing that Lincoln himself had no idea, when his speech was finished, what a great feat he had accomplished. He was not the orator of the day. A man of brilliant parts had been chosen, and had made a speech of surpassing brilliancy and finish, amid the clamor of enthusiastic applause. Lincoln arose to make his talk, and stood silent for a moment, as though embarrassed, and a wave of disappointment seemed to surge through the crowd. When he had finished there was no sound of applause. The audience stood in breathless silence. Lincoln retired, it is said, believing that he had failed. Yet the speech of his predecessor is forgotten, while the words that the the martyred president uttered on that occasion are immortal, and will never be forgotten so long as love of country and love of liberty remain in the hearts of men.

The speech follows:

> Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men were created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any other nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We are met to dedicate a portion of it as the final resting place of those who here gave their lives that the nation might live.
> It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add to or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here.
> It is rather for us, the living, to be here dedicated to the unfinished work they have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we may take increased devotion to the cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain, and that the nation shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that the government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

UNIFORMITY OR CENTRALIZATION.

The New York legislature has been considering a measure which ought to pass, whether it does or not, and which ought to be taken up by all the states.

It provides that the governor of New York shall appoint three delegates to a convention, to which all the other governors are to be asked to send a similar number of delegates, to meet in New York in October of this year. This convention is to consider, and to recommend to the legislatures of their several states for enactment, uniform laws in the matter of fire and life insurance, divorce, labor, public utilities, interstate commerce, corporate organization, and such other subjects as may be of interest and importance to the people of the several states so represented.

Matters would proceed very much more smoothly if the laws on subjects of common interest to all the states were uniform in all the states. Until such laws are uniform, there must always be more or less friction and difficulty.

Some steps have already been taken to this end. A convention has fixed upon a uniform divorce law, though it does not appear that very many states have adopted it. A convention has arranged uniform life insurance laws, and these have had a better fate. Minnesota adopted most of them at its recent session of the legislature, and other states have taken them up.

The question of state rights would have no importance whatever if the states would cooperate to a greater extent in unifying their laws on all subjects of common interest. If they do not, the federal government is certain to take such matters over, sentiment to the contrary notwithstanding. The only alternative to that is that conditions shall remain as they are, with grave evils going unwhipped of justice simply because they can find safe refuge in some states when barred from others.

The people are not likely to suffer this condition always. Either the states, by uniform laws wisely devised and firmly enforced, must drive such evils out of every hiding place and scourge them from the land, or the public will demand that the stronger central government take charge of affairs and accomplish with one law and one executive what fifty laws and fifty executives have failed to do.

The states are properly jealous of all the rights that belong to them, but any so-called right that consists in providing a home for nuisances that are barred from other states, leaving those other states with good laws well enforced helpless in the grasp of monopoly and selfish exactions, has no claim to mercy or to the support of those who hold a sentimental doctrine.

The safest way will be for the states to adopt uniform legislation, but it is a slow and at present well nigh a hopeless endeavor.

THE RULE OF PROPERTY.

Some individual, whose name is not given, but who might have been any one of a dozen typical capitalistic conservatives, was recently reported in an interview with a Wall street newspaper as making among other remarks, the following illuminative utterance:

> Property to protect itself must rule, and in one way or another will always do so.

This sagacious individual then went on to say that if property could not rule by fair means it would rule by foul. Necessity knows no law, and its fundamental necessity is to rule. It is as essential to its existence as breathing is to a man's life. Hence property contrives in some way or another to be in control of the government. If the masses will not submit to its rule willingly, then capital seizes those weapons which are most convenient and enforces obedience.

It would be interesting to note just how many of the capitalists of the country would admit that these views represent their sentiments. Very likely a large proportion of them believe much the same thing, even if few of them could be induced to admit it publicly. It is not, of course, judicious to talk about such things in public, and it will be noted that the individual who gave this talk was careful not to let his name accompany it. However, it sounds like a Harriman; Harriman being typical of the class of capitalists that places manhood and honor and virtue and national integrity lower in the scale than property.

No more absurd, reactionary, and vicious doctrine was ever promulgated. The view that humanity is the slave of property is abhorrent to all decent judgment. It means a serfdom more ignoble than the slavery of older days. It means that mankind should bow down and worship the golden calf of capital, and should sacrifice its comforts, its well-being, and even its existence that property may flourish.

Property should minister to the wants of humanity, and the view that it should rule mankind is not only ridiculous, but, far worse, it is criminal. It is this view that has led the agents of capital to corrupt public officials and to undermine popular government by making traitors out of the sworn servants of the people.

The theory that property must rule means that the owners of property, controlling through that property, must rule. That means the creation of a plutocracy, reigning by virtue of its possession of property, and not by virtue of its possession of any qualifications for governing.

To make property greater than humanity is to make light of human virtue and to make humanity cheaper than it is, when God knows it is cheap enough in these days of human sacrifices to the profit of capital through railroad wrecks due to inefficient equipment and incompetent help, through the slow but sure destruction of adulterated food products, and through the crushing out of human life and human qualities in insanitary, dangerous and noisome working places.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"The railroads are not entirely blameless for the large number of broken rails now being reported," said Carl Stevenson of New York at the Spalding. "Good rails are injured by rough handling in unloading and the initial cause of fracture can frequently be traced to carelessness of this kind. If rails are injured by one blow when thrown against each other in handling, a greater damage must be done by the repeated hammering they get from flat spots on cast iron wheels and irregularly worn tires of heavy locomotives.

"If cast wheels were made truly circular and of uniform hardness throughout the thread, flat spots could be largely reduced in number, but the low price paid for wheels will not insure such qualities, and, in fact, it is resulting in large numbers of wheels having opposite qualities. The Master Car Builders' specification for cast iron wheels allows a variation in diameter in the same wheel of 1-16 inch, and if this is accompanied by irregularity in hardness, the tendency will be for the brakeshoe to wear the wheel oblong, and with a slight excess pressure on the brakeshoes a flat spot is developed.

"It is desirable, therefore, to use wheels which are truly circular when first placed in service, for then they will be less likely to wear flat. Wheel grinding machines have been greatly improved in recent years, and the cutting capacity of abrasive materials so largely increased that the cost of producing circular car wheels is reduced to such a small figure that it can be shown to be an economical practice with regard to wheel service alone. The effect on the rail and the rolling equipment are also so beneficial that good railroad practice must soon demand that new wheels shall be circular and that the size of the flat spot, which is allowed by the interchange rules with high capacity cars, must be decreased."

Alas, Poor Taft!

New York World: By what the secretary of war's admiring friend John L. Sullivan would call "a swift jolt" the Hon. William H. Taft is eliminated completely from the presidential perspective. The eliminator is no less a personage than Wilbur F. Wakeman, general secretary of the American Protective Tariff League. In a Chicago interview Mr. Wakeman says:

"As a judge on the supreme (?) bench Mr. Taft was one of the greatest jurists ahat ever graced that body. As governor of the Philippines Mr. Taft was a splendid governor—for the islands—but he will not do as the standard-bearer of the Republican party at the next election. His policy, both in the Philippines and at the Isthmus of Panama, was for free trade and not for protection of the American industries, which has always been the foremost plank in the platform of the Republican party.

"That is why Mr. Taft will not bear the standard of the Republican party next year."

What does it profit a man to be a great jurist and a great administrator if he is not sound in the faith of St. Dingley? Better that a millstone were tied around his neck and he were cast into the sea.

"Quite. How can I doubt? He has shut me up here in this little cage of a place, where he expects me to spend all my time, with nobody's company but his own. If he does not love me, why does he take so much trouble to make me miserable?"

And there shone in her fine eyes the beautiful, strong light of unshaken confidence.

THE WEATHER.

Though the wind has persisted in sticking to the northeast, and the weather man expects it to be there tonight and tomorrow, it was fairly warm this morning, and the outlook was for fair weather, without much change in temperature. Last night's lowest temperature here was 37 degs., and yesterday's highest was 41 degs. The trees, uncommonly late in spreading their foliage, are beginning to pick up courage, and half-enfolded leaflets are to be observed on most of them these days, while the grass is growing bravely, a few flowers have struggled out, and the weeds are beginning to show their unwelcome heads.

A year ago today it was cloudy, and there was a cold northeast wind.

The sun rose this morning at 4:18, and sets tonight at 7:53, making 15 hours and 35 minutes of sunshine.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "During Wednesday or last night showers fell quite generally over the Northwest, except in Minnesota. Temperatures have fallen in North Dakota and Manitoba."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

A 200-Pound Mouse.

Charleston Gazette: Following close upon the killing of a 90-pound rat, at Glen Jean, by an enterprising citizen of that town, comes the news of a 200-pound mouse, seen by Hallowell Dabney, at Smithers, during the night.

The mouse as described by Mr. Dabney, was a pale gray color, with mauve trimmings, its eyes of sky blue with borders of vermilion, and its ears a sunburnt yellow, striped with fiddler's green.

Yesterday a wagon left the local wholesale house with a quantity of whisky and beer for a saloon at Smither's, but broke down on the way, and Mr. Dabney was left to watch the load until a new wagon came this morning. Mr. Dabney says he first saw the enormous mouse shortly after 9 o'clock, coming down a mulberry tree backward. The enormous size of the rodent frightened him, and he remained quiet while it consumed a quantity of the whisky and beer. In the midst of its feast it became frightened at a passing K. & M. train and ran back toward the creek, stepping on Mr. Dabney and rendering him unconscious.

Mr. Dabney's remarkable story is borne out by the fact that a quantity of the intoxicants had disappeared and Mr. Dabney was unconscious when found this morning.

"JOHNSON OF MINNESOTA."

El Paso, Tex., Herald: Up Lake Superior way there is a raw-boned, smooth-faced, firm-jawed Swede, who answers to the name of John A. Johnson and who happens to be governor of the state of Minnesota. He happens to be governor because about 168,000 voters who voted for Roosevelt in 1904, voted for the Democrat, John A. Johnson, for governor, and because they returned him last year by a smashing plurality of 77,000, which meant that 235,000 Roosevelt men voted for Johnson, the Democratic candidate, last year. Johnson's entire administration is Republican with a minor exception or two.

Johnson is as popular throughout the Northwest as he is in his own state. Men of his nationality are more apt to be Republicans than Democrats, and the Northwest is full of them, but men of Johnson's type get ahead in politics without regard to ordinary party lines.

Johnson has made a popular governor, fairly conservative and yet free from too many entangling alliances with railroad and corporate interests. The very fact that he has used his position to build up the state of Minnesota instead of to build up a Democratic machine is what has given him his great hold on the people. In national affairs Johnson is rather inclined to the Bryan wing, and it is even said that Bryan may favor him in the national convention. It is deemed likely that Johnson will be on the ticket, if not in first place, then in second.

If the party should put him an its ticket it would be a shrewd move, for there seems no likelihood of the Democracy winning the national election, while some prestige might come to the party if a few states in the West and Northwest could be turned over.

New York World: Governor Johnson of Minnesota, one of the few Democrats who have succeeded in surviving the Roosevelt tidal wave, urges his party to make tariff revision its slogan in 1908. If the party had a leader who was capable of making this issue the paramount one, instead of pursuing the will-o'-the-wisp of government ownership of railroads through the sloughs of defeat, it would not be so disheartened at the prospect of another presidential election.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Walker Pilot: When one goes in for quality in purchasing whiskey he generally becomes intoxicated; when he considers quantity alone, he gets drunk. Both quality and quantity produce the same kind of a headache, however.

Rochester Bulletin: Neither half of Minnesota could afford to be set apart. Even though always there should be an "up state" and a "down state," as there is in New York, still there could be no separation which would not injure. The forests of the north are as important to the south as the prairies of the south are important to the north, and the manufacturing center of the Twin Cities, with its shipping facilities, is as necessary to Duluth, the fifth port of the world's shipping, as the shipping port is necessary to the making center.

Northfield News: The degree of prosperity which obtains in any community is dependent upon the support which every citizen gives to the business in his home town. It is simply a small edition of the protective principle which has made the prosperity of our country great.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: In 1880 Minnesota had a favorite son that it put forth as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, and the convention squeezed out ten votes for him. His name was Windom. But that was many years ago, and Minnesota has grown some since then—grown in political as well as commercial importance, and it is to be believed that a Democratic convention would do better by a candidate from this state.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Now is the time to work those split-log drags. If the roads are rounded up and the rut staken out before the rains come we will have good roads all summer. A little work now will pay big.

Princeton Union: When Baron Isaac Stephenson goes down to Washington next fall he will, of course, put forth every effort to ameliorate the condition of the poor down-trodden lumber manufacturer.

Owatonna Journal-Chronicle: Joel P. Heatwole's little hammer, yclept the Northfield News, keeps tapping merrily. Joel gets in some good knocks right where they are needed, but all his knocking generally is not very effective because of the personal animus which seems to be back of it. Joel is achieving the title of being the champion knocker in Minnesota, and it doesn't do him any good. It's really good evidence in support of his allegation that he isn't looking for anything politically any more.

Red Wing Republican: Civic pride is essential to the interests of every town. Basic the powers that be in every good undertaking.

Austin Transcript: Sam Langum of the Preston Times evidently feels very bad because he was turned down by Governor Johnson in his application for appointment as judge of probate for Fillmore. Everybody seems to endorse the course of the governor except Langum.

Anoka Free Press: President Roosevelt's three "terms" will consist of the terms "Square Deal," "Muck Rake" and "Big Stick."

LINES TO A LUCH.

Baltimore American: "Did you ship that load of elephants' ears to the florist on the suburban express?"

"No; I thought it would be more in order to send them on the trunk line."

Philadelphia Press: "Your prejudice against Mr. Youngmate is entirely unreasonable, pa," protested the willful young heiress. "There's a great deal in that young man."

"Yes," replied the shrewd old father, "and sometimes I'm afraid it's a great deal of the stuff I smelled on his breath the other day."

Houston Post: "Reginald, what is this I hear about your having been engaged in a fight with our new neighbor's little boy?"

Yes'm, I was."

"Now, I wish you to promise me that you will never quarrel with him again; will you make me that promise?"

"Yes'm; he kin lick me."

Washington Star: "I see that an Ohio couple, misled by sociological hubbub, solemnly entered upon a 'trial' marriage."

"Was it successful?"

"Well, as a marriage, it had defects, but the trial was all right, the jury giving them two years apiece."

Puck: Cigar Manufacturer—Scooped again! Why in blazes didn't some of the gigantic intellects on my staff think of that?

Manager—What?

Cigar Manufacturer—What! Why, Panatella & Maduro have flooded the trade with a nickel cigar wearing three bands!

Washington Herald: "I can't last much longer, my dear," said old Mr. Kidseman, who was nearing his end. "But, ah! It's good to think that even after death I'll be near you and watch over you."

"Well—er—really," replied the soon-to-be young widow, "if that's true, Silas, I'm afraid my extravagance will pain you terribly."

Philadelphia Ledger: "Hold on!" said the policeman. "You mustn't undress on this beat."

The citizen about to enter his own domicile looked grieved.

"But, Mis'her Offisher," he remonstrated, "I don't wan' anybody to hear me go in an' chish such a loud suit."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Nearly everybody is honest until he gets caught.

A gambler is the fellow who gets your money at it.

The difference between a quaint trick and an ugly habit is whether your child or somebody else's does it.

Many of Them Say It.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Henry James remarks that he never heard an American woman say "thank you." But did Henry ever do anything to draw out the acknowledgment?

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1887.

The continuance of the exceptionally beautiful and balmy weather during the past week and which has made the whole month of May the paragon of all the months of the year, has given to Duluth society a strong impetus to change the social battlefield from indoors to out. Sailing and rowing parties, fishing and pleasure excursions and the festive picnic are now the order of the day.

Mrs. Patterson of Kansas City, a sister of Mrs. C. R. Presley of this city, and son are visiting in Duluth.

The marriage of Arthus C. Ely of Duluth and Miss Carolyn Morse of Chicago took place at Cleveland on May 25. After a few weeks' tour they will come to Duluth to reside.

J. D. Howard to S. F. White, lots 269 and 271, Lake avenue, Upper Duluth, $1,550.

George Long to Joseph E. Hoffman, lots 1 and 2, 13 to 16, block 52, lots 1 and 2, 7 to 10, 15 and 16, block 53, lots 1 and 2, 7 to 10, 15 and 16, block 54, London, $12,500.

West Duluth Land company to P. W. Gorman, lot 13, block 3, West Duluth, $300.

Frank Pike of Chicago reached Duluth, and in company with Mr. Barkey, from the same city, will start a retail boot and shoe store at 126 West Superior street. The style of the firm will be Pike & Barkey.

Fred Bayha of Alpena, Mich., has leased the store at West Superior formerly occupied by James McBeth, and will occupy it as a furniture store.

A. C. Weaver of Lake City has come to Duluth to reside.

Superior stret was crowded with people on both sides. The head of the column started at Superior street and Fifth avenue west with Chief of Police Dorin and twenty men at the front, followed by Brooke's brass band with a drum major and eighteen pieces. Next in line was Willis A. Gorman, G. A. R. post, with over fifty men in line, then came company K, Second regiment, M. N. G. with forty odd men in command of Capt. DeWitt. The next division was composed of Knights of Pythias in uniform, Odd Fellows, the Order of St. Jean Baptiste and the firemen following up the rear. The procession went east to Tenth avenue and thence to Forest Hill cemetery.

DEFENSE IS OUTLINED

Claimed Argyle Did Not Shoot at Miss Butchart.

Mr. Culkin Says Client Was Mentally Irresponsible for Act.

The state rested its case against Frederick M. Argyle yesterday afternoon with the testimony of Chief of Police Troyer, who told of the interview he had with Argyle at headquarters following the latter's arrest. The other witnesses called yesterday by the state were R. F. Barrows, Sergt. Gilbo, who arrested Argyle, and the physician who removed Miss Butchart's eye at the hospital.

The state's case depends mostly on the testimony of Miss Bessie Butchart, who testified Tuesday, and was under cross-examination until noon yesterday.

W. E. Culkin, for the defense, urged that the court direct the state to bring in other witnesses to the shooting, Mrs. Lillie Argyle, a man named Parker and Miss Butchart's father, for the purpose of throwing more light on the shooting affray. This County Attorney Norton refused to do, claiming that Argyle had the right to subpoena the persons named if he so desired.

Mr Culkin then outlined the defense to the jury.

He claimed that he would show that Argyle never shot at Bessie Butchart and that at the time of the shooting he was in a mentally irresponsible condition.

Mr. Culkin said he would prove by reliable witnesses that Argyle does not belong to the criminal class, that he has always borne a good reputation as a peaceful and law-abiding citizen and has held positions of trust. The alleged change in Argyle's life, said to be caused by domestic troubles, was mentioned. Mr. Culkin laying stress on the tendency it might have to make the defendant's mental condition such that he was not responsible for what he did the night the shooting took place.

L. C. Coffin, the first witness for the defense, testified concerning Argyle's efforts to learn to dance, and recalled the latter's alleged strange actions and seeming melancholy condition of mind. Jacob Johnson, an old friend of Argyle, was a character witness, testifying to the good reputation the defendant had always borne up to the time of his trouble at Lester Park. Mr Johnson was still on the stand when the court adjourned until Friday morning.

Flora Wolf Renounces All Claim to the Beresford Estate.

El Paso, Tex., May 30.—Flora Wolf, commonly called "Lady Flo," the actress who set up a claim against the estate of the late Lord Delaval-Beresford as his common law wife, yesterday accepted the $10,000 devised to her by the will of Lord Beresford and an additional $5,000, waiving all claims to the estate and certifying that she was never, either in law or in fact, the wife of Lord Beresford.

DULUTH WOMAN IS PRESIDENT

Of Auxiliary of Switchmen's Union of North America.

Detroit, Mich., May 30.—The biennial convention of the Switchmen's Union of North America, which has been in session here for the last ten days, re-elected Frank T. Hawley of Buffalo president. The election will be completed Friday, the convention having adjourned over on account of Memorial day.

The present convention has witnessed the healing of the breach which occurred two years ago in the Ladies' auxiliary and which resulted in there being two auxiliaries. The faction that two years ago followed Mrs. Fred Miller of San Francisco into a new organization when the executive board decapitated her, came to Detroit with a showing of $1,000 in the treasury as against an empty strong box for the old society and succeeded in placing its officers at the head of a reorganized auxiliary absorbing both the old ones. Mrs. Barbara Stang of Duluth is president and Miss Sarah T. Jackson of Buffalo secretary treasuror of the new auxiliary, which will be known as the Auxiliary of Switchmen's Union of North America.

BECOMES BRIDE OF MILLIONAIRE

Spokane, Wash., May 30.—Anna Larson-Peterson, born of humble parents in Sweden, has become the wife of D. C. Corbin, millionaire railroad builder and sugar manufacturer, president of the Spokane International Railway company, whose line he built after selling the Spokane Falls & Northern railway to the Great Northern Railway company. The wedding took place at Mount Vernon, N. Y., May 22, and was not made public until the couple arrived in Spokane, a few days ago. Mrs. Corbin is 35 years of age, while her husband is 70. Close friends say it was a love match.

Mrs. Corbin's romance reads more like one of Hans Christian Anderson's fairy tales than the story of modern life in the active and virile Northwest. The daughter of a small farmer in rural Sweden, as a little girl, she dreamed of the future, and before she attained her majority she came to America, like many of her countrymen and women, to improve her station in life.

After working in various households in New England and the Middle West states, she came to Spokane twelve years ago and entered the home of D. C. Corbin as a housekeeper and companion to Mrs. Corbin. She gained the friendship of Mrs. Corbin, who assisted the girl with her education. Shortly before Mrs. Corbin died, six years ago, Anna married Antone Peterson, at that time identified with a local hardware firm, but they lived together only a few weeks, and two years afterward the young woman obtained a divorce at Tacoma.

Before her marriage she invested her savings in realty, which she sold profitably, and with the proceeds, went to Chicago to place herself under instructions, afterward going to Boston and New York, whence she went abroad with a teacher and three other pupils on an educational tour.

She traveled extensively a year, and in the meantime entered correspondence with her former employer, who asked her hand in marriage three years ago. She gave her consent several weeks ago, when Mr. Corbin started Eastward on a business trip and they were married at the home of a friend, the bride being given away by her brother, Hjalmer Larson, who is chief draughtsman for the Spokane International system.

Mrs. Corbin is of the Swedish type of beauty and has light hair and blue eyes. She is a brilliant conversationalist and speaks English with scarcely a trace of accent. She is also conversant with the French and German languages. She is a member of the Swedish Lutheran church, and it is said by intimate friends that she will use considerable of the fortune placed at her disposal by her husband in assisting her countrywomen and in works of charity. Through her marriage she becomes the mother-in-law of the earl of Oxford, whose wife is Mr. Corbin's daughter.

SUITS PROVIDED

For Seamen Who Desire to Dance at the Jamestown Exposition.

Norfolk, Va., May 30.—Replying to the official cognizance taken by the navy department of the exclusion of enlisted men in uniform in the dancing pavilion at the Pine Beach resort, adjoining the Jamestown exposition grounds, the management said yesterday that in excluding from the dancing floor enlisted men of the navy in uniform it had no idea of wilfully discriminating against the service uniform, but owing to the public prejudice of society against close association with the uniform of enlisted men of the navy the patrons of the dance pavilion had declared that they would withdraw their patronage if sailors in uniform were permitted on the floor. Only for the preservation of the profit and life of the dancing concession, they added, had action been taken by which United States seamen in uniform are excluded from the floor. It was also stated that money had been spent in preparing white duck suits for any sailor who will change their uniform and appear on the floor in the clothes provided free of charge.

Constipation and Its Causes

A Well-Known Remedy.

Constipation is one of man's worst enemies and half the bodily ills we suffer from are a result thereof. Nature meant that the bowels should be kept free and open—that we should have a free movement at least once a day. Of course, we ourselves are to a large extent responsible for our troubles by failure to observe Nature's laws. Our habits are irregular, we eat improper food with undue haste, and when we find our bowels do not move, have resort to powerful drugs and medicines, which are so drastic in their action that, although they may purge at first, they damage the tender lining of the stomach and bowels so as to leave a worse condition than before. And why take such injurious and expensive drugs when we can obtain from any druggist, much cheaper, a bottle of Nature's own remedy—the famous Mineral Laxative Water—HUNYADI JANOS—bottled at the springs in Hungary, in use nearly half a century. One dose, ½ a tumblerful, drunk on arising in the morning (slightly warmed for best results) will bring within an hour a refreshing movement—gentle, natural, and thorough—without any griping or purging or other bad effects. A whole bottle costs but a trifle. Keep one always on hand. At all Druggists.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR QUEEN MAUD

Horses Become Frightened and Drag Her Carriage Into Lake.

Paris, May 30.—An alarming accident marred the visit of King Haakon and Queen Maud of Norway, to Versailles yesterday. Their majesties were accompanied by President and Mme. Falleries. Queen Maud, Mme. Falleries and Gen. Michael were in one landau drawn by four horses. As the carriage was crossing the low, narrow bridge in the park that leads over Lake Marie Antoinette to the Swiss village near the Petit Trianon, the horses suddenly became frightened and commenced plunging furiously. The bridge is without rails, low stone copings taking their place. First one horse fell into the water and the continued plunging of the other carried two more over the side of the bridge. The postillions went with them.

In the meantime the ladies were greatly alarmed. Gen. Michael, realizing the danger, burst open the door of the landau, half-carried, half-helped the queen and the wife of the president out of the carriage and to the end of the short bridge. The general's action was none too prompt, for just as the ladies were in safety, the oscillating carriage followed the horses into the lake.

Shouts from the postillions had told King Haakon and President Falleres, who were in another carriage, that something was wrong and they hastened back. Upon perceiving the danger the king threw off his hat and coat and was ready to leap into the water, but this was not necessary. The ladies were not hurt, although they were much agitated and nervously shaken.

The water under the bridge is not deep and Dragoons rode in and pulled out the horses. One of the animals had two legs broken and was at once killed.

Foreign Minister Pichon gave a dinner at the foreign office last night in honor of the visiting sovereigns. President Falleres, the members of the cabinet and the diplomatic representatives, including the American ambassador and Mrs. White, were present.

Whether buyers come to your store who were in another carriage, that something was wrong and they hastened back. Upon perceiving the danger the king threw off his hat and coat and was ready to leap into the water, but by ones and twos or by tens and dozens depends upon how convincing your store advertising is in The Herald.

BELIEVED BY INVESTORS

Were the Interviews With Railway Magnates as Published.

Were Intended to Affect Congress, But Acted As Boomerangs.

New York, May 30.—Railroad managers are really having a very difficult time between investors and the public. During the pendency of the rate bills and other railway legislation in congress, able writers were kept busy detailing in the public prints the losses that would undoubtedly result to the railways in case the proposed legislation was enacted. Many investors believed these statements, which were not made for their consumption, but were put out to influence congressmen and affect general public sentiment. These statements have proved to be boomerangs. The congressmen knew they were prepared by the railway lobby and promotion bureau. The people as a rule paid no attention to them. The investors, always fearful and attentive to affairs affecting their securities, were the only persons who read, reflected and resolved to purchase no more under such frightful impending disasters. Some very prominent railway presidents are still proclaiming, protesting and prophesying dire results and investors are listening and not buying. Other wiser railway officials are saying not a word, but doing as do the people of France, "the very best they can." It is certainly not remarkable that the market for railway stocks and bonds is demoralized when the leading New York newspapers devote columns to the speeches and interviews of prominent railway presidents, deploring present conditions and depicting the woes that will come to railways and to certain sections of this country if public opinion as to railways becomes crystallized into law.

The late Samuel Spencer was a shrewd man, a successful railway operator. He did a great deal for the South in the way of transportation, and the results of his work for the South made a great deal of money for Mr. Spencer and his associates. He did very little talking to the public, did not endeavor to pose as an altruist, and was plainly in the railway business for the profits that were to be made in that method of transportation. He was an unobstrusive, successful railroad man. The people of the East, of the North, of the South, of the West do not want the railway companies bankrupted, they do not wish the properties of the companies confiscated, but find fierce opposition fomented and sustained by existing lines, and in very few of the states east of the Mississippi river can competing lines be established. If existing lines cannot give good service without loss to their shareholders, why not let others who desire to establish new lines be freely given the franchises which will permit them to go into the business?

The truth is the great majority of existing lines are making vast sums of money, and even in this prolonged campaign of the railway men to prove poverty the reports of gross earnings and of net earnings contradict them week after week and month after month.

On a fair and honest valuation of actual investment it is doubtful if any class of enterprise in the United States pays as good, steady return and profit as railroad companies in which the stockholders secure honest, able managers and directors. Of course some readers may say this limits the railroad companies to a very small class.

Admit it does; but, if so, it proves the evil lies not in the business, but in the business management, and certain management and the methods of the management are what the public and the investors alike object to under existing conditions.

There is no disaster facing railway interests from the people or from the law-making powers of the states or republic.

There is nothing in the business situation but indication of increased business for the railway companies. There is not even a limited area of the country today where there is a decrease in the business offered to the railway companies. If there has been one section of the country more than another which for the last two months have been declared to have all crops destroyed, it has been the section traversed by the Union Pacific railway.

Last week was published an interview with W. L. Park, superintendent of the road, in which crop conditions in the Northwest are declared to be normal, wheat is looking its best and recent snow and rains have provided ample moisture to insure the crop. He notes great activity in farming in Western Kansas and Eastern Colorado and reports many new people going into that region. Mr. Park is of the opinion that the coal situation is the most serious which confronts the people of that timberless country.

He says the population is growing so fast that the demands upon the mines are much beyond their capacity, and that the needs and requirements of the people will give a great tonnage of coal to the railway company. Mr. Park very correctly and wisely advises the people to lay in their coal supplies at once, before the fall crops pour their vast tonnage upon all the Western lines. It is said the car shops of the United States have orders on their books for upward of 200,000 cars and the locomotive works have orders for months ahead, and yet with all this immense new equipment there will be exhibited next autumn, winter and spring the same failure of the railways to do the business of the country speedily and efficiently. This is not said in a spirit of criticism, for the managers are as anxious as the public to do all the business offered promptly, but it is given as an illustration of the ever increasing demands of the public upon the transportation lines of the country, and permanent relief is not in sight for many years to come, and only after the expenditure of many hundreds of millions of dollars. With these widespread present conditions it is asinine folly for railway presidents to berate and threaten the general public or the people of a state or section. They have their hands full, and can keep their brains actively employed in providing facilities for the traffic which comes to their stations and crossings. They can afford to do a large business with less expense per ton and per passenger than they can a small one, and the large and growing business is right upon them now and will continue to increase for years in the future. They may charge betterments to expenses and thus reduce net earnings, in order to make a moderate earning instead of an actual large earning, but even this expedient will not be found lasting as a cover or a refuge from publicity of the truth.

There is not a crack in the strong foundation of the business of the world at this time. The foundation of the structure is the large amount of money in the hands of the people, and as that constantly increases there is no basic weakness.

In London the reserves of gold show large increases every month. In France the same state of affairs is reported. In New York, however dull the stock market, the banks and other financial institutions are not depleted in funds. Take the Chicago bank report of the 23d inst., and see how the millions accumulate. In the combined report of the state and national banks of that city it is shown that in the last 60 days deposits have increased $35,882,272. The total deposits amounted to the record-breaking sum of $715,447,460. The bank statement of the entire country of necessity must show a great increase in deposits. The gold imports for the past months of the present fiscal year show that we have received more than $86,000,000 in excess of our exports of gold. We have produced in the same period from our own mines upward of $80,000,000 in gold, so that we have at this writing nearly $200,000,000 in gold alone more than we had one year ago. To this must be added the many millions of increased currency furnished through the national banks and several additional millions of subsidiary silver put forth by the mints. We have these funds to do a great business on and as these funds are steadily increasing in volume and amount business can and will surely grow with proportionate volume. The foreign banks are piling up great reserves of gold, which they are obtaining from India, Africa and Australia, in order to be prepared for payments to us in the fall of millions of dollars for our crops of fibers and cereals. We will add these millions next autumn and winter to those we already possess and next month the gold from Alaska will be coming pouring into our mints ready to do its share toward the stimulation of trade. The professional mourners among the railway managers can be dispensed with under the brisk traffic the various lines and systems are now enjoying.

Other companies have taken large tonnages as heretofore reported, and important increases are pending. The present month has been productive of very large orders for structural material, and the prospect for continued demand is excellent. It is estimated that 100,000 tons will be required at Chicago and 50,000 tons at Kansas City before the close of the present year. The demand in other parts of the country is almost as heavy as in these Western cities.

Buying of pig iron is in smaller volume than for many weeks. There is not the slightest indication of weakness, the small number of transactions being due to the fact that consumers are well supplied and see no necessity for buying farther into the future. There is, however, no little interest in the market for the quarter of 1908 and among the noteworthy inquiries pending is one for 15,000 tons for delivery during that period for a large concern whose product goes to the railroads.

Questions in regard to the labor are attracting considerable attention. The new scale demanded by the Amalgamated association will be considered at a conference with the manufacturers to be held at Toledo, June 4. The result is in considerable doubt.

GREATER THAN LAST SEASON

Are Some of the Orders Being Placed for Steel.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 30.—The Iron Trade Review says: In spite of widespread reports of damages to crops, agricultural implement manufacturers continue as active buyers, and orders for steel bars are being placed in ever larger tonnages than last year at full prices. This active buying followed a period of marked hesitation. The other buyers, whose attitude has been somewhat in doubt, especially among railroad interests, are also more prominent in the market and railroads are urging deliveries of rolling stock. Sales of steel rails for 1908 delivery now on the books of the Illinois Steel company aggregate more than 250,000 tons. The Northern Pacific has closed with the Lackawanna Steel company for 75,000 tons of rails, in addition to the 65,000 tons recently placed with the Illinois Steel company. The Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railway company has closed with the Southern Railway system for 30,000 tons of open hearth rails for 1908 delivery. The Chesapeake & Ohio has placed a contract for 11,000 tons for 1908 delivery with an Eastern mill of the steel corporation.

GREAT WORK OF WOMEN

Purposes and Accomplishments of Women's Relief Corps.

Is Strongest Organization of Patriotic Women in the World.

The Women's Relief Corps, which has charge of the strewing of flowers on the water for the sailor-soldier dead, and which has been tendered the use of the naval training ship Gopher for that duty, is the largest patriotic and beneficient organization of women in the world, and does an important work along many other lines as an auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic.

For the information of many who may not understand the object and aims of the organization a sketch of its history and purposes might not come amiss at this time.

During the Civil war many relief societies sprang up in the North and West, and, after the close of hostilities, when sick and maimed soldiers returned, unale to work or care for their loved ones, the ministrations of the loyal women continued, and not only was the veteran cared for, but his dependant ones as well.

In 1883 a number of societies were still in existence, and pursuant to a call of Paul Van Der Voort, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, their representatives assembled in Denver, and were organized into what has grown to magnificient proportions, carrying on its rolls more than 155,000 patriotic women. The best women of the land, in all walks of life, have considered it an honor to be enrolled under the banner whose motto is, Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty.

The streams of bounty of the order have flowed through many channels to reach the one great end and more than $3,000,000 have been used in relief since its organization.

The aims and objects of the Women's Relief Corps are:

To specially aid and assist the Grand Army of the Republic, and to perpetuate the memory of their heroic dead.

To assist such union veterans as need our help and protection, and to extend needful aid to their widows and orphans. To find them homes and employment, and assure them of sympathy and friends. To cherish and emulate the deeds of our army nurses, and of all loyal women who rendered loving service to our country in her hour of peril.

To maintain true allegiance to the United States of America; to inculcate lessons of patriotism and love of country among our children and in the communities in which we live; and encourage the spread of universal liberty and equal rights to all.

This organization was the first to introduce the salute to the flag in the public schools and make the observance of flag day general, by preparing and carrying out suitable programs.

There are two salutes to the flag taught in the schools, the one for the older scholars being, "I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the republic for which it stands; one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

The other is taught the younger pupils, and is: "I give my head and my heart to God and my country; one country, one language and one flag."

The Women's Relief Corps is an incorporated body and owns much valuable real estate.

Andersonville Prison park belongs to the order, and, under the skillful direction of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Turner, chairman of the committee having the grounds in charge, has been made to blossom as the rose.

Deeds have been given several states for plats of ground upon which to place monuments, in memory of sons who lost their lives within the enclosure, while confined as prisoners during the Civil war.

The park is the mecca for loyal people every year ,and especially upon Memorial day.

The finances of the Women's Relief Corps are in splendid condition, the national treasury reporting that on Aug. 18, 1906, there was a balance of $8,131 in the Andersonville fund, $1,060 in the Southern memorial fund, $2,091 in the emergency fund, and $17,038 in all funds.

There was received for the California sufferers $5,332.10.

Expended in relief last year and on Memorial day, $207,656.25.

The number of persons assisted was 29,101.

There are 2,800 corps in the order.

The total expended since the organization is $3,057,444.97.

Next summer when the national convention is held, the jubilee committee will present an attractive program, and it is expected that the convention will be the best in the history of the order.

Every loyal woman is given a cordial invitation to join the auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Women's Relief Corps.

RAILROAD EXEMPT.

Commodity Freight Law Not Applicable to Minneapolis & Red Lake.

St. Paul, May 30.—The state railroad commission has ordered that the Minneapolis, Red Lake & Manitoba railroad be exempted from the provisions of the new commodity freight law, which will go into effect generally June 1. The law gives the commission the right to exempt roads from its provisions where it can be shown that application of the reductions would be practically confiscatory. The commission considered the showing made for the road by its attorney, Former Governor John Lind, who fully demonstrated that the cut in rates, if adopted would cause the road's income to be less than its operating expenses.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before the baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is women's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

NOTICE OF EXPIRATION OF REDEMPTION;

Office of County Auditor, County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota:

To Joseph A. Philips:

You are hereby notified that the following piece or parcel of land, situated in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and known and described as follows, to wit: Lot number Eleven (11), Block number Two Hundred Eighty-one (281), West Duluth, Fourth Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, is now assessed in your name.

That on the 2nd day of May, A. D. 1892, at a sale of land pursuant to the real estate tax judgment duly given and made in and by the District Court in and for said County of St. Louis, on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1892, in proceedings to enforce the payment of taxes delinquent upon real estate for the year A. D. 1890 for said County of St. Louis, the above described piece or parcel of land was duly offered for sale, and no one bidding upon said offer an amount equal to that for which said piece or parcel was subject to be sold, to-wit: the sum of Seventy-six dollars and fifty-two cents, the same was duly bid in for the State of Minnesota for said sum.

That thereafter, and on the 12th day of November A. D. 1906, the said piece or parcel of land, not then having been redeemed from said sale, and having then become the absolute property of the State of Minnesota, was sold and conveyed at public sale by the County Auditor of said County pursuant to the order and direction of the State Auditor of the State of Minnesota, and in accordance with the provisions of the statute in such case made and provided, for the sum of One hundred five dollars and thirty-cents duly paid to the County Treasurer of said County.

That the certificate of sale for said piece or parcel of land executed and delivered by said County Auditor upon said sale last above mentioned has been presented to me at my office by the holder thereof, for the purpose of having notice of expiration of time for redemption from said sale of said property given and served, and that the amount required to redeem said piece or parcel of land from said tax sale at the date of this notice, exclusive of the costs to accrue upon said notice, is the sum of One hundred fourteen dollars and seven cents.

That the time for the redemption of said piece or parcel of land from said tax sale will expire sixty (60) days after the service of this notice and filing of proof of such service in my office.

Witness my hand and seal of office this Seventh day of May A. D. 1907.

ARE AFTER ASHPILES

Commissioners Serving Notices to Get Refuse Out of Alleys.

Mayor Has Ordered Cleaning Ordinances to be Enforced Strictly.

Duluth is now being rapidly cleaned up. The frost is undisputably gone, the ashpiles are sufficiently thawed to permit their easy removal, and the board of public works has started a lively campaign to see that they are properly taken care of.

The street commissioners have been armed with printed notices and have instructions to spot every ashpile located in any of the alleys of the city which may come within their observation, and serve the notice upon the property owner responsible. These notices were only issued to the commissioners early this week, and as they give five days of grace to clean up, the effect which they will have is, of course, still a matter of surmise.

Arrests will follow, however, where an effort is not made to get the ashpiles out of the way within the five days allowed, and a good stiff fine is provided for by the charter.

As to ashpiles and other refuse located on private property and not on any street or alley, these do not come under the jurisdiction of the board of public works, and the good citizenship of the property owner must be depended upon to clean up in these cases. Whenever the board of health can discover anything insanitary about the refuse heaps, however, they will take hold with a firm hand and insure a complete clean-up in short order.

The mayor has instructed all the officials under whose jurisdiction such things come, to be very strict in enforcing every ordinance which will assist in cleaning up the city, and the work will be hastened by every possible means from now on.

OBJECTS PUZZLED GIRL

Who Was Restored to Sight After Blindness Since Infancy.

Saginaw, Mich., May 30.—Miss Carrie Leidlein, who lives on Vassar road, near this city, and who was stricken blind, when three weeks old by cataracts on her eyes, and has been totally sightless since, has been restored to sight, as a result of an operation performed at the woman's hospital.

Miss Leidlein's joy was so great that it made the doctors and nurses about her weep as she exclaimed with the first ray of vision: "Praised be God; I see."

The objective world is a complete mystery to her. She can, however, tell one color from another, although she does not yet know their names. When food was placed before her she did not know what it was, and only understood when the odor reached her. Only when she could put her hands on the objects about her in the room did she comprehend their real nature. Trees, houses and animals all seemed much larger than she had believed. From the time Miss Leidlein was 4 years old many attempts had been made to remove the difficulty, but without success.

To Contractors.

Mount Iron, St. Louis County, Minn., May 14th, 1907. Sealed proposals will be received by the Town Board of Nichols Township, St. Louis County, Minn., until 6 o'clock P. M., May 28th, 1907, for repairing and gravelling the Mount Iron-Virginia road.

Specifications may be had and all information obtained at the office of the Town Clerk.

The successful bidder must give a satisfactory bond for the faithful performance of the contract, in amount not less than 50 per cent of the contract price. The Town Board reserves the right to reject any or all proposals.

By order of the Town Board,
(Signed) CHAS. McCABE,
Town Clerk.

GIRL WAS SPANKED

By Father Because She Ran Away to be Married.

Evansville, Ind., May 30.—Cupid was balked when Katie Selers, 15 years old, and George Gissom, aged 19, from Henderson, Ky., were arrested here just as they were taking out a marriage license. The girl was held at police headquarters until her father came and took her home. She wore a short dress and her hair was in a braid down her back.

When her father found her at police headquarters in charge of Matron Roberts he requested Mrs. Roberts to withdraw, and then gave the runaway school girl a good spanking. Matron Roberts said the father turned the girl over his knee and spanked her until she cried for mercy.

The girl told the matron she would kill herself before she would go back home.

MAYOR OF BIRMINGHAM

Biffed Attorney Who Referred to His Alleged Amours.

Birmingham, Ala., May 30.—George B. Ward, mayor of Birmingham, assaulted White Gibson, a young attorney, when they met just outside of police court. After he had struck the lawyer two stinging blows an officer pulled the mayor off. Both men were placed under bond to appear in police court.

The union men of the district held a big meeting at the Bijou theater to express sympathy for the locked-out union street car men. Over 8,00 people sought to attend and two meetings were held. At one Gibson spoke, denouncing the mayor, saying that Ward, who had furnished protection to the street cars operated by non-union motormen and conductors, had done so because he wanted to marry the daughter of President Robert Jemison of the street car company. Mayor Ward became angry when he heard of the utterance of Gibson, and, finding him, attacked him with his fists.

ANNOUNCE MORE EXAMS.

Civil Service Commission Names Dates for Three More.

Two more examinations have been announced by the civil service commission for the month of June and one for July. Those for June will take place on June 25 and the other on July 24.

A second-class or assistant steam engineer is wanted to fill a vacancy in the war department as a salary of $720 a year. There is a vacancy in the position of machine woodworker in the government printing office. The position pays at the rate of 50 cents an hour. Both of these examinations take place on June 26.

On July 24 an examination will be held to secure eligibles for the position of repairman to fill a vacancy in the weather bureau at a salary of $720 a year.

Those wishing to apply for any of these examinations in Duluth should address A. Grabarkiewicz, secretary of the local board of examiners.

Purity and Cleanliness

Cleanliness is necessary for purity in foods, and especially in beer. No one realizes this important fact more than Pabst.

In the great Pabst Brewery at Milwaukee, everything is as neat and clean as in your own kitchen. Every grain of barley is washed and scoured before it is made into malt. Even the air in which the malt is grown is washed by being drawn through fourteen zinc screens, over each of which flows a constant stream of pure water.

Pabst Blue Ribbon

The Beer of Quality

From the time the beer is brewed until it is delivered to your home it never comes in contact with the atmosphere nor with human hands.

Before it is bottled, Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is forced through wood fiber filters. The bottles are thoroughly cleaned, then filled and pasteurized. Pabst cleanliness, like Pabst purity, cannot be excelled.

When ordering beer, ask for Pabst Blue Ribbon.

COMPLAINS OF WALKS

Herald Reader Protests That Conditions Are Not Right.

Declares Walks Need Repairs and Need Them at Once.

The Herald is in receipt of the following communication, which seems to have been prompted by honest motives after careful observation, however deserved the criticism may be:

"To the Editor of The Herald:

"I do not know actualy who is to blame but it seems to me that some one is being very lax in the matter of sidewalks about our beautiful city.

"Some time ago workmen got busy and removed some dwellings and other buildings from the cite for the new courthouse, at Fourth avenue west and First and Second streets. The houses were pulled over the sidewalks and after they had been successfully removed from the tract, apparently all damage done to the sidewalk was forgotten.

"However much it may have been forgotten by the workmen and officials whose duty it is to look after walks, the damage is brought painfully home to pedestrians whenever they chance to go by.

"Several times a day in going from my home to my office and back again, I pass the courthouse site. The sidewalk on Fourth avenue west there, from the alley to Second street, is in very bad shape and has been ever since th buildings were removed, more than a month ago. The boards are loose and when one steps on some of them, the other end flies up.

"I saw a young woman painfully injured the other evening in just this manner. She was going down the hill, when a heavy man coming up stepped on a loose board in the walk. It flew up and the girl received it just above the ankle. She sank in a heap, so painful was the bruise.

"It seems to me that the proper authorities should look after this at once, as there is danger of people being painfully if not seriously injured.

"And there is another thing—I was walking on First street, between Second and Third avenues east, and I saw a workman making what seemed to me the most absurd and almost dangerous repairs to a sidewalk imaginable. There were several holes in the board walk and he was nailing over them pieces of plank which will likely prove great stumbling blocks instead of improving the walk. The patches are fully an inch and a half above the surface of the walk and are really a hindrance.

"I remarked to the workman that I thought his ideas of good repairs to sidewalks were faulty and he explained that he was following instructions which came from higher up. As a taxpayer, I protest that the instructions he received were ridiculous.

"A PEDESTRIAN."

"CITY OF BROTHERLY LOVE"

New Utopia Founded Within Short Distance of St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., May 30.—A new Utopia is being founded within a short distance of St. Louis which, if the dreams of its founder and his followers are realized, is destined to become an ideal "city of brotherly love," where men and women will dwell together in peace and harmony, and where selfishness will cease to dominate the human heart and mind, giving place to altruism.

The site is a tract of land near Sulphur Springs, in Jefferson county, Mo., where the Altruist community has purchased eight and a half acres of well-improved land for a home.

The members of the community, who number more than 100, are anxiously awaiting the time for the exodus, which is to take place this month, when they will enter upon the possession of their "promised land." There is to be no religious test, and the rules allow no interference with marriage or the family affairs of the members, who are also allowed perfect freedom in the matter of political opinions.

According to the statement of Alcander Longley, the founder and president of the community, its present wealth aggregates $10,000, a per capita of $100. This wealth is chiefly represented by the eight and a half acres of land at Sulphur Springs, a newspaper, the Altruist, and a printing plant and cash in bank. A modern, well-equipped chicken ranch is being established, the profits of which, together with those of the printing office, will be devoted to the support of the community. As rapidly as possible other lines of business will be introduced, and every effort made to increase the wealth of the community.

In the Altruist Mr. Longley, its editor, advocates state and national communism. He claims that the tendency of the age is toward communism, and that it is only a matter of time when the masses of the people will realize the falsity of the present system of private property and proceed to apply the remedy, which is communism.

Relief from Rheumatic Pains.

"I suffered with rheumatism for over two years," says Mr. Rolland Curry, a patrolman, of Key West, Fla. "Sometimes it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk, at other times it would be in my feet and hands so I was incapacitated for duty. One night when I was in severe pain, and lame from it, my wife went to the drug store here and came back with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found that it drove the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from that disease for over three months." For sale by all druggists.

STRAIN TOO GREAT.

The hustle and worry of business men,
The hard work and stooping of workmen,
The woman's household cares,
Are too great a strain on the kidneys.
Backache, headache, sideache,
Kidney troubles, urinary troubles follow.

Engineer James Root, better known as "Jim" Root, the heroic engineer of the St. Paul & Duluth limited, says:

"For many years I was troubled with my kidneys, and had pains and soreness across the small of my back. The kidney secretions at times presented an unnatural appearance, and I was run down. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, and procured a box and used them. From the prompt, satisfactory results obtained I can speak of them fully in the highest terms of praise. Doan's Kidney Pills are all and more than they are represented to be. I can also say a word for Doan's Ointment. I used it for itching hemorrhoids, and it gave me prompt and permanent relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WOODSMEN LEAVE CITY

Police Court Records Show Different Class of Prisoners.

The woodsmen are nearly all in from the woods by this time and the rapid enlistment of the men for work on railroads and in other lines where their muscles can be brought into play, has resulted in a depletion of their numbers which makes the Bowery, while still populous, look deserted compared to its condition four weeks ago when the flood was at its height.

In the police court the explanation that the drunks "just came in from the woods and got a little full" is getting scarcer and scarcer, and now it comes chiefly from the teamsters and others who have stayed behind the crowd for some reason or other to close up camp for the summer.

The exodus of the woodsmen has been more sudden and effective than usual. The tremendous amount of railroad work which is going on throughout the country is largely responsible for this and they are being shipped out in lots of from 50 to 100 by the employment offices, more men being always in demand.

With the departure of the lumberjack whose worst offense was usually drunkenness or at most disorderly conduct which could be traced directly to an overdose of squirrel whisky, a more dangerous class of men have been appearing on the police court records. Vags arraigned as vagrants because that was the charge which would be most effective in driving them out of town, have been numerous. Drunks have been arraigned and when a report has been asked for it has often been that they are suspicious characters, have done time in some state's prison, and that the best thing which can be done is to give them a heavy sentence which will be suspended on condition that they get out of town before nightfall.

Dealers in phony jewelry and all kinds of "con" men who work their games on the idle remnant of the woodsman population, are also flooding the town now, and the police are getting rid of them as fast as possible, whenever opportunity offers having them ordered out of town.

To Whom It May Concern;

Notice is hereby given, That the firm of Pierce Bros., consisting of Frederick A. Pierce and Frank A. Pierce, formerly engaged in the business of grain merchants at 220-22 Flour Exchange, Minneapolis, and 714 Board of Trade building, Duluth, Minnesota, has this day been dissolved by mutual consent.

The business formerly conducted by the firm will be continued at the same places by Frank A. Pierce, who has authority to collect and satisfy all notes and accounts belonging to the firm, and who has assumed and will pay all outstanding obligations as they mature.

LATE SPRING KILLS MANY.

New Jersey Bureau Reports Surprising Increase in Deaths.

Trenton, N. J., May 30.—The late spring is credited with many deaths, according to the monthly report of the state bureau of statistics. The total number of deaths in New Jersey during April was 3,653, an increase of 512 over the previous month and 312 more than the monthly average for the last nine months.

Speaking of this increase, Registrar of Vital Statistics David S. South says: "The increase was not limited to any particular group of afflictions, but was distributed among twelve of the eighteen selected causes of disease for this report.

"It appears that this increase in mortality has been mainly due to the unfavorable weather conditions, the extreme changes during the last month being no doubt responsible for this increase.

"The low temperature of a late spring depresses the vitality of those advanced in years, and the result of the long-continued bad weather is shown in the great number of deaths of those of advanced years."

WITHOUT CHARGE

Lightning Fixed the Electric Bell So It Would Ring.

Marion, Ohio, May 30.—A thunderbolt has rendered a peculiar service to John Trusk of this city. For the past year an electric door bell at the Titus home has failed to work despite efforts to repair it. When the house was struck by lightning a few days ago the bell rang and can now be rung without difficulty. No damage was done by the stroke.

SINGING

In the Choir When She Was Struck by Lightning.

Wabash, Ind., May 30.—While singing in the choir of the United Brethren church, of which her husband is pastor, Mrs. D. W. Zartman was struck by lightning, rendered unconscious and it was thought killed. She has improved and will recover. No others in the choir was harmed. Lights were all extinguished and a panic resulted.

IDENTIFICATION BY PALATE.

Vienna Correspondence London Express: Dr. Paul Prager, an army surgeon, who has made a special study of methods of identification, recommends that prisoners should be identified by the shape of their palates. He thinks the system far more efficacious than by finger-prints.

Dr. Prager declares that the method would be much more reliable than any at present used, for among the thousands of moulds he has taken of the interior of the human mouth he has failed to find two which even slightly resembled each other.

He says that though the teeth alter greatly with time, the markings of the palate remain unchanged throughout life. The individuality of the palate is greater and more permanent than that of any other part of the body, and a detective force which possessed a large collection of mouth-moulds would have a guide infinitely safer than a gallery of finger-prints.

FARMING IN LA VENDEE.

Washington Post: "I found more things to interest me in rural France, which I toured not long ago, than in the gay capital of that nation," said E. F. Burnham of San Francisco at the New Willard. "While in many parts of the republic agriculture has been brought to a high state of perfection, in some of the departments it is still in a primitive condition.

"In La Vendee, for instance, I saw women spinning with those old instruments, the distaff and spindle, which were in use 4,000 years ago. Throughout that locality sheep were kept for their milk, cows were worked at the plow and harrow, the wheat was ground by windmills, and the women went to market in little carts drawn by donkeys. Another odd sight was the portable stills which went from farm to farm making brandy, of which the district produces a considerable quantity."

ARE AFTER ASHPILES

Commissioners Serving Notices to Get Refuse Out of Alleys.

Mayor Has Ordered Cleaning Ordinances to be Enforced Strictly.

Duluth is now being rapidly cleaned up. The frost is undisputably gone, the ashpiles are sufficiently thawed to permit their easy removal, and the board of public works has started a lively campaign to see that they are properly taken care of.

The street commissioners have been armed with printed notices and have instructions to spot every ashpile located in any of the alleys of the city which may come within their observation, and serve the notice upon the property owner responsible. These notices were only issued to the commissioners early this week, and as they give five days of grace to clean up, the effect which they will have is, of course, still a matter of surmise.

Arrests will follow, however, where an effort is not made to get the ashpiles out of the way within the five days allowed, and a good stiff fine is provided for by the charter.

As to ashpiles and other refuse located on private property and not on any street or alley, these do not come under the jurisdiction of the board of public works, and the good citizenship of the property owner must be depended upon to clean up in these cases. Whenever the board of health can discover anything insanitary about the refuse heaps, however, they will take hold with a firm hand and insure a complete clean-up in short order.

The mayor has instructed all the officials under whose jurisdiction such things come, to be very strict in enforcing every ordinance which will assist in cleaning up the city, and the work will be hastened by every possible means from now on.

OBJECTS PUZZLED GIRL

Who Was Restored to Sight After Blindness Since Infancy.

Saginaw, Mich., May 29.—Miss Carrie Leidleth, who lives on Vassar road, near this city, and who was stricken blind, when three weeks old by cataracts on her eyes, and has been totally sightless since, has been restored to sight, as a result of an operation performed at the woman's hospital.

Miss Leidleth's joy was so great that it made the doctors and nurses about her weep as she exclaimed with the first ray of vision: "Praised be God; I see."

The objective world is a complete mystery to her. She can, however, tell one color from another, although she does not yet know their names. When food was placed before her she did not know what it was, and only understood when the odor reached her. Only when she could put her hands on the objects about her in the room did she comprehend their real nature. Trees, houses and animals all seemed much larger than she had believed. From the time Miss Leidleth was 4 years old many attempts had been made to remove the difficulty, but without success.

To Contractors.

GIRL WAS SPANKED

By Father Because She Ran Away to be Married.

Evansville, Ind., May 30.—Cupid was balked when Katie Selers, 15 years old, and George Gisson, aged 19, from Henderson, Ky., were arrested here just as they were taking out a marriage license. The girl was held at police headquarters until her father came and took her home. She wore a short dress and her hair was in a braid down her back.

When her father found her at police headquarters in charge of Matron Roberts he requested Mrs. Roberts to withdraw, and then gave the runaway school girl a good spanking. Matron Roberts said the father turned the girl over his knee and spanked her until she cried for mercy.

The girl told the matron she would kill herself before she would go back home.

Purity and Cleanliness

Cleanliness is necessary for purity in foods, and especially in beer. No one realizes this important fact more than Pabst.

In the great Pabst Brewery at Milwaukee, everything is as neat and clean as in your own kitchen. Every grain of barley is washed and scoured before it is made into malt. Even the air in which the malt is grown is washed by being drawn through fourteen zinc screens, over each of which flows a constant stream of pure water.

The Beer of Quality

From the time the beer is brewed until it is delivered to your home it never comes in contact with the atmosphere nor with human hands.

MAYOR OF BIRMINGHAM

Biffed Attorney Who Referred to His Alleged Amours.

Birmingham, Ala., May 30.—George B. Ward, mayor of Birmingham, assaulted White Gibson, a young attorney, when they met just outside of police court. After he had struck the lawyer two stinging blows an officer pulled the mayor off. Both men were placed under bond to appear in police court.

The union men of the district held a big meeting at the Bijou theater to express sympathy for the locked-out union street car men. Over 8,000 people sought to attend and two meetings were held. At one Gibson spoke, denouncing the mayor, saying that Ward, who had furnished protection to the street cars operated by non-union motormen and conductors, had done so because he wanted to marry the daughter of President Robert Jemison of the street car company. Mayor Ward became angry when he heard of the utterance of Gibson, and, finding him, attacked him with his fists.

ANNOUNCE MORE EXAMS.

Civil Service Commission Names Dates for Three More.

Two more examinations have been announced by the civil service commission for the month of June and one for July. Those for June will take place on June 26 and the other on July 24.

A second-class or assistant steam engineer is wanted to fill a vacancy in the war department as a salary of $720 a year. There is a vacancy in the position of machine woodworker in the government printing office. The position pays at the rate of 50 cents an hour. Both of these examinations take place on June 26.

On July 24 an examination will be held to secure eligibles for the position of repairman to fill a vacancy in the weather bureau at a salary of $720 a year.

Those wishing to apply for any of these examinations in Duluth should address A. Grabarklewicz, secretary of the local board of examiners.

COMPLAINS OF WALKS

Herald Reader Protests That Conditions Are Not Right.

Declares Walks Need Repairs and Need Them at Once.

The Herald is in receipt of the following communication, which seems to have been prompted by honest motives after careful observation, however deserved the criticism may be:

"To the Editor of The Herald:

"I do not know actualy who is to blame but it seems to me that some one is being very lax in the matter of sidewalks about our beautiful city.

"Some time ago workmen got busy and removed some dwellings and other buildings from the site for the new courthouse, at Fourth avenue west and First and Second streets. The houses were pulled over the sidewalks and after they had been successfully removed from the tract, apparently all damage done to the sidewalk was forgotten.

"However much it may have been forgotten by the workmen and officials whose duty it is to look after walks, the damage is brought painfully home to pedestrians whenever they chance to go by.

"Several times a day in going from my home to my office and back again, I pass the courthouse site. The sidewalk on Fourth avenue west there, from the alley to Second street, is in very bad shape and has been ever since th buildings were removed, more than a month ago. The boards are loose and when one steps on some of them, the other end flies up.

"I saw a young woman painfully injured the other evening in just this manner. She was going down the hill, when a heavy man coming up stepped on a loose board in the walk. It flew up and the girl received it just above the ankle. She sunk in a heap, so painful was the bruise.

"It seems to me that the proper authorities should look after this at once, as there is danger of people being painfully if not seriously injured.

"And there is another thing—I was walking on First street, between Second and Third avenues east, and I saw a workman making what seemed to me the most absurd and almost dangerous repairs to a sidewalk imaginable. There were several holes in the board walk and he was nailing over them pieces of plank which will likely prove great stumbling blocks instead of improving the walk. The patches are fully an inch and a half above the surface of the walk and are really a hindrance.

"I remarked to the workman that I thought his ideas of good repairs to sidewalks were faulty and he explained that he was following instructions which came from higher up. As a taxpayer, I protest that the instructions he received were ridiculous.

"A PEDESTRIAN."

"CITY OF BROTHERLY LOVE"

New Utopia Founded Within Short Distance of St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., May 30.—A new Utopia is being founded within a short distance of St. Louis which, if the dreams of its founder and his followers are realized, is destined to become an ideal "city of brotherly love," where men and women will dwell together in peace and harmony, and where selfishness will cease to dominate the human heart and mind, giving place to altruism.

The site is a tract of land near Sulphur Springs, in Jefferson county, Mo., where the Altruist community has purchased eight and a half acres of well-improved land for a home.

The members of the community, who number more than 100, are anxiously awaiting the time for the exodus, which is to take place this month, when they will enter upon the possession of their "promised land." There is to be no religious test, and the rules allow no interference with marriage or the family affairs of the members, who are also allowed perfect freedom in the matter of political opinions.

According to the statement of Alexander Longley, the founder and president of the community, its present wealth aggregates $10,000, a per capita of $100. This wealth is chiefly represented by the eight and a half acres of land at Sulphur Springs, a newspaper, the Altruist, and a printing plant and cash in bank. A modern, well-equipped chicken ranch is being established, the profits of which, together with those of the printing office, will be devoted to the support of the community. As rapidly as possible other lines of business will be introduced, and every effort made to increase the wealth of the community.

In the Altruist Mr. Longley, its editor, advocates state and national communism. He claims that the tendency of the age is toward communism, and that it is only a matter of time when the masses of the people will realize the falsity of the present system of private property and proceed to apply the remedy, which is communism.

Relief from Rheumatic Pains.

"I suffered with rheumatism for over two years," says Mr. Rolland Curry, a patrolman, of Key West, Fla. "Sometimes it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk, at other times it would be in my feet and hands so I was incapacitated for duty. One night when I was in severe pain, and lame from it, my wife went to the drug store here and came back with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found that it drove the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from that disease for over three months." For sale by all druggists.

STRAIN TOO GREAT.

The hustle and worry of business men,
The hard work and stooping of workmen,
The woman's household cares,
Are too great a strain on the kidneys.
Backache, headache, sideache,
Kidney troubles, urinary troubles follow.

Engineer James Root, better known as "Jim" Root, the heroic engineer of the St. Paul & Duluth limited, says:

"For many years I was troubled with my kidneys, and had pains and soreness across the small of my back. The kidney secretions at times presented an unnatural appearance, and I was run down. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, and procured a box and used them. From the prompt, satisfactory results obtained I can speak of them only in the highest terms of praise. Doan's Kidney Pills are all and more than they are represented to be. I can also say a word for Doan's Ointment. I used it for itching hemorrhoids, and it gave me prompt and permanent relief."

WOODSMEN LEAVE CITY

Police Court Records Show Different Class of Prisoners.

The woodsmen are nearly all in from the woods by this time and the rapid enlistment of the men for work on railroads and in other lines where their muscles can be brought into play, has resulted in a depletion of their numbers which makes the Bowery, while still populous, look deserted compared to its condition four weeks ago when the flood was at its height.

In the police court the explanation that the drunks "just came in from the woods and got a little tuff" is getting scarcer and scarcer, and now it comes chiefly from the teamsters and others who have stayed behind the crowd for some reason or other to close up camp for the summer.

The exodus of the woodsmen has been more sudden and effective than usual. The tremendous amount of railroad work which is going on throughout the country is largely responsible for this and they are being shipped out in lots of from 50 to 100 by the employment offices, more men being always in demand.

With the departure of the lumberjack whose worst offense was usually drunkenness or at most disorderly conduct which could be traced directly to an overdose of squirrel whisky, a more dangerous class of men have been appearing on the police court records. Vags arraigned as vagrants because that was the charge which would be most effective in driving them out of town, have been numerous. Drunks have been arraigned and when a report has been asked for it has often been that they are suspicious characters, have done time in some states prison, and that the best thing which can be done is to give them a heavy sentence which will be suspended on condition that they get out of town before nightfall.

Dealers in phony jewelry and all kinds of "con" men who work their games on the idle remnant of the woodsman population, are also flooding the town now, and the police are getting rid of them as fast as possible, whenever opportunity offers having them ordered out of town.

SELL BONDS AT PREMIUM

Bemidji High School Bonds Command a Very Good Figure.

A Minneapolis Bond House Is Awarded the Securities.

Bemidji, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bond sale just conducted by the Bemidji board of education again demonstrates that that class of securities is in good demand. Ten bids were submitted for the $35,000, fifteen year high school bonds which were voted April 30.

The bonds were sold to the Wells & Dickey company of Minneapolis at par, accrued interest, and the necessary blank bonds. The bidders and premium offered were as follows; MacDonald, McCoy & Co., Chicago, premium of $817; Security Saving Bank & Trust company, Toledo, Ohio, $1,141; Otis & Hough, Cleveland, Ohio, $15; A. J. Hood Co., Detroit, Mich., $445; W. J. Hayes & Sons, Chicago; a discount of $1,750; S. A. Kean, Chicago, premium of $700; John Nuveen & Co., Chicago, $205; Kane & Co., Minneapolis, $1,275; Caledonia Investment company, St. Paul, $1,250; Wells & Dickey company, Minneapolis, $1,300.

The members of the board are well pleased with the sale and as soon as the bonds are delivered, will secure plans and specifications, and the work of letting the contract will be at once taken up and pushed with rapidity.

ST. PAUL WOMAN FATALLY BURNED

Burning Rubbish in Back Yard When Skirts Catch Fire.

St. Paul, Minn., May 30.—Mrs. M. Eschle was burned to death Wednesday as the result of her skirts catching fire while she was burning a pile of rubbish in the yard of her home, 423 North Exchange street. Her daughter rushed out of the house with a blanket to smother the flames, but by that time Mrs. Eschle had fallen to the ground unconscious. She was hurried to St. Joseph's hospital in the police ambulance. She died late in the afternoon.

BID FAREWELL TO BEMIDJI SCHOOLS.

Bemidji, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—A class of six will graduate from the Bemidji high school this year. The usual interest ataches to the comencement, and the event will be witnessed by practically the entire population of the city.

The graduates are Bernice Pendergast, Shirley Knox, Ida Geil, Inez Woodruff, Mildred Wodruff and Montgomery McConkey.

The commencement exercises will be held Friday evening, May 31, at the city hall.

A class of twenty-six have passed the eighth grade of the Bemidji schools and on Wednesday evening were given their certificates of entrance to the high school.

The eighth grade class this year was a large one, numbering about the same as last year. The following composed the class: Alice Hintosh, Elsi Miller, Martha Calchutt, Ellen Anderson, Mollie Anderson, Sinnie Guthrie, Clara Brondby, Vivian Dwyer, Olive Cunningham, Gladys Brannon, Jessamine Gould, Callie Arnold, Mary Clein, Willie Naylor, George Ellitson, Paul Winebrenner, Orville Titus, Roland Henriotte, Alfred Newman, Louis Larson, Floyd Stewart, Bertha Beeson, Walter Puphal, Ruth Titus, Nora Shaw, Nellie Erickson.

TO ENCOURAGE VISITORS.

Company Formed to Urge Building Summer Homes at Leach Lake.

Walker, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—To encourage the building of summer homes in Walker on the shores of Leech lake, an organization called the Leech Lake Cottage company has been organized here. This company will aim to secure a desirable class of visitors to this region, and will be prepared to erect summer homes for any who wish. The number of tourists who are stopping at this resort each season already exceeds the hotel accommodations, and Leech lake has become sufficiently patronized as a summer resort to necessitate either the erection of a hotel, solely for tourists, or the building of cottages along the lake shore. The Leech Lake Cottage company was organized through the efforts of the Commercial club.

Spooner, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first game of baseball played by the Spooner nine this season was with the Rainy River nine here last Sunday.

A cold chilling breze blew from the Northwest but this did not hinder the players or the baseball enthusiasts. The Spooner team won out to the tune of 5 to 6. J. E. Cosgrove who served as pitcher for the day won admiration all around by pitching a good heady game.

An enormous sturgeon was brought in this week by an Indian. The sturgeon weighed 162 pounds dressed. It was caught in the Rainy river.

FAIR DIRECTORS HOLD A MEETING

Arrange to Look Up the Lost Articles of the Corporation.

Bemidji, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The directors' meeting of the Beltrami County Agricultural association, held at the courthouse Tuesday, was presided over by President Wes Wright, while L. G. Townsend of Blackduck, officiated as secretary.

As the by-laws and papers pertaining to the incorporation of the association have been lost or destroyed, a committee composed of Wes Wright, L. G. Townsend and Secretary Kirk, was named to take up the matter of the legality and sufficiency of the incorporation with the secretary at the next meeting at which time, if the articles are faulty, new, as well as a set of by-laws will be submitted and adopted.

The secretary will call the next meeting as soon as the committee reports on the condition of the legality of the organization. The dates for holding the annual fair will also be fixed at that time.

MINNESOTA IN BRIEF

Winona—Lightning struck the residence of Davie Ball, in the town of Clyde, during a party given by Mr. Ball to celebrate his twentieth birthday anniversary. The entire company was shocked, but no person was seriously injured. The bolt struck the cupboard near the table at which the guests were seated.

International Falls—The work of erecting the fourth pier of the eight which will be necessary for the Candian powerhouse foundation, and foreday wall, is about completed. Good progress has been made during the past week on the main wall of the Canadian part of the dam.

Brainerd—D. N. Rock, now superintendent of the Montana division of the Northern Pacific railway, and family, have left Brainerd for their new home at Livingston, Mont. A fine gold watch was presented Mr. Rock by the employes of the Minnesota division, and a diamond stud by the employes of the general office, the freight offices and the N. P. sanitarium.

Fergus Falls—Crop conditions in this locality were much improved by a rainfall of 1.15 inches. The rain came down slowly, thoroughly saturating the ground, and while the atmosphere cleared with a sharp frost Sunday night, the grain is making fair progress. Wheat and oats have started nicely, and corn planting is finished.

Little Falls—Miss Lula Belle Millspaugh, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Millspaugh, died suddenly Monday evening at her lodging place in Minneapolis.

Fergus Falls—Ernest F. Dommer, a confectionery dealer of Moorhead, has filed a bankruptcy petition in the United States court in this city placing his assets at $1,150, all exempt, and his liabilities at $1,581.74.

Hasting—The Rock Island road offers a reward of $1,000 for the recovery of the bodies of D. H. Truax and F. E. Hill, drowned May 6. This is in addition to the $200 reward offered by the families of the drowned men.

St. Paul—W. A. Christian, formerly assistant engineer for the government at Wheeling, W. Va., has been appointed assistant engineer of the Chicago, Great Western road. He has already taken up his residence in St. Paul.

Little Falls—Harvey Canfield sustained what may prove to be serious internal injuries here yesterday when he was kicked by a fractious horse. He was working in the barn whe nthe animal kicked him in the abdomen.

THREE LIQUOR CHARGES.

They Come Up for Trial Against One Man at Preston.

Preston, Minn., May 30.—When the district court commenced here Wednesday, it developed that there were three criminal charges all against the same person, W. H. Reed of Canton is the accused in each case. He is charged with violating the liquor law. Ambrose Eggen sues J. C. Mills, former county auditor and now a prominent stock breeder, for $20,000 damages on a charge for causing Eggen to lose his place as station agent at Isinours. There are five cases for the grand jury to consider.

BIGELOW'S CASE HAS BEEN POSTPONED.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 30.—The hearing in the suit of Albert S. Bigelow of Boston to compel the Calumet & Hecla Copper Mining company to relinquish holdings it has obtained in other copper mining companies, which was set for yesterday before Federal Judge Knappen in this city, has been put over by stipulation of the attorneys until June 28.

WILL RAISE MONEY TO HIRE ATTORNEYS.

Sioux Falls, S. D. May 30.—Now that it is practically certain that the trial of Mrs. Emma Kaufmann, of this city, charged with murder, will commence at Plandreau on June 4, the people of Parkston, the former home of the domestic, whom Mrs. Kaufmann is charged with having wantonly murdered, are endeavoring to raise additional funds for the purpose of paying the special attorneys who have been engaged by them to aid in the prosecution.

DAMAGES AGAINST CITY FOR MRS. JOHNSON'S DEATH.

Marquette, Mich., May 30.—A circuit court jury in the case of Lackland Johnson against the city brought in a verdict for $5,000. Johnson's wife was struck and killed by a runaway team of horses, and it was contended that it was impossible because of the condition of the road, for her to avoid the danger.

WISCONSIN

MUST LIKE JAIL LIFE

Wisconsin Criminal Thanks Court for Getting One Year.

He Prefers Being in Jail to Any Other Place.

La Crosse, Wis., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sentence of one year and a half in the state's prison at Waupun apparently has not terror for Louis Schroeder. For he said to the court he rather prefers jail life to liberty. The court and spectators were not a little surprised over the comment of the prisoner when Judge Brindley announced the sentence.

Schroeder said he never considered a jail sentence a punishment, but rather preferred to spend his time there than anywhere else.

Emil Bofferding, a saloonkeeper, charged with selling liquor to minors, was acquitted. It developed at the trial that the minor who purchased the bottle of beer did so with money given him by Rev. L. L. Sanders for the purpose of obtaining evidence.

RAILROAD TO CORNUCOPIA

May Result From Big Sale of Timber Land.

Ashland, Wis., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thompson & Fleet of Wausau yesterday closed a deal purchasing 3,000 acres of timber land near Cornucopia, on Lake Superior, for $65,000. The Akeley Lumber company of Utica, N. Y., is the seller. This will probably bring a railroad to Cornucopia.

DAMAGES FOR DUCKING.

Wisconsin Girls Get Verdict for Uncalled Lake Superior Bath.

Washburn, Wis., May 30.—In a case that has just been finished in the circuit court here in which Ida and Olivia Carlson were suing the A. A. Booth Packing company for $10,000 damages for negligence on the part of the crew of steamer Easton, for not informing them that they were in danger while standing in the gang plank as the wind swung the boat out from the dock, Ida Carlson was awarded $975 and Olivia $500 damages. While the young women were being landed last fall from the steamer the boat swung away from the dock letting the gang plank and the women fall into the cold waters of old Lake Superior.

WISCONSIN IN BRIEF

Ashland—George Buchanan has resigned his position with the New York Life Insurance company, with which company he has been associated during the past ten years, to accept the state agency of the United States Annuity and Life Insurance company.

PROSPECTIVE LAWYERS.

Thirty-Eight Would be Attorneys to be Examined in North Dakota.

Grand Forks, May 30.—Thirty-eight would-be lawyers have qualified for the state bar examinations, to be held in this city on June 4. The following have qualified thus far:

O. P. Jordal, Paul Crum, James Von Williams, Leroy Shubeck, F. E. McCurdy, C. C. McMullen, F. A. Oliver, J. K. Murray, O. S. Gunderson, N. O. Dolve, B. F. Warmer, F. I. Temple, J. J. Marquette, O. R. Hawver, N. J. Noble, E. C. Thomas, S. D. McKinnon, G. A. Brauer, D. P. Bates, T. A. Thompson, C. Coventry, J. P. Conmy, J. E. Skulstad, W. H. Hutchinson, I. L. Knudson, J. A. Anderson, A. B. Atkins, O. B. Burtness, T. A. Ware, S. O. Lemmick, F. J. Matoushek, H. Moen, A. R. Carothers, W. C. Husband, M. Vetleson, H. W. Blickfeldt.

FATAL BLASTING CAPS.

Two Ironwood, Michigan, Boys Find Them Dangerous Playthings.

Ironwood, Mich., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Playing with blasting caps here proved to be quite serious for Carl Jackson and another boy, Wednesday as the things exploded and both were burned, one seriously.

Young Jackson exploded some of the caps and was severely burned about the legs, hands and arms and his companion was slightly injured.

Young Jackson may lose an eye as a result of the folly.

UPPER MICHIGAN

WILL BOOM MARQUETTE

Queen City Commercial Club Has Been Organized by Citizens.

Will Promote Advancement of the Upper Peninsula City.

Marquette, Mich., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mass meeting of business men and citizens generally called for the purpose of perfecting an organization for the better advancement of this city, drew many interested persons to the city hall and resulted in the birth of the Queen City Commercial club of Marquette, with the following officers:

President, Herman Shauer; vice president, Lester W. Clark; secretary and treasurer, Frank G. Jenks.

Alderman John Downey, the father of the project, was chairman, and John Tobin was secretary.

The following committees were appointed:

Rules and by-laws—A. Saladin, D. S. Vaugh, J. B. Reany, Carl Witler and August Mellin; executive—Carl F. Witler, D. S. Vaughn, R. E. Mahaffey, August Mellin, Fred E. Knight, John Downey, Amos Saladin, Martin Sweeder, H. A. St. John, J. E. Pierce and Joseph F. Neidhart; ward committees: First ward—Daniel Vaughn, John Downey; Second—H. L. Seigel, Carl Witler; Third—S. W. Shaull, Frank G. Jenks; Fourth — Herman Bittner, Joseph F. Neidhart; Fifth—C. E. Banfield, F. LaBonte, Jr. The committee on rules and by-laws was given until the next meeting to prepare a constitution. A resolution that the association meet regularly the second Monday of every month was adopted. An adjournment was then taken to Monday, June 3.

AFTER SALOONKEEPERS.

Anti-Saloon League Has Four Arrested for Breaking Law.

Norway, Mich., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arrested on complaint of Rev. C. H. Rutledge of Ishpeming, the upper peninsula representative of the Anti-Saloon league, four saloonkeepers at Amasa, Iron county, will have to stand trial for violation of the liquor law. The men are George Premo, Charles Peterson, Joseph Gossman and Albion Moser. The defendants are accused of having transacted business on election day, early last April. They do not deny the charge, but contend that it was with the permission of the authorities that they opened their bars after the polls had closed.

PAVING AT ESCANABA.

Contract for One Hundred Thousand Dollars Worth of Work.

Negaunee, Mich., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Contracts for paving work on the seventeen streets have been awarded by the Escanaba common council to the North Engineering & Constructing company of that city. The cost of the improvements will be approximately $100,000. Some macadam with a top dressing of tar, will be the material used. This kind of paving also will probably be adopted at Ironwood, metropolis of the Gogebic iron range; at least it is the choice of the aldermanic investigating committee recently sent to Duluth to look into the merits of the various materials. The committee is unanimous in its decision that tar macadam is ideal for Ironwood streets.

COAL SHED NEARLY READY.

New Scheme for Loading Locomotives at Ironwood, Mich.

Ironwood, Mich., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new coal shed being built by the Chicago & Northwestern railroad is almost completed. It is one of the few structures used by railroads in this country which makes its working all the more interesting. The contract for the construction of the shed runs out by the middle of June. This coal shed is to be worked by an endless chain, run by a small engine, and will need the employment of no more than one man. It is several hundred feet in height, and will prove a success, on account of the delays caused to engines by the old style of loading coal, as this structure is easily worked and always ready in case of an emergency.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Calumet—Bishop Eis of Marquette was in Calumet Sunday and conducted the confirmation of 175 children at the Sacred Heart church. This was the largest class ever confirmed at one time in the Copper country.

Calumet—Calumet council, No. 1245, Knights of Columbus, was instituted in Calumet Sunday. There was a large attendance of visiting members of the order, many coming from Menominee, Escanaba, Marquette and several of the iron country towns, in addition to Copper country members.

Hurontown—John Dillon, Sr., died Monday night at his home at that place, after a short illness. He was one of the first pioneers of this district, coming to the Portage Lake region fifty years or more ago. He was born in Ireland, and came to this country when a very young man. His age was about 74 years.

Hancock—James Watson, aged 47, passed away at his home on the Quincy hillside at about 6 o'clock on Sunday morning. Mr. Watson had been a resident of Hancock for nearly thirty years, and was well thought of by his many friends.

DAKOTAS

REEVE HAS TOUGH JOB

North Dakotan Starts Campaign to Save the Whole World.

Unfurls His Flag of the Earth in Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the salvation of the whole world as his life task, Budd Reeve, a unique character, has opened his campaign in Grand Forks. He has unfurled his flag of the earth, as he calls it, and proposes to make things hum from now on.

The flag is made of nice material and the design is excellent.

It attracted a great deal of attention during the first day, and the unfurling of the flag was the occasion of considerable curiosity for the many people who thronged the streets at the time.

Budd is going to go to Fargo to string up another flag there, and will put up further flags as the circumstances permit and demand.

He says the only way to go about saving the earth is to go ahead and do it, and while he admits that he is tackling a heavy job when he attempts to do it single-handed, he insists that he is not the kind of a fellow who will shirk such duty so full of pleasure to a man like Budd.

"I know just what is ahead of me, and I am also aware of that which is back of me," he said. "The undertaking in some ways looks visionary, but I know my forces.

"To start with, it is a campaign of education. All I ask is to have my work looked into. When that is understood, the way will be clear.

"To say that you are presenting James J. Hill as a Bible character under impression received from the work of Moses; that you have a flag of the earth covering all nations, makes the average individual smile; but all will become enthusiastic as the light grows and the work progresses. I have no doubt as to good and certain results."

DECISION HITS PROHIBITION

North Dakota Temperance Commissioner Law is Knocked Out.

Bismarck, N. D., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The decision of the supreme court in the case of Assistant State Commissioner of Temperance Corliss in which the court holds the temperance commissioner law unconstitutional, is looked upon as a blow to prohibition and a set back to the legal control of the liquor traffic. The temperance element is keenly disappointed. The court's decision was the result of the arrest last week of Former Supreme Court Justice Corliss for contempt of court when he deliberately ignored the order of District Judge Winchester, who forbade him from appearing before the grand jury as assistant state temperance commissioner. Judge Corliss claimed that under the law his appointment as assistant temperance commissioner empowered him as an assistant state's attorney, to appear before the grand jury in presenting violation of the temperance law.

The supreme court held that Judge Corliss had no right to go before the grand jury on the ground that the legislature could not delegate to an appointive officer the rights delegated to the elective servants of the people. The office of state temperance commissioner is therefore vacant to the great disappointment of the Prohibition element in this state.

ROAD TO GREGORY.

South Dakota Town Expects to Have Northwestern Service Soon.

Gregory, S. D., May 30.—It is confidently expected that by the last of the week or the beginning of next this place will have its first railroad connections and that trains will be run regularly to Gregory hereafter. The Northwestern has greatly increased the number of workmen, so that now there are two large gangs placing the track in condition for regular traffic.

Many rumors are in circulation with reference to the intention of the railroad company to extend its line to the border of Tripp county, which is to be opened to settlement as soon as the work of assigning the allotments to Indians in that county is finished.

THAT FARGO MYSTERY IS STILL UNSOLVED.

Fargo, N. D., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The coroner's jury that looked into the death of Gust M. Thorne, whose body was found in the Red river Sunday by two boys while fishing, was unable to learn much concerning the manner in which he came to fall into the stream, and the facts will probably never be known.

There is every reason to believe, however, that Thorne fell into the river either on the evening of May 9 or the next day, for the certified check that was found in his pocket for the sum of $50 shows that it was drawn May 9, the letter that was sent to his wife was mailed the same day, and the receipt for the money order for $40 that was sent to Mrs. Thorne bears the same date.

FARGO COUNCIL TO PAVE MORE STREETS.

Fargo, N. D., May 30.—City Engineer Crabbe was instructed by the city council to prepare plans and specifications for the paving of Fourth street north, from N. P. avenue to the G. N. tracks or Fifth street north and Fourth street north to Broadway, the bids to call for creosote, cedar block and vitrified brick on a creosote base. A number of citizens on the street referred to have favored paving for a couple of years. The streets are well built up with residences. It is understood that there will be a number of protests.

DEMAND FOR LABORERS.

Men Are Wanted in North Dakota and in Montana.

Minot, N. D., May 30.—There is a steady and unsatisfied demand for labor in this section. Large shipments of labor are in demand for railroad work in this portion of the state and Montana. There are rumors of much construction on both the Great Northern and Soo roads, but as yet it has not come to a head. Labor, however, will be in great demand at this point for the entire summer.

DAKOTAS IN BRIEF

Fargo, N. D.—John Cuppiestone of Ward county was arraigned before Judge Amidon in United States court Monday and pleaded guilty to the charge of smuggling whisky across the international boundary line near Portal. In view of the circumstances, the defendant was fined only $2 and costs, which he paid and was released from custody.

Milnor, N. D.—It is estimated that the wheat acreage is 20 per cent less than last year in this vicinity. The land not sown to wheat is being put into flax or barley.

Mandan, N. D.—The crop prospects in Morton and Hettinger counties were never brighter than this season. The seeding has all been completed and the wheat has a good stand. The rains the past week made the grain fairly "shoot up."

Huron, S. D.—Nearly three inches of rain fell over this section of the James river valley. This is the heaviest rainfall of the season. The ground is thoroughly saturated and though the season is generally backward, the small grain crop is in splendid condition.

Chamberlain, S. D.—The Milwaukee road trestle over the Missouri river has again been partially carried out by high water. The trestle suffered on both sides of American island, several hundred feet being swept away. The rise so far is four feet and steadily climbing. Passengers, express and mail are taken across by ferry.

CONCERNING WOMEN

The class of 1908 of the Duluth Central high school have issued the invitations for the annual Junior-Senior party, which will be given Thursday evening of next week at the Spalding hotel. This function, at which the third-year pupils are hosts in honor of the graduates, is the most important of the social affairs of the year. The class has planned for a delightful evening and a large number of invitations have been issued to the graduates of the school and the students. The invitations are most attractive, bearing the symbol of the class of '08 in gold at one corner.

Dies at St. Paul.

Many of the local club women will be surprised to learn of the death at St. Paul early this month of Mrs. Lydia Phillips Williams, an honorary president of the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs, and an active worker till the time of her death. Mrs. Williams was a most efficient worker in club work and was chairman of the forestry committee. She spent three successive winters in Washington in the interests of forestry, and at the time of her death was secretary of the Minnesota State Forestry association. Mrs. Williams was known to thousands of club women throughout the state. Her death occurred at the home of her son at St. Paul.

To Wed at Brooklyn.

W. J. Power left today for Brooklyn, N. Y., where he will be married, June 6 to Miss Rosemary Morrissy of that city, Thursday of next week. Mr. Powers will have as his groomsman C. S. Power of this city. Mr. Power and his bride will go on a Western wedding trip, and will later be at home in this city. The bride is well known in Duluth, where she has visited.

Pleasant Evening

The closing function of the year of the gymnasium classes of the Young Women's Christian association, took place last evening at the rooms, and a delightful informal evening was enjoyed by a large number of guests. A grand march and old-fashioned spelling bee, and chorus singing of some of the old songs, were the features of the evening. Readings by the members of the elocution classes were greatly enjoyed. Numbers were given by Misses Freda Bier, Ida Leonard and Kathleen Watterworth. Miss Yeaw, by request, also gave two readings.

Annual Meeting.

The second annual meeting of the Duluth Gymnasium club was held last evening at the club rooms, on West Superior street. The officers for the year were elected as follows: President, Miss Mary D. McFadden; vice president, Miss Grace Barnett; treasurer, Miss Mabel Dean, and auditor, Miss O'Donnell. Miss Ruth Roberts was re-elected physical director of the club. After the business session an informal social hour was enjoyed.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. R. M. Sellwood and children left today for a two-weeks' visit at St. Paul.

Mrs. F. L. Barrows and children have returned from California, where they have spent the entire winter and spring.

* * *

"Memorial day reminds me," said the head of the house, "of apple dumplings my mother used to make. They were not like any other apple dumplings I have ever tasted. They were big and round and tender and juicy—they were very juicy. Not kind of shrunken away from the paste that surrounds them like some I have eaten—but juicy, and so very tender. I can remember yet how tender they were."

"What a memory," exclaimed the wife of his bosom, which kind of wife isn't any different from any other kind, with a little bit of rancor in the remark.

The admirer of other day dumplings deigned no observance of the remark.

"And I remember that we used to have cream over them—thick, yellow, rich cream—and they were so very juicy."

"You mentioned that allegel condition before," said his wife tenderly. "I'll try to bear it in mind."

"It seems strange that cooking doesn't taste the same in these days as it used to taste. Things are so different. The food stuffs themselves are not so pure I imagine, and the girls aren't raised the way they used to be. All they do now is sit around when they ought to be helping their mothers cook and sweep and such things, and learn how to—"

"Oh, John, have another popover, do; and please, dear, don't talk so much," said his wife, and John obediently helped himself to the eighth sample of present day cookery.

The first of the cantaloupes are in the market.

THEIR MANAGER

By Elizabeth Robbins.

(Copyright, 1907, by Joseph B. Bowles).

It was a warm day in April, and the windows in the sitting room of the old two-story hip-roof farmhouse were opened wide.

Inside the three Bartlett sisters were talking so earnestly that they did not see the young man who walked across the yard to one of the windows, and, resting his arms on the sill, smiled as he waited for his presence to be discovered.

Lucetta, the eldest sister, was speaking in a deep-toned tone. "It does seem as if three able-bodied women—"

"Who work like galley slaves," Marinda, the youngest sister, interposed.

"Ought to get a living," Rosella, the other sister, ended for them. "Of course they ought, and it makes me wrathy to think—"

"Oh, now, I wouldn't lose my temper over it," a soothing voice interrupted.

"Why, Chauncey Purcell!" "Lucetta exclaimed, severely. "You scared me almost out of my senses!"

The young man only laughed in answer, and going around to the door came in where they were.

"Now, what were you girls quarreling about?" he asked, when he had satisfied Marinda as to when he had come, how it had happened that he could come, how long his vacation was to be this time, and if he had been home before he came there.

"Nothing of importance," Rosella answered quickly, coloring a little.

"Can't you make the farm pay?" he persisted.

"No," Lucetta admitted willingly. "That is, not really. Of course we contrive to get along and pay our bills, but things are running down a little right along."

Chauncey Purcell regarded them thoughtfully. "It's because you are women," he said. The trouble with you is that you lack originality. You've got the idea that you must follow the antiquated methods of your great-grandfather. Why don't you find just the kind of work you like, and then make a business of it? Follow the lead of your natural inclinations? Do the thing you are fitted for? Blaze a trail?"

"Doesn't it sound easy—when neighbor Purcell says it?" said Marinda.

"What you girls need is a manager," Chauncey concluded with an air of conviction. "Especially Rosella," he added, with a meaning glance toward her.

"Perhaps you'd like to take the contract to manage us," Marinda mocked.

"I would like to," he answered promptly.

"The idea of our being managed by a little thing like you!" said Lucetta. "Why, I used to wheel you around in your baby-carriage."

"Must have been quite a tug for you, being only four years my senior," he retorted.

"Then you positively refuse to let me manage you, singly or collectively?" he asked, glancing again at Rosella.

"Certainly we do!"

"Well, then, suppose I do it without your knowledge or consent?"

"I dare you to," said Rosella quickly. "I rather think you'd find it the most difficult undertaking you ever undertook. Selling goods to unwilling customers wouldn't be a circumstance to it."

The young man looked at her quizzically for several seconds, then gave a short laugh and changed the subject; but he was somewhat absentminded on the rest of his stay, and seemed to be studying on something that interested and amused, while it baffled him. He came over again the next morning, while the Bartletts were at breakfast. "I suppose you've made all your plans for the season's campaign?" he asked quite respectfully.

"Yes; we're going to try very hard this year and see if we can't make out to accomplish something," Lucetta answered, choosing to overlook the badinage of the day before.

"We're going to raise onions, potatoes and peas," Marinda informed him.

"With a good vegetable patch for our own use," Rosella amended.

"How about your flower garden?"

"We've decided that we cannot afford to have one," Lucetta answered firmly.

"Not have a flower garden, when you are all so crazy over flowers and your luck with them in the despair of all the women for miles around? Pshaw!"

"If we could exist without eating, we'd do that, too," said Rosella bitterly.

"If we can only get the farm on a paying basis, we can make up next year for not having flowers this," said Lucetta hopefully.

"Oh, have a flower garden," urged Chauncey. "Let me make it for you. I'm to have a good long vacation this time, and I'm aching for some useful thing to do. Really, I shall feel hurt if you refuse."

They looked at each other. "It doesn't seem as though you ought to," said Lucetta at last, dispiritingly.

So the old garden was cleaned up and enlarged to eventually contain mass pinks, larkspur, four-o'clocks, columbine, foxglove, love-in-a-mist, salvia, corlopsis and marigolds, in addition to what was already there.

This renovating, and the setting out of a wisteria, honeysuckle and clematis particulars, in the few places about the house not already occupied by vines, took the rest of the week.

"And now," said Chauncey, "I want to do your farm planting for you."

"Would you let us pay you for it?" Rosella demanded.

"Oh, yes, I suppose so," he answered, with a wry face, "if you must be so everlastingly independent."

After some hesitation the girls agreed to let him do the planting.

"Oh, there's one thing I'm kind of fussy about. I forgot to mention it. I want to do the work alone. If there's anything I dislike, it's to have people bothering around when I'm doing any farming job. It makes me nervous."

The girls did not understand Chauncey's oddest in this remark. They might have wondered had they seen him planting the "potatoes," "onions," "peas" and other "vegetables."

When he concluded his work he came around one evening to pay his farewell visit.

"I'm going tomorrow morning, very early," he said. "Before I go, I want to give you girls a bit of advice. When you find you have a surplus of anything, sell it for the current price of that particular thing. It is mean to undersell other people, and you can't afford to give such things away, for they're your living."

"It's good advice, and we'll follow it," Lucetta answered.

Marinda came in one day with the information that something was coming up in the borders. "But I can't make it seem like anything we've planted," she added.

The rest went out to see. "It looks like poppies," said Lucetta, "only of course it can't be, for we didn't buy any poppy seed."

But as the days went by it became more and more evident that the little plants springing up everywhere were poppies and nothing else.

A few days later Marinda came back from a visit to the potato field. "They're coming up finely," she announced; "but they're the queerest potatoes I ever saw. They look like something, but it isn't potatoes. I don't know what it is."

They all went to the field. Lucetta gave one look.

"They're dahlias," she moaned.

In silence they went over the ground. All dahlias!

"I'll never forgive him for this, the longest day I live!" Rosella declared fiercely.

"It was a very mean trick," Lucetta commented severely.

"At any rate, we know the kitchen garden is all right—and the peas, for they're coming up, but the onions"—Lucetta looked at the others dubitatily.

They watched with anxious eyes, and at length, in some of the rows, the tiny green sprouts began to show. But they were not young onions. In fact, when all the seeds in all the rows had come up, not an onion was there among them. Instead, there were gladioli, asters, marguerites, Drummond's phlox, china pinks, balsams, ageratums, verbenas, candytuft, bachelor's buttons, mignonette, cosmos, sweet alyssum, infant's breath and nasturtiums. To cap the climax, the peas turned out to be sweet peas.

"Oh, oh, oh!" Rosella suddenly exclaimed one evening in early summer, as she was scanning the pages of the Riverboro Weekly Gazette. "If this isn't the crowning presumption! Listen, girls:

"FLOWERS! FLOWERS! FLOWERS! Come and See them! Come and Buy them!

At the Bartlett Sisters' Farm, on the State Road."

"O-h' If I could see that boy for only five minutes! Wouldn't I give him a piece of my mind!"

Chauncey Purcell came home, after an extended trip, the first of October. He walked slowly past the Bartlett farm up to the house.

The sisters were at dinner. There was some stiffness in their manner as they arose to shake hands with him.

"Well, girls," he said, "I must say that the planting I did for you seems to have turned out remarkably well."

There was no resisting the twinkle in his eyes. Rosella held out the longest, but even she at last joined in the laugh.

"Seriously, how have you made it?" Chauncey asked, when the laugh had subsided.

"It's been perfectly wonderful," Lucetta answered enthusiastically. "I never even dreamed there could be so many people who would buy flowers. They come miles to get them."

"We've made more money in the last three months than we have before in three years," Marinda said.

"We have taken ever so many orders for dahlias and gladiolus bulbs, to be delivered in the spring," said Lucetta.

"And you have enjoyed it?" he asked, looking round at them.

"We never had so much fun in our lives," Marinda answered.

"Then you will concede that all you needed was a manager, and that I am a success?"

"We concede everything," said Rosella, "and you must admit that managers don't manage for nothing. How much do we owe you, Mr. Purcell?"

"I didn't go into it for pay—I don't know but I did, though," he interrupted himself. "You see it was this way: A certain young person told me, a year or two ago, that she would never marry me, or even be engaged to me, until the time came when her sisters no longer needed her on the farm. That time did not seem to be approaching as rapidly as I could wish, so I thought I'd take a hand in hastening it—and incidentally show at the same time that I was not one to take a dare.

"This, sisters"—drawing to him the blushing Rosella—"is the young woman who has promised to let me be, in the near future, her own exclusive manager."

OUR NATION'S DEAD.

On those dear consecrated grounds
That we today so reverent tread
Flower laden maids have marched the rounds
With tributes to our nation's dead.

Beneath each monumental stone
In their memorial garlands drest
There rests a hero—not alone,
A nation's blessings with him rest.

Tall monuments rise here beside
The lowly headstones hid in weeds,
Though not less brave and true and tried,
The less famed soldier's life and deeds.

Our soldiers rest not here alone
Some lie unmarked by stone or mound,
Yet sacred are those graves unknown,
The hero consecrates the ground.

They fought in Freedom's holy cause
And sanctified that cause with blood,
Confirmed our Union and our laws
With that priceless baptismal flood,
So freely shed on land and sea,
Beneath the banner of the free
That sheltered every homeless head.
All these are our own nation's dead.

Some fell in distant tropic isles,
Slain by the foe or disease dread,
Or victims of the red man's wiles,
They wait the last call for the dead.
Some that on far alien soil fell
Lacked requiem prayer or parting knell
Beneath a foreign flag they rest,
Some lie 'neath seas unfathomed deep.
Some in strange harbors sank unblest
Alone—ungarlanded they sleep.

But not forgotten—not unwept
Beneath whatever soil or tide,
TODAY—FOR ALL—is sacred kept,
A nation mourned them when they died.

And on these holy grounds today
Are some of that devoted band
That freed the slave—crushed treason's sway
And swept its shadows from our land.
True patriots of heroic mold,
With stalwart forms erect and bold,
And arm and heart to strike a blow
To shield a friend or crush a foe.
They dared all dangers, toils and death,
Loved glory as they loved life's breath,
With martial stride so strong and free
Some marched with Sherman to the sea,

Some on Virginia's soil fought Lee
Undaunted—but one foe they dread,
Yet bravely down life's way they tread
With waning strength and bleaching head,
Though halt the step and weak the knee,
Their years seem swifter on to flee
With quick steps toward eternity.
Too soon they join our nation's dead.

And on those consecrated grounds
In our memorial garlands drest,
Will soldiers' spirits march their rounds,
To learn who have been loved the best?

Will they tonight their vigils keep;
Will viewless forms with silent stride
In marshalled squadrons wheeling sweep,
Form ranks and march as e'er they died?

Will those old patriots good and great,
That builded better than they knew,
Be shown the grandeur of the state;
How unmatched strength from weakness grew?

Will they all know their toil and strife,
The untold agonies of pain,
And sacrifice of precious life
Had been so blest—was not in vain?

May those that for the right have died,
Although their sins may have been great,
When in that last great day they're tried,
Be saved by that redeeming trait.

And on that great memorial day,
When all are ranked before the throne,
May hear the Great Judge say,
"Rest thou in peace—well hast thou done."

A STRIKING MONUMENT

The monument to Gen. Henry W. Lawton is the result of the Lawton Monument commission formed in 1900, soon after the death of Gen. Lawton in the Philippines. The Commercial club and the board of trade co-operated in the formation of a committee which raised by popular subscriptions $6,000. Daniel Chester French of New York was selected to have charge of the creation of the statue. The work was done partly by an American student, Andrew O'Connor, who acted as Mr. French's assistant.

The monument stands on the grounds of the Marion county courthouse at Washington and Delaware streets, facing southwest. The bronze figure is nine feet high standing on a stone pedestal six feet in length.

The standing figure is the typical general in command. Erect, clothed in khaki uniform, and standing beside a cactus bush, the kind of work Gen. Lawton was called upon to perform is symbolized. Modeled in New York, the statue was taken to Paris and cast in bronze by the Cire-Perdue (lost wax) method, which has given the bronze a beautiful tone and surface. The figure was erected in the salon in 1906, and received the jury's award of a second medal, granted only once before to an American sculptor. Among those who have seen the statue at the Herion institute are Lorado Taft, Charles Niehaus, Rudolph Schwarz, Prof. Kuehmann, Director Trask of the academy of fine arts, Philadelphia, and Prof Ives, director of the St. Louis museum of fine arts.

Maj. Gen. Henry Ware Lawton, who was killed at San Mateo, P. I., Dec. 19, 1899, was born at Manhattan, Ohio, March 17, 1843, and while a boy came to Indiana with his father, George Lawton, who was a millwright. The Lawtons moved to Allen county, near Fort Wayne. He enlisted in the Thirtieth Indiana regiment in 1861 and was mustered out in 1865 as captain of his company. He re-enlisted in the regular army as a second lieutenant, was transferred to the Fourth cavalry in 1871 and 1876 was made a captain. He served with distinction in 1876 against the Sioux Indians, in 1874 against the Utes and in 1886 against Geronimo, whom he captured in Mexico. In the Spanish-American war he gained the rank of lieutenant colonel, and was made a major general of volunteers. He commanded a division before Santiago, was transferred to a command in the Philippines, captured Santa Cruz, a Filipino stronghold, April 10, 1899, gained another victory at Sanisdro, and was placed in command at Manila. In the autumn of 1899 he led a campaign against Aguinaldo which resulted in his death on the firing line by a Filipino bullet. A widow and three daughters, Misses Frances, Catherine and Louise Lawton, live in Kentucky.

REMOVAL OF COMMISSION

In Charge of Police, Is Demanded by Frisco Citizens.

San Francisco, May 29.—The Call today says: The commercial interests of San Francisco have formally demanded the removal of the incumbent police commission. The demand upon Mayor Schmitz yesterday also involves the appointment of a new police commission from a list of names selected by that body of citizens, which is practically the rejuvenated and enlarged committee of fifty originally appointed by the mayor himself.

Accompanying the formal demand for the police commission was a list of names from which the mayor is expected to select the new board. The committee expects to receive the mayor's decision today.

The demand for the removal of the police commissioners and the appointment of a new chief by their successors is the first tactical procedure by the business men's committee organized at the suggestion of Governor Gillette for the restoration of law and order in this city.

at half mast, and the national colors, with the folds caught in the bands of crepe, were displayed from hundreds of private residences.

Notwithstanding the absence from the city of the president, who has been a conspicuous figure in several previous Memorial day exercises at the national cemetery at Arlington, the arrangements there were elaborate. They were under the direction of the Grand Army, Spanish War veterans, other patriotic organizations and the militia of the District of Columbia, headed by the United States marine band.

At Arlington, overlooking the Potomac, the principal exercises occurred. There the patriotic organizations, formed in line and at the gates were greeted by a national salute fired by a battery of the United States artillery. The 18,000 graves in the cemetery were strewn with flowers and each grave marked by a tiny American flag, women of the societies auxiliary to the various organizations having been engaged in the patriotic work from early morning. A touching feature of the ceremony was the decoration of graves in the part of the cemetery where lie the Confederate dead. The tomb of the "unknown dead" was decorated by a special committee, and there the marine band rendered a dirge, the same program being followed in the section allotted to the Spanish war dead, and a wreath placed on the anchor of the battleship Maine. Later, in the amphitheater, with a large crowd present, the impressive service for the soldier dead was conducted.

The program arranged, interspersed by selections of the United States marine band, included, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," band and assembly; invocation, C. W. Gallagher, department chaplain; "O, Columbia, Our Land," Tacoma chorus; reading of orders, James A. Allen, assistant adjutant general; President Lincoln's Gettysburg address, Rev. H. N. Couden, chaplain of the United States house of representatives; chorus (A) "After the Battle" from "David" (Gabriel); (B) "No Shadows Yonder," from "Holy City" (Gaul), Tacoma chorus; reading "The Revielle" (Bretharte) Col. John T. Weedale, U. S. A.; soprano solo, "The Rest of the Brave," (Calver) Miss Laura Collison; oration, Comrade James Tanner, past commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic; baritone solo, "The Veteran's Last Song," (Lozier) Prof. James D. McFall; "Funeral March," (Chopin) and "America" band, chorus and assembly; benediction, Rev. H. A. Brown, chaplain, U. S. A.

Immediately following these exercises the unveiling of the monument to the memory of Maj. Gen. Joseph A. Mower, by the army of the Tennessee, took place, under the auspices of that society. United States Senator William Warner of Missouri, presided.

Former United States Senator John M. Thurston of Nebraska was the orator of the day at the exercises held at the Brightwood cemetery.

Under the auspices of the various posts of the Grand Army of the Republic, memorial exercises were held in the District of Columbia, at the Soldiers' home, Congressional, Oakhill, Holy Road, Mount Olivet, Glenwood, St. Elizabeth asylum, Rock Creek, Harmony, Prospect Hill, St. Marys, and the Battle Ground cemeteries. Official programs were carried out at each cemetery. Isolated graves also were honored.

Women and Their Clothes

A WOMAN who is indifferent as to her personal appearance, may, if she choose, buy her clothes at any store she happens to saunter into, or may be satisfied with anything that is handed down to her,

BUT—the woman who desires to appear well-groomed, does not buy in that old indifferent way, but rather goes to the establishment where she knows the best fitting clothes are to be had—clothes which possess that graceful appearance accomplished only by skilled detail work in cutting; in putting in the foundations of canvas, the linings, etc., and in "working up" the garment!

Our prices compare favorably with others, but the "style" and appearance varies greatly!

PLATT & PLATT

Will be Given New Chance to Fight Parcels Post.

Chicago, May 30.—A Washington dispatch to the Chicago Tribune says that during the opening session of the next congress there is to be determined agitation to secure the passage of a bill providing for a parcels post system in the United States.

Such a measure has been considered, in a desultory sort of way, for many years, but it has always been pigeonholed, and largely through the influence of Senator Platt of New York, who has seemed to retain his seat in the senate for no other purpose than to kill off this particular bill.

Whenever anything in the nature of a proposed establishment of a parcel post is under consideration, either in committee or in the senate, the senator from New York, T. C. Platt, is instantly reinforced by the president of the United States Express company, T. C. Platt, and between the two they have succeeded for all these years in preventing any movement in this direction, although the reform has been recommended by the postoffice department for almost a generation.

HUSBAND ELOPES

With Nurse and Mrs. Emma Shannahan Wants Him Located.

Ottumwa, Iowa, May 30.—Mrs. Emma Shannahan of Creston, has appealed to the police for assistance in locating her husband, whom she alleges has left her because of an infatuation for a nurse who took care of him at a hospital in Creston, where he was recently compelled to undergo an operation. Mrs. Shannahan says her husband has been missing for ten days and that she has reason to believe he is in Ottumwa.

PIERCE AND GATES ARE PLANNING COUP IN OIL.

Kansas City, May 30.—A friend of H. Clay Pierce is authority for the statement that the oil magnate is more than pleased at the result of the oil investigation by Attorney General Hadley, which undoubtedly will result in the Standard, the Waters-Pierce and the Republic Oil companies being ousted from Missouri.

Pierce is planning, so his friends declare, to enter the field against the Standard just as soon as the Missouri decision is handed down. Enforcement of the anti-trust law by several states will, it is asserted, give Pierce and his associates ample protection in bucking the Standard.

The personal friendship which has long existed between Pierce and John W. Gates, together with the fact that Gates has recently purchased leases on thousands of acres of oil lands in the Indian territory and that both have recently been "trimmed" by the Standard Oil crowd, lends color to the story.

Good Words for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

People everywhere take pleasure in testifying to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Edward Phillips of Barclay, Md., writes: "I wish to tell you that I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My little girl, Catherine, who is two years old, has been taking this remedy whenever she has had a cold since she was two months old. About a month ago I contracted a dreadful cold myself, but I took Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was soon as well as ever." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

THAT MISSING RETURN CHECK.

New York Times: "Possibly you have noticed," said the man who goes about, "a young fellow in evening dress standing about the lobby of some theater during the first act of a performance, and then near the close of the intermission, between the first and second acts, have heard him explaining to the man at the door that he has lost his return check. I have seen it occur twice in different theaters. The second time I was careful to keep an eye on the fellow for a time. Naturally, after what I had seen, I was not surprised, shortly before the rise of the curtain, to see him joined by another young fellow, also in evening dress, who doubtless used the missing return check to secure admission to the theater. However, I should not think that the game would be a lasting one, as it cannot be carried on twice with the same doorman with any probability of success. On both occasions the ticket-taker took the young fellow's word, seeming to think that the statement of a man in evening dress should not be questioned.

MARINE NEWS

ARE BEHIND LAST YEAR

Ore Shipments to June Will Show Falling Off.

Must be Immense During the Next Four Months.

According to established figures the iron ore shipments during the months of June, July, August and September will have to average 60,000 tons an dthe shipments from Oct. 1 to the close of the season will have to be heavier than last year in order to move 40,000,000 tons. Up to June 1 the ore shipments will probably show a small falling off compared with last year.

Forty million tons is the low figure named for the total movement of ore for 1907 and while that will only be an increase of 2,500,000 tons over last year, the conditions will have to be favorable and the boats must get good dispatch at both ends of the route in order to turn the trick.

The spring the opening of navigation was later than it was a year ago and there has been much delay since the opening due to various causes. With the exception of coal the movement of freight so far is not as heavy as it was last season at this time. Shippers figured on making a big showing during May and while the shipments will show a good gain over the same month last year when some time was lost on account of a strike at lower lake ports, the increase will hardly be great enough to bring the total on June 1 up to last year's movement.

Shipments are increasing steadily, but the docks at this end are not yet giving as good dispatch as last year. There has been little let up in the movement of coal which has been very heavy during the past few weeks. Shippers are getting a good supply of big tonnage but small carriers are not any too plentiful.

QUESTION OF TIDES

Being Discussed by Marine Men on Great Lakes.

Marine men and other citizens of Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie are discussing whether or not tides exist on the lakes as the water at those points has a tendency to rise as much as six or seven feet within the space of a few minutes. After holding to that level for some time the water gradually recedes to its normal state.

Such an occurrence has happened frequently at Marquette and also at the Sault and other lake ports and it is a puzzler for marine men. Although the sudden rise of water might possibly have been caused by a heavy gale it seems to be the general opinion that it was caused by a tidal wave.

The question of tides on the lakes is not a new one and it has been discussed for years. It is the view of some people that possibly there has been a severe submarine disturbance quite recently.

BIG BOAT IN HOME PORT

Steamer Thomas F. Cole Arrives With Gala Party Aboard.

Many Citizens Go to Two Harbors to Greet Craft.

The gigantic freight steamer Thomas F. Cole, named after the head of the Oliver Iron Mining company, steamed into Duluth for the first time this morning, bearing two hundred or more of her leading citizens, who journeyed to Two Harbors this morning to board the craft, for Duluth, and formally welcome the big boat to the home harbor.

The steamer Cole is just a little bit larger than any other freighter on the Great Lakes and she is the new flagship of the Pittsburg Steamship company, the vessel arm of the United States Steel corporation.

It was impossible to invite the entire population of Duluth to make the trip from Two Harbors to Duluth on the handsome new craft but everyone will be permitted to look her over as she lies in the slip at the foot of Sixth avenue west.

A large crowd was on hand to greet her and every boat in the harbor gave welcoming toots on the big whistles. The fact that the boat is named after a fellow citizen and is considered the finest freight boat on the Great Lakes, is responsible for the great interest in her coming which is felt here.

Mayor Cullins found it impossible to make the trip with the crowd this morning, so his speech of welcome to Capt. Morgan and men of the good ship Cole, was given by City Attorney Bert Fesler. Mr. Fesler, on behalf of the citizens of Duluth, extended the freedom of the harbor and other things that are Duluth's to the big boat and expressed the hope that she would never go aground on the rocks of misfortune.

Capt. Morgan, in a neatly turned speech, responded to the city government's representative, thanking the citizens of Duluth for their hospitality, good wishes and good fellowship.

Thomas F. Cole, president of the Oliver Iron Mining company—the man after whom the boat was named—was along and was the gayest member of the gay party.

In a long ulster and with a pair of marine glasses strapped at his side, he was as happy as an enthusiastic Eastern tourist visiting Duluth for the first time. No one in the party enjoyed the familiar ride from Duluth to Two Harbors or the trip from the North shore point to Duluth more than he.

Mr. Cole was called upon by his friends to give a short talk and he did so.

Those who boarded the special train at the Union depot this morning were certainly representative citizens and the coming of the steamer T. F. Cole was one of the society events of the season.

Before the special left at 8:20, automobiles and carriages speeded up to the depot in profusion, bearing guests. There were many women in the party, and their summer dresses—that is, they looked "summery"—made the station a very gay looking place for a time.

A very representative gathering from the Kichi Kammi club, of which Mr. Cole is president was on hand to do honor to the head of the organization. Mr. Cole's associates in the Steel corporation offices were there, as were also bidden guests from all parts of the city.

The trip to Two Harbors passed very pleasantly. Shortly after the arrival of the special, the party boarded the new boat, which lay waiting in the harbor, and a little later the craft sailed out of Two Harbors, bound for home.

Refreshments were served on the boat and everyone had a good time. The reception for the Cole had been planned for some time by President Coulby of the Pittsburg Steamship company and only illness prevented him from being present.

Great credit for the success of the affair reflects upon Herbert W. Brown, agent for the Pittsburg Steamship company, who was everywhere, looking after details and the comforts of the many guests.

Hardly less interest in the Cole was taken by the citizens of Two Harbors. Large crowds greeted the special when it arrived and many waved a farewell and God-speed to the Cole as she left the harbor there.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Double Tragedy Involving Two Sisters at Bloomington, Ill.

Bloomington, Ill., May 30.—Early today the authorities discovered evidence of murder and suicide in the case of Cora and Carrie Leaderbrand, whose bodies were found in the creek near Springfield. A revolver was found in the creek, and it is believed one girl killed the other, then committed suicide.

The theory is that the eldest girl shot and killed the younger one, who was deaf and dumb, and then waded into the water and shot herself. The eldest girl had telephoned her aunt, Mrs. George Leaderbrand of New City, to come over. In making the request the girl said that she was ill.

CASH BONUS NOT ASKED

Objectionable Feature Eliminated From New Railway Ordinance.

Mayo May Exact a Bond From Company Purchasing Franchise.

Virginia, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—An absorbing topic of conversation is the new street railway franchise ordinance introduced in the council Tuesday evening, as told in The Herald dispatches.

A feature of the new ordinance is the fact that the previous one requiring a $10,000 cash bonus is eliminated, but the company purchasing the franchise will be expected to give a bond to be fixed by the mayor. As money commands a good rate of interest, prospective bidders objected to putting up a cash bonus for several months and losing the interest thereon.

The clerk was instructed to advertise for bids on the franchise according to a provision of the city charter. After the franchise has been offered at auction and sold, then the ordinance will be passed awarding it to the highest bidder.

The new ordinance provides that the company to which the franchise is awarded will have six months' time in which to accept, eighteen months for construction of the first mile and three years in which to complete the line between Virginia, Mountain Iron and Eveleth.

The requirement for hourly service is cut out and instead the company is simply required to provide reasonable service at all times.

While the council favors the Mesaba Traction company in granting to that concern the former franchise, in the present case the matter will be thrown open to everybody who desires to bid. However, City Attorney Shea states that the council can use discretionary powers and throw out all bids that it considers are made by irresponsible bidders.

MAYOR ROTHFUS UNDER ARREST

Two Harbors Official Charged with Breaking Sunday Law.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 30.—Special to The Herald.)—The arrest of Mayor C. G. Rthfus of Two Harbors yesterday on the charge of violating the Sunday law is the reigning sensation. The mayor declines to talk for publication. As he was a prime mover in the Law and Order league at the time he was president of the city counsel and agitated the prosecution of those selling liquor on Sunday, his arrest for a violation of the Sunday law naturally creates no end of comment.

The mayor is alleged to have violated the law by installing some new machinery in his laundry last Sunday. Olos Larson, a brakeman, was the complaining witness. The warrant was served by Deputy Sheriff Louis Christenson, formerly a police officer, who was recently discharged by the mayor. The mayor was promptly released on his own recognizance and will have a hearing next week.

ENGINE STARTS, MOREY KILLED

Is Cut to Pieces in Shenango Mine at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is sadness today among the men employed at the Shenango over the tragic death yesterday of Nelson Morey, a steam shovel engineer, who was caught in the machinery and almost cut in two, his body being frightfully mangled.

It appears Morey had stopped the machinery to do some repairing and had ordered one of the helpers to go to the top of the machine and fix something. It is believed the man in some manner started the machinery and Morey was caught unawares and mangled so that he was instantly killed.

The dead man's home is at Marshall, Wis., where he leaves a wife and three children.

WITNESS FIRING OF FORMER HOME

Abandoned Wickey Dwelling Burns Before Eyes of Owners.

Eveleth, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—To see their former house set on fire and burned to the ground was the unusual sensation experienced by Mrs. Henry Wickey, her son Forest, and the latter's wife, living within the meander line of Cedar Island lake, according to the story told here by Forest Wickey.

The building burned was the one occupied by the Wickeys before they built their present residence, and was located not far distant.

Forest Wickey said that Tuesday morning a settler took his team of oxen to the old dwelling and after partly tearing it down went inside and set fire to it.

NEW AURORA LODGE.

The Royal League Is Organized With Forty Charter Members.

Aurora, Minn., May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—With forty charter members made up of well known citizens a Royal League lodge was instituted here last night. The degrees were conferred upon the candidates and the officers installed by a delegation from the Biwabik lodge. The ceremonies were witnessed by members of the Royal League from Eveleth, Biwabik and other surrounding points.

VIRGINIA ELKS' BALL.

Annual Affair to be Given by the Herd on Friday Evening.

Virginia, Minn., May 30.—(Special The Herald.)—The Elks lodge of Virginia is looking forward with keen delight to the annual ball of the lodge to be given tomorrow night. It is expected that memebers of the antlered herd of Duluth and other cities will be well represented. The affair promises to be one of the social functions of the season.

ODD FELLOW ELECTION IS HELD AT HIBBING.

Hibbing, May 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Odd Fellows lodge of this city held its annual election of officers at the lodge rooms last evening.

RANGES IN BRIEF

Hibbing—J. L. Stewart has resigned as bookkeeper for the Carlson Mercantile company and with others will commence business at Aurora as the Aurora Mercantile company taking over the business formerly conducted by R. J. McGhee & Co.

Hibbing—Fred M. Smith, who has been in the bicycle and automobile business here, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. The first meeting of creditors will be held at Duluth, June 10, when a trustee will be appointed.

Hibbing—A three-act comedy, "The Diamond Necklace," will be given at the Roosevelt auditorium by the senior class of the high school tonight.

SUPERIOR NEWS

MEMORIAL DAY.

Exercises Are in Progress at Greenwood Cemetery.

Memorial day is being suitably celebrated in Superior today. Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning the members of Alonzo Palmer post, G. A. R., the Women's Relief corps, a detachment from Co. I, Third Regiment, and sixteen patriotic young ladies, including Miss Hazel Harris daughter of the post, marched from the Odd Fellows' hall on Twelfth street and Ogden avenue to the Union depot and from there took the train to the Greenwood cemetery. The young ladies, who are to officiate in the decorating of the graves were attired in the national colors.

At the cemetery the chief address of the day was delivered by Hon. Thomas B. Mills.

The train left the cemetery on the return trip at noon and a banquet is being served at the Odd Fellows' hall at 2:30, an elaborate program, of which the feature will be an address, by Rev. U. S. Villars, will be presented.

Shoot This Afternoon.

The Superior Gun club is planning to hold a shoot this afternoon, commencing at 2:30, and several Duluth marksmen are planning to attend the contest. A number of handicap events are to be pulled off, and a handsome trophy donated by the Dupont Powder company will be put on exhibition at the range, Thirty-second street and Tower avenue, this afternoon.

BLIND PIGGER FINED.

A. Piefke Will Appeal Case to Circuit Court.

Arthur Piefke, the Amincon man charged with running a "blind pig" was found guilty by Judge Parker yesterday in municipal court and sentenced to pay a fine of $75 and costs amounting to over $100.

The prisoner at once signified his intention of appealing to the circuit court and furnished a bond for his appearance at the trial. He denied the charges absolutely. Though he admitted treating on election day he asserted that he had received no money therefor.

W. J. Foley, the railroad man arrested yesterday, charged with assaulting Max Weiner, the peddler, was taken to St. Mary's hospital yesterday afternoon, where Weiner was lying and the peddler at once identified him as his assailant.

It is not believed that the stab in Weiner's back was inflicted with a knife, as the Jew says that Foley hit him with a bag of old bottles, which he had in the wagon, and it is thought that one of them broke and cut through his clothing.

GRADUATION.

Blaine and Nelson Dewey Classes Will Hold Joint Exercises.

The graduating exercises of the Blaine and Nelson Dewey seniors will be held the week of June 9, commencing with the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, June 9, at the Pilgrim Congregational church, when Rev. H. O. Hannum will deliver the sermon, and concluding with the joint graduating exercises, participated in by both Nelson-Dewey and Blaine seniors, which will take place on Thursday evening at the Grand Opera house.

Three members of the Blaine seniors and two Nelson Dewey graduates will be on the program with addresses and papers on the evening of graduation, and a joint orchastra of fifteen pieces, under the leadership of L. Pemfrey of Nelson Dewey, will furnish the music during the evening. Herbert Schmidt, Alice Anderson and Dorothy Sheehan will represent the Blaine and Nettie McFarlane and Harris Erlanson will speak for Nelson-Dewey.

THE PRODUCE MARKET.

The following prices, with the exception of those on hay, feed and meats, are the official quotations of the Duluth Produce exchange and shippers can rely upon them as being correct. The list is corrected daily by the secretary, and it shows accurately the market conditions up to 12 o'clock on the date of issue. The weekly market letter, published on Fridays, is not an official statement of the exchange, but the information is gathered personally from the different dealers:

LAW BEING ENFORCED

Saloons Closed and Sports Restricted Until 3 P. M.

Chief of Police Troyer has given strict orders to the policemen throughout the city that the Memorial day law, passed by the last session of the legislature, which requires the closing of all saloons between the hours of 10 o'clock in the morning and 3 o'clock in the afternoon, should be strictly enforced, and the saloon men all over the city are living up to it with vigorous exactness.

The new law also provides that all kinds of field sports shall be restricted between these hours within half a mile of any meeting held for memorial purposes and both the league baseball games and the high school field meet have been set at a later hour in respect to the soldier's ideas of the day.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

There is probably no medicine made that is relied upon with more implicit confidence than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. During the third of a century in which it has been in use, people have learned that it is the one remedy that never fails. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. For sale by all druggists.

AN UNKNOWN DESPERADO

Holds a Posse of Fifty at Bay for Hours.

Princeton, Ind., May 30.—After holding a posse of fifty officers and citizens at bay for two hours, a desperado was captured near Mount Carmel, Ill., yesterday, after he had been wounded four times and was so weak from loss of blood that he was unable to shoot. He will probably die. He refuses to give his name. He displayed three revolvers and several new knives as a gang of mussel diggers, who notified officers. Two officers attempted to arrest him, but failed. A posse was then formed and when the desperado was sighted, a running battle resulted in which many shots were exchanged. None of the posse was wounded.

A RESERVATION OF SIXTY FEET

Created by President Along Southern Border of United States.

Washington, May 30.—The president has issued a proclamation creating a reservation sixty feet in width along the entire northern border of Mexico, including the state of California and the territories of Arizona and New Mexico. The purpose of a reservation is declared in the presidential proclamation to be the suppression of smuggling across the international line. Private entries in the line of the projected reservation and such portions of it as are needed for roads are reserved from the operation of the order.

Since the abolition of the old "zona libre," or free zone between Mexico and the United States, it has been found increasingly difficult to prevent smuggling across the boundary, hence the presidential proclamation.

ANOTHER PRINCE COMING.

New York, May 30.—Another prince is to visit this country. He is Prince William of Sweden and will arrive at Jamestown on the cruiser Eylgia on Aug. 18. Later the cruiser will come to New York and the prince will visit Newport, Tuxedo, Saratoga and other nearby resorts by rail.

WEST DULUTH
HOLIDAY IS OBSERVED
West Duluth Business Houses Close This Afternoon.
Celebration at Fairmount Park Draws Big Crowd.

West Duluth is observing Memorial day today in common with the other parts of the city. Nearly all of the business houses were open this morning, but this afternoon everything is closed down, and the residents of the town are giving themselves up to the observance of the holiday.

A large number of West Duluthians will spend the day at Fairmount park, which is opening for the season. This afternoon there will be a baloon ascension, followed by music and dancing in the big Union Labor pavilion. The day is an excellent one for the affair, and the park will be crowded with pleasure seekers.

HARVEY P. SMITH INJURED.
Well-Known Mining Man is Thrown From His Horse.

Harvey P. Smith, auditor for the Hovland-Smith mining interests in the Southwest, was very seriously injured the other day by being thrown from a bucking broncho, according to a Bisbee, Ariz., newspaper.

The accident occurred at Mr. Smith's home, at Bakersville. He was about to mount the horse to go to Bisbee on business, when his foot became entangled in the stirrup, and the horse started to run. Smith was dragged for some little distance, and received several kicks from the pony before he was rescued.

While he was seriously hurt, he will recover.

HEAVY FALLING OFF
In the Receipts of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

New Rork, May 29.—The report of the Pacific Mail Steamship company, whic his the outlet to the Hariman lines, shows a falling off of nearly $1,000,000 in receipts compared with those of the previous fiscal year. Total receipts for the year ending April 30, 1907, were $4,839,244, which is $855,092 less than in 1906. Of this total decrease $852,571 was due to the falling off in receipts from the operation of steamers. The loss in this item was explained by President Harriman as follows:

"A part of the decrease in operations of steamers resulted from the fact that the trans-Pacific line made four less trips this year than last, but by far the greater part was the result of diversion of traffic to other channels during the re-establishment in San Francisco of stores, warehouses, hotel accommodations and other accessories which are required in carrying on an extensive commerce, and which were entirely destroyed or scattered by the fire of April 18, 1906, also from the lower rates on ocean tonnage and from the unsettled conditions in the Central American republics, which reduces very materially the company's traffic in these states."

COLD WEATHER IN STATE OF COLORADO.

Colorado Springs, Colo., May 30.—The most unseasonable weather on record in Central Colorado prevailed today. The mountains were white with snow that fell during the night and great difficulty was experienced in keeping open the "cog" road up Pike's peak by reason of great snow drifts. At Cripple Creek yesterday a heavy wet snow fell to a depth of several inches.

HARVEY FOUND GUILTY ON MANY INDICTMENTS.

Pittsburg, May 30.—Thomas W. Harvey, former teller of the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny, Pa., was found guilty of thirty-three indictments for making false entries and not guilty on three counts charging the misappropriation of funds of the bank.

The case was given to the jury in the federal court yesterday afternoon. After being out twelve hours the verdict was reached.

George L. Ralston, former individual bookkeeper of the bank, is now on trial upon charges of making false entries and abstracting funds of the bank.

Hibernian Notes.

Division No. 1, A. O. H. held a special meeting last evening in the Cathedral hall. A class of ten candidates were initiated into the order. This gives the local division of the order a part of the prize money offered by the state officers to divisions initiating a certain number of new new members within a specified time. A large delegation of Division No. 1 will go to St. Paul next Saturday to take part in the ceremonies of the laying of the cornerstone of the new cathedral there.

The local Hibernian delegation will also participate in the reception to National President Cummings, who will be in St. Paul on the occasion. This being his first visit to the Northwest, the members of the order in the Twin Cities have made arrangements to give him a royal welcome, and with the visiting Hibernians in St. Paul next Sunday on the occasion of the laying of the cornerstone of the new cathedral, he will be given a fitting demonstration. The order in this state has made great progress in the last year, every division adding members to its ranks. It is said that Minnesota has made the greatest increase of any state in the Union in the last year.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, the undersigned, do hereby associate ourselves together as a body corporate under and pursuant to and in conformity with the provisions of "Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of Minnesota, 1905," for the purpose of organizing a corporation and do certify that, to effect said purpose, we have adopted and signed the following Articles of Incorporation.

ARTICLE I.
The name of the corporation shall be "Aurora Mercantile Company."

ARTICLE II.
The principal place of business of the corporation shall be at Aurora, in the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota.

ARTICLE III.
The general nature of the business of the corporation shall be the manufacturing, buying, purchasing, selling, exchanging, disposing of and dealing, investing and trading in goods, wares and merchandise of every class and description, in general, to carry on and conduct a general wholesale and retail mercantile, jobbing and merchandising business. The corporation shall have power to buy, purchase, hold, own, sell and convey, mortgage, lease or otherwise dispose of all such real estate as the Board of Directors of the corporation shall deem necessary or convenient for the purpose of conducting and carrying on the said business and to do all things as the Board of Directors deems necessary or convenient for the furtherance of the purposes and objects of the corporation.

ARTICLE IV.
The time of the commencement of the corporation shall be the first day of June, 1907, and the period of its continuance shall be thirty years.

ARTICLE V.
The amount of the capital stock of the corporation shall be $50,000, divided into 500 shares of the par value of $100 each and the same shall be subscribed for, paid in and issued at such times, in such amounts and upon such terms and conditions as shall be ordered by the Board of Directors of the corporation.
The capital stock of the corporation shall be assignable and transferable upon the books of the corporation in accordance with its by-laws and not otherwise, and no stock issued to any stockholder shall be sold or transferred or shall be assignable until the stockholders of the corporation have first been given due opportunity to purchase the same.

ARTICE VI.
The management of the corporation shall be vested in a Board of three directors, who shall be stockholders of and in the corporation and shall be elected yearly at the annual meeting of said stockholders to be held on the third Monday in May in each year beginning with the year, 1907. Each director shall be elected to serve for the period of one year and until his successor is duly elected and qualified. Vacancies occurring in the Board shall be filled by a majority vote of the Board of Directors. Immediately following the annual stockholders' meeting the Board of Directors, elected at such annual meeting, shall convene and shall elect, from among their number, four officers of the corporation, namely: a President, a Vice President, a Secretary, and Treasurer, but any two of said offices, except President and Vice President, may be held by the same person. Until such annual meeting to be held in the year, 1907, C. H. Taylor, and O. S. Andresen, both of Duluth, Minnesota and J. L. Stewart of Aurora, Minnesota, shall constitute the first Board of Directors. Until the election and organization of a new Board of Directors of said corporation, C. H. Taylor of Duluth, Minnesota, shall be its President; J. L. Stewart of Aurora, Minnesota, shall be its Vice President, and O. S. Andresen of Duluth, Minnesota, shall be its Secretary and Treasurer. The Board of Directors shall adopt a corporate seal and shall have power and authority to establish by-laws for the government and regulation of said corporation and to alter and repeal the same.

ARTICLE VII.
The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation shall be at any time subject shall be $50,000.

ARTICLE VIII.
The names and places of residence of the incorporators of the corporation are as follows:
C. H. Taylor, Duluth, Minnesota.
J. L. Stewart, Aurora, Minnesota.
O. S. Andresen, Duluth, Minnesota.
IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We have hereunto set our hands and seal this 22nd day of May, 1907.

ORGANIZED WORKINGMEN TO BE ASKED TO DISPENSE WITH THE USE OF BEER

Last Barrel of Union Beer to be Made Friday.

Brewery Workmen to be Expelled From A. F. of L.

Union Men Will be Asked to Boycott Their Product.

Chicago, May 31.—The last barrel of "union beer" in Chicago and the whole country, according to an edict of the American Federation of Labor, will be manufactured today. At midnight the Brewery Workers' union will cease to exist in the eyes of the national labor leaders, and the 2,000,000 organized workingmen in the United States will be asked to "get on the water wagon" or use some other kind of beverage.

The brewery employes have rebelled against President Gompers and the national labor executive council and they are to be disciplined. The method adopted is that of expulsion.

Secretary Kemper of the local union said the 3,000 brewery workers in Chicago will go on brewing beer whether the American Federation of Labor regards it officially as a "union" product or not.

The trouble has been growing for several years. Two months ago the national labor council met in Washington and gave the Brewery Workers' union until June 1 to comply with an order to oust all engineers, firemen, and teamsters from its organization. These men were under the protection of the union, which was in conflict with the principle of trade autonomy upheld by the federation. The brewery employes then took a vote and 98 per cent of the membership favored resistance to the order, which brought about the present situation.

THE REVOLT SPREADING

Thirty Thousand Rebels Under Arms Southward of Amoy.

Amoy, China, May 31.—An insurrection has broken out forty miles southward of Amoy. Thirty thousand rebels are under arms, and stated to be well led. The revolt is spreading to towns near Amoy. The viceroy of Fu Chow is sending 8,000 troops to deal with the rising, and warships are expected here shortly.

The American consul at Amoy, Mr. Paddock, cabled to the state department at Washington May 25, announcing that an armed uprising had been reported at Joan, fifty miles south of Amoy, that several officials had been killed by soldiers and that the origin of the trouble was unknown.

Of Minneapolis Woman Whose Body is Found in Lake.

Mrs. P. J. McCaffrey Believed to Have Been Murdered.

Minneapolis, May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of a woman, identified as Mrs. P. J. McCaffrey, 3573 Western avenue was found in Lake Calhoun, near the south shore yesterday evening. Mysterious circumstances surround the death. When found, the body was in water but five feet deep.

Mr. and Mrs. David C. Craig, Thirty-eighth street and Sheridan avenue, south, were out rowing and discovered the body. The police were notified, and when Detective Brundage and Morgue Keeper Schaefer took it out of the water, it was still warm.

The body was taken to the morgue, and this morning identified by the dead woman's husband and his brother. They both said that it could not have been suicide, and advance a foul play theory.

The police are working on the theory that the woman was pushed from a row boat, probably being stunned before being thrown into the water.

Mrs. McCaffrey was carefully gowned, as though having prepared for a visit to the lake, and wore jewels valued at $150, which were undisturbed.

COMMERCE PARALYZED

French Sailors Belonging to Naval Reserve on Strike.

Tie-Up of All Ports is Said to be Complete.

Paris, May 31.—French commerce is threatened with complete paralysis as a result of the general strike of sailors belonging to the naval reserve, which went into operation at daylight today at all the ports of France. The naval reserves comprise almost the entire maritime population devoted to seafaring life. They number about 117,000 men, of whom 25,000 belong to the war fleet. Practically the entire personnel of the merchant marine, as well as the longshoremen are inscribed in the naval reserve. The executive committee of the National Seamen's union ordered the strike because the members of the union regard the government's new bill increasing pensions from $60.80 to $72.50 in the case of seamen and from $96 to $200 in the case of captains as being inadequate.

The reports thus far received indicate that the tieup is complete. At the Mediterranean, Atlantic and channel ports the crews generally left their ships. The government promptly ordered the army transports at Marseilles to be placed in commission at once to insure a mail service between France and her African possessions, but the transportation companies were taken by surprise and are at the mercy of the strikers. The officials of the French trans-Atlantic company hope that the steamer La Provence will be able to sail from Havre tomorrow, but they are not certain that she will be able to do so. Generally, the companies are in a position to coerce the men, as being members of the naval reserve, the crews are subject to heavy penalties for insubordination, but it is regarded as more likely that they will try to effect a compromise.

BROTHERS ARE TO AID GOULD

When Suit Brought by Wife Comes Up for Trial.

New York, May 31.—When H. Gould is haled into court by the suit for a separation brought by his wife, formerly Miss Katherine Clemmons, it is likely that his brothers, George and Frank, will be called to testify in his behalf. It was announced yesterday by an intimate friend of Mr. Gould that although it would be extremely distasteful to members of the family to appear in court, the two brothers had expressed their willingness to do so.

From present indications it seems assured that the whole history of the domestic troubles of Howard Gould and his wife will come out when the case is finally taken into court. Howard Gould's reply to his wife's suit will not be made public, at least until June 6, which is the limit allowed by law.

THE PRICE OF THREAD ADVANCED BY MAKERS.

New York, May 31.—The interests controlling the thread industry have advanced the price of thread 11 cents per dozen spools of thread, and dealers throughout the country have received formal notice of the raise.

The Clark O. N. T. of Newark and the Coats and Brooks companies of New York, the largest makers, are in the combination.

Retailers say the price of thread will be put up 1 cent per spool.

WAR SPIRIT FORGOTTEN

Governor Johnson Says North and South Are Now One.

Hospitality of the South Has Not Been Exaggerated.

"The old war spirit between the North and the South is dead," said Governor John A. Johnson, who arrived in the city this morning on his way to Two Harbors where he will deliver an address to the graduating class of the high school this evening.

He will leave for Two Harbors this afternoon, returning this evening, and taking the night train to St. Paul.

The governor asked to be excused from talking politics when seen this morning by a Herald representative, but consented to talk of his recent trip to the South, where he unveiled the Minnesota Soldiers' monument at the national park at Vicksburg.

"The stories of the hospitality of the Southern people have not been overdrawn," he said. "There were forty people in our party, including the members of the staff and their wives, and we spent ten most enjoyable days

TO FERRET OUT BLACK HAND

Police to Make Determined Effort to Punish Italians.

New York, May 31.—The recent attempt on the life of Dr. Markar Dadirian, a physician here, by means of an infernal machine, has stirred the police to special efforts to ferret out members of the so-called "Black Hand" in this city. The grand jury in Brooklyn is making a special inquiry into all outrages committed by the "Black Hand" which are brought to its attention, while the judges of the court of general sessions in Manhattan have asked the legislature to increase the penalty for extortion or blackmail by threats of murder from five to twenty years imprisonment. They believe such legislation would have a deterrent effect and lessen that class of crimes.

The New York police have as yet found no evidence of any local branch, but they admit that they find it difficult to get Italians to testify in reputed "Black Hand" cases because of a general fear of the vendetta.

According to the World, today, in 1906, and so far this year there have been nearly seventy-five murders, attempts at murder, kidnapings, bomb explosions, robberies and attempts at blackmailing in Greater New York and its environs in New Jersey and Long Island—all charged to the "Black Hand." Almost without exception the perpetrators of these outrages remain unknown and unpunished.

FOUR PERSONS LOSE LIVES IN MIDNIGHT FIRE

Long Branch, N. J., May 31.—The two daughters of Walter A. Schiffer, a cigar manufacturer of New York city, Marion, aged 10, and Ruth, aged 14, and two servants, Mary Dilter and Tilly Monthon, were burned to death in a fire which last night at midnight destroyed the handsome residence of Jacob Rothschild, which Mr. Schiffer had rented. In attempting to rescue her children, Mrs. Schiffer was so severely burned as to be in a critical condition today, and Mr. Schiffer suffered severe burns in fighting the fire.

Two guests of Mr. and Mrs. Schiffer, B. Citaneon and M. Breicer, were also seriously injured. In jumping from a window John Irvine, the butler, suffered a fracture of his left arm and his back was injured. Mrs. Holt, the governess, suffered several severe burns while trying to secure the children in her care, and Kate McMurray and Josephine Hottman, servants, were injured by jumping from the windows.

ENDS LIFE IN CANAL

Merle Finch Rolls Off the Pier to Her Death.

Was Inmate of Colored Resort on St. Croix Avenue.

Despondent over a love affair, and wearied of the world and its treatment of her, Merle Finch, a young colored woman, who has been an inmate of a resort at 215 St. Croix avenue, this morning committed suicide by rolling off the north pier into the lake just as a big freighter was passing through, about 8:15 o'clock. Wilson Bahaure, a young colored man was with her when she did the deed, and made a frenzied effort to throw a life preserver to her, but in his excitement he so tangled the line that it was useless.

For some unknown reason the woman did not sink when she hit the water, but floated face downward and refused to make any effort to save herself. Louis Mattison and a man named Dahl rowed over to the scene, but were unable to get the body clear of the water. In the meantime the life savers had

WISCONSIN CONFIDENT

Of Winning the Great Varsity Race From Syracuse.

Thousands of People Are Gathered at Madison for the Event.

Madison, Wis., May 31.—The crews of the Syracuse and Wisconsin universities which have been putting in hard practice work on Lake Mendota all week in preparation for the eight and four-oared boat races have finished their training and are said to be in the pink of condition. Just to limber up for the great struggle of this afternoon, the crews took a little light practice in their shells this forenoon. It has not been definitely settled on which lake the races will be rowed, the condition of the waters in either Lakes Mendota and Monona alone deciding. The most favorable course will be selected late in the afternoon just prior to the races.

The betting on the eight-oared race favors the Easterners, the odds being 5 to 3. Even money is placed on the four-oared contest.

James A. TenEyck, coach of Syracuse is hopeful of winning. He says his men are in good condition, prepared to row the race of their lives and that the course is suitable.

NERVE GOES BACK ON HIM

Would-be Hold-up Artist Retires After First Shot.

St. Paul, May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—A young man, giving the name of M. Wheeler, made a foolhardy attempt to hold up the saloon of M. Soloman, Roberts street, last night, but at the crucial moment discovered he hadn't the nerve to do a good job. He was caught, after a chase of about two blocks, and taken to the central police station.

Wheeler came into Soloman's saloon about 11:45 o'clock last night, and stood up against the bar, with his hands in his coat pockets. He was the only customer in the place, and the bartender, Charles Duncan, stepped up to him and asked what he would have.

"I want your money," replied Wheeler, pulling his gun out of his coat pocket and pointing it at Duncan. Duncan eyed him a moment, and then struck up the gun with his hand, just as Wheeler fired. Wheeler, not expecting resistance, found that he had not nerve to fire a second shot at Duncan, and turned to run. The shot aroused Soloman, and he and Duncan ran after Wheeler. Two patrolmen and several of the street railways track crew joined in the chase. Wheeler fired one shot over his shoulder, and threw his gun into the street, just as he ran into the arms of Patrolman Harrington, at Fifth and Roberts streets.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS AT THE SEMI-CENTENNIAL OF AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

EUGENE HALE,
Senator From Maine, Who Underwent a Severe Operation at a Baltimore Hospital This Week. He Is Said to Be Doing Nicely.

Fiftieth Anniversary of the Michigan School is Celebrated.

"Man Who Toils With His Hands" President's Subject.

Urges Necessity of Training the Artisan and the Farmer.

Lansing, Mich., May 31.—President Roosevelt, whose address this afternoon is on the campus of the Michigan agricultural college, was the climax of the semi-centennial celebration of the founding of that famous institution, arrived in Lansing at 10 o'clock this morning, over the Lake Shore railroad, in his special car. He made a number of short addresses during the morning from his car platform at small towns. Special excursion trains had been bringing in thousands of people since daylight, and when the president's train arrived, the number of strangers in the city was estimated at 50,000. Twelve companies of the Michigan National Guards had been brought into the city to escort and guard the president, together with a troop of cavalry from South Haven, Mich., and two divisions of the Michigan naval reserves. The president's train arrived at the Lake Shore depot, which is located on the river front, fifty feet below the level of Michigan avenue. Eight companies of militia and the cavalry were on line on Michigan avenue to keep back the thousands of people who crowded around for a glimpse of the chief executive as he climbed the stairway to the

POWERFUL INFLUENCE

Being Brought by Bribe Givers of San Francisco.

To Free Them From Clutches of the Prosecution.

San Francisco, May 31.—In a statement, issued late last night, Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney, head of the graft prosecution, outlines the policy of the men who have made possible the indictment of nearly a score of San Francisco's wealthy capitalists, denounces as malicious falsehoods the charges which have been made that the prosecutors are influenced by political motives and openly charges that some of the most powerful financial interests of the country have been brought into the battle on the side of the alleged bribe givers. Heney declares that the greatest crisis in the graft exposure is now at hand and that the greatest crisis in the history of San Francisco goes, side by side, with it. He charged that President Patrick Calhoun of the United Railroads, has sought the aid of the wealthiest bankers and merchants of the city to free him from the clutches of the prosecution and prevent his having to pay the penalty for his alleged crimes. A meeting was held a short time ago, he says, at which Calhoun called together a number of the heads of the largest San Francisco banks and sought their aid through a thinly veiled request for backing in the carrying on of the car strike.

The powerful influences which he set at work to injure the prosecution, Heney says, have been hampering the prosecutors to a certain extent as they have raised a sentiment of doubt as to the real motives behind the investigation and he calls upon the citizens of San Francisco to give their fullest assistance to the work that is still to be done.

WORKING ON NEW VENIRE

Talesman Qualifies and is Challenged in Haywood Trial.

Boise, Idaho, May 31.—The first talesman drawn from the new special venire, issued in the Steunenberg murder trial, qualified as a juror today, and opened the way to the exercise of the eighteenth peremptory challenge. He is J. A. Robertson, a contractor and builder of Boise.

In the alternative use of challenges the eighteenth was with the defense, and it excused Harmon Cox, the veteran whom it tried to disqualify on Monday. Two challenges, one for each side, remain unused.

Mrs. Haywood and her daughters came to court this morning, and, for the first time since the trial began, she sat immediately beside the prisoner.

H. F. Messacar, a farmer, was accepted as a juror for the vacancy made by the eighteenth challenge.

Before the nineteenth permptory challenge was used by the prosecution, court took a recess until 1:30 p. m.

THREE ASPHYXIATED.

St. Louis, May 31.—Three persons were killed by asphyxiation, and another was overcome in a Lawton avenue rooming house last night. The dead are: Joseph R. Gabler and his wife, Ida Gabler, Daniel Dwyer, who occupied a room adjoining that in which the Gablers slept. Thomas Hines, who slept with Dwyer, is at the city hospital, and is thought to be recovering.

The police found a metal cap to an unused gas pipe in Gabler's room lying on the floor. They have not determined how it became detached from the pipe.

OLD YARDMAN CUT TO PIECES

Bernardo Grugi Killed by Freight at Powers, Mich.

Menominee, Mich., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bernardo Grugi, 60 years of age, an Italian, and one of the best known yardmen on the "Peninsula" division, was struck by a freight train in the yards at Powers, this county, late yesterday afternoon, his body being cut in two, above the hips. The lower part of his body was thrown about ten feet from the track. Grugi lived one hour after the accident, but was unconscious. The deceased has relatives in Iron Mountain.

CARELESS MOTORMAN

Caused the Death of Seven on Elyria Street Railroad.

Run Car at High Speed Into Another in Front.

Elyria, Ohio, May 31.—C. M. Forney, motorman of a Cleveland & Southwestern traction car, was arrested in Cleveland early today and brought to Elyria to answer to the charge of being responsible for the death of seven persons, killed in a traction accident here yesterday and for the injury of eight more persons, several of whom will probably die. He pleaded not guilty before the mayor and was bound over in $5,000 in default of which he went to jail.

A special meeting of the grand jury in Elyria is called for tomorrow to investigate the casualty.

Forney was operating a car which ran at high speed into the rear end of another car standing still on a straight track in broad daylight. Both cars were crowded with passengers.

Following is a revised list of the dead and injured:

The dead:

F. O'DONNELL, crockery merchant, Elyria.

E. M. BILLINGS, 65 years old, Elyria.

W. C. ALLEN, Lake Shore railway claim agent, Elyria.

DONALD SALA, aged 5 years, Elyria.

C. PORTER, Cotes Brook farm.

HOMER ALLEN, Elyria.

EUNICE WURST, 25 years old, Elyria.

The seriously injured:

Margaret Butler, Elyria, both feet cut off; Mabel Dean, Elyria, both limbs cut off; Mrs. J. P. Sala, wife of Rev. J. P. Sala of Elyria, arm broken, gash in lip; John Leslie, Carlisle, Ohio, leg cut off; W. S. Avery, conductor, Elyria, severe injuries; George T. Chamberlain, Perry, Ohio, both legs broken; Miss Dahm, Elyria, Ohio; Arthur Hoadley, Cotes Brook farm, leg cut off.

RECEIPTS ARE LARGE

Big Amount of Business Transacted at Land Office.

First Half of 1907 Will be a Record Breaker.

According to the report completed today by Neil B. Morrison, receiver at the local land office, the business at the land office during the month of May exceeded that of any other single month, excepting March of this year, for the last three years.

The total receipts at the land office for May amounted to $38,749.35, which was less than the amount taken in during March by two or three thousands of dollars. Of the total amount, $25,740.40 was taken in from the sale of public lands, $2,183.39 from the fees and commissions and $870.56 from the sale of Indian lands.

It is expected that the annual report of the land office receiver, which will be ready about the end of next month, will show that for the first six months of the present year the amount of business at the land office has been greater than during any other like period since the year of 1904.

January was a good month at the office, and the total receipts amounted to about $19,000. While February was a very light month and only about $2,000 was taken in, a big record was made during March when the total was about $32,000. April was a good average month, while the receipts during May were extraordinary. Receiver Morrison expects that the receipts for June will be something over $22,000, which would be a good showing for one of the summer months.

The showing made so far this year is considered a very good one by the land office officials, especially considering that most of the public lands in the Duluth district have been disposed of. The tendency of the people in Minnesota to get hold of a piece of land seems to be very general this year.

Mr. Morrison expects the business to keep up very well for at least another year.

MISSOURI JUDGE HERE.

Judge Philips Will Take Care of Court Work Saturday.

Judge John F. Philips of Kansas City, Mo., arrived in Duluth this afternoon and will remain in the city until tomorrow afternoon. Tomorrow he will hold court at the federal building in place of Judge Morris, who is in Winona conducting the regular term of federal court.

Tomorrow there will be sixteen hearings on naturalization proceedings and Judge Philips will appoint the appraisers to determine the value of the lot which the government has condemned and upon which the new postoffice will be erected on the corner of Fifth avenue west and First street.

Judge Amidon of Fargo has been expected to be in Duluth tomorrow to take care of the business which has accumulated during Judge Morris' absence, but as he is also busy holding court in North Dakota, Judge Philips was assigned to take care of the work.

SUPERIOR NEWS

DOCK SITE IS SECURED

Soo Road Will Have Merchandise Dock in Superior.

Condemnation Proceedings to Acquire Property Are Begun.

The Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota Railroad company, believed to be the Soo road in disguise, will have a big dock at Superior for local merchandise. Condemnation proceedings were begun in the circuit court in Superior, this morning, with a view to securing a large tract along the bay front for railroad purposes. The tract extends from the head of Howard's pocket, from Main street, southeast to the Murray-McCann Lumber company's dock, and adjoins land on Connor's Point, already purchased for the railroad by C. E. Wales, their agent.

INTERNATIONAL SCRAPS.

Race Riots in Third Street Saloons on Memorial Day.

Three international, one-round scraps marked the conclusion of the celebration of Memorial day in Superior last night. Two of the mills were pulled off between a Swede and an Irishman, and in the third a Swede and a Finn took the stellar parts.

John Degan, the Irish representative in one of these scraps was brought in about 3 o'clock this morning and locked up, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. He is claimed to have assaulted Ed Osen in a Third street saloon, and in the course of the fracas to have drawn a knife, inflicting numerous painful, but not dangerous, gashes on Osen's face and person. Up to noon today Degan was too drunk to appear.

Alex Nordman, the other representative of the Swedish race, who was mixed up in a fight last night, put in a much battered appearance at the station this morning, and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Ed Walsh, who, he said, was responsible for two great black eyes and a swollen face which decked his personality. Walsh, when arrested and arraigned, pleaded guilty and paid a $5 fine.

Axel Hagstrom paid a $10 fine this morning for assaulting James Hill, a Finnish bartender, in a Third street saloon. Hagstrom got into an altercation with a man in the saloon, and when Hill tried to stop him, he slugged the bartender in the face.

LIGHTING PROPOSITION

Will be Discussed by Committee of Aldermen.

A meeting of the members of the council committee, appointed to investigate the proposed municipal lighting plant proposition, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock, when plans submitted for the building of the plant by Consulting Engineer Ford of St. Louis will be discussed. The committee is made up of all the aldermen, together with Mayor Ludley and City Engineer Banks. Copies of the estimates of the cost of building the plant have been distributed among the members of the committee.

The erection of one of three plants is called for by the plans, one to be operated by steam power, another by gas, and another power furnished by the Great Northern Power company. Should the latter be adopted the committee is also in possession of estimates of the cost of an auxiliary plant by either steam or gas power.

A general intimation of what the aldermen intend to do in the matter of the city building a lighting plant will probably be given at the meeting this evening. It seems to be the general belief that the aldermen intend to build the plant at this time and, if this course is decided upon, it is likely that the local lighting company will offer a reduction in rates.

SPORTSMEN ARE INTERESTED

In Senator Hastings' Amendment to Wisconsin Game Laws.

The new bill introduced in the Wisconsin legislature, which provides that any person shall have the liberty in seasonable time to hunt any fowl on the lands he holds, and on other lands not cultivated or enclosed, and in a like manner fish on all navigable waters, not private property, is creating much interest among the advocates of spring shooting, who reside in Superior.

On account of the large number of ducks to be found about the borders of the lakes at this time of year, many of the local sportsmen have complained much over the law prohibiting spring shooting. It is said that there is now a better chance for shooting, near Superior at the present time, than ever before for years, and at Allouez and the East end district, the game abounds in great numbers.

Senator Husting introduced the bill in the legislature, and he intends to make a decided fight to have the measure passed.

Postmaster Anderson Gets Instructions to Begin July Next.

Postmaster Anderson has been instructed by the department at Washington, D. C., that, commencing July 1, and continuing for six weeks all the mails received and forwarded from the Superior office must be weighed.

The mail at this office has not been weighed in such large quantities for the past six years. It is believed that the intention of the department is to learn just what revenue is derived from the service as well as to prepare figures on which to base the lettisg of contracts for the transportation of mails by the various railroads.

Since Feb. 1 the mail has been weighed in and out on the Ashland line of the Northern Pacific road and the work is to be completed June 4. At other division points a similar work has been in progress preparatory to entering into mail carrying contracts.

SKULL IS FRACTURED.

Glen Scofield is Fatally Injured by Horse.

Glen Scofield, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lute Scofield of 715 Tower avenue, was kicked in the head by a horse and his death is momentarily expected at St. Mary's hospital, where he was taken after the accident.

The Scofield boy and several companions about his own age, were leading to water some horses belonging to the contractors engaged on the grading of the Berwind-White Coal company's dock.

When a short distance from the tent where the animals were stabled, the horse young Scofield was leading reared and struck the boy with one of its front feet, crushing in the side of his head.

It is claimed to have been the custom of the boys to go down to the dock at noon for the purpose of riding or leading the horses to water. The injured boy had left his home about a half hour before the accident happened.

Chute Wanted for Forgery.

Charged with forgery, William Chute was arrested at the Douglas county workhouse, yesterday, by Sheriff Bailey of Bemidji, Minn. The authorities in Douglas county waived extradiction papers. It is claimed that he forged the name of another person to an express order for $46, about three months ago. The order is alleged to have been stolen from its owner while he was under the influence of liquor. Chute was sent up for sixty days from Superior for stealing a suit of clothes.

RECEIPTS ARE LARGE

First Half of 1907 Will be a Record Breaker.

According to the report completed today by Neil B. Morrison, receiver at the local land office, the business at the land office during the month of May exceeded that of any other single month, excepting March of this year, for the last three years.

The total receipts at the land office for May amounted to $38,749.35, which was less than the amount taken in during March by two or three thousands of dollars. Of the total amount, $25,740 40 was taken in from the sale of public lands, $2,183.39 from the fees and commissions and $870.56 from the sale of Indian lands.

It is expected that the annual report of the land office receiver, which will be ready about the end of next month, will show that for the first six months of the present year the amount of business at the land office has been greater than during any other like period since the year of 1904.

January was a good month at the office, and the total receipts amounted to about $19,000. While February was a very light month and only about $2,000 was taken in, a big record was made during March when the total was about $32,000. April was a good average month, while the receipts during May were extraordinary. Receiver Morrison expects that the receipts for June will be something over $22,000, which would be a good showing for one of the summer months.

The showing made so far this year is considered a very good one by the land office officials, especially considering tact most of the public lands in the Duluth district have been disposed of. The tendency of the people in Minnesota to get hold of a piece of land seems to be very general this year.

Mr. Morrison expects the business to keep up very well for at least another year.

MISSOURI JUDGE HERE.

Judge Philips Will Take Care of Court Work Saturday.

Judge John F. Philips of Kansas City, Mo., arrived in Duluth this afternoon and will remain in the city until tomorrow afternoon. Tomorrow he will hold court at the federal building in place of Judge Morris, who is in Winona conducting the regular term of federal court.

Tomorrow there will be sixteen hearings in naturalization proceedings and Judge Philips will appoint the appraisers to determine the value of the lot which the government has condemned and upon which the new postoffice will be erected on the corner of Fifth avenue west and First street.

Judge Amidon of Fargo has been expected to be in Duluth tomorrow to take care of the business which has accumulated during Judge Morris' absence, but as he is also busy holding court in North Dakota, Judge Philips was assigned to take care of the work.

FALLS TO HIS DEATH.

Josep Bazio Takes a Fatal Tumble in the Princeton Mine.

Republic, Mich., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Falling from a ladder a distance of eighty-five feet, in the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company's Princeton mine, Joseph Bazio met with instantaneous death. He had been in the United States only two weeks and nothing is known of his relatives or his birthplace. He was about 50 years of age.

DOCK SITE IS SECURED

Soo Road Will Have Merchandise Dock in Superior.

Condemnation Proceedings to Acquire Property Are Begun.

The Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota Railroad company, believed to be the Soo road in disguise, will have a big dock at Superior for local merchandise. Condemnation proceedings were begun in the circuit court in Superior, this morning, with a view to securing a large tract along the bay front for railroad purposes. The tract extends from the head of Howard's pocket, from Main street, southeast to the Murray-McCann Lumber company's dock, and adjoins land on Connor's Point, already purchased for the railroad by C. E. Wales, their agent.

INTERNATIONAL SCRAPS.

Race Riots in Third Street Saloons on Memorial Day.

Three international, one-round scraps marked the conclusion of the celebration of Memorial day in Superior last night. Two of the mills were pulled off between a Swede and an Irishman, and in the third a Swede and a Finn took the stellar parts.

John Dogan, the Irish representative in one of these scraps was brought in about 3 o'clock this morning and locked up, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. He is claimed to have assaulted Ed Osen in a Third street saloon, and in the course of the fracas to have drawn a knife, inflicting numerous painful, but not dangerous, gashes on Osen's face and person. Up to noon today Dogan was too drunk to appear.

Alex Nordman, the other representative of the Swedish race, who was mixed up in a fight last night, put in a much battered appearance at the station this morning, and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Ed Walsh, who, he said, was responsible for two great black eyes and a swollen face which decked his personality. Walsh, when arrested and arraigned, pleaded guilty and paid a $5 fine.

Axel Hagstrom paid a $10 fine this morning for assaulting James Hill, a Finnish bartender, in a Third street saloon. Hagstrom got into an altercation with a man in the saloon, and when Hill tried to stop him, he slugged the bartender in the face.

LIGHTING PROPOSITION

Will be Discussed by Committee of Aldermen.

A meeting of the members of the council committee, appointed to investigate the proposed municipal lighting plant proposition, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock, when plans submitted for the building of the plant by Consulting Engineer Ford of St. Louis will be discussed. The committee is made up of all the aldermen, together with Mayor Linday and City Engineer Banks. Copies of the estimates of the cost of building the plant have been distributed among the members of the committee.

The erection of one of three plants is called for by the plans, one to be operated by steam power, another by gas, and another power furnished by the Great Northern Power company. Should the latter be adopted the committee is also in possession of estimates of the cost of an auxiliary plant by either steam or gas power.

A general intimation of what the aldermen intend to do in the matter of the city building a lighting plant will probably be given at the meeting this evening. It seems to be the general belief that the aldermen intend to build the plant at this time and, if this course is decided upon, it is likely that the local lighting company will offer a reduction in rates.

SPORTSMEN ARE INTERESTED

In Senator Hastings' Amendment to Wisconsin Game Laws.

The new bill introduced in the Wisconsin legislature, which provides that any person shall have the liberty in seasonable time to hunt any fowl on the lands he holds, and on other lands not cultivated or enclosed, and in a like manner fish on all navigable waters, not private property, is creating much interest among the advocates of spring shooting, who reside in Superior.

On account of the large number of ducks to be found about the borders of the lakes at this time of year, many of the local sportsmen have complained much over the law prohibiting spring shooting. It is said that there is now a better chance for shooting, near Superior at the present time, than ever before for years, and at Allouez and the East end district, the game abounds in great numbers.

Senator Husting introduced the bill in the legislature, and he intends to make a decided fight to have the measure passed.

WILL WEIGH MAIL.

Postmaster Anderson Gets Instructions to Begin July Next.

Postmaster Anderson has been instructed by the department at Washington, D. C., that, commencing July 1, and continuing for six weeks all the mails received and forwarded from the Superior office must be weighed.

The mail at this office has not been weighed in such large quantities for the past six years. It is believed that the intention of the department is to learn just what revenue is derived from the service as well as to prepare figures on which to base the letting of contracts for the transportation of mails by the various railroads.

Since Feb. 1 the mail has been weighed in and out on the Ashland line of the Northern Pacific road and the work is to be completed June 4. At other division points a similar work has been in progress preparatory to entering into mail carrying contracts.

SKULL IS FRACTURED.

Glen Scofield is Fatally Injured by Horse.

Glen Scofield, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lute Scofield of 715 Tower avenue, was kicked in the head by a horse and his death is momentarily expected at St. Mary's hospital, where he was taken after the accident.

The Scofield boy and several companions about his own age, were leading to water some horses belonging to the contractors engaged on the grading of the Berwind-White Coal company's dock.

When a short distance from the tent where the animals were stabled, the horse young Scofield was leading reared and struck the boy with one of its front feet, crushing in the side of his head.

It is claimed to have been the custom of the boys to go down to the dock at noon for the purpose of riding or leading the horses to water. The injured boy had left his home about a half hour before the accident happened.

Chute Wanted for Forgery.

Charged with forgery, William Chute was arrested at the Douglas county workhouse, yesterday, by Sheriff Bailey of Bemidji, Minn. The authorities in Douglas county waived extradiction papers. It is claimed that he forged the name of another person to an express order for $16, about three months ago. The order is alleged to have been stolen from its owner while he was under the influence of liquor. Chute was sent up for sixty days from Superior for stealing a suit of clothes.

SOO ROAD SAID TO HAVE ACQUIRED DOCK SITES

Valuable Water Front Property is Leased or Purchased.

Will Enable Road to Make Bid for Coal Business.

Extensive deals in Garfield avenue dock property are being made at the present time, and it is asserted by those who are in a poistion to know, that the Soo road is acquiring land which will give it practically all of the dock sites from the Peavey elevator south to the end of Garfield avenue.

That this property is to be used for coal docks and terminals is the general impression. The road, if rumors which are current are true, will have all of the property on Garfield avenue south of the Peavey elevator and from its right of way out to the dock line.

Part of the land between the Peavey Elevator company's property and the Imperial mill is also said to have been acquired This property, which is one block in width, was owned by the Cargill Commission company and by the Great Eastern Elevator company, the former owning the north half of the block and the latter the south half. The latter company is said to have disposed of its interest, and the property is believed to have passed into the possession of the Soo road.

South of the block, owned by the Peavey Elevator company, there is a block formerly owned by the Van Dusen-Harrington company. This has lately been disposed of, and it is also said to have passed under the control of the Soo road.

To the south of the Van Dusen Harrington block, is a block owned by John F. McCarthy. This block, it is said, has not been purchased outright, but has bene leased by Mr. McCarthy to the road for a long term of years.

South of the McCarthy property are three other blocks, which it is understood, are also controlled by the road.

This will give the new road some of the most desirable sites for coal docks at the Head of the Lakes, and its proposed line will give it the most direct connection between this system of coal docks and those on the Superior side of the bay. It will give the road the best possible facilities for handling the great coal business of the Northwest.

The right of way is to extend northward from the dock line on the east side of the Minnesota approach to the interstate bridge. In the condemnation proceedings the company seeks to secure all of the Culpepper street as well as the alleys in the district, and such parts of Spruce, Pine, Oie, Maple and Lynn avenues as shall be crossed. The property which the new company seeks to acquire extends from the bridge to Fifteenth avenue west and railroad street, terminating in lot 5, just west of slip G.

According to Charles E. Wales, president of the Duluth & Thunder Bay company, arrangements have been made for the use of the terminals of another road east of Fifteenth avenue west. Mr. Wales has returned to the city and is now registered at the Spalding, but says there is no special news to be given out regarding the company's plans, beyond the fact that the project is progressing satisfactorily.

Judging by the rapidity with which the plans of the company have been carried out up to the present time, the entire right of way of the Duluth & Thunder Bay railway should be secured with in a very few weeks, and active construction work should begin in the early summer. It looks very much as if the interests back of the line are anxious to finish the Duluth and Superior part of the work at an early date.

The fact that property clearing the bay front is being secured, extending east from the right of way on Rice's Point, and the further fact that officials of the Pittsburg Coal company and prominently identified with the new railroad company, seems to indicate that the construction of extensive coal docks is contemplated on Rice's Point.

HOLIDAY WAS A QUIET ONE

Duluth Citizens Were Very Orderly on Memorial Day.

Duluth people observed Decoration day in a very decorous and proper manner. The police court grist, which usually includes among its numbers at least a dozen drunks was limited to four this morning, one of these being a woman. Doubtless this was partly due to the closing law which requires all saloons to keep tight between 10 o'clock in the morning and 3 o'clock in the afternoon on Memorial day, which Chief Troyer's subordinates enforced strictly yesterday.

The stores, with the exception of drug stores, were very generally closed during the day, many of them keeping open late the night before.

A number of citizens have been complaining that there ought to be something done to enforce the closing of small clothing stores along Superior street.

"It was the one thing which marred the celebration of the day," said a citizen this morning. "Those fellows show no respect for Memorial day at all. I think there ought to be a law to enforce them as well as the saloons to close. Besides being a desecration of the day, it works a decided hardship upon those merchants who show their patriotism by closing up for the day."

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John R. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

APPROACHING THE CZAR.

The Bystander: Supposing one of the czar's ministers demands an extra interview, and it does not please his majesty to grant it, Peter Katoff, valet and trusted friend of three successive Russian emperors, is sent to announce the fact that "his majesty is tired."

He rarely needs to ask the minister what is his business, for there are few of the emperor's letters and telegrams he does not read. If, too, it does not please the valet to announce a visitor, or deliver a message, the emperor would be none the wiser. To obtain an audience with the czar is not to an impossibility, but there are exceptions.

One gentleman relates how he went to the palace in response to an invitation from the emperor. After he had been conducted from room to room and carefully searched, he was allowed, to his great surprise, to speak to the emperor on the telephone.

NEW MARKS LOOKED FOR

During Two Days' Intercollegiate Meet on Harvard Stadium.

Magnificent Field of Entries for All the Events.

Boston, May 31.—Seldom in the thirty-two years of intercollegiate athletics, track and field championships, has there been such a wealth of runners, leapers and weight hurlers of high grade as gathered today for the annual two days' meet in the Harvard stadium, nor has the outcome of the contest ever been quite so much in doubt. It seems almost certain that some of the marks in the thirteen events will be displayed by better figures during the two days and that Cornell, which won the championship in the stadium last year will have to fight hard to retain the title.

A new aspirant for intercollegiate honors this year is the University of Michigan, holder of the Western championship, which has sent a remarkable fast and strong team. Whether Michigan will displace Cornell or surpass the efforts of Pennsylvania, Yale or Harvard is one of the questions that was on the lips today of nearly every one who is interested in athletic sports.

While these universities have representatives in nearly every event they will not only have to contend against each other, but against some unusually strong and fleet men from smaller institutions who may prove unexpected factors at critical periods.

Such men as Rulon-Miller of Princeton and Read of Amherst, in the 100-yard dash; Shaw of Dartmouth, and Hubbard of Amherst, in the high and low hurdles; Horr of Syracuse, in the hammer throw; and several other contestants are regarded as almost sure point winners if not capable of taking first place in those events.

It is generally expected that Dray of Yale, after his world-breaking performance over the high bar at the Harvard and Yale games two weeks ago, will set a new mark for the pole vault; that Taylor, the colored flyer from Pennsylvania, will better the time for the quarter-mile; that Shaw of Dartmouth, or Garrells of Michigan, may better the figures in the high hurdles and that perhaps Hubbard of Amherst or Garrells, may possibly accomplish the low barriers in faster time than ever before. It is also thought possible that the half mile record may go by the board and that for the mile may also fall. In fact, at least five of the thirteen intercollegiate records are considered endangered.

Today is elimination day, with trial events in the dashes and the middle distance runs and in all the field events. A certain number will qualify in each event and the finals together with the long distance runs will be held tomorrow.

Additional Marine.

Will Refuse Passage.

Sault Ste. Marie, May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bulletin was posted by the Alexis as follows: All boats drawing more than the recommended safe draft will be refused passage through the canal.

The recommended safe draft this morning is 18 feet, 10 inches. The action has been found necessary on acount of the fluctuation in the depth of water in the river so far this season.

Now Plenty of Boats.

Buffalo, May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Conditions appear to be reversed in the coal situation, the demand for vessels today exceeding the supply. Rates remain very firm. Charters reported are: Eastern Star, Superior, 30 cents; E. C. Hutchinson, Houghton. Shippers state that the quantity of westbound package freight is extremely heavy.

Was Not Aground.

Buffalo, May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northern King, reported aground at Bar Point, was not aground, but had lost its wheel. The steamer will be towed to Fairport.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS

street, escorted by Governor Fred M. Warner and United States Senators J. C. Burrows and William Alden Smith.

Battery A of the Michigan national guard thundered a salute of twenty-one guns from its position on the Michigan avenue bridge when the president entered his carriage. The president was driven up Michigan avenue to Washington, then south on Washington to Washtenaw, two blocks, then over one square to Capitol avenue and thence down Capitol avenue, to the main entrance of the capitol.

The thousands of people who gathered there were held in check by a solid line of militia extending for a full square in front of the building. Lined along one side of the long walk from the avenue to the capitol steps were 500 boys from the state industrial school in whom the president took an especial interest as he passed by them, speaking to a number individually. On the other side of the walk was a company of cadets from Flint, Mich., and several hundred old soldiers. Doffing his hat and bowing repeatedly, the president ascended the steps and entered the capitol, where he first held a reception in the executive parlors. After shaking hands with about 1,000 persons, he stepped out on the balcony of the capitol and faced 20,000 people who had gathered there in anticipation of his address.

The president chose as his subject, "The Man Who Works With His Hands." After alluding to the fact that Michigan was the first state to found an agricultural college in America, he said:

"The nation is to be congratulated on the fact that the congress at Washington has repeatedly enacted laws designed to aid the several states in establishing and maintaining agricultural and mechanical colleges. I greet all such colleges, through their representatives who are gathered here today, and bid them Godspeed in their work. I no less heartily invoke success for the mechanical and agricultural schools, and I wish to say that I have heard particularly good reports of the Minnesota agricultural high school for the way in which it sends its graduates back to the farms to work as practical farmers.

"As a people there is nothing in which we take a juster pride than our educational system. Nevertheless, for at least a generation we have been waking to the knowledge that there must be an additional education beyond that provided in the public school as it is managed today.

"Our school system has hitherto been well nigh wholly lacking on the side of industrial training, of the training which fits a man for the shop and the farm.

"Surely it is eminently in accord with the principles of our Democratic life that we should furnish the highest average industrial training for the ordinary skilled workman. But it is a curious thing that in industrial training we have tended to devote our energies to producing high grade men at the top rather than in the ranks. Our engineering schools, for instance, compare favorably with the best in Europe, where as we have done almost nothing to equip the private soldiers of the industrial army—the mechanic, the metal worker, the carpenter. Indeed, too often our schools train away from the shop and the forge; and this fact, together with abandonment of the old apprentice system, has resulted in such an absence of facilities for providing trained journeymen that in many of our trades almost all the recruits among workmen are foreigners. Surely this means that there must be some systematic method provided for training young men in trades, and that this must be co-ordinated with the public school system.

"The nations with pauper labor are not the formidable industrial competitors of this country. What the American workingman has to fear is the competition of the highly skilled workingman of the countries of greatest industrial efficiency.

"We have tended to regard education as a matter of the head only, and the result is that a great many of our people, themselves the sons of men who worked with their hands, seem to think that they rise in the world if they get into a position where they do no hard manual work whatever; where their hands will grow soft, and their working clothes will be kept clean. Such a conception is both false and mischievous.

"The calling of the skilled tiller of the soil, the calling of the skilled mechanic, should alike be recognized as professions, just as emphatically as the callings of lawyer, of doctor, of banker, merchant, or clerk.

"The printer, the electrical worker, the house painter the foundry man, should be trained just as carefully as the stenographer or the drug clerk. They should be trained alike in head and in hand.

"There is but one person whose welfare is as vital to the welfare of the whole country as is that of the wage-worker who does manual labor; and that is the tiller of the soil—the farmer. In every great crisis of the past a peculiar dependence has had to be placed upon the farming population; and this dependence has hitherto been justified. But it can not be justified in the future if agriculture is permitted to sink in the scale as compared with other employments. We can not afford to lose that pre-eminently typical American, the farmer who owns his own farm.

"The farm grows the raw material for the food and clothing of all our citizens; it supports directly almost half of them; and nearly half the children of the United States are born and brought up on farms. How can the life of the farm family be made less solitary, fuller of opportunity, freer from drudgery, more comfortable, happier and more attractive? Such a result is most earnestly to be desired. How can life on the farm be kept on the highest level, and where it is not already on that level, be so improved, dignified, and brightened as to awaken and keep alive the pride and loyalty of the farmer's boys and girls, of the farmer's wife, and of the farmer himself. How can a compelling desire to live on the farm be aroused in the children that are born on the farm? All these questions are of vital importance not only to the farmer, but to the whole nation; and the department of agriculture must do its share in answering them.

"The people of our farming regions must be able to combine among themselves, as the most efficient means of protecting their industry from the highly organized interests which now surround them on every side.

"A vast field is open for work by cooperative associations of farmers in dealing with the relation of the farm to transportation and to the distribution and manufacture of raw materials. It is only through such combination that American farmers can develop to the full their economic and social power.

"All over the country there is a constant complaint of paucity of farm labor. Without attempting to go into all the features of this question, I would like to point out that you can never get the right kind, the best kind, of labor if you offer employment only for a few months, for no man worth anything will permanently accept a system which leaves him in idleness for half the year. And, most important of all, I want to say a special word on behalf of the one who is too often the very hardest worked laborer on the farm—the farmer's wife. Reform, like charity, while it should not end at home, should certainly begin there; and the man, whether he lives on a farm or in a town, who is anxious to see better social and economic conditions prevail through the country at large, should be exceedingly careful that they prevail first as regards his own womankind.

"I emphatically believe that for the great majority of women the really indispensable industry in which they should engage is the industry of the home.

"There are exceptions, of course; but exactly as the first duty of the normal man is the duty of being a home-maker, so the first duty of the normal woman is to be the homekeeper; and exactly as no other learning is as important for the average man as the learning which will teach him how to make his livelihood, so no other learning is as important for the average woman as learning which will make her a good housewife and mother. But this does not mean that she should be an overworked drudge.

"The best crop is the crop of children; the best products of the farm are the men and women raised thereon; and the most instructive and practical treatises on farming, necessary though they be, are no more necessary than the books which teach us our duty to our neighbor, and above all to the neighbor who is of our own household.

"Do not misunderstand me. I have not the slightest sympathy with those hysterical and foolish creatures who wish women to attain to easy lives by shirking their duties. I have as hearty a contempt for the woman who shirks her duty of bearing and rearing the children, of doing her full housewife's work, as I have for the man who is an idler, who shirks his duty of earning a living for himself and for his household, or who is selfish or brutal toward his wife and children.

"The school is an invaluable adjunct to the home, but it is a wretched substitute for it. The family relation is the most fundamental, the most important of all relations. No leader in church or state, in science or art or industry, however great his achievement, does work which compares in importance with that of the father and the mother, who are the first of sovereigns and the most divine of priests."

in the South.

What struck me most forcibly was the entire absence of any Southern feeling or any Northern spirit of exultation. It was in fact difficult to tell the Northern people from Southern people. Governor Vardaman's speech was exquisite as illustrating the fact that the war spirit is over.

"Another incident which struck me as being graceful was the placing of a wreath of flowers on the bronze figure representing peace by the women of the Confederate Memorial association. This bronze figure is at the base of the monument.

"Minnesota," by the way, has the most attractive monument on the ground.

Weather Is Bad.

"The weather has been very unusual in the South this year, as well as in Minnesota. Monday and Tuesday we had to wear overcoats at Memphis and St. Louis. Imagine overcoats in those cities at the end of May. They have had many rains, and a very backward spring all over the South, and have had to replant some of their cotton three times, I was told. They don't look for large crops there this year. Rice is the only crop which is up to the usual mark, and the rain, I suppose, does not affect this."

Governor Johnson spoke at a Memorial day gathering in St. Paul yesterday, and took the night train for Duluth.

"I have not been at the office since I got back from the South," he said, "and do not know any news to tell you. "I just reached St. Paul yesterday morning, and as it was Memorial day, and I had an address to deliver, I did not go to the capitol."

The northern part of the state was represented in the governor's party by Mr. and Mrs. Dwan of Two Harbors. The two Duluth members of the staff, T. F. McGilvery and John Uno Sebenius, were unable to take the trip to the South.

While in Duluth this morning, the governor was awited on by a committee composed of T. W. Hugo, George R. Layhourn and A. E. McManus, and he promised to come to Duluth in August and deliver an address before the National Fraternal congress, which will be in session here at that time.

SANG EXPLAINS CONDITIONS

President of Board Sets Forth Position on Sidewalks.

President David Sang of the board of public works, takes exception to the statements of some of Duluth's citizens that the city officials are negligent in regard to taking care of sidewalks throughout the city.

"Where we have put in the cheaper, second-hand, thinner lumber in the sidewalks we have had a reason for it," says Mr. Sang. "We know it does not look very nice, and when people run baby carriages and other vehicles along them they are not very smooth, but in every place where we have used this lumber the sidewalks are due to be torn up within the next thirty days as new ones have been ordered built by the council, and we did not feel like putting good lumber into them for such a short period. It was a case of fence them off or patch them this way, and we liked this method best."

The council at its last two sessions has ordered a batch of sidewalks on the street and avenues of the city, aggregating an expense which has been roughly estimated in the neighborhood of $50,000. This is an unusually large amount, and without having made a very careful inspection of the list the officials say that with on exception the list ordered this spring is probably the largest on record. The old sidewalks in every case in need of repairs and developing breaks rapidly, but in view of the fact that they are to be in service such a short time longer, the board feels unwilling to spend any great amount of money on them.

WEST DULUTH

WIND TOOK BALLOON

Daihl Carried to Spirit Lake With Gas Bag Yesterday.

Could Not Cut Parachute Loose for Some Time.

J. W. Daihl, the balloonist, who made an ascension at Fairmount park yesterday afternoon, had rather an exciting experience. The day was anything but favorable for a balloon ascension, the high northeaster making a flight into the air a decidedly dangerous venture, but the large crowd, which gathered at the park for the opening, expected an ascension as advertised, and, rather than disappoint them, Daihl made the flight.

The balloon was inflated and cut loose all right, but as soon as Daihl got up in the air, he found that he was in for trouble. The northeaster caught the balloon and drove it westward. As it appeared to the people on the ground, Daihl tried to cut loose, but couldn't do so for some reason, and the balloon was merely a speck in the sky, when a man was finally seen to drop, with his parachute.

The descent was made in the vicinity of Spirit lake, about three miles from the scene of the ascension, and Daihl had a close call from taking a bath in the chilly waters of the lake. He returned to West Duluth late last night, little the worse for the adventure.

The opening of Fairmount park yesterday was a gala affair. The air was cold, but the holiday crowd, which made its way to the pleasure grounds, was a large one. Music for dancing in the big pavilion was furnished, and a large crowd thronged the floor during the afternoon and evening. With the exception of the balloon being carried out of its course, nothing happened to mar the day's pleasure, and the affair was wholly an enjoyable one.

RELEASED HIS HORSE.

Martin Szmura Didn't Recognize the City Pound.

Martin Szmura was up before Justice J. B. Flack this morning, charged with releasing his horse from the city pound in the Seventh ward without securing the necessary permission from the poundmaster, and turning over the fees, which are required in such cases. It seems that Wednesday, the poundmaster picked up Szmura's horse and another stray equine on the streets, and impounded them in a vacant lot in the seventh ward, which was recently acquired for pound purposes. Szmura came along shortly afterwards on the lookout for the animal, and, seeing it behind the bars, took down the bars and released both.

In court this morning, Szmura asserted that he did not know the lot in which the horse had been confined was a pound, or he would have seen the proper authorities before taking the animal home. He was evidently sincere, and was released on the payment of the pound fees and the costs of the case.

WILL ERECT HALL.

Norden Lodge, I. O. G. T. Plans Erecting Building.

Norden lodge, No. 17, I. O. G. T., recently decided to create a building fund an acquire a lot for the purpose of erecting a hall as soon as the necessary arrangements could be made. A committee has been appointed and is now busy gathering funds for the building, and good success is being met with. The lodge girls have organized into a separate body, and they will assist in the work.

Tomorrow evening the lodge will give a social in Victor hall, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Grand. The committee in charge has prepared a good program, and refreshments will be served. The proceeds will go to the building fund.

Irving Alumni Banquet.

This evening the twelfth annual banquet of the Irving School Alumni association will be held in Wade's hall, and it promises to be the banner function of the organization since it came into existence. The committees have made arrangements to entertain the members of the association and their friends royally, and a large crowd will be present. A program of musical and vocal numbers will open the affair. This will be followed by the banquet. Several toasts will be responded to, and dancing will follow.

West Duluth Briefs.

Eugene Woodruth, Gail Woodruth and Cameron Pierce of Stevens Point, Wis., are in West Duluth visiting friends and looking over the town, with a view of locating.

Beyond the fact that death was caused by pneumonia after a three weeks' illness, nothing further has been learned of the death of Hugh Blane by West Duluth friends. Mr. Blane died at Burrows, Saskatchewan, Canada, last week. It is expected that interment will be made in Quebec, his former home.

Watch and jewelry repairing. Hurst.

Joseph Schmauss, the West Duluth meat dealer, will leave in a few days for Europe. He will spend about four months traveling through Germany and other European countries. John Schmauss of Freeport, Ill., a brother, has arrived in West Duluth to take charge of the business during his brother's absence.

Joseph Greenway has returned from Hibbing, where he spent several days visiting friends.

A Man! 50c! ??? What?

Have you men any idea what a big 50c worth, a "half" will get here? Look over this list—we'll guarntee you can't find another men's store in the city that gives you values like these:

NECKWEAR—All silk four-in-hands, silk lined, solid silk and reversible—all the new styles and patterns—a big lot of English twills—not to be equalled at 50c.

SHIRTS!—To merely enumerate the 50c things we can show—would take too much space. They're here—white or colored—negligee or stiff bosom—attached or separate cuffs.

HALF HOSE!—The best styles in French and German manufacture—the nobbiest and finest in quality at 50c.

HANDKERCHIEFS! — Pure linen handkerchiefs with hemstitched borders, 6 for 50c.

SUSPENDERS — Every style and design that's practical durable and desirable—including "invisibles." We show some very unusual things at 50c.

NIGHT SHIRTS!—Fine muslin, full length, full width—collar or collarless—all sizes, 50c each.

UNDERWEAR!—Plain or ribbed balbriggan, summer weight cashmere, Mikardo silk—white, natural and colored shirts and drawers—50c each.

Boys' Graduation Outfits

If they're the best in the land, they're none too good. The best is here—best in material, manufacture and modishness. Prices the only thing not up to the "top notch."

SUITS—Boys' and youths' full weight, yarn dyed navy blue serge and fine unfinished worsted suits, Norfolk coat with belt—straight or knickerbocker pants—lining and finish the finest grade—$6.50, $7.50 and $11.50.

BOYS' AND YOUTHS' SUITS—of fancy and novelty worsteds, checks, overplaids and fancy mixtures; double-breasted Norfolk coats, knickerbocker pants—$3.50, $5 and $8.50.

FINE SHIRTS—Negligee or dress, Madras, percales, soisettes, etc., light, lark and medium colors or white—50c, 75c, $1 and $1.50.

HATS—Felt or fancy—everything that's new and "wanted"—the popular "telescope" in many styles—50c, $1.25 and $1.98.

SUSPENDERS and skeleton waists, with and without hose supporter attachment—25c and 50c.

COE WILL WORK FOR GOVERNMENT

Assistant City Engineer Joins Major Fitch's Force.

Assistant City Engineer E. K. Coe today completed his labors in that capacity and is leaving the office of the municipal engineering department for good. He has been appointed to a more lucrative and more responsible position and from now on his official title will be United States junior engineer. He will join the local government engineering office tomorrow, where he will be under Maj. Graham D. Fitch and Assistant Engineer J. H. Darling.

Mr. Coe has been connected with the city engineering department for four years and his place will be hard to fill. It is unlikely that there will be any new appointment in the near future, but there will be a general reorganization in the office. Charles Voss may take a goodly portion of the work now handled by Mr. Coe.

Mr. Coe's new position means a substantial boost in salary and much better chances for permanency and advancement than the position which he has occupied in the city's employ.

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

CHARGED WITH KILLING MAN

Minneapolis Man Placed Under Arrest for Running Man Down.

Minneapolis, May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Isadore Kwalet of 114 Thirteenth avenue, north, has been arersted charged with responsibility for the death of an unknown man who died at the City hospital last night. The victim was a rather prosperous appearing man, and had $300 in cash with him.

Kwalet, according to witnesses, was riding a bicycle along Washington avenue, and the stranger was coming down Tenth avenue north. Just as the stranger stepped off the curbing, Kwalet struck him and knocked him down. The victim struck his head on the curb, fracturing his skull and causing his death.

MOTHERHOOD

MRS. JAMES CHESTER

The first requisite of a good mother is good health, and the experience of maternity should not be approached without careful physical preparation, as a woman who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from native roots and herbs, more successfully than by any other medicine because it gives tone and strength to the entire feminine organism, curing displacements, ulceration and inflammation, and the result is less suffering and more children healthy at birth. For more than thirty years has been the standby of American mothers in preparing for childbirth.

Note what Mrs. James Chester, of 427 W. 35th St., New York says in this letter:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"I wish every expectant mother knew about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A neighbor who had learned of its great value at this trying period of a woman's life urged me to try it and I did so, and I cannot say enough in regard to the good it did me. I recovered quickly and am in the best of health now."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly a successful remedy for the peculiar weaknesses and ailments of women.

It has cured almost every form of Female Complaints, Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation, Ulcerations and Organic Diseases of Women and is invaluable in preparing for Childbirth and during the Change of Life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free.

FRUITS ARE FEATURES

Attracting Much Attention on the Produce Market Now.

Strawberry Season Is Half Over, With High Prices Prevailing.

Housekeepers hardly realize it, but the dealers consider the strawberry season about half over. Recently the trade has been supplied almost entirely with Arkansas berries, but this week the Missouri fruit began arriving. This state, as a rule, raises fine berries, some claim the finest that is grown. The price asked for them is high, however, as Missouri has only about a third of a crop this season. Probably there will be no low-priced berries this year. As a matter of fact, the dealers say it is a certainty there will not be any.

There is no particular change to note in the banana market, other than a good many of the shipments from Central America have been quite badly delayed on account of rough weather on the Gulf of Mexico. There has been no actual shortage on the local market, however, although prices are holding pretty stiff. The quality is running very fine.

The market on naval oranges at shipping points in California is decidedly higher, but some of the local dealers succeeded in getting large orders filled before the last advance in price, so Duluth will get the benefit. It will not be very long now before all the navals are gone. It is claimed that about 90 per cent of the navals have been marketed, and there is only a small amount yet to come forward. The quality of the navals is exceedingly fine for this season of the year. The lemon market remains the same as for the past three or four weeks. Lemonade is not making very heavy demands upon the supply these days. There are few places in the country just now that are enjoying lemonade weather.

The market on old potatoes has been fluctuating more or less recently, and a good many of the buyers at leading stations predict higher prices in the near future, but it is very hard to say just what the market will do. The receipts of new potatoes are getting to be quite liberal, and they are now arriving in car lots. Texas new potatoes of a fine quality are to be had at a reasonable price. Cabbage is very scarce, and a higher price is looked for for the next week or two, as California is practically through shipping, and owing to the cold weather in the South there is very little new cabbage offered. It will be at least two weeks yet before any of the cabbage crops can be harvested in the South. Pie plant is getting cheaper, and the prices on other vegetables are most of them showing general declines.

Butter prices hold steady, with quite liberal receipts. The present price, which is considered quite reasonable, will probably hold steady for some little time. There is no particular change to note in the egg market. Prices are holding steady, and there is very slight chance of them becoming any lower.

* * *

Lake Superior fish is arriving in liberal quantities, and the price asked for fish is within easier reach of the economical housewife than it has been all winter. Receipts of poultry are fairly liberal, with an increase in the amount of live stock received. The demand for both fish and poultry is good.

seen the accident from the watch tower on their station and were on the way to the scene of the tragedy. When they arrived they got the woman into the life boat in short order, after carrying her to Booth's engine room worked over her for over an hour in an effort to bring some life, but failed. Her face had been under water for over twenty-five minutes when she was rescued.

Balaure, the man who was with her, says that he bought her a drink in one of the colored clubs on the avenue this morning, and then she expressed a desire to take a walk with him. She wanted to go to the piers, and when Balaure, seeing her condition, did not wish to go there, she insisted and said that it "brought her good luck to walk by the fresh water on Mondays and Fridays."

As they got out to the end of the north pier the woman expressed a desire to wait and see the steamer America come in, which was in sight off the piers. As the America passed through the piers, she said:

"That's the last passenger ship I'll ever see come through here, Wilson." Her companion demanded what she meant by that, and she did not answer. When Balaure wanted to return, she said that she wanted to see the big freighter, which was in sight, come in.

They stood there until the big boat was just inside the piers, when Balaure, looking around, says he saw the woman lying on the edge of the pier. He made a grab for her, he says, but she rolled off into the water before he could reach her.

The dead woman had been in Duluth only five or six months, coming here from Louisville, Ky. She was about 21 years of age. The body was taken to Flood & Horgan's morgue as soon as the life savers gave up hope of restoring life by means of artificial breathing and hot applications.

Some time after the suicide had taken place, a note, which had been left at one of the colored clubs on St. Croix avenue by the woman, and addressed to G. F. Finch, was brought to the police station. It is said that the suicide's real name was Delilah Jackson, and that Merle, or "Murral" Finch was a name which she was known by here only. The note was as follows:

"My Dear—Don't think hard of me for my rash act, but, Dear, you alone know what I have suffered on your account. Now, Dear, I hope my body will never be found, because I never want anyone to know I was such a fool. Cleo's room key is in my top dresser drawer, so take her and be happy with her. I have nothing against her, but she is the cause of my trouble in Duluth.

"Now, My Life, I will bid you good bye. Keep my watch, and think of the woman who loves you better than she does her life. Write to your mother oftener than you do, and let hop alone. A kiss and good bye, for this world. Murral Finch. P. S. Mr. O'Neil has my watch."

FORAKER PROTESTS

Against Those Who Object to Debating Great Questions.

Steubenville, Ohio, May 31.—United States Senator Joseph Benson Foraker was the principal speaker here yesterday at the Memorial day exercises, held at the soldiers' and sailors' monument in the Union cemetery. About 5,000 people assembled to hear him speak, and his address was applauded frequently. Senator Foraker met with an enthusiastic reception at the Pennsylvania station on his arrival, fully 1,000 persons being gathered there to greet him, including 200 colored citizens, who gave him a hearty welcome.

Senator Foraker referred at length to the brilliant part Ohio played in the Civil war, and to the great leaders she contributed to the Union armies, as well as to the "clear-headed, iron-willed Stanton." The senator discussed the remarkable progress of the country since the close of the great conflict, and the acquisition of Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Guam and the Philippines, with the important questions connected therewith which remain to be solved. Then there is the reorganization of the Cuban government, the financial prolectorate over Santo Domingo and the building of the Panama canal.

"Out of these general subjects," said the senator, "there will come still other innumerable questions of subordinate character. How are they to be determined? Is some one individual or authority to assume what is right, and pronounce final judgment by simply telling us what to do? Or are the different views to be heard, and their relative merits ascertained by discussion and argument?

"But foreign questions are not all. Domestic questions of the greatest importance and most difficult solution are also constantly arising. Who is to settle them? If not the whole people, why not? Has our form of government been changed; and if so, when, how and by whom? There is a practical unanimity of sentiment in favor of the general policy of efficiently regulating trusts, railroads and large corporations—especially those engaged in interstate commerce, but there are many honest differences as to details. Are they to be patiently brushed aside as not in harmony with somebody's policy, or are they to be carefully considered?

Much legislation has been enacted to accomplish this general purpose upon which we are all agreed. A part of this legislation has been but to test and found efficient and beneficial. Some of it has not yet been tried. Until it has been, we shall not be able to judge intelligently as to the relative merit of the several statutes we now have in force, or as to what further legislation, if any, we may need.

"Is it out of order to hear each other before we decide such matters? Are we to confuse policies and methods, and failing to distinguish between them forget that one may be favored and the other condemned without any inconsistency or lack of fidelity to the principle involved?

"That we must act carefully and wisely and patriotically in dealing with public affairs, all will agree; and yet it is becoming an everyday occurence to hear and read expressions of impatience, not only because somebody insists upon time for consideration and debate, but also because of constitutional restraints that interfere with freedom of action, coupled not infrequently with suggestions that no harm could be done if in this, or that, or the other particular case, they should be disregarded.

"Those who fought to save the Constitution may be pardoned for entering a protest against such tendencies. The American people do not need to be rushed. Their disposition is to go too fast rather than too slow. If allowed to proceed in their own way, they will not only meet every requirement, but they will be able to find that all governmental power necessary to be invoked can be exercised consistently with the letter as well as the spirit of our Constitution; and this should be insisted upon.

"We should be particularly careful to observe the distribuiton of the great powers of government made by our fundamental law into the legislative, executive and judicial departments. Legislation that confuses and intermingles these powers is not only likely to prove a disappointment in practical results, but also to work incalculable injury as a pernicious precedent.

"But if we tolerate the idea that we may lightly evade or disregard the provisions of the Constitution under supposed emergency, and upyon the theory that the good that can be secured will more than counter-balance the harm that may be done, we should soon be adrift without chart or compass. Then it is that "the man on horseback" will be due to arrive.

"We have been singularly fortunate in always having a patriotic, liberty-loving man in the White House from whom no such danger could be apprehended, but the time may come when it will be different. We cannot hope to always escape misfortune. We must, therefore, reckon against the possibilities, and among them is always the chance that evil days may overtake us in that respect as they have always overtaken other nations.

"A class of announcements appearing in the newspapers almost daily prompts the mention of one of the greatest but least appreciated, the prostitution of public patronage. The average American would indignantly resent any effort to improperly influence him which he would recognize as such, but would regard an assignment of official duty of almost any character as only a natural and deserved recognition of his ability and fitness for the public service, for which he as a man of honor should feel duly grateful and stand ready to repay in kind.

"Knowledge of these facts makes cowards of public men. Unless they are in favor with the appointing power they fear they may be out of favor with their constitutents.

"For an unscrupulous executive, if we should ever be so unfortunate as to have one, this is a dangerous weapon with which to enforce his will on not only unwilling members of other departments of the government, but upon all who make public sentiment. Fear on the one hand and hope of favor on the other, combine to aid his purpose. This power has been recently greatly augmented and is all the time growing.

"With the annexation of our new possessions and the creation of the new departments, commissions and bureaus provided for during recent years, the number of officials and employes of the government outside of the classified service has been largely increased.

"The great majority of these are not only appointed in the first instance, but they hold their places subject to removal. The army itself is scarcely under more complete control. They would make a tremendous and dangerous factor in any contest that an ambitious president might make to continue himself in office, or to dictate and control the selection of his successor.

"But we need not be pessimistic on this account, for over against the possibilities of such danger we may be assured that such an attempt, if recognized by the people, would be promptly and sturdily rebuked. It would succeed only if not recognized.

FRUITS ARE FEATURES

Attracting Much Attention on the Produce Market Now.

Strawberry Season Is Half Over, With High Prices Prevailing.

Housekeepers hardly realize it, but the dealers consider the strawberry season about half over. Recently the trade has been supplied almost entirely with Arkansas berries, but this week the Missouri fruit began arriving. This state, as a rule, raises fine berries, some claim the finest that is grown. The price asked for them is high, however, as Missouri has only about a third of a crop this season. Probably there will be no low-priced berries this year. As a matter of fact, the dealers say it is a certainty there will not be any.

There is no particular change to note in the banana market, other than a good many of the shipments from Central America have been quite badly delayed on account of rough weather on the Gulf of Mexico. There has been no actual shortage on the local market, however, although prices are holding pretty stiff. The quality is running very fine.

The market on naval oranges at shipping points in California is decidedly higher, but some of the local dealers succeeded in getting large orders filled before the last advance in price, so Duluth will get the benefit. It will not be very long now before all the navals are gone. It is claimed that about 90 per cent of the navals have been marketed, and there is only a small amount yet to come forward. The quality of the navals is exceedingly fine for this season of the year. The Lemon market remains the same as for the past three or four weeks. Lemonade is not making very heavy demands upon the supply these days. There are few places in the country just now that are enjoying lemonade weather.

The market on old potatoes has been fluctuating more or less recently, and a good many of the buyers at loading stations predict higher prices in the near future, but it is very hard to say just what the market will do. The receipts of new potatoes are getting to be quite liberal, and they are now arriving in car lots. Texas new potatoes of a fine quality are to be had at a reasonable price. Cabbage is very scarce, and a higher price is looked for for the next week or two, as California is practically through shipping, and owing to the cold weather in the South there is very little new cabbage offered. It will be at least two weeks yet before any of the cabbage crops can be harvested in the South. Pie plant is getting cheaper, and the prices on other vegetables are most of them showing general declines.

Butter prices hold steady, with quite liberal receipts. The present price, which is considered quite reasonable, will probably hold steady for some little time. There is no particular change to note in the egg market. Prices are holding steady, and there is very slight chance of them becoming any lower.

* * *

Lake Superior fish is arriving in liberal quantities, and the price asked for fish is within easier reach of the economical housewife than it has been all winter. Receipts of poultry are fairly liberal, with an increase in the amount of live stock received. The demand for both fish and poultry is good.

FORAKER PROTESTS

Against Those Who Object to Debating Great Questions.

Steubenville, Ohio, May 31.—United States Senator Joseph Benson Foraker was the principal speaker here yesterday at the Memorial day exercises, held at the soldiers' and sailors' monument in the Union cemetery. About 5,000 people assembled to hear him speak, and his address was applauded frequently. Senator Foraker met with an enthusiastic reception at the Pennsylvania station on his arrival, fully 1,000 persons being gathered there to greet him, including 200 colored citizens, who gave him a hearty welcome.

Senator Foraker referred at length to the brilliant part Ohio played in the Civil war, and to the great leaders she contributed to the Union armies, as well as to the "clear-headed, iron-willed Stanton." The senator discussed the remarkable progress of the country since the close of the great conflict, and the acquisition of Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Guam and the Philippines, with the important questions connected therewith which remain to be solved. Then there is the reorganization of the Cuban government, the financial prolectorate over Santo Domingo and the building of the Panama canal.

"Out of these general subjects," said the senator, "there will come still other innumerable questions of subordinate character. How are they to be determined? Is some one individual or authority to assume what is right, and pronounce final judgment by simply telling us what to do? Or are the different views to be heard, and their relative merits ascertained by discussion and argument?

"But foreign questions are not all. Domestic questions of the greatest importance and most difficult solution are also constantly arising. Who is to settle them? If not the whole people, why not? Has our form of government been changed; and if so, when, how and by whom? There is a practical unanimity of sentiment in favor of the general policy of efficiently regulating trusts, railroads and large corporations—especially those engaged in interstate commerce, but there are many honest differences as to details. Are they to be patiently brushed aside as not in harmony with somebody's policy, or are they to be carefully considered?

"Much legislation has been enacted to accomplish this general purpose upon which we are all agreed. A part of this legislation has been but to test and found efficient and beneficial. Some of it has not yet been tried. Until it has been, we shall not be able to judge intelligently as to the relative merit of the several statutes we now have in force, or as to what further legislation, if any, we may need.

"Is it out of order to hear each other before we decide such matters? Are we to confuse policies and methods, and failing to distinguish between them forget that one may be favored and the other condemned without any inconsistency or lack of fidelity to the principle involved?

"That we must act carefully and wisely and patriotically in dealing with public affairs, all will agree; and yet it is becoming an everyday occurence to hear and read expressions of impatience, not only because somebody insists upon time for consideration and debate, but also because of constitutional restraints that interfere with freedom of action, coupled not infrequently with suggestions that no harm could be done if in this, or that, or the other particular case, they should be disregarded.

"Those who fought to save the Constitution may be pardoned for entering a protest against such tendencies. The American people do not need to be rushed. Their disposition is to go too fast rather than too slow. If allowed to proceed in their own way, they will not only meet every requirement, but they will be able to find that all governmental power necessary to be invoked can be exercised consistently with the letter as well as the spirit of our Constitution; and this should be insisted upon.

"We should be particularly careful to observe the distribution of the great powers of government made by our fundamental law into the legislative, executive and judicial departments. Legislation that confuses and intermingles these powers is not only likely to prove a disappointment in practical results, but also to work incalculable injury as a pernicious precedent.

"But if we tolerate the idea that we may lightly evade or disregard the provisions of the Constitution under supposed emergency, and upyon the theory taht the good that can be secured will more than counter-balance the harm that may be done, we should soon be adrift, without chart or compass. Then it is that "the man on horseback" will be due to arrive.

"We have been singularly fortunate in always having a patriotic, liberty-loving man in the White House from whom no such danger could be apprehended, but the time may come when it will be different. We cannot hope to always escape misfortune. We must, therefore, reckon against the possibilities, and among them is always the chance that evil days may overtake us in that respect as they have always overtaken other nations.

"A class of announcements appearing in the newspapers almost daily prompts the mention of one of the greatest but least appreciated, the prostitution of public patronage. The average American would indignantly resent any effort to improperly influence him which he would recognize as such, but would regard an assignment of official duty of almost any character as only a natural and deserved recognition of his ability and fitness for the public service, for which he as a man of honor should feel duly grateful and stand ready to repay in kind.

"Knowledge of these facts makes cowards of public men. Unless they are in favor with the appointing power they fear they may be out of favor with their constituents.

"For an unscrupulous executive, if we should ever be so unfortunate as to have one, this is a dangerous weapon with which to enforce his will on not only unwilling members of other departments of the government, but upon all who make public sentiment. Fear on the one hand and hope of favor on the other, combined to aid his purpose. This power has been recently greatly augmented and is all the time growing.

"With the annexation of our new possessions and the creation of the new departments, commissions and bureaus provided for during recent years, the number of officials and employes of the government outside of the classified service has been largely increased.

"The great majority of these are not only appointed in the first instance, but they hold their places subject to removal. The army itself is scarcely under more complete control. They would make a tremendous and dangerous factor in any contest that an ambitious president might make to continue himself in office, or to dictate and control the selection of his successor.

"But we need not be pessimistic on this account, for over against the possibilities of such danger we may be assured that such an attempt, if recognized by the people, would be promptly and sturdily rebuked. It would succeed only if not recognized.

CHARGED WITH KILLING MAN

Minneapolis Man Placed Under Arrest for Running Man Down.

Minneapolis, May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Isadore Kwalet of 114 Thirteenth avenue, north, has been arersted charged with responsibility for the death of an unknown man who died at the city hospital last night. The victim was a rather prosperous appearing man, and had $300 in cash with him.

Kwalet, according to witnesses, was riding a bicycle along Washington avenue, and the stranger was coming down Tenth avenue north. Just as the stranger stepped off the curbing, Kwalet struck him and knocked him down. The victim struck his head on the curb, fracturing his skull and causing his death.

seen the accident from the watch tower on their station and were on the way to the scene of the tragedy. When they arrived they got the woman into the life boat in short order, after carrying her to Booth's engine room worked over her for over an hour in an effort to bring some life, but failed. Her face had been under water for over twenty-five minutes when she was rescued.

Balaure, the man who was with her, says that he bought her a drink in one of the colored clubs on the avenue this morning, and then she expressed a desire to take a walk with him. She wanted to go to the piers, and when Balaure, seeing her condition, did not wish to go there, she insisted and said that it "brought her good luck to walk by the fresh water on Mondays and Fridays."

As they got out to the end of the north pier the woman expressed a desire to wait and see the steamer America come in, which was in sight off the piers. As the America passed through the piers, she said:

"That's the last passenger ship I'll ever see come through here, Wilson." Her companion demanded what she meant by that, and she did not answer. When Balaure wanted to return, she said that she wanted to see the big freighter, which was in sight, come in.

They stood there until the big boat was just inside the piers, when Balaure, looking around, says he saw the woman lying on the edge of the pier. He made a grab for her, he says, but she rolled off into the water before he could reach her.

The dead woman had been in Duluth only five or six months, coming here from Louisville, Ky. She was about 21 years of age. The body was taken to Flood & Horgan's morgue as soon as the life savers gave up hope of restoring life by means of artificial breathing and hot applications.

Some time after the suicide had taken place, a note, which had been left at one of the colored clubs on St. Croix avenue by the woman, and addressed to G. F. Finch, was brought to the police station. It is said that the suicide's real name was Delilah Jackson, and that Merle, or "Murral" Finch was a name which she was known by here only. The note was as follows:

"My Dear—Don't think hard of me for my rash act, but, Dear, you alone know what I have suffered on your account. Now, Dear, I hope my body will never be found, because I never want anyone to know I was such a fool. Cleo's room key is in my top dresser drawer, so take her and be happy with her. I have nothing against her, but she is the cause of my trouble in Duluth.

"Now, My Life, I will bid you good bye. Keep my watch, and think of the woman who loves you better than she does her life. Write to your mother oftener than you do, and let hop alone. A kiss and good bye, for this world. Murral Finch. P. S. Mr. O'Neil has my watch."

MOTHERHOOD

The first requisite of a good mother is good health, and the experience of maternity should not be approached without careful physical preparation, as a woman who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from native roots and herbs, more successfully than by any other medicine because it gives tone and strength to the entire feminine organism, curing displacements, ulceration and inflammation, and the result is less suffering and more children healthy at birth. For more than thirty years has been the standby of American mothers in preparing for childbirth.

Note what Mrs. James Chester, of 427 W. 35th St., New York says in this letter:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"I wish every expectant mother knew about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A neighbor who had learned of its great value at this trying period of a woman's life urged me to try it and I did so, and I cannot say enough in regard to the good it did me. I recovered quickly and am in the best of health now."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly a successful remedy for the peculiar weaknesses and ailments of women.

It has cured almost every form of Female Complaints, Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation, Ulcerations and Organic Diseases of Women and is invaluable in preparing for Childbirth and during the Change of Life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free.

WEST END

PREPARING FOR OUTING

West Enders Making Plans for Camping Out This Summer.

Adams School Alumni to Hold First Annual Banquet.

The many West enders who have cottages and camps at Spirit Lake and other sheets and streams of water in the neighborhood of the city are preparing to take up their abode at their summer places.

Most of them have been spending Sundays there for some time, and cold, bleak Sundays they have been, too. But the West enders figure that some nice weather is about due, and that it is time to get out in the woods.

S. Morterud and family will soon be ensconsed for the summer at their resort, and David Adams and family are soon to quit a modern house for a tent.

Last year John Moir and several other West enders camped just the other side of Lester Park, and the chances are that many of them will do so again this summer, if arrangements with the owners of the property thereabouts can be made.

There are several West enders owning cottages on Spirit Lake and, at the same time, launches which repose at the foot of Twenty-first avenue, when not in use. For these folks, it will be merely a matter of going down from Superior street and stepping into the boat.

FIRST ALUMNI BANQUET.

Former Adams' School Pupils to Gather at Festive Board.

The alumni association of the Adams school will hold its first annual banquet this evening at the schoolhouse, Superior street and Eighteenth avenue west.

It is expected that nearly 200 former pupils of the institution will be present at the festivities, as the membership list in the association has been growing rapidly. Most of the alumni came into the association as soon as they heard about it.

This evening the building will be prettily decorated, the girls having attended to that part of the program, and an elaborate spread will be prepared.

Neal Beaton, president of the association, will be the toastmaster, and responses will be made by Oscar Helam, Nathalie Craig, Ida Myrtle Cox, Dean Coventry, Anna M. Hicken and William F. McEwen.

West End Shortrails.

A large crew of men has been at work straightening and elevating the street car tracks on West Superior street, from Twentieth to Twenty-first avenues.

Mrs. O. A. Oredson of Piedmont avenue has gone to Le Roy, Minn., to visit her parents for a few weeks.

Your prescriptions will be properly filled at the Lion Drug store.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Wennerlund of Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, entertained the members of the San Facon Sewing circle, and their husbands last evening.

The cabinet of the Epworth league of the First Swedish M. E. church held a meeting at the church parlors last evening, when the society's plans for the next three months were discussed.

David Adams is removing from his home at Twenty-eighth avenue west, which he recently sold, into one of his new houses. However, he expects to spend a greater part of the summer camping out.

"For weak lungs or lingering cough nothing equals the Norwegian Cod Liver oil sold at the Lion Drug store."

The funeral of Evelyn Bjorklund, the three months old daughter of Anton Bjorklund, who died Wednesday, will be held this afternoon at Forward's undertaking rooms.

The funeral of Erick Victor Hjerpe, who died Monday at St. Mary's hospital, was held yesterday at the Swedish Mission church. Interment took place at Scandia cemetery.

Why go up town? Hats and prices can't be beat. Bring your old hats. We'll make them new. Pearson's, 1814 Piedmont avenue west.

CONTENTMENT.

T. V. Powderly at the informal conference of capital and labor that Andrew Carnegie held in his Fifth avenue mansion last month told a story about contentment.

"Contentment is a good thing," Mr. Powderly began, "but it should never be carried too far. It is discontent we must always remember, that brings about improvement.

"Let me tell you a story about a too contented Scranton farmer.

"This old man might have had a good modern shotgun, but he was content with an old musket, a relic of the Civil war. He was very proud of this antique fire-arm. When I lived in Scranton he was always bosting about his prowess at sparrow shooting with it.

"One day he took a man out with him to show what he could do in the sparrow shooting line. Before he set out he loaded the gun. He put into it a half dozen screws, some rusty nails, a handful of buttons and a bit of file that happened to be lying on a rubbish heap.

"The two men came to a tree, a great flock of sparrows rose into the air, and the farmer put up his gun and let drive. The report was tremendous. One sparrow fell, and the old man fell, too. He lay unconscious for some minutes.

"When he revived he looked at his watch. Then he sat up, patted his gun affectionately and said with a contented smile:

"'She used me well this time. It mostly takes twenty minutes to a good half hour before I come to myself; but, by gosh! I always get my sparrow.'"

LAW AGAINST SWEARING.

Philadelphia Record: The law of 1794 prohibiting profanity is not a dead letter if it is old. Constable Gilbert of Somerset recently got into a discussion with a bank cashier in that town and, the dispute growing warm, he so far forgot himself that he swore like a trooper.

His opponent had him arrested and a justice fined him at the rate of 67 cents an oath. The fine and costs amounted to $10.

McGUIGAN PAYS VISIT

Here With F. E. Ward In Interests of Great Northern.

Are Figuring on Plans for Enlarging the Terminals.

F. H. McGuigan, vice president of the Great Northern road, and F. E. Ward, general manager of the operating department, are today inspecting the terminals of the company in Superior, with a view to enlarging the terminals at the Head of the Lakes, and to learn what progress has been made on the ore dock work at Allouez. They may be in Duluth this evening, but there is nothing certain about it.

Neither J. J. Hill nor President Louis Hill are with the party. The officials arrived on a special train, and it was expected that both Hills would come with them, but evidently the plans were changed at the last moment. They were due here earlier in the week, but circumstances arose which caused delay.

Mr. McGuigan and Mr. Ward spent most of the morning at Allouez, inspecting the ore docks. This afternoon they are in West Superior, looking over the terminals and figuring on a plan of improvement.

It is understood that the situation is about ripe for official announcement to be made regarding the plans of the company in regard to enlarging and improving the terminals. Several plans of improvement are now being considered. It is up to the operating department to determine which shall be adopted. This is the second official visit of Mr. McGuigan to the Head of the Lakes. His last trip was made very shortly after his appointment to the position he now holds.

Most of the money spent for improvements will be on the Superior side of the bay, where the main yards of the great Northern are located. A few additional miles of trackage will be built on this side of the bay, however, although most of the freight business of the road will be handled in the Northern Pacific yards in the future as it has been in the past. It is rather expected that the larger terminals will be provided before the fall rush of business is well under way.

WANT DIFFERENTIAL.

Weak Lines Ask New Rate From St. Paul to Chicago.

It is reported that the Minneapolis & St. Louis and the Wisconsin Central have made applications to the interstate commerce commission for a differential between St. Paul and Chicago. According to the rumor, the proposition is being threshed out at Washington, and it is intimated that the result may be that the other lines will be forced to give the weak lines what they want.

It is not stated how much differential the weak lines hope to get. Officials of the stronger lines have always asserted that the weak lines will not get any differential, that conditions in the West are not such as to warrant them making any concessions. When the proposition comes to them in a direct way from the interstate commerce commission, however, the officials of the stronger lines will take up the matter, which so far they have not formally done.

MINNEAPOLIS TELEGRAPHERS

In the Western Union Offices Threaten to Strike.

Minneapolis, May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—A strike is threatened in the Western Union Telegraph company, and it looks as though trouble will result unless concessions are granted by the company.

The trouble started some time ago when one of the young women employed, a member of the union, found that she had been discharged from service and that another woman had been put in her place.

The telegraph company did not give a satisfactory cause for the discharge to the union, and the men are now threatening to walk out.

The secretary of the union in Minneapolis has stated that an ultimatum has been sent to the Western Union and unless it comes to terms at once a strike will be called.

HAPPY CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS.

New Broadway Magazine: An elevator at the rear of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, on Central Park West, New York, takes you to the large free public reading room on the third story. We entered shortly after the rooms were closed for the afternoon.

There were still fifty or more people present, and as we moved from group to group I caught vividly a reflex of the spirit of Christian Science—health and happiness. Voices are pleasantly subdued, but merry greetings pass from group to group. Eyes are bright, faces fresh and smiling, handclasps hearty and sincere—all is animation, contentment and good will.

The Scientist looks you straight in the eye, cheerily, hopefully sincerely, and he must be a dull or bitterly prejudiced man who can go forth from this buoyant atmosphere unstrengthened, unenlivened, unelevated by its invigorating, refreshing atmosphere. There is no contrast, no harshness, no snobbishness, no spirit of aloofness or selfishness, no asceticism. Surely this is a pleasant religion, and its worshippers are happy looking, healthy looking, prosperous looking people.

Ordinarily there are few men present in the reading room. But Saturday afternoon you will find here a crowd of men from all walks of life and all avenues of activity in this great city—brokers and financiers from Wall street, manufacturers and merchants from middle Broadway, men of professions, excluding none, men from the editorial sanctums of our great newspapers, men at the heads of our leading industrial and commercial enterprises.

They seem to prefer the restful, spiritual atmosphere of these rooms to the amusement of the Saturday afternoon matinee.

WHY SHE WAS GLAD.

Chicago Tribune: A physician invited about thirty of his professional brethren to dinner one evening at his residence. After they had all gone home, his little 6-year-old girl climbed upon his lap and said:

"Well, papa, I am glad it's all over." Her father said: "Why, my dear; didn't you like the gentlemen?"

"I liked them all, right, but I was afraid that some of them would be foolish enough to leave another baby here for us to take care of," she replied.

ROOSEVELT ON RAILROADS.

President Roosevelt made the unveiling of a monument to General Lawton at Indianapolis yesterday the occasion of a discussion of the railroad problem, with particular reference to the attitude the government should hold toward the railroads, and to the duties the railroads owe the public.

Whether it was intended as such or not, the speech will go a long way toward clearing the president of the charge of excessive radicalism. It was not a radical utterance, though the president was firm in his opinion that the railroads must be regulated in the interests of the public. It was highly conservative, and if it does not give ample assurance of safety to honest railroad managers, and to investors in railroad securities, it will be because there are more dishonest railroad managers, even, than people had supposed.

He placed particular emphasis on his opinion that the innocent must not suffer for the evils of the past, and that regulation should tend in a large degree toward preventing similar evils in the future. That will be construed to mean that even where financial highwaymen have lined their pockets with bogus stock issues, innocent purchasers of watered stock should not be deprived of their property by stern measures on the part of the government. If he means that railroads now paying dividends on excessively watered stocks should be allowed to continue to charge rates high enough to continue those dividends, his position will be far from popular.

He is careful to point out that the evils which have been complained of are not universal, but that the offenders are decidedly few compared with the large number of railroad enterprises that have been floated. He states that the campaign against railroad evils is aimed at those that have offended, and not at all of the railroads of the country.

"Every honestly-managed railroad," he says with truth, "will gain and not lose by the policy of strict government regulation. The men more anxious to manipulate stocks than to make the management of their roads efficient and honest are the only ones who have cause to oppose it."

His demands for strict regulation of stock and bond issues, in order to prevent further watering of capitalization, and for full publicity of every detail of railroad finance, are progressive and timely. If, for the sake of innocent purchasers, previous Wall street exploitations must be considered to be immune from correction, certainly there can be no objection from any honest source to measures that will prevent their happening again.

His position that intrastate business as well as interstate business should be subject to federal control will be severely criticised, and some of his statements obviously intended to reassure railroad capital will be far from pleasing to the more radical thinkers, but in general his position as to the future course of the government is sound and enlightened.

ELASTIC CURRENCY PUZZLE.

Charles H. Treat, treasurer of the United States, is the latest individual to have his try at solving the vexed problem of an "elastic currency," one that will expand as the need arises, and contract as the need decreases.

Obviously, it is a very difficult matter to solve. It can hardly be reached through coinage or the issuance of government money in any of its various forms, because government money is in circulation when it goes out from the treasury, and can hardly be called back when it is no longer needed. If there is an ample supply of currency for busy times, money will be a drug on the market in dull times, and the one condition carries as great evils as the other, perhaps.

Mr. Treat explained his plan a few days ago to the bankers of Missouri in convention assembled. He proposes that at least 50 per cent of the bank note circulation—obviously the difficulty is to be reached, if at all, in some way through the bank note circulation—shall be secured by government bonds, as at present, but that the remaining 50 per cent may be secured by other bonds acceptable to the government as security for public deposits. He proposes that the currency based on securities other than United States bonds be the same as the present national bank notes except that instead of bearing the inscription "secured by United States bonds deposited with the treasurer of the United States," they shall read "secured by bonds and guaranteed by the United States."

The plan also involves redemption of these notes in installments of four, six and eight months, beginning from Sept. 1 of any year.

One thing that is not quite clear about his plan is where the elasticity comes in. It provides for an expansion of the currency, but unless some penalty is placed upon these imitation bank notes there is no reason to expect that they will be redeemed. The chances are that they will circulate, as other bank notes circulate, and come in only when somebody takes the fancy to turn them in, or when they are so worn as to be unable to navigate further in the financial current.

The objection has been raised to the Treat plan, too, that it provides for the use of the government's guaranty to give a fixed value to bonds issued by corporations. Bonds accepted by the government as security for bank issues would practically have the government's approval and guaranty, and while that would be a splendid thing for the interests that floated such bonds, and for those that held them, it is questionable whether the government ought to venture upon such a course.

All of which goes to show that the problem of providing an elastic currency is no easy task, and that the man who can solve it will be entitled to the gratitude of the financiers, and to that of the people, too, whether they realize it or not.

A physician advises that smokers and moderate drinkers omit their attention to the weed and their tipple one day in seven, just to cultivate self-restraint and prevent the formation of fixed habits. It's not a bad idea. Try it, and see whether you are a free man or not.

BLOODLESS WARFARE.

Warfare that is bloodless, but none the less effective, is proposed by a Massachusetts inventor, and if his plan is taken up by the governments of the world the effect will be revolutionary.

Instead of using shot and shell, which destroy vessels, spill human blood, and make war a horrid thing to be resorted to only when all other measures fail, this man would make it something like a game for points, the one making the most points winning out.

Carl M. Wheaton of Newtonville has invented a new submarine, which instead of shooting torpedoes or other deadly missiles, will put the enemy to sleep by shooting anesthetics.

He describes it as follows: "The boat is equipped with a tank capable of standing a pressure of 500 pounds to the square inch, fitted with tubes and other means for rapid heating, which would contain about fifty gallons of a non-explosive anesthetic, with further supply from which to draw, and connected by strong tubing with a puncturing gun which fires a tube up through the outer and inner bottoms of the ship attacked. To this the flexible tubing is attached and the anesthetic turned on. If injected under heavy pressure in the form of steam it will permeate the ship as far as clear openings will permit, and if administered anywhere between the masts, or for a space of about 200 feet in ships of the New Jersey's class, it will effectually put out of action the men operating the boilers and enginers, thereby putting the ship practically out of commission, as all functions on shipboard depend directly or indirectly on steam supply for operation."

Evidently Mr. Wheaton, at present, only intends his submarine to act as an adjunct to a regular fleet equipped with death-dealing implements of war. While his invention puts the men operating the engines to sleep, thereby suspending the navigation of the vessel and the operation of the guns, the war vessels can close in about the doomed ship and calmly and easily capture it.

But why stop there? Why not make anesthetics take the place of bullets altogether? If Inventor Wheaton can arrange to shoot a drug through the side of a war vessel, and put the engineering force to sleep, why can't he fix it so that drugs may be shot from the war vessels upon the decks of the enemy, thus consigning to peaceful slumber the entire crew, from commander down to powder monkeys?

Then no blood need be shed at all, and no lives sacrificed. If the American ships were equipped with such implements, they could simply put all the men in the enemy's fleet to sleep, and then board the vessels and run up the stars and stripes.

That is a lot better than killing a lot of people and sinking a lot of ships, and just as effective.

A NATIONAL EXPOSITION.

Discussing the Jamestown exposition, the Washington Post calls attention to the fact that now pretty nearly every section of the country has been provided for in the way of expositions and public aid therefor, and that it is pretty nearly time the practice ceased.

"In order to head off any more expositions," adds the Post, "it would be well to have a permanent one on a large scale at Washington, now the greatest center for tourists, enabling every one who comes here to see not only everything of interest which has been gathered about the government, but the best of everything the country has to offer in the way of native products along all lines."

Though the suggestion is made modestly by the Post, and apparently with small hope that it will receive cordial consideration, it would be hard to make a better one.

As to expositions in general, the country has had about enough of them. Designed largely to benefit the towns in which they are held, more often they are a positive injury, from the effects of which the exposition cities have been a long time in recovering. The government has spent money lavishly in these expositions, and if a similar amount had been expended in creating a permanent exposition under federal auspices in the District of Columbia, the nation would now have a great museum of which it would be justly proud.

It should be at Washington, this permanent national exposition, by all means. That is the seat of government, and it is the most beautiful city in the United States and destined to be the most beautiful in the world. The city is full of historical associations very stimulating to patriotism and public spirit. Already there are show places enough to make it the most desirable city in the country to visit, without discounting the obvious attractions of Duluth and New York.

The nucleus is already there, scattered along the magnificent Mall which stretches from the capitol to the Washington monument, and to create a permanent exposition would be to merely round out and fill in the exhibits already in evidence. With full permanent exhibits of the various industries of the nation, suitably large and complete, added to the interesting objects already there, it would be a comparatively simple matter to create a great exposition that would attract visitors not only from all parts of the country, but from all over the world.

Not only would such an exposition be interesting and instructive, but it would be of great profit to the entire nation and to its several subdivisions. Each section could thus advertise its peculiar advantages and attractions to the world, and by maintaining a suitable permanent exhibit of its resources, in charge of competent exponents, get valuable advertising at comparatively little cost.

THE PASSING SHOW.

Gentle spring has not looked the part thus far.

Duluth real estate is still on the bargain counter, but it will not be found there much longer.

* * *

The greatest Memorial day observance in the history of Duluth is something for Duluthians to be proud of.

King Edward has been seen wearing a pink shirt, and yet there are people who hold that the king can do no wrong.

Now that Northern Minnesota is going ahead under her own steam, the game of "boosting" her is getting more interesting.

* * *

"What happened to spring?" anxiously inquires the St. Louis Times. Nothing. There wasn't any, and nothing could happen to something that does not exist.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"One hears a lot of talk about the rapid disappearance of game, and I have even heard it said that, at the rate Minnesota is being settled up and developed, there will be practically no hunting worthy of the name in this state," said Martin Morrisey, a farmer residing in the territory north of Virginia, at the McKay. "It is true enough that in certain parts of the state wild creatures of the forest are disappearing before the advance of civilization, but in certain other parts hunting is just as good now as it was ten years ago, and to my way of thinking it will be thirty or forty years, and possibly fifty years, before the game has entirely disappeared in these sections.

"When that time does come it will be because of the work of the state drainage board, and not because of the sportsman's gun, because the places to which I refer are swamps that are now almost inaccessible. North of Red Lake, for example, there are vast swamps and muskegs extending for miles and miles into the wilderness, and moose, deer, and bear are to be found there in abundance, together with a liberal sprinkling of caribou. The only way to get into the region when the ground is not frozen, is by boat, and that method isn't easy, for many of the streams are shallow, and clogged up with brush and logs. When the ground becomes sufficiently frozen to sustain the weight of a man he is able to walk into the region, but this time does not come until after the close of the hunting season, so there are not many who follow out this system. Anyway, even then the walking is so difficult because of the old windfalls and the thickness of the woods in some places, that it is no easy task to undertake the long walk into the woods.

"No doubt the land through the region is good for agricultural purposes, but it will never be put up to any use until it is drained, and various other parts of Northern Minnesota will first receive attention from the drainage board. Through the swamps and muskegs there are islands of high land, covered with pine. It is an ideal moose country, in fact, and some mighty monarchs of the forest are to be found there. The Indians tell strange stories of monster bull moose which wander about there among the swamps."

"This is the season of the year when the difference in Twin City and Duluth weather is the most easily seen," said A. J. Traphagen of St. Paul, at the St. Louis. "When I started out of St. Paul the other day the weather was uncomfortably warm. The sun was shining brightly and there was not a cloud in the sky. All the ventilators in the cars were open, and no heat was turned on. Things ran along this way until we were within an hour or two of Duluth. Then there came a sudden change. When we ran into the cool air from the lake it was like stepping from a warm room into a cold one, the change was so sudden. When I arrived in Duluth you were having one of your typical northeast winds, and friends told me that it had been blowing all day, and that the weather had been just as cool since morning."

"It's a curious fact that a person from Grand Rapids hardly ever puts the name of the state after the name of the town," said a local hotel clerk. "They all seem to think that everybody knows what an important city Grand Rapids is, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, and I don't know how many other states, have a town called Grand Rapids, and we have guests from all of them, of course, it is immaterial to us, but we hardly ever know whether a man registering from Grand Rapids is from Wisconsin, Minnesota or Michigan.

"The few who do place anything after the name of the town generally merely put the letter M, which is supposed to signify the state. Minnesota and Michigan both begin with M, so that doesn't help matters very much. This peculiarity seems more typical of Grand Rapids people than any one else, for, as a general rule, men and women place the name of the state after the name of the town, unless they are from a place like Chicago or the Twin Cities. I know of only one Fargo and one Grand Forks, but a resident of either of these towns nearly always puts N. D. after the name of the place he is from."

"Beltrami county has a lot of good roads, and that is one reason why there are more farmers there than in almost any other part of the timbered districts of Northern Minnesota," said G. J. Lewis of Blackduck, Minn., at the Lenox. "One reason for this, I suppose, is that the character of the soil is somewhat different than in St. Louis county. It is part sand, and good roads are more easily made through it than where the surface is mostly clay.

"Finer vegetables cannot be raised anywhere in the state than in Beltrami county. One year we took first prize at the state fair for county exhibits. If I remember rightly, that was the only year Beltrami was represented at the state fair. Prosperous farmers are to be found scattered all over the county, and more of them are coming in right along. Some of their places look very much like the frontier, with the woods all around, but those who have been there several years really have quite presentable farms, and are doing well."

THE WEATHER.

In spite of many threats of bad weather, conditions have continued pretty comfortable yesterday and today. Last night the clouds were portentous and it looked as though a storm was unavoidable, but this morning it was nearly clear, only a slight haze obscuring the sky, and the wind was mild and the temperature comfortable. Last night's lowest temperature was 38 degs. and yesterday's highest was 46 degs. The weather man looks for showers tonight and Saturday with cool weather.

A year ago today it was cloudy and unsettled.

The sun rose at 4:17 this morning and sets at 7:54 tonight, making 15 hours and 37 minutes of sunshine.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "A storm of moderate strength is central over Western Gulf states. During Thursday or last night it was the cause of light to heavy rains in the Lower Mississippi and Missouri Valleys and Southwestern states. Another disturbance has appeared over British Columbia. This is causing rain in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Temperatures are cool in Rocky Mountain districts and Northern border states attending the high pressure areas over Western Ontario and Alberta. These conditions favor partly cloudy weather with probably showers tonight and Saturday, with continued cool temperature.

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Duluth, May 31.—Local forecast for twenty-four hours ending 7 p. m. Saturday: Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges—Probably showers tonight and Saturday; continued cool temperature; fresh easterly and northerly winds.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

Chicago, May 31.—Forecasts until 7 p. m. Saturday: Wisconsin—Rain tonight and Saturday; cooler Saturday.

Minnesota—Rain tonight and in east portion Saturday; cooler tonight.

North and South Dakota—Fair tonight and Saturday; cooler in Eastern South Dakota tonight.

The Big Holler.

Bemidji Sentinel: Once a certain genius who thought the moon was inhabited proposed that at a certain moment on a certain night every man, woman and child on earth should holler just as loud as possible, so that the Man in the Moon might hear the sound and know that he had neighbors.

Everybody said it was a fine idea. Everybody agreed to holler with a big H. For a month in advance everybody practiced lung exercises, so as to cultivate the biggest holler possible. Everybody was sure that the moon man couldn't help but hear the vast volume of vociferation.

The eventful night arrived. The moon man was looking down through a cloudless sky. Everybody on earth drew in two large lungfuls of air and got ready for the big Holler. The mighty moment came at last.

Silence! Absolute silence! It was the silentest moment since the morning stars first sang together.

When the returns came in it was known that only one man, a negro in Darkest Africa, hollered, and one woman in Oshkosh Wis., who was so excited that she just couldn't help it, let out a faint hysterical shriek.

Everybody else had kept mum in order to hear the big Holler that all the others were going to make.

But nobody made the holler because they all waited for the other fellow to do it—all except the African, who had no curiosity, and the Oshkosh lady who had hysterics.

And the man in the moon just laughed.

It was enough to make a comet splutter, for it revealed a very amusing trait in human nature. If it takes a big holler to get what we want, every fellow must lend a lung.

She Guessed Just Right.

Chicago Record-Herald: There is a certain cooking school in the loop district where, every day in the week, large classes of girls convene for instruction in the gentle art of raising the dough.

Last week a class of thirty rather impractical girls, as most of them are, was studying the doughnut scientifically.

One of the dullest pupils in the class, who never could learn to boil water without burning it, was rather inattentive while the teacher was lecturing on "sinkers."

Thinking to catch her and administer a rebuke on her inattention, the teacher suddenly broke off and asked: "Miss Smith, what is the healthiest part of the doughnut?"

Miss Smith straightened up, flushed up, stood up and replied: "Why—why, the hole, I believe."

What She Remembered.

New Orleans Picayune: Husband: Many people at church this forenoon, dear?

Wife: Yes, a large number.

"Good sermon?"

"Delightful."

"What was the text?"

"It was—it was—, really, I have forgotten."

"Hump! Was Mrs. Purling there?"

"She was."

"What had she on?"

"Well, she had on a fall wrap of very dark Pompeian red cloth, with narrow insertions of black velvet in the sides of the skirt. A small yoke trimming of the velvet covered the upper part of the chest, and was outlined with a mixed tinsel braid. A narrow braiding girdled the waist, and the cuffs were ornamented in the same way. It had a cape attachment plaited on the shoulders and attached by other plaits at the waist line, giving a dolman appearance to the back."

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1887.

John Wilkins, employed by Mayor Sutphin at his abattoir in Oneota, was run over by a freight train early yesterday morning, while returning home from Duluth.

Senator A. J. Whiteman delivered the Memorial day oration at Detroit Lake.

The first game at home of the Duluth ball club resulted in a victory for the home team. The score was: Duluth, 31; Eau Claire, 13. Duluth made thirty-seven hits off Handlboe, the Eau Claire pitcher, Catcher Earle making seven.

The board of public works has awarded contracts for nearly $500,000 worth of improvements to J. S. Wolf & Co., the contractors who built the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, they being the lowest bidders. The contracts are: First street sewer, $48,078; Third street sewer, $11,562; First street improvements, $236,474; Third street improvements, $200,096. Work will begin at once and between 600 and 700 men will be employed.

Capt. Randall, a well known citizen of Mankato and connected with the Nicollet house of that place, has decided to locate in Duluth.

The bids for the construction of the Spalding hotel to be erected on the corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior stret were opened yesterday. The contract was awarded to the lowest bidders, Hennessy Bros., Agnea & Cox of Chicago at nearly $325,000. The contract calls for the completion of the hotel by July 1, 1888.

A heavy fog prevails and lake traffic is considerably hindered by it.

Bank clearings today were $1,090,198.65.

Purser King of the United Empire, now in port, is the owner of several valuable pieces of Duluth real estate.

A. C. Bachelor has returned from Fargo, bringing his wife, who will remain several weeks here.

P. H. Kershaw & Co. have opened a grain and commission office here. Frank Atkins, formerly with G. B. Kirkbridge & Co., is connected with the new firm.

Martin Hector, president of the Fargo city council, is making his first visit to Duluth.

The partnership between L. H. Grieser, Herman E. Long and J. W. Shellenberger, under the name of L. H. Grieser & Co., in the brick manufacturing business, has been dissolved, Mr. Long retiring.

Gasologists are of the opinion that gas in abundance can be secured for this city by boring to the depth of about 2,500 feet, and it will cost about $1 per foot to get down that far.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: A quarter of a million acres of rich Minnesota land will be thrown open to settlement July 1—acres enough for thousands of homes. All that is lacking to get people for these lands is good roads.

Princeton Union: The Mankato Journal asks what effect dollar wheat will have on breakfast food manufactured from that cereal? Breakfast food from wheat? We had always entertained the belief that breakfast food was made from denatured sawdust. But then it's never too late to learn.

Crookston Times: A three year old prodigy in Illinois reads Shakespeare with enjoyment, and just doles on Dickens. The newspapers are pie to him, and he thinks of going into the railroad business when he grows up, as the future there appeals to him. How would you like to have him at meals three times a day?

Red Wing Republican: The presidential bee is buzzing hard in Uncle Joe Cannon's bonnet. That mustache has not yet discovered Governor Johnson's upper lip. Henry Watterson implores the Democratic party to "get back to the constitution," the smile of William J. Bryan still plays at the same old stand a continuable and profitable engagement, and the sweet girl graduate is telling us that "beyond the Alps lies Italy." "It's a bonnie, bonnie world we're living in the noo."

St. Cloud Journal-Press: Secretary of State Schmahl is going into the trust defying business. He has refused to file the articles of incorporation of the Retail Lumbermen's association. If that will hold down the price of lumber Julius will receive the thanks of several million people.

Le Sueur News: Whisky is whisky, the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' association says. Maybe, but sometimes it seems to act like a double compound fluid extract of the exact center of hell.

Albert Lea Standard: Nearly every farmer agrees that notwithstanding the late season, the crop prospects are fine—and there's good cheer in every field.

Le Sueur News: Will some one who knows tell us why there is a tariff on lumber?

International Falls Border Budget: A sure indication that prosperity is general is evidenced in the manner in which every way station is determined to celebrate the Fourth.

Cannot Escape Consideration.

New York Sun: The attitude of Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota toward the Democratic nomination for the presidency is what might be expected of such a modest and self-contained man. The dedication of the Minnesota monument in the National park at Vicksburg took him South with his staff a few days ago. It was his first visit to that part of the country, and he was an object of much political interest. To the inevitable question, Was he a candidate for president? he said:

"I am not a candidate for the presidency and I don't expect to be. I don't consider it in good taste for any man to make a dead set at such an honor, which ought to come freely and spontaneously from the people in the exercise of their untrammelled choice. It is true that I have received some complimentary mention in different sections of the country where they have noticed the last election returns from Minnesota, and I appreciate the kindly feelings that prompted them; but I am not bidding for national honors, and I am sorry if our visit down here has been given any such significance."

With his plurality last year of 76,333 in the Republican state of Minnesota, an increase of 69,981 over his plurality in the Roosevelt tidal wave year of 1904, Governor John A. Johnson cannot escape being thought of as an eligible candidate by his party. He will still be governor when the national convention meets next summer.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Gentle spring has a tough job getting the lid off.

Ignorance that pays looks like wisdom to some people.

As an heir, a female may eventually come to man's estate.

First the courtship, then the marriage, then the tug of war.

Unless a woman loves wisely, her husband isn't loved any too well.

Two hearts that beat as one are usually on the look out for number one.

If love makes the world go round, earthquakes must be the result of matrimony.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: An easy way to make a living is not to try to marry it.

When a thing she wears is comfortable, a woman is generally ashamed of it.

The best recipe for not getting scolded when you go home late is to stay away.

A woman is terribly loyal to keep on loving a man after she doesn't any longer.

The trouble with a good reputation is that even if you try to live up to it, most people know you are a hypocrite.

A Mistaken Diagnosis.

What to Eat: A Cincinnati doctor who thinks that all the ills of the human race can be traced to the drinking of coffee and tea, entered a restaurant recently and seated himself opposite an Irishman who was busying himself trying to dispose of a steaming cup of coffee.

"How often do you use coffee?" queried the doctor.

"I drink it morning, noon and night, sir."

"Don't you experience a slight dizziness of the brain on retiring at night?"

"Indeed I do, sir, very frequently."

"You have a sharp pain through the temples and in and around the eyes?"

"Right you are," replied the Irishman.

"You are possessed with a drowsiness when you awake in the morning, and your head often aches and feels very heavy."

"Right again," answered the Irishman, still sipping his coffee.

"Well, then," exclaimed the doctor, sitting erect in his chair, "aren't you now convinced that the coffee is the cause?"

"Is that so," said the Irishman in astonishment. "Faith, I always thought it was the whisky."

POINTED PLEASANTRIES.

Chicago Tribune: "I wonder," said the man with the bulbous nose, "why it is that the woman with the pie crust face always wants to wear a peach-colored waist."

Catholic Standard and Times: "Did I understand you to say that all the rum-selling has been stopped in your town?"

"Not at all. I merely said it was strictly prohibited."

Washington Herald: "I'll bet I could write a rural drama."

"Let's have your plot."

"Well, in the first act the girl leaves the farm; in the second, all hands eat a meal in full view of the audience, and in act three comes the reconciliation. It's a cinch."

Harper's Weekly: Rich Aunt—You only visit me when you want money.

Spendthrift—Well, I couldn't come much oftener, could I?

Washington Star: "What is your objection to our pure food system?" asked the professor.

"It offends my grammatical sense," answered the literary person. "It annoys me to find that I have been subsisting all these years on misnomers."

Houston Post: "Do you suppose this medicine will be good for me?"

"It ought to be doubly effective in your case."

"How so?"

"It is labeled, 'Good for man and beast.'"

Anoka Union: A sorry story that Minnesota should need a state inebriate farm.

Miserable farces is a good term for some of the laws passed by the late legislature.

Placing Minnesota in the Taft column, before any expression of choice has been made, is liable to make trouble.

While the Union is opposed to county option, it would favor limiting saloon licenses one to every thousand inhabitants.

The worst of it yet is no man has been nominated as a candidate for governor who stands any show of election on the Republican ticket.

ROOSEVELT ON RAILROADS.

President Roosevelt made the unveiling of a monument to General Lawton at Indianapolis yesterday the occasion of a discussion of the railroad problem, with particular reference to the attitude the government should hold toward the railroads, and to the duties the railroads owe the public.

Whether it was intended as such or not, the speech will go a long way toward clearing the president of the charge of excessive radicalism. It was not a radical utterance, though the president was firm in his opinion that the railroads must be regulated in the interests of the public. It was highly conservative, and if it does not give ample assurance of safety to honest railroad managers, and to investors in railroad securities, it will be because there are more dishonest railroad managers, even, than people had supposed.

He placed particular emphasis on his opinion that the innocent must not suffer for the evils of the past, and that regulation should tend in a large degree toward preventing similar evils in the future. That will be construed to mean that even where financial highwaymen have lined their pockets with bogus stock issues, innocent purchasers of watered stock should not be deprived of their property by stern measures on the part of the government. If he means that railroads now paying dividends on excessively watered stocks should be allowed to continue to charge rates high enough to continue those dividends, his position will be far from popular.

He is careful to point out that the evils which have been complained of are not universal, but that the offenders are decidedly few compared with the large number of railroad enterprises that have been floated. He states that the campaign against railroad evils is aimed at those that have offended, and not at all of the railroads of the country.

"Every honestly-managed railroad," he says with truth, "will gain and not lose by the policy of strict government regulation. The men more anxious to manipulate stocks than to make the management of their roads efficient and honest are the only ones who have cause to oppose it."

His demands for strict regulation of stock and bond issues, in order to prevent further watering of capitalization, and for full publicity of every detail of railroad finance, are progressive and timely. If, for the sake of innocent purchasers, previous Wall street exploitations must be considered to be immune from correction, certainly there can be no objection from any honest source to measures that will prevent their happening again.

His position that intrastate business as well as interstate business should be subject to federal control will be severely criticised, and some of his statements obviously intended to reassure railroad capital will be far from pleasing to the more radical thinkers, but in general his position as to the future course of the government is sound and enlightened.

ELASTIC CURRENCY PUZZLE.

Charles H. Treat, treasurer of the United States, is the latest individual to have his try at solving the vexed problem of an "elastic currency," one that will expand as the need arises, and contract as the need decreases.

Obviously, it is a very difficult matter to solve. It can hardly be reached through coinage or the issuance of government money in any of its various forms, because government money is in circulation when it goes out from the treasury, and can hardly be called back when it is no longer needed. If there is an ample supply of currency for busy times, money will be a drug on the market in dull times, and the one condition carries as great evils as the other, perhaps.

Mr. Treat explained his plan a few days ago to the bankers of Missouri in convention assembled. He proposes that at least 50 per cent of the bank note circulation—obviously the difficulty is to be reached, if at all, in some way through the bank note circulation—shall be secured by government bonds, as at present, but that the remaining 50 per cent may be secured by other bonds acceptable to the government as security for public deposits. He proposes that the currency based on securities other than United States bonds be the same as the present national bank notes except that instead of bearing the inscription "secured by United States bonds deposited with the treasurer of the United States," they shall read "secured by bonds and guaranteed by the United States."

The plan also involves redemption of these notes in installments of four, six and eight months, beginning from Sept. 1 of any year.

One thing that is not quite clear about his plan is where the elasticity comes in. It provides for an expansion of the currency, but unless some penalty is placed upon these imitation bank notes there is no reason to expect that they will be redeemed. The chances are that they will circulate, as other bank notes circulate, and come in only when somebody takes the fancy to turn them in, or when they are so worn as to be unable to navigate further in the financial current.

The objection has been raised to the Treat plan, too, that it provides for the use of the government's guaranty to give a fixed value to bonds issued by corporations. Bonds accepted by the government as security for bank issues would practically have the government's approval and guaranty, and while that would be a splendid thing for the interests that floated such bonds, and for those that held them, it is questionable whether the government ought to venture upon such a course.

All of which goes to show that the problem of providing an elastic currency is no easy task, and that the man who can solve it will be entitled to the gratitude of the financiers, and to that of the people, too, whether they realize it or not.

A physician advises that smokers and moderate drinkers omit their attention to the weed and their tipple one day in seven, just to cultivate self-restraint and prevent the formation of fixed habits. It's not a bad idea. Try it, and see whether you are a free man or not.

BLOODLESS WARFARE.

Warfare that is bloodless, but none the less effective, is proposed by a Massachusetts inventor, and if his plan is taken up by the governments of the world the effect will be revolutionary.

Instead of using shot and shell, which destroy vessels, spill human blood, and make war a horrid thing to be resorted to only when all other measures fail, this man would make it something like a game for points, the one making the most points winning out.

Carl M. Wheaton of Newtonville has invented a new submarine, which instead of shooting torpedoes or other deadly missiles, will put the enemy to sleep by shooting anesthetics.

He describes it as follows: "The boat is equipped with a tank capable of standing a pressure of 500 pounds to the square inch, fitted with tubes and other means for rapid heating, which would contain about fifty gallons of a non-explosive anesthetic, with further supply from which to draw, and connected by strong tubing with a puncturing gun which fires a tube up through the outer and inner bottoms of the ship attacked. To this the flexible tubing is attached and the anesthetic turned on. If injected under heavy pressure in the form of steam it will permeate the ship as far as clear openings will permit, and if administered anywhere between the masts, or for a space of about 200 feet in ships of the New Jersey's class, it will effectually put out of action the men operating the boilers and enginers, thereby putting the ship practically out of commission, as all functions on shipboard depend directly or indirectly on steam supply for operation."

Evidently Mr. Wheaton, at present, only intends his submarine to act as an adjunct to a regular fleet equipped with death-dealing implements of war. While his invention puts the men operating the engines to sleep, thereby suspending the navigation of the vessel and the operation of the guns, the war vessels can close in about the doomed ship and calmly and easily capture it.

But why stop there? Why not make anesthetics take the place of bullets altogether? If Inventor Wheaton can arrange to shoot a drug through the side of a war vessel, and put the engineering force to sleep, why can't he fix it so that drugs may be shot from the war vessels upon the decks of the enemy, thus consigning to peaceful slumber the entire crew, from commander down to powder monkeys?

Then no blood need be shed at all, and no lives sacrificed. If the American ships were equipped with such implements, they could simply put all the men in the enemy's fleet to sleep, and then board the vessels and run up the stars and stripes.

That is a lot better than killing a lot of people and sinking a lot of ships, and just as effective.

A NATIONAL EXPOSITION.

Discussing the Jamestown exposition, the Washington Post calls attention to the fact that now pretty nearly every section of the country has been provided for in the way of expositions and public aid therefor, and that it is pretty nearly time the practice ceased.

"In order to head off any more expositions," adds the Post, "it would be well to have a permanent one on a large scale at Washington, now the greatest center for tourists, enabling every one who comes here to see not only everything of interest which has been gathered about the government, but the best of everything the country has to offer in the way of native products along all lines."

Though the suggestion is made modestly by the Post, and apparently with small hope that it will receive cordial consideration, it would be hard to make a better one.

As to expositions in general, the country has had about enough of them. Designed largely to benefit the towns in which they are held, more often they are a positive injury, from the effects of which the exposition cities have been a long time in recovering. The government has spent money lavishly in these expositions, and it a similar amount had been expended in creating a permanent exposition under federal auspices in the District of Columbia, the nation would now have a great museum of which it would be justly proud.

It should be at Washington, this permanent national exposition, by all means. That is the seat of government, and it is the most beautiful city in the United States and destined to be the most beautiful in the world. The city is full of historical associations very stimulating to patriotism and public spirit. Already there are show places enough to make it the most desirable city in the country to visit, without discounting the obvious attractions of Duluth and New York.

The nucleus is already there, scattered along the magnificent Mall which stretches from the capitol to the Washington monument, and to create a permanent exposition would be to merely round out and fill in the exhibits already in evidence. With full permanent exhibits of the various industries of the nation, suitably large and complete, added to the interesting objects already there, it would be a comparatively simple matter to create a great exposition that would attract visitors not only from all parts of the country, but from all over the world.

Not only would such an exposition be interesting and instructive, but it would be of great profit to the entire nation and to its several subdivisions. Each section could thus advertise its peculiar advantages and attractions to the world, and by maintaining a suitable permanent exhibit of its resources, in charge of competent exponents, get valuable advertising at comparatively little cost.

THE PASSING SHOW.

Gentle spring has not looked the part thus far.

Duluth real estate is still on the bargain counter, but it will not be found there much longer.

The greatest Memorial day observance in the history of Duluth is something for Duluthians to be proud of.

King Edward has been seen wearing a pink shirt, and yet there are people who hold that the king can do no wrong.

Now that Northern Minnesota is going ahead under her own steam, the game of "boosting" her is getting more interesting.

"What happened to spring?" anxiously inquires the St. Louis Times. Nothing. There wasn't any, and nothing could happen to something that does not exist.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"One hears a lot of talk about the rapid disappearance of game, and I have even heard it said that, at the rate Minnesota is being settled up and developed, there will be practically no hunting worthy of the name in this state," said Martin Morrisey, a farmer residing in the territory north of Virginia, at the McKay. "It is true enough that in certain parts of the state wild creatures of the forest are disappearing before the advance of civilization, but in certain other parts hunting is just as good now as it was ten years ago, and to my way of thinking it will be thirty or forty years, and possibly fifty years, before the game has entirely disappeared in these sections.

"When that time does come it will be because of the work of the state drainage board, and not because of the sportsman's gun, because the places to which I refer are swamps that are now almost inaccessible. North of Red Lake, for example, there are vast swamps and muskegs extending for miles and miles into the wilderness, and moose, deer, and bear are to be found there in abundance, together with a liberal sprinkling of caribou. The only way to get into the region when the ground is not frozen, is by boat, and that method isn't easy, for many of the streams are shallow, and clogged up with brush and logs. When the ground becomes sufficiently frozen to sustain the weight of a man he is able to walk into the region, but this time does not come until after the close of the hunting season, so there are not many who follow out this system. Anyway, even then the walking is so difficult because of the old windfalls and the thickness of the woods in some places, that it is no easy task to undertake the long walk into the woods.

"No doubt the land through the region is good for agricultural purposes, but it will never be put up to any use until it is drained, and various other parts of Northern Minnesota will first receive attention from the drainage board. Through the swamps and muskegs there are islands of high land, covered with pine. It is an ideal moose country, in fact, and some mighty monarchs of the forest are to be found there. The Indians tell strange stories of monster bull moose which wander about there among the swamps."

"This is the season of the year when the difference in Twin City and Duluth weather is the most easily seen," said A. J. Traphagen of St. Paul, at the St. Louis. "When I started out of St. Paul the other day the weather was uncomfortably warm. The sun was shining brightly and there was not a cloud in the sky. All the ventilators in the cars were open, and no heat was turned on. Things ran along this way until we were within an hour or two of Duluth. Then there came a sudden change. When we ran into the cool air from the lake it was like stepping from a warm room into a cold one, the change was so sudden. When I arrived in Duluth you were having one of your typical northeast winds, and friends told me that it had been blowing all day, and that the weather had been just as cool since morning."

"It's a curious fact that a person from Grand Rapids hardly ever puts the name of the state after the name of the town," said a local hotel clerk. "They all seem to think that everybody knows what are important city Grand Rapids is. Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, and I don't know how many other states, have a town called Grand Rapids, and we have guests from all of them. Of course, it is immaterial to us, but we hardly ever know whether a man registering from Grand Rapids is from Wisconsin, Minnesota or Michigan.

"The few who do place anything after the name of the town generally merely put the letter M, which is supposed to signify the state. Minnesota and Michigan both begin with M, so that doesn't help matters very much. This peculiarity seems more typical of Grand Rapids people than any one else, for, as a general rule, men and women place the name of the state after the name of the town unless they are from a place like Chicago or the Twin Cities. I know of only one Fargo and one Grand Forks, but a resident of either of these towns nearly always puts N. D. after the name of the place he is from."

"Beltrami county has a lot of good roads, and that is one reason why there are more farmers there than in almost any other part of the timbered districts of Northern Minnesota," said G. J. Lewis of Blackduck, Minn., at the Lenox. "One reason for this, I suppose, is that the character of the soil is somewhat different than in St. Louis county. It is part sand and good roads are more easily made through it than where the surface is mostly clay.

"Finer vegetables cannot be raised anywhere in the state than in Beltrami county. One year we took first prize at the state fair for county exhibits. If I remember rightly, that was the only year Beltrami was represented at the state fair. Prosperous farmers are to be found scattered all over the county, and more of them are coming in right along. Some of their places look very much like the frontier, with the woods all around, but those who have been there several years really have quite presentable farms, and are doing well."

THE WEATHER.

In spite of many threats of bad weather, conditions have continued pretty comfortable yesterday and today. Last night the clouds were portentous, and it looked as though a storm was unavoidable, but this morning it was nearly clear, only a slight haze obscuring the sky, and the wind was mild and the temperature comfortable. Last night's lowest temperature was 38 degs. and yesterday's highest was 46 degs. The weather man looks for showers tonight and Saturday with cool weather.

A year ago today it was cloudy and unsettled.

The sun rose at 4:17 this morning and sets at 7:54 tonight, making 15 hours and 37 minutes of sunshine.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "A storm of moderate strength is central over Western Gulf states. During Thursday or last night it was the cause of light to heavy rains in the Lower Mississippi and Missouri Valleys and Southwestern states. Another disturbance has appeared over British Columbia. This is causing rain in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Temperatures are cool in Rocky Mountain districts and Northern border states attending the high pressure areas over Western Ontario and Alberta. These conditions favor partly cloudy weather with probably showers tonight and Saturday, with continued cool temperature.

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures as recorded by the weather bureau:

Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Duluth, May 31.—Local forecast for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday: Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion Iron ranges—Probably showers tonight and Saturday; continued cool temperature; fresh easterly and northerly winds.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

Chicago, May 31.—Forecasts until 7 p. m. Saturday: Wisconsin—Rain tonight and Saturday; cooler Saturday.

Minnesota—Rain tonight and in east portion Saturday; cooler tonight.

North and South Dakota—Fair tonight and Saturday; cooler in Eastern South Dakota tonight.

Upper lakes—Fresh to brisk north to northeast winds; cloudy tonight; Saturday rain.

The Big Holler.

Bemidji Sentinel: Once a certain genius who thought the moon was inhabited proposed that at a certain moment on a certain night every man, woman and child on earth should holler just as loud as possible, so that the Man in the Moon might hear the sound and know that he had neighbors.

Everybody said it was a fine idea. Everybody agreed to holler with a big H. For a month in advance everybody practiced lung exercises, so as to cultivate the biggest holler possible. Everybody was sure that the moon man couldn't help but hear the vast volume of vociferation.

The eventful night arrived. The moon man was looking down through a cloudless sky. Everybody on earth drew in two large lungfuls of air and got ready for the big Holler. The mighty moment came at last.

Silence! Absolute silence! It was the silentest moment since the morning stars first sang together.

When the returns came in it was known that only one man, a negro in Darkest Africa, hollered, and one woman in Oshkosh, Wis., who was so excited that she just couldn't help it, let out a faint hysterical shriek.

Everybody else had kept mum in order to hear the big Holler that all the others were going to make.

But nobody made the holler because they all waited for the other fellow to do it—all except the African, who had no curiosity, and the Oshkosh lady who had hysterics.

And the man in the moon just laughed.

It was enough to make a comet sputter, for it revealed a very amusing trait in human nature. If it takes a big holler to get what we want, every fellow must lend a lung.

She Guessed Just Right.

Chicago Record-Herald: There is a certain cooking school in the loop district where, every day in the week, large classes of girls convene for instruction in the gentle art of raising the dough.

Last week a class of thirty rather impractical girls, as most of them are, was studying the doughnut scientifically.

One of the dullest pupils in the class, who never could learn to boil water without burning it, was rather inattentive while the teacher was lecturing on "sinkers."

Thinking to catch her and administer a rebuke on her inattention, the teacher suddenly broke off and asked: "Miss Smith, what is the healthiest part of the doughnut?"

Miss Smith straightened up, flushed up, stood up and replied: "Why—why, the hole, I believe."

What She Remembered.

New Orleans Picayune: Husband: Many people at church this forenoon, dear?

Wife: Yes, a large number.

"Good sermon?"

"Delightful."

"What was the text?"

"It was—it was—, really, I have forgotten."

"Hump! Was Mrs. Purling there?"

"She was."

"What had she on?"

"Well, she had on a fall wrap of very dark Pompeian red cloth, with narrow insertions of black velvet in the sides of the skirt. A small yoke trimming of the velvet covered the upper part of the chest, and was outlined with a mixed tinsel braid. A narrow braiding girdled the waist, and the cuffs were ornamented in the same way. It had a cape attachment plaited on the shoulders and attached by other plaits at the waist line, giving a dolman appearance to the back."

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1887.

John Wilkins, employed by Mayor Sutphin at his abattoir in Oneota, was run over by a freight train early yesterday morning, while returning home from Duluth.

Senator A. J. Whiteman delivered the Memorial day oration at Detroit Lake.

The first game at home of the Duluth ball club resulted in a victory for the home team. The score was: Duluth, 21; Eau Claire, 13. Duluth made thirty-seven hits off Handiboe, the Eau Claire pitcher, Catcher Earle making seven.

The board of public works has awarded contracts for nearly $500,000 worth of improvements to J. S. Wolf & Co., the contractors who built the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, they being the lowest bidders. The contracts are: First street sewer, $48,078; Third street sewer, $11,562; First street improvements, $236,474; Third street improvements, $200,006. Work will begin at once and between 600 and 700 men will be employed.

Capt. Randall, a well known citizen of Mankato and connected with the Nicollet house of that place, has decided to locate in Duluth.

The bids for the construction of the Spalding hotel to be erected on the corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior stret were opened yesterday. The contract was awarded to the lowest bidders, Hennessy Bros., Agnea & Cox of Chicago at nearly $325,000. The contract calls for the completion of the hotel by July 1, 1888.

A heavy fog prevails and lake traffic is considerably hindered by it.

Bank clearings today were $1,090,198.65.

Purser King of the United Empire, now in port, is the owner of several valuable pieces of Duluth real estate.

A. C. Bachelor has returned from Fargo, bringing his wife, who will remain several weeks here.

P. H. Kershaw & Co. have opened a grain and commission office here. Frank Atkins, formerly with G. B. Kirkbridge & Co., is connected with the new firm.

Martin Hector, president of the Fargo city council, is making his first visit to Duluth.

The partnership between L. H. Grieser, Herman E. Long and J. W. Shellenberger, under the name of L. H. Grieser & Co., in the brick manufacturing business, has been dissolved, Mr. Long retiring.

Gasologists are of the opinion that gas in abundance can be secured for this city by boring to the depth of about 2,500 feet, and it will cost about $1 per foot to get down that far.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: A quarter of a million acres of rich Minnesota land will be thrown open to settlement July 1—acres enough for thousands of homes. All that is lacking to get people for these lands is good roads.

Princeton Union: The Mankato Journal asks what effect dollar wheat will have on breakfast food manufactured from that cereal? Breakfast food from wheat? We had always entertained the belief that breakfast food was made from denatured sawdust. But then it's never too late to learn.

Crookston Times: A three year old prodigy in Illinois reads Shakespeare with enjoyment, and just dotes on Dickens. The newspapers are pie to him, and he thinks of going into the railroad business when he grows up, as the future there appeals to him. How would you like to have him at meals three times a day?

Red Wing Republican: The presidential bee is buzzing hard in Uncle Joe Cannon's bonnet. That mustache has not yet discovered Governor Johnson's upper lip. Henry Watterson implores the Democratic party to "get back to the constitution," the smile of William J. Bryan still plays at the same old stand a continuable and profitable engagement, and the sweet girl graduate is telling us that "beyond the Alps lies Italy." "It's a bonnie, bonnie world we're living in the noo."

St. Cloud Journal-Press: Secretary of State Schmahl is going into the trust defying business. He has refused to file the articles of incorporation of the Retail Lumbermen's association. If that will lold down the price of lumber Julius will receive the thanks of several million people.

Le Sueur News: Whisky is whisky, the Wholesale Liquor Dealers' association says. Maybe, but sometimes it seems to act like a double compound fluid extract of the exact center of hell.

Albert Lea Standard: Nearly every farmer agrees that notwithstanding the late season, the crop prospects are fine—and there's good cheer in every field.

Le Sueur News: Will some one who knows tell us why there is a tariff on lumber?

International Falls Border Budget: A sure indication that prosperity is general is evidenced in the manner in which every way station is determined to celebrate the Fourth.

Cannot Escape Consideration.

New York Sun: The attitude of Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota toward the Democratic nomination for the presidency is what might be expected of such a modest and self-contained man. The dedication of the Minnesota monument in the National park at Vicksburg took him South with his staff a few days ago. It was his first visit to that part of the country, and he was an object of much political interest. To the inevitable question, Was he a candidate for president? he said:

"I am not a candidate for the presidency, and I don't expect to be. I don't consider it in good taste for any man to make a dead set at such an honor, which ought to come freely and spontaneously from the people in the exercise of their untrammelled choice. It is true that I have received some complimentary mention in different sections of the country where they have noticed the last election returns from Minnesota, and I appreciate the kindly feelings that prompted them; but I am not bidding for national honors, and I am sorry if our visit down here has been given any such significance."

With his phirality last year of 76,333 in the Republican state of Minnesota, an increase of 69,381 over his phirality in the Roosevelt tidal wave year of 1904, Governor John A. Johnson cannot escape being thought of as an eligible candidate by his party. He will still be governor when the national convention meets next summer.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Gentle spring has a tough job getting the lid off.

Ignorance that pays looks like wisdom to some people.

As an heir, a female may eventually come to man's estate.

First the courtship, then the marriage, then the tug of war.

Unless a woman loves wisely, her husband isn't loved any too well.

Two hearts that beat as one are usually on the look out for number one.

If love makes the world go round, earthquakes must be the result of matrimony.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: An easy way to make a living is not to try to marry it.

When a thing she wears is comfortable, a woman is generally ashamed of it.

The best recipe for not getting scolded when you go home late is to stay away.

A woman is terribly loyal to keep on loving a man after she doesn't any longer.

The trouble with a good reputation is that even if you try to live up to it, most people know you are a hypocrite.

A Mistaken Diagnosis.

What to Eat: A Cincinnati doctor who thinks that all the ills of the human race can be traced to the drinking of coffee and tea, entered a restaurant recently and seated himself opposite an Irishman who was busying himself trying to diapose of a steaming cup of coffee.

"How often do you use coffee?" queried the doctor.

"I drink it morning, noon and night, sir."

"Don't you experience a slight dizziness of the brain on retiring at night?"

"Indeed I do, sir, very frequently."

"You have a sharp pain through the temples and in and around the eyes?"

"Right you are," replied the Irishman.

"You are possessed with a drowsiness when you awake in the morning, and your head often aches and feels very heavy."

"Right again," answered the Irishman, still sipping his coffee.

"Well, then," exclaimed the doctor, sitting erect in his chair, "aren't you now convinced that the coffee is the cause?"

"Is that so," said the Irishman in astonishment. "Faith, I always thought it was the whisky."

POINTED PLEASANTRIES.

Chicago Tribune: "I wonder," said the man with the bulbous nose, "why it is that the woman with the pie crust face always wants to wear a peach-colored waist."

Catholic Standard and Times: "Did I understand you to say that all the rumselling has been stopped in your town?"

"Not at all. I merely said it was strictly prohibited."

Washington Herald: "I'll bet I could write a rural drama."

"Let's have your plot."

"Well, in the first act the girl leaves the farm; in the second, all hands eat a meal in full view of the audience, and in act three comes the reconciliation. It's a cinch."

Harper's Weekly: Rich Aunt—You only visit me when you want money.

Spendthrift—Well, I couldn't come much oftener, could I?

Washington Star: "What is your objection to our pure food system?" asked the professor.

"It offends my grammatical sense," answered the literary person. "It annoys me to find that there have been subsisting all these years on misnomers."

Houston Post: "Do you suppose this medicine will be good for me?"

"It ought to be doubly effective in your case."

"How so?"

"It is labeled, 'Good for man and beast.'"

Pointers by Pease.

Anoka Union: A sorry story that Minnesota should need a state inebriate farm.

Miserable fares is a good term for some of the laws passed by the late legislature.

Placing Minnesota in the Taft column, before any expression of choice has been made, is liable to make trouble.

While the Union is opposed to county option, it would favor limiting saloon licenses one to every thousand inhabitants.

The worst of it yet is, no man has been nominated as a candidate for governor who stands any show of election on the Republican ticket.

NO HALT IN OUR COURSE

Of Controlling Railroads and Other Corporations, Says President.

But Nothing Should be Done to Prevent Development.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—The chief feature of the exercises yesterday afternoon in connection with the unveiling of the statue of the late Gen. Henry W. Lawton was the speech delivered by President Roosevelt, in which he dwelt upon the policy of the administration regarding federal control of the railroads.

In opening, President Roosevelt paid a tribute to the veterans of the great war and to Governor Morton, the war governor of Indiana, and eulogized Gen. Lawton, whose monument had just been unveiled. If, he said, we wish to show ourselves worthy heirs of the men of the Civil war, we must do our tasks with the thoroughness with which they did theirs. He then discussed the great social and industrial problems which confront us, the solution of which demands unfaltering courage and yet a wise, good-natured self-restraint. He said:

One great problem that we have before us is to preserve the rights of property; and these can only be preserved if we remember that they are in less jeopardy from the socialist and the anarchist than from the predatory man of wealth. It has become evident that to refuse to invoke the power of the nation to restrain the wrongs committed by the man of great wealth who does evil is not only to neglect the interests of the public, but is to neglect the interests of the man of means who acts honorably by his fellows. The power of the nation must be exerted to stop crimes of cunning no less than crimes of violence.

> There can be no halt in the course we have deliberately elected to pursue, the policy of asserting the right of the nation, so far as it has the power to supervise and control the business use of wealth, especially in its corporate form.

Today I wish to say a word to you about the first and most important feature of this task, the control of the common carriers doing an interstate business; a control absolutely vested in the nation, while in so far as the common carriers also transport the mails it is in my opinion probable that whether their business is or is not interstate if is to the same extent subject to federal control, under that clause of the constitution granting to the national government power to establish post roads and, therefore, by necessary implication, power to take all action necessary in order to keep them at the highest point of efficiency.

Every federal law dealing with corporations and with railroads that has been put upon the statute books during the last six years has been a step in advance in the right direction. All action taken by the administration under these and the pre-existing laws has been just and proper. Every suit undertaken during that period has been a suit not merely warranted, but required, by the facts; a suit in the interest of the people as a whole, and, in the long run, particularly in the interest of stockholders as well as in the interest of business men of property generally. There can be no swerving from the course that has thus been mapped out in the legislation actually enacted and in the messages in which I have asked for further legislation. We best serve the interests of the honest railway men when we announce that we will follow out precisely this course. It is the course of real, of ultimate conservatism. There will be no halt in the forward movement toward a full development of this policy; and those who wish us to take a step backward or to stand still, if their wishes were realized, would find that they had invited on outbreak of the very radicalism they fear. There must be progressive legislative and administrative action for the correction of the evils which every sincere man must admit to have existed in railroad management in the past.

> There must be vested in the federal government a full power of supervision and control over the railways doing interstate business; a power in many respects analogous to and as complete as that the government exercises over the national banks.

It must possess the power to exercise supervision over the future issuance of stocks and bonds, either through a national incorporation (which I should prefer) or in some similar fashion, such supervision to include the frank publicity of everything which would-be investors and the public at large have a right to know. The federal government will thus be able to prevent all overcapitalization in the future; to prevent any man hereafter from plundering others by loading railway properties with obligations and pocketing the money instead of spending it for improvements and in legitimate corporate purposes; and any man acting in such fashion should be held to a criminal accountability. It should be declared contrary to public policy henceforth to allow railroads to devote their capital to anything but the transportation business, certainly not to the hazards of speculation. For the very reason that we desire to favor the honest railroad manager, we should seek to discourage the activities of the man whose only concern with railroads is to manipulate their stocks. The business of railroad organization and management should be kept entirely distinct from investment or brokerage business, especially of the speculative type, and the credit and property of the corporation should be devoted to the extension and betterment of its railroads, and to the development of the country naturally tributary to the lines. These principles are fundamental. Railroads should not be prohibited from acquiring connecting lines, by acquiring stocks, bonds, or other securities of such lines; but it is already well settled as contrary to public policy to allow railroads to acquire control over parallel and competing lines of transportation. Subject to first giving to the government the power of supervision and control which I have advocated above, the law should be amended so that railroads may be permitted and encouraged to make traffic agreements when these are in the interest of the general public as well as of the railroad corporations making them. These agreements should, of course, be made public in the minutest detail, and should be subject to securing the previous assent of the interstate commerce commission.

> There must be no such rigid laws as will prevent the development of the country, and such development can only be had if investors are offered an ample reward for the risk they take.

We would be the first to oppose any unreasonable restrictions being placed upon the issuance of stocks and bonds, for such would simply hamper the growth of the United States: for a railroad must ultimately stand on its credit. But this does not prevent our demanding that there be lodged in the government power to exercise a jealous care against the inflation of securities, and all the evils that come in its train.

There has been much wild talk as to the extent of the overcapitalization of our railroads. The census reports on the commercial value of the railroads of the country, together with the reports made to the interstate commerce commission by the railroads on their cost of construction, tend to show that as a whole the railroad property of the country is worth as much as the securities representing it, and that in the consensus of opinion of investors the total value of stock and bonds is greater than their total face value, notwithstanding the "water" that has been injected in particular places.

Ample provision should be made by congress to enable the interstate commerce commission, by the employment of a sufficient force of experts, to undertake the physical valuation of each and any road in the country, whenever and as soon as, in the opinion of the commission, such a valuation of any road would be of value to the commission in its work. There are undoubtedly some roads as to which it would be an advantage, from the standpoint of the business of the commission, to have such a physical valuation as soon as possible.

At the outset let it be understood that physical valuation is no panacea; it is no sufficient measurement of a rate; but it will be ultimately needed as an essential instrument in administrative supervision. It will be of use to the commission in connection with the duty of determining the reasonableness of future capitalization, both as one element to enable such a body to come to a right conclusion in the matter, and also as an element to be placed before the investing public, to enable this public in its turn to reach a conclusion; though, of course, capitalization must be determined in large measure by future rather than past investment.

The effect of such valuation and supervision of securities can not be retroactive. Existing securities should be tested by the laws of existence at the time of their issue. This nation would no more injure securities which have become an important part of the national wealth than it would consider a proposition to repudiate the public debt. But the public interest requires guaranty against improper multiplication of securities in the future. Reasonable regulations for their issuance should be provided, so as to secure as far as may be that the proceeds thereof shall be devoted to legitimate business purposes. In providing against over-capitalization, we shall benefit no human being who is honest; and we shall benefit many, for overcapitalization often means an inflation that invites business panic; it always conceals the true relation of the profit earned to the capital invested, creating a burden of interest payments which may redound to the loss alike of the wage-earner and the general public, which is concerned in the rates paid by shippers; it damages the small investor, discourages thrift and puts a premium on gambling and business trickery. There need be no fear on the part of investors that this movement for national supervision and control over railways will be for their detriment.

No state, of course, can do for the railways what the national government has already done for the banks, and that government should do something analogous for the railways. National-bank stocks are bought and sold largely on the certificate character which the government, as a result of its examinations and supervision, gives to them. The railways have not been given this certificate of character, under the seal of the national government, and therefore many people who invest freely in the shares of banks are reluctant to buy railroad securities. Give them the same guarantees as to railroad securities which we now give them as to national bank shares, and we would presently see these people investing in railroads, and thus opening a new reservoir from which to draw the capital now so much needed for the extension and betterment of the railroads.

The great need of the hour, from the standpoint of the general public—of the producer, consumer, and shipper alike—is the need for better transportation facilities, for additional tracks, additional terminals, and improvements in the actual handling of the railroads; and all this with the least possible delay. Ample, safe, and rapid transportation facilities are even more necessary than cheap transportation. The prime need is for the investment of money which will provide terminal facilities, additional tracks, and a greater number of cars and locomotives, while at the same time, securing, if possible, better wages and shorter hours for the employes. There must be just and reasonable regulation of rates, but any arbitrary and unthinking movement to cut them down may be equivalent to putting a complete stop to the effort to provide better transportation.

LAND OF THE DOUKHOBORS

Will be Taken From Them and Opened to Settlement.

Winnipeg, Man., May 31.—The Canadian government will open for settlement June 1 about 250,000 acres of the land set aside for the Doukhobors in 1899. Entries must be made in person at Yorkton, Saskatchewan, between June 1 and July 6.

The Doukhobors are Russians who in 1895 declared that as Christians they could not go to war. Some were flogged to death, some confined in prisons, and many were expelled from their homes and would have perished but for assistance from men of their own faith. In 1899 7,000 of them were brought into Canada, the expenses being paid by private parties in England, by Quakers in Philadelphia, and by the Canadian government. They were settled on land in Canada.

When they were settled means were found to assist them, and they became exceedingly prosperous, but gradually it appeared that along with their refusal to join war, using force, inflicting pain, to shedding blood, to eating flesh, etc., went other doctrines making them less desirable citizens than had been expected. They refused to pay taxes and were allowed to do road work. Though exempt from military service they refused to become citizens and take out patents on their land in the regular way. The Canadian laws require each man to take 160 acres of land and live on it. The Doukhobors were excused from living on the land individually, but the law required each man to file on a quarter section. After a long drawn out but peaceful conflict with the government, the contest has been settled so that those who continued to live in the communities get about fifteen acres each around the villages, while those who want to can take up 160 acres a head in severality.

A large part of the land set aside for the Doukhobors has thus been released, and is to be opened to settlement in June.

What is said to be the highest price ever paid for a bull at a Jersey cattle sale in America was received Thursday afternoon at the sale of the Coopers blooded, imported stock at the Linden Grove farm, Coopersburg. The bull was sold for $11,500 to A. B. Lewis of Fredericksburg.

Judge John A. Dougherty of Owingsville was selected as special judge to try the Hargis case for the murder of Cox at a meeting of counsel Thursday morning. Judge Dougherty immediately convened court and on motion of Commonwealth Attorney Waugh granted a continuance to July 9.

A BIG CIRCUS.

Enlarged Campbell Bros. Consolidated Shows Beyond Comparison.

The great Campbell Bros. consolidated shows, which will exhibit here next Wednesday, June 5, have been enlarged on such a scale of liberality as to make it next to impossible to depict its real magnitude. Besides enormous additions to the circus proper, the parade has been increased, and is now one of the finest ever seen with this meritorious organization. In the arenic display are brought together an assembly of the most famous acrobats, gymnasts, aerial performers, dancers, funmakers, and sensational specialists in the world. Most of these artists make their first appearance in this country with the great Campbell Brothers' consolidated shows. Foremost among these celebrities are "The Flying Le Vans," the "Mizuno troupe of Japs," Bishop Bros. double somersault leapers; Nellie Ryland, champion bareback rider of the world; Cossack Rough Riders, in daring feats of horsemanship; the great hippodrome race, and other highly sensational acts too numerous to mention.

Among the trained animal features are a herd of performing elephants, educated horses and ponies, high jumping dogs and clown mules. The menagerie annex contains the most complete, exclusive and valuable collection of wild animals from all parts of the world.

The street parade will leave the show grounds at 10 o'clock. Performances at 2 and 8 p. m.

ALCOHOL EXPLODED.

Clerk Hunts for It With Match and Finds It.

Hunting for alcohol with a match is a rather dangerous experiment as a clerk in William Abbett's drug store at Second avenue west and Superior street can testify. The young man essayed the experiment yesterday afternoon, and the bottle of alcohol "came to light" with a startling bang, setting fire to the store, but miraculously not injuring the young man with the match in the least.

A call was sent in, and the fire department made a quick run to the scene. The flames had gained very little headway when they arrived, and were soon extinguished. The stock of T. F. Reinhart, the jeweler, who occupies a portion of the store, was slightly injured, but the entire damages to the jewelry and drug departments will probably not exceed $500.

Fusel Oil is What Makes Whisky So Injurious

It's an objectionable constituent which forms in whisky during distillation.

Fusel oil has poisonous properties—causes headache—coated tongue—it's that "kick" in the whisky.

But in "G. & W. Special" there isn't a bit of fusel oil, because Gooderham & Worts, by a special process, take it all out.

That's why "G. & W. Special" is so healthful—so digestible.

ON THE IRON RANGES

VERMILION AS RESORT

Big Range Lake Affords Fine Place for Summer Outings.

Good Fishing, Pure Air and Fine Scenery Offered.

Tower, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lake Vermilion is again free from ice and the boats are all making regular trips, thus enabling homesteaders as well as land seekers to reach their respective destinations on the lake. Owing to the lateness of the break-up several parties were delayed here this year.

There is a great area of desirable land in the vicinity of the shores of the lake, and that already not filed on is eagerly sought after. On the immediate shore of Vermilion as well as its numberless islands, there are many ideal sites for summer homes, and it is expected that within a short time advantage will be taken of the opportunities here offered. The Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company plan to do all in its power to make this city a summer resort, and before long it will have in circulation, booklets illustrating the many beauties of this section, as well as the advantages in the variety and number of fish to be had, the blueberries, raspberries, wild plums and strawberries and wild rice in season; duck and geese, bear, caribou, deer, muskrat, moose and mink which are to be found in plenty in the nearby woods.

Vermilion lake is thirty-five miles in length and averages ten miles in width. Many small streams run into the lake, and these all contain numberless pike. The other fish to be found in Vermilion lake are black and rock bass, pickerel and muscallonge, the latter averaging from five to fifteen pounds.

Gold Island is the only island on which cottages have yet been built. This island is twelve miles up the lake and contains two pretty cottages, built and owned by the Lake Vermilion Outing club, who yearly spend their vacation there. The club consists of range merchants and several traveling men, who make the ranges. The date for their next meeting is June 3, when they will arrive here for a ten days' outing. There are several islands as suitable as Gold Island, for summer homes, and it is hoped that in the near future, many will be built. The erection of a summer hotel is contemplated, which will provide accommodations for tourists, who will undoubtedly take advantages of the outing offered here if the Duluth & Iron Range advertising matter becomes circulated. There are several passenger boats making daily trips to all points on the lake, and as local hotel accommodations are good, Towerites look for a number of tourists this summer.

PLAN BUILDINGS FOR ERICSBURG

New Structures to be Erected by Virginia People.

Virginia, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first building on the new townsite of Ericsburg, twelve miles south of International Falls on the line of the Rainy Lake road, will be erected by William Bernard of this city. He recently returned from a trip to the new town. While there he let a contract for the erection of a two-story frame hotel 60x30 feet in size and as soon as it is completed will open the place for business.

Eric Franson of International Falls, the owner of the townsite, has already erected a sawmill and boarding house on land adjoining the townsite but Mr Bernard's hotel will be the first building on the platted portion.

Ericsburg is very favorably situated on the Rat Root river, where the railroad crosses it in an excellent agricultural district. The river is navigable by small steamboats as far as Ericsburg, and the town will probably be the first of any importance north of Virginia on the new line.

TOWER BUSINESS MEN CLOSE MEMORIAL DAY.

Tower, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Memorial day was duly observed by local merchants, all places of business being closed after the noon hour. There was no public demonstration but the various school rooms had appropriate exercises Wednesday afternoon as there was no school yesterday.

TRIBUTES TO HEROIC DEAD

Many Towns in Iron Region Properly Observe Memorial Day.

Parades, Decorating of Graves and Exercises Make Up Day.

Eveleth, Minn., May 31. — (Special to The Herald.)—Although Martin Hughes of Hibbing, who had been invited to deliver the Memorial day address was unfortunately delayed in arriving because the team he expected at Wolfe to bring him here from the Missabe train failed to materialize and he did not reach the speaking place until the end of the program was nearly reached, the observance of the day was a great success. There was a parde of veterns, members of the fire department, school children and others. The exercises were held in the high school auditorium which was crowded. Charles McNamara of Willis Gorman post of Duluth, presided, and seated on the stage were several veterans. Supt. Greening of the schools arranged the program, which was as follows:

"Ster Spangled Banner," by the audience; song, "Mt. Vernor Bells," by the fifth grade of the Eveleth schools; Gettysburg address, Paul Erickson; march, pupils of the first grade of the high school building; recitation, Barbara Fritchle, Ruth Mulligan; Minnesota state song, pupils of the fifth grade of the high school building; dramatization. "The First Flag," third grade of the high school building; solo, "My Own United States," Miss Sara Bowers; "Old Glory," song, by the pupils of the sixth and seventh grades of the Fayal school; recitation, "Sheridan's Drive," Harry Rabinowitz; fife and drum song, pupils of the third grades; song, "America," by the audience.

Hibbing, Minn., May 31. — (Special to The Herald.)—Without a prepared program of exercises the people of Hibbing generally observed Memorial day decorating the graves of the soldier dead, unfurling flags and generally taking a day off.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—A splendid parade made up of war veterans, civic bodies, school children and others headed by a band, which formed at the courthouse, and marched through the business section of the city, made Memorial day observances a success. After the parade the graves of veterans in the cemeteries were decorated.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—With Supt. R. E. Denfeld of the Duluth schools as the speaker the Memorial day exercises here were of a fine order. His address was a splendid effort that was repeatedly applauded. Salutes were fired in the morning over the graves of dead veterans and over the lake in memory of those who perished in defense of their country on land and sea. Veterans' graves were appropriately decorated.

Virginia, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—While there were no planned Memorial day exercises here there was a general observance of the day by a cessation of business. The graves of veterans were properly decorated. A rain in the afternoon marred the day in a measure.

GOVERNOR WILL MAKE ADDRESS

Will Speak at Two Harbors to School Graduates.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—With Governor John A. Johnson as the speaker of the evening, and many other notable persons present, the graduating exercises of the high school tonight will be the most memorable in the history of this city. The distinguished speaker will be accorded a hearty reception upon his arrival from Duluth, and it goes without saying that his audience will be a large one.

DIED OF HIS INJURIES.

Charles Kavander, Young Brakeman, Fatally Injured at Kavander Stripping.

Eveleth, Minn., May 31.—The injuries sustained by Charles Kavander, Wednesday night, while braking on a dinkey engine at the stripping of Drake & Stratton, proved fatal, and he succumbed Thursday, at the Fabiola hospital. He was only 17 years old and lived with his parents at Eveleth, where the funeral will be held Sunday.

It appears the young man was injured by falling on the track, as he swung from the engine to throw a switch. The right leg was run over, being severed above the ankle, and he sustained internal injuries that proved fatal.

Minors at Hazardous Work.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Thanking you in advance for a little space in your valuable paper, I would like to ask you to make it public how minors, boys and unlicensed engineers are employed in and around the mines and railways on the range, and how incompetent are some of the men in charge of high speed machinery. It is lamentable in the twentieth century how hazardous it is for the average working man in so well a governed state as Minnesota. The writer has a boy of 17 years of age employed as a dinky engineer, and I saw the captain and asked him to discharge him, he only said, "Oh, I have boys of my own working, and they run as much risk of getting hurt." So I would like to know how I can stop him until he has finished school. I am not going to be bluffed even if I have to see Governor Johnson.

VIRGINIA AFTER A FREE DELIVERY

Application for Service is Forwarded to Postal Department.

Virginia, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—In accordance with a recent resolution of the Virginia Commercial club formal application has been forwarded to the post office department at Washington for the establishment of free delivery in this city. The application was forwarded by a committee from the club consisting of City Clerk Bickford, Assistant Postmaster Peterson and Editor Hannaford. The population of the city is believed to be 7,000 or 8,000 or far in excess of that returned by the last federal census and the citizens are unanimous in the opinion that the department should grant the concession. The postal business here last year was about $13,000 and will be considerably in excess of that amount this year. The committee has also asked Congressman Adam Bede for his assistance and it is assured.

COLERAINE WILL BE THE HOST

Greenway School Dedication Will Bring Many People to City.

Coleraine, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Everything is ready for the dedication of the John C. Greenway school building this evening. A large number of incitations have been issued, and it is expected there will be a representative audience present from far and near.

A number of prominent citizens of St. Louis county and some from other parts of the state are expected to be present.

Luncheon will be served in the building from 5:30 to 8 o'clock. This will be followed by an open-air band concert and the illumination of the building by electricity. Then will come the dedication exercises.

There was an entertainment last night in the high school, given by pupils, consisting of recitations and a dramatic production of "Hiawatha."

HIBBING VICTOR AT BOTH GAMES

Brady's Colts Prove Too Strong for Fitwell's Nine.

Hibbing, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brady's colts defeated the Fitwell team of Duluth in two hard-fought games Thursday. The first game was called at 2 o'clock, and was a fine exhibition of the national sport. Grogan was in the box for Hibbing, and Thorson was doing the twirling for the Duluth team. The game was marked by many fast plays and few errors. The final score was 5 to 3 in favor of the Hibbing team.

The second game was called at 4 o'clock, and was even better than the first. Wester decorated the center of the diamond for the home team, and Thorson continued to do the south paw act for the visitors. The contest was spirited, and the score stood 2 to 2 until the seventh inning, when the "Colts" got together and laid up against a bunch of Thorsen's twists, bringing two more men around to the fourth base. This ended the scoring, and during the remainder of the game the men on both sides went out in the one, two, three order.

The Hibbing team is playing better ball than at the opening of the season and some fast games are looked for in the near future. The team work showed that the warm weather of the past week had been used to good advantage, and it will only be a matter of a short time now when the colts will resume last year's gait.

Extensive improvements have been made in the ball park this spring and others are to be made in the near future, which will give Hibbing one of the best ball parks in the state.

MEN TO DO WORK.

Women of Hibbing Methodist Church Will Have Chance to be Guests.

Hibbing, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The gentlemen of the Methodist church congregation will give an unusual supper and program at the church Saturday evening. They will be hosts, cooks, waiters and dish washers, while the women will only be allowed to ornament the hall. The program which also will be rendered is an excellent one, and is as follows:

RANGES IN BRIEF

Hibbing—S. R. Kirby, cashier of the First National bank of Hibbing, this week received his new four-cylinder Rambler touring car. It is an excellent machine with plenty of speed and road ability.

Biwabik—Following the regular lodge meeting Saturday night the local Knights of Pythias will enjoy a banquet. During the lodge session Prof. T. E. Grae, who represented the lodge at the grand lodge in St. Paul and was elected grand prelate, will deliver his report.

Eveleth—After being thrown out of a buggy here yesterday afternoon a man giving his name as P. J. Conway, and said to be a travelling man, was arrested on the charge of fast driving. He retained counsel and said he would fight the case.

Chisholm—A ball and dance was given by the ball club last night in the city hall, with music by Heine's orchestra. A substantial sum was realized and this will be used in equipping the club with suits and other baseball articles.

H. H. Stone, organizer for the Royal League, will organize a branch lodge here tonight with thirty or more charter members.

Virginia—The Mountain Iron Baseball nine was defeated here yesterday, by the Virginia team by a score of 14 to 1. A large crowd witnessed the game and cheered the locals to victory.

MARINE NEWS

ROMANCE ON THE LAKES

Young Man and Woman Reconciled by Happy Chance.

Captain of Steamer Barton Plays Part of Cupid.

Fate or destiny, in weaving out the lives of a young lady of Detroit and a well-known young man of this city, kept close watch of the big steamer Bartow on her trip from Lake Erie to Duluth last week, and the vessel and her captain played a prominent part in a very pretty little romance. The young people had become estranged and had made the usual vows of eternal enmity.

From the time it was found necessary to lay up for repairs at Detroit for a few hours, right along through the after-events of the trip, beginning with an invitation to dine extended by Capt. White and his wife to a number of young ladies of Detroit, until Duluth was reached and the culmination of the romance was brought about in a wedding at the parsonage of the First Methodist church of this city, the hand of fate can plainly be seen.

Capt. White and his wife are old neighbors to the family of the young lady at their home near Detroit, and when he learned that the repairs to the steamer would detain him at Detroit for several hours, he sent an invitation to a party of young ladies, including the principal in the romance, to come and dine with him and his wife on board the steamer. The invitation was accepted and the dinner in progress, when it was learned that the ship was ready to start. Capt. White, not wishing to delay the trip any longer than necessary, told the ladies they might remain on board and make the trip to Duluth and back.

"Come on, girls, you may as well make the trip with us now, and we can finish our dinner," said he. Only three of the party were able to accept the invitation, and the rest went back to their homes. The trip to Duluth was uneventful, and when the Bartow tied up at the Allouez ore docks, the ladies were ready for a trip ashore, and started for Duluth via Superior. A chance meeting on Superior street resulted in a reconciliation between the young woman and the young business man of this city, and within an hour and a half the couple were married at the Methodist parsonage.

"If that steamer had not put in at Detroit for repairs, I would still be planning on my next year's work of teaching," said the young lady shortly after her marriage. "I had several good positions in view, but now I guess that I won't have to worry about a job for some time at least."

STEERING GEAR DAMAGED.

Steamer L. C. Smith Delayed---Weston Arrives in Port.

Owing to a break in her steering gear the steamer L. C. Smith has been badly delayed since Wednesday night while repairs are being made. She is now lying at one side of the channel in the bay, near the Peavey elevator, while repairs are being made. The steamer was coming down from the ore docks and had just passed the interstate bridge when her steering gear refused to work. She belongs to the United States Transportation company.

The steamer Weston, which was aground on Outer Island, Wednesday, arrived in the Duluth harbor last evening, under her own steam. She was towed to the Northwestern Coal dock, No. 2, where she will unload her cargo. It was necessary to dump about 1,200 tons of her cargo into the lake before she could be floated by the steamer Rogers and tug Crosby.

WESTON RELEASED.

Pulled Off Rocks at Outer Island After Lightering Cargo.

Ashland, May 31.—The steel steamer Charles Weston was released from the rocks at Outer Island shortly before noon yesterday after 1,200 tons of her coal cargo had been thrown into the lake. The steamer was resting, nearly her whole length on a flat rock, but slid off into deep water under the combined efforts of the steamer William Rogers and tug Crosby. The Weston later left for Duluth under her own steam. The captains of both the Weston and Rogers state that the fog signal on Outer Island was not heard by them at the time the Weston stranded.

Now Anchored in Bay.

The militia boat Gopher is once more at her anchorage in the bay, after having been painted up and thoroughly overhauled. She has been lying in the slip at Seventh avenue west until yesterday, when she was used to take the party of women on their trip out in the lake strew flowers on the waters in memory of the dead sailors.

COLE TAKES BIG CARGO.

Has Finished Loading and Departs for Lower Lakes.

The new steamer Thomas F. Cole had finished loading at the Missabe ore docks at noon today and left the harbor this afternoon for the first time with a load. She took out approximately 11,100 tons of iron ore for lower lake ports.

Yesterday afternoon, while the crowd of nearly 200 sightseers were still inspecting the boat at the Northern Pacific dock at Sixth avenue west, orders came to proceed to the ore docks, and practically all of those on board were given a ride to West Duluth, where the vessel arrived shortly before 6 o'clock.

While the cargo of the Cole is not a record-breaker, it is a very large one to be taken on the first trip, and the officials confidently expect that she will break the record before the season is over.

Northern King Aground.

Detroit, May 31.—A wireless message last night from the passenger steamer Western States in Lake Erie says that the steamer Northern King is hard aground about ten miles east of Bar Point. The steamer is disabled and a tug has been ordered to her assistance from Amherstburg.

New Fog Signals.

The lighthouse board of the Great Lakes has decided to install an electric submarine bell at the mouth of the St. Mary's river in the near future, as the fog whistle there has been found very unsatisfactory. This will be the first submarine bell to be placed on the shore line of the Great Lakes, although there are already six installed on lightships on the lakes and more are continually being installed.

Warnings Are Posted.

Warning notices have been posted in the freight houses and aboard the vessels of the Western Transit company by an insurance company that employs a corps of detectives to prevent pilfering or stealing of freight. Many of the lake lines are taking up this new policy for the protection of shipments. The notices state:

"All freight handled by this line of steamers is protected by the undersigned against theft. Anyone caught pilfering or stealing will be dealt with to the full extent of the criminal law. For no consideration will any lenience be shown. A large body of detectives is employed to watch our interests."

ALBENBERG'S

CONTEST FOR HERALD TROPHY

Schoolboy Athletes Ready for Field Meet at Driving Park.

The handsome silver trophy which has been donated by The Duluth Evening Herald for the winning school in the interscholastic field meet is creating a lot of interest amongst the schools which will participate in the meet tomorrow afternoon at the Driving park, and will do much toward stimulating a strong athletic spirit in the schools for the years to come. The silk banner that will be presented by the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. has to be won but once, and becomes the permanent property of the school winning it. The banner this year will be the best that has ever been presented. It will be made of blue silk, lined with four thicknesses of goods, gold fringe, tassels, brass rod with brass acorn ends, and the lettering will be painted with gold bronze. The boys bringing these honors to their school may feel justly proud.

Should the weather prove favorable tomorrow, and the weather man predicts that it will be fine and warmer, the Driving park ought to be crowded with spectators. The meet will be called promptly at 2:30, and the events have been arranged in order so that there will be no waits. The following is the order in which they will be pulled off:

Fifty-yard dash, 75-yard dash, potato race, 100-yard dash, sack race, quarter mile, three-legged race, half mile, running high jump, standing high jump, running broad jump, three standing jumps, running hop-step-jump, standing broad jump, half-mile relay.

"Fitwell" trousers hold their shape.

Housecleaning.

No worry, no drudgery and small expense for the housewife. We'll clean the entire house or any part however small, guaranteeing our work to be perfect. Oriental rugs cleaned 3c per square foot. Carpets cleaned on the floor, 10c per yard. Wall paper automatically cleaned $3.50 per room and up according to size. Our process does not shorten the life of rugs or carpets, but prolongs their lasting and wearing qualities. There is absolutely nothing we cannot clean. The most delicate frescoing, curtains, blankets, windows, anything and everything. MAXIMUM HYGIENE RENOVATING CO., 508 West Superior street. W. C. Malone, Prop. New 'Phone 182. Old 'Phona 1582.

To be Continued.

The "Fitwell" will continue to sell their $15 top coats and rain coats at $11.75. There are some choice coats left, and if your size is among them you are sure to get the biggest bargain ever offered in Duluth. 112 West Superior street.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SOX MAKE EVEN BREAK

Tie Maroons in Ninth and Win First 4 to 3.

Visitors Had Swatfest in Second, Winning 10 to 0.

Eddie Herr's Winnipeg Maroons came back yesterday afternoon and showed that they could play ball. In the double-header at Athletic park, the Sox crawled out of the first game with a victory by a score of 4 to 3 in ten innings and the Maroons pounded Krick and Treadway to all corners of the lot and won the 7-inning game, which closed the afternoon's entertainment, by a score of 10 to 0. About 4,000 people gathered and they saw some baseball. The first game was a beauty. Everything which goes to make a good contest from a spectator's point of view was crowded into the ten innings. Great pitching, hard hitting, fast fielding, good base-runing, and tense situations galore, were all dished up for the delectation of Duluth fandom in the best game of the season here.

A boot gave the Sox their opportunity to win the game, but they worked for it. They played ball every minute of the time and they deserved the victory. They hit harder and oftener than the red clad players and only the misfortunes of baseball prevented them from winning in nine innings. But they had a close call. What Manager Eddie Herr must have remarked of one Second Baseman King and all his connections four generations in the rear, in the ninth inning would undoubtedly not look well in print. The fans of Duluth should get together and take fitting recognition of the generosity of that young man with the mountedal name. He is sure some beneficent. But for his timely slip, the only one in the Maroon column, there would be a different story to tell.

Cummings Goes In.

With the score 3 to 2 against his team and two gone in the ninth, Manager Smith leaned his trembling form upon a straw and sent Cummings in to bat for Olmstead and Glencke, the midget south-paw, who was thought for the Canucks, obligingly tickled Al's short ribs with the sphere. Haney and his young pal Atwood were NEW called upon in the Eastern hope, barting for the life of Krick. Jim hit the first ball over and hit it hard. Is bounded out of King's way and that gentleman neglected to get in front of it speedily. Result—to get in front of it speedily. Result—George tied Haney on third. It was up to Summers, but he whiffed.

There was nothing to it then. The Maroons didn't have a thing to fight with, with King, Sensenback and Klencke up, while the big end of the Sox list was down for performance in the tenth. Cummings was forced to go in the box, the substitute batter having forced Quick from the game. The three Maroons went down in order and the Sox started in to make full use of Mr. King's present. Tracey fanned, but there was hope ahead. Goldsmith walked and went to second on a passed ball. The fans rested all their hopes on McCormick and their trust was not placed on vain. McCormick always looks good to the fans in such situations and he looked better yesterday than a drifting life preserver to a shipwrecked mariner. Woe unto the Canadian cause, for Glencke placed one within reach, Mac leaned and Goldsmith chased home with the winning run, while the ball was describing zigzags in the vicinity of the left field fence.

Krick in Great Form.

It was a great victory and a bitter defeat. Josie Krick was the boy who had the leading part in the defeat of the Canadians, for he was never better. Except in the third inning, when things didn't break just his way, he was all to the good. The Maroons couldn't hit him when hits meant anything and, except in that third, when the game went as near to the wrong way as any game ever did, only one Maroon secured a foothold on the opening of the home stretch. Krick's support was excellent. Everyone was with him in the field and at bat. Chances were accepted with perfect ease and every advantage grasped. Two double plays helped enliven the fielding end. But one misplay by Leighty, which registered one of the Maroon runs, was marked up in the Duluth error column.

Glencke, who whirled them over for the Germans from Grand Forks last year, was nearly the Sox's undoing. He didn't have much and the Duluth boys got to him for nine bingles for a total of fifteen bases, but, as a rule, in pitches he sighteered up like a molested chap and several golden opportunities to finish the game were lost through the inability of the Sox to connect with his teasers. The men behind didn't fall down on him once until the ninth, when King made his slip.

Sox Scored First.

The Sox secured first hold in the second, when Leighty singled, went to second on Smith's sacrifice and registered on McLaughlin's double. The third was Krick's bad inning and the Maroons took a toe hold and hammerlocks on the game. Sensenback was hit by a pitched ball to start the inning and went to third on Glencke's sacrifice. Piper connected with a nice one for two sacks. He grabbed off third before Smith could get the ball down and made the last lap on Luderus' steal. Luderus was stabbed trying to steal second. Cox singled and scored the Maroons' final run when Leighty slipped up on Zelder's grounder. In the fourth, Crisp drew a pass and went to second on King's sacrifice, but in each of the remaining innings only three Maroons stepped to the plate.

In the sixth, the Sox started a healthy swatfest, which bid fair to get back the two runs Winnipeg had to the good. Tracey opened with a smashing triple and Goldsmith attempted to do likewise. His swat was only good for two, however. Tracey cantering under the wire. McCormick laid down a perfect one and Goldsmith took third. The next three men went down and Winnipeg retained the lead until the ninth when King helped to sew it up, and in the tenth the Sox took it for their victory own.

Prosperity was too much for the Sox and the second game was a nightmare. Krick, flushed with victory, attempted to get away with the second contest, but the game was too strong for this early-season date and he came to grief. For five innings, he held the blood-thirsty crew from across the border at bay, but in the sixth, they began to avenge their wrongs. Two singles and an error gave them a start and in the seventh, they made the home outfit look like a selling platter behind Rosoben. It was really cruel to fall on poor Josie so heavily, but the Maroons were ready for anything after the Sox had yanked the first game out of their grasp and they showed no mercy. After an error, a single, a double, and two more singles had scored three, Krick decided he didn't care for any more. Treadway went in but he was cold and the Maroons found him easy picking. Two more singles, a double and two more errors gave Herr's gang five additional runs and they let up.

In the meantime, Ralph Terry and his balloon-like floaters were doing things to the Sox, who had exhausted their day's supply of bingles on Glencke. Goldsmith had a scratch hit stowed away somewhere and he brought it into view, but he was the only man to reach the first station in the seven innings. Terry just lobbed them over and the Sox popped them into the hands of the waiting fielders. Nobody slipped up and Duluth was never in danger of not having a victory credited to him. The game was called at the end of the seventh on account of darkness.

AFTERNOON GAMES.

WASHINGTON, 9; NEW YORK, 2.

Washington, May 31.—Washington batted Moore out of the box in two innings in the afternoon game and defeated New York 9 to 2. Brackett who relieved him was wild and hit hard. The game was called at the end of the seventh inning to allow the New Yorks to catch a train for Boston. Score:

BOSTON, 5; ATHLETICS, 4.

Philadelphia, May 31.—Boston defeated Philadelphia yesterday afternoon through Philadelphia yesterday afternoon through the inability of the locals to hit Glaze, who succeeded Dineen in the first inning after Hartsell and Davis put the ball over the fence for home runs. The home team had a lead until the ninth inning when five runs were scored on hard hitting. Score:

ST. LOUIS, 2; CHICAGO, 0.

Chicago, May 31.—St. Louis and Chicago each won a game here yesterday, the visitors taking the afternoon contest, 2 to 0. The morning score was Chicago, 8; St. Louis, 2. The second game was witnessed by an overflow crowd which had plenty of chances to cheer. A fine catch by Niles was turned into a double play and stopped a Chicago rally in the eighth. Score:

AFTERNOON GAMES.

CINCINNATI, 7; ST. LOUIS, 1.

St. Louis, May 31.—St. Louis was defeated again in yesterday afternoon's game by Cincinnati by a score of 7 to 1. Karger pitched very poor ball for the locals and was relieved by Frommе after the sixth inning, who in turn, was relieved by Shields after hurting his arm in the eight inning. Score:

NEW YORK, 6; PHILADELPHIA, 1.

New York, May 31.—New York defeated Philadelphia yesterday afternoon. The special police were unable to cope with the overflow of spectators, who tore down wire fences in several places, swarmed in on the outfield and surrounded the diamond. They were lined around the field and behind the plate ten deep, and it was only after Umpire O'Day threatened to forfeit the game to Philadelphia that the players were able to get the people back far enough to clear a space in which to play. Ground rules were adopted so that a hit into the crowd was good for only two bases. Duggleby relieved Ritchie in the second inning. Score:

"STEEL PLANT" TEAM

Makes Debut by Defeating Proctor Bunch 11 to 6.

The "Steel Plant Baseball Team" made up of ball chasers from Smithville and New Duluth, defeated the Hilltops, the Proctor aggregation, in a game played on the New Duluth grounds yesterday afternoon by a score of 11 to 6. Amundson, who did the mixing for the steel men fanned ten and allowed two bases on balls, holding the Proctor bunch down to a few well scattered hits. Two errors in the shape of wild throws by Bolyer, the Steel Plant short stop, allowed four of the Hilltop tallies. The Steel Plant team got to Ness in the fifth and sixth innings for seven scores. The line-up:

Hilltops—	Steel Plant—

Chicago Wins at Tennis.

Chicago, May 31.—Paul Gray and Frederick W. Carr, the University of Chicago team, cleaned up the championship honors in the Western Intercollegiate tennis tournament, which closed here yesterday. They defeated Richard Loesch and Peter R. Home in the doubles by the score of 3-6, 6-3, 11-9 and 6-1. The championship in singles, which lay between Gray and Carr, went to Gray, Carr declining to play against his teammate.

Franklin Team Won.

The Franklin school team defeated the Duluth Juniors yesterday afternoon by a score of 27 to 3, making the third successive victory for the Franklins. Brown, the pitcher for the students, did excellent work. Elliott caught, Olson and Johnson formed the battery for the Juniors.

TWO TEAMS BREAK EVEN

Giants and Aristocrats Each Won Game Yesterday.

Houghton Bunched Hits and Errors in Morning Game.

Houghton, Mich., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Houghton and Calumet broke even in two games yesterday, the Giants taking the morning game at Calumet by a score of 5 to 4, and the Aristocrats winning out at Ripley park in the afternoon by 5 to 1. The morning game was a close contest, with the result in doubt until the last man was out. Both Miller and Koopman pitched good ball, keeping the hits well scattered. Errors behind them helped materially in the scoring. Calumet started a batting rally in the ninth, but it fell short, but one run being scored.

The detailed score of the morning game follows:

BEN TREMBLE IN DULUTH.

Heavyweight Was in City Yesterday on Way to Hibbing.

Ben Tremble, the Minneapolis heavyweight who met Mike Schreck at Hibbing a couple of months ago, was in Duluth yesterday en route to Hibbing, where there is said to be another match in pickle for him. Tremble has not yet met Marvin Hart, the Kentuckian's arrangements for yesterday's fight with Schreck having cut out, the Minneapolis man out. Tremble expects to arrange the match later.

BREAKS AUTO RECORD.

Baltimore Man Drives Auto 100 Miles in 2:12:43.

Washington, May 31.—The world's automobile racing record for 100 miles on a circular track was broken yesterday when Wallace C. Hood of Baltimore, covered the course in 88, while her opponent was one stroke more. Miss Osgood was one up at the fourteenth, but lost the fifteenth, and, after the short sixteenth had been halved in the usual figures, Miss Curtis took the next two and the match.

Miss Curtis Champion.

Boston, May 31.—Miss Margaret Curtis of the Country club won the fifth annual championship of the Women's Golf association of Boston on her home links in Brooklyn yesterday, defeating her clubmate, Miss Fanny C. Osgood of Hopedale, in a brilliant match by the score of 2 up. Miss Curtis covered the course in 88, while her opponent was one stroke more. Miss Osgood was one up at the fourteenth, but lost the fifteenth, and, after the short sixteenth had been halved in the usual figures, Miss Curtis took the next two and the match.

Gotch Defeats Rooney.

Kansas City, May 31.—Frank Gotch last night defeated John Rooney of Chicago in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match, winning the first in eight minutes with a toe hold, and the second in sixten minutes with a hammer lock.

DULUTH HAS EASY TIME

Central Athletes Demonstrate Superiority Over Blaine—Score 85-37.

Bad Track and Cold Weather Keep Marks Down.

On a track which, while not muddy, was covered with a layer of loose dirt to a depth sufficient to render spikes useless, with a cold northeaster chilling the runners in their scanty clothing, and with a few gusts of rain driving down dust to make matters interesting, the Duluth Central and Blaine high schools held their field meet at the driving park yesterday afternoon and the local athletes walked all over the Blaine huskies to the tune of 85 to 37, and took the relay race, which does not count in points, by a margin of over thirty feet.

The unfortunate conditions under which the meet was held, kept any of the records from being broken during the meet and the marks made in nearly every one of the events were considerably below the average for the high school work here. A number of men looked upon as likely to break former records flunked meserably yesterday and the meet was unusually devoid of startling features of any kind. Representatives from both schools showed the need of more training, though the Blain contignet was perhaps a little better off in this respect.

It was all Duluth from the start, superior securing but three out of the fifteen events, Rooney winning in the mile run, Smith hitting the tape first in the 440 yard dash, and Clark earning first place in the 220 yard low hurdles. At no time during the meet did Blaine threaten to draw up on the local team and the loss of the relay race, the last thing on the program, put a last touch to the completeness of their defeat.

Fred Ryan, captain of the Duluth track team and winner of last week's interscholastic meet, took first place in the meet with the greatest number of points tallied for the school. Ryan had four firsts, the 50, 100, and 200 yard dashes, and the running board jump going to him, and he took third in the pole vault. McGonagle, who took the running high jump with five feet as his mark, was a close second in all the high jumps and had a total score of 17 at the close of the meet.

Pulford won the half mile from Smith of Superior in fine style sprinting in good form at the finish and crossing the tape with a good margin between him and the Superior boy. The little runner also took second place in the mile, Rooney winning on the last quarter.

Helmer and McDevitt cinched the relay race in the first half of the contest, distancing Hanson and Dickson by good margins. As McDevitt was about to pass the stick to McGonagle at the quarter mile, the latter took one or two steps forward before receiving it, and the Superior men kicked some on this act, but the race was already irretrievably lost to them and the gain in time was practically nothing so it was decided to let it stand. McGonagle and Ryan boosted the lead earned by the first two runners some, but Ryan was so far ahead at the finish that he walked across the tape. The time for the half mile was 1:45.

The events and the records were as follows:

120-yard high hurdles: Helmer, Duluth. Other contestants knocked down last two hurdles which counted them out. Time, 18 seconds.

100-yard dash: Ryan, Duluth, first; McGonagle, Duluth, second; Clark, Superior, third; time, 11 2-5.

One mile run: Rooney, Superior, first; Pulford, Duluth, second; Nimmo, Superior, third; time, 5:36 3-5.

Fifty yard dash: Ryan, Duluth, first; McGonagle Duluth, second; H. Buchanan, Superior, third; time 6 1-5.

Hammer throw: McDevitt, Duluth, first; Schmidt, Superior, second; Hare, Superior, third; distance, 99 feet.

200-yard dash: Ryan, Duluth, first; McGonagle, Duluth, second; Buchanan, Superior, third; time, 25 seconds.

Shot put: McDevitt, Duluth, first; Nelson, Duluth, second; Schmidt, Superior, third; distance, 35 feet 3 inches.

440-yard dash: Smith, Superior, first; Merritt, Duluth, second; Nelson, Duluth, third.

Pole vault: Jefferson, Duluth, first; Hanson, Superior, second; Ryan, Duluth, third; height, 9 feet 3 inches.

Half mile: Pulford, Duluth, first; Smith, Superior, second; Feldman, Duluth, third; time, 2:29.

Hig jump: McGonagle, Duluth, first; Clark, Superior, second; Helmer, Duluth, third; height, 5 feet.

Discus throw: Jefferson, Duluth, first; Halverson, Superior, second; McKinley, Duluth, third; distance, 72 feet 4 inches.

Running broad jump: Ryan, Duluth, first; McGonagle, Duluth, second; Dickson, Superior, third; distance, 18 feet 6 inches.

220 low hurdles: Clark, Superior, first; Helmer, Duluth, second; Jefferson, Duluth, third.

Total score: Duluth, 85; Blaine, 37.

EASY FOR LONGBOAT.

Canadian Indian Wins Three Mile Race at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 31.—Tom Longboat, the Ondagon Indian, of Toronto, Ont., easily defeated Frank Nebrich of Buffalo in a three mile foot race at Kenilmorth park yesterday. Nearly 10,000 spectators crowded the stands and overflowed the track. The pair simply jogged the first mile, then Longboat assumed the lead and kept it to the finish. In the last quarter Longboat sprinted, and Nebrich failed to meet it. Longboat was leading by thirty yards in the last sixteenth, when Nebrich quit. The time was 16:04 2-5.

PETER PAN IS WINNER

Big Money of Belmont Stakes Goes to Keene.

Superman Makes Grand Effort But Fails to Win.

New York, May 31.—Peter Pan, a sturdy son of the great Commando, defeated his half brother, Superman, by three lengths for the rich Belmont stakes at Belmont park yesterday. Both horses ran in the color of James R. Keene, and their success brought to the stable $23,000 and the handsome plate that each year is given the winner. Frank Gill, the big ungainly chestnut colt from the string of "Lucky Jack" McGinnis, was third. It is estimated that 40,000 persons saw the race. The Keene stable was the favorite in the betting.

The race over the mile and three furlongs was a heartbreaking one from start to finish. The time taken, 2:13 3-5, which the timer admitted is wrong, he having snapped his watch when Peter Pan was yet about 170 feet from the finish, shows, however, that the race was run in about 2:18, which would clip two seconds off the best time for the course, made by Burgomaster last year. Irish Lad holds the record, for the distance, 2:17 3-5 made at the Sheepshead track in 1904.

When the barrier flashed the five horses were off to the beautiful start. Out of the chute, into the course, darted Hickory, the green color of Raditke showing, with Paumonk at his withers and Peter Pan close up. Well in hand, half a length back ran Superman and Frank Gill.

When the furlong pole was reached Peter Pan, now well in stride, had taken the lead and was followed by Frank Gill. The pace was too hot for Paumonok and Hickory, and they fell back. Superman had moved into third place and still was being cleverly rated by Miller.

On the upper turn Frank Gill drew on even terms with Peter Pan and head and head they raced down to the final turn. Meantime Miller had let out a notch on Superman, and he closed in on the leaders with such a show of speed that the crowd, which hitherto had

FROZEN ON TOTE PATH

Body of Unfortunate Lumberjack Is Found Near Walker.

Came From Indiana and Perished During Last Winter.

Walker, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Boys fishing in the vicinity of Kabekena bay, on Leech lake, about three miles from Walker, stumbled across the body of a man partly buried by leaves and brush, near the lake shore.

Coroner Wilcox was notified, and later the body was brought to Walker.

Examination proved it to be that of a woodsman, but it was in such an advanced stage of decomposition as to be almost unrecognizable. On his person was found a hospital ticket, which gave his name as R. C. Clatt. Two letters were found in the coat pocket, one addressed from Hammond, Ind., and instructing the deceased to direct further correspondence to Whiting, Ind. Another letter, evidently from his wife or mother, addressed him in endearing terms, conveyed no information further than that of a business nature, making mention of the rentals received from their flat in Indiana. The coroner states that the body had, in all probability, been out all winter, and death must have occurred last fall. As the remains were near a tote path when discovered, it is the supposition that the man lost his way while making some lumber camp, and froze to death.

MARCONI AT CROOKSTON.

A Wireless Service to be Established Connecting With Duluth.

Crookston, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. N. Mayor and J. J. Kelley have arrived in Crookston from New York for the purpose of installing a complete Marconi wireless telegraph system. They represent a company which is installing wireless stations all over the United States, and the station here will connect with the wireless at Duluth and at St. Paul.

They will be able to compete with the telegraphic systems, and claim that they charge but half the rate charged by other companies. The plant which they will install in this city will cost about $1,600 and will be put in soon.

GRADUATES AT BAGLEY.

Schools Close at the County Seat of Clearwater County.

Bagley, Minn., May 31.—The commencement exercises in the public schools were held last night. There was but one graduate from the high school—Edward Ray Wright, who is also the first student to graduate from the high school, having completed the full course. As the high school will be on the accredited state high school list next year, a larger number of graduates is expected.

The grammar school had fourteen graduates, as follows:

Emma Barness, whose standing gave her the honor of being the salutatorian of her class; Hartvick Hanson, the valedictorian; George Courtney, Arthur Hanson, Raymond Brown, Waldemar Johnson, Mae Barragy, Jennie Sater, Emma Dokken, Elnora Arneson, Nines Simmons, Ole Olson, Arthur Lewis and Junla Nyleen.

REVISITING OLD SCENES.

Several Well-Known Railroad Men Renew Brainerd Acquaintances.

Brainerd, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—There has been quite a gathering of old-time Brainerd railroad men in this city this week. Arthur E. Wheatley, formerly superintendent of the Northern Pacific shops here, but for some time assistant mechanical superintendent of the Union Pacific railroad, has been visiting at the home of his wife's father. He left Wednesday for Schenectedy, N. Y., to assume the duties of assistant vice president of the American Locomotive works.

C. J. Husted, at one time an operator here and a dispatcher at Staples, but now chief dispatcher on the Oregon Short Line at Kemmerer, Wyo., is here with his wife visiting her relatives.

Ed O'Neil, an engineer on the Lake Superior division of the Northern Pacific prior to 1893, but now running out of Glendive, Mont., is also here with his wife visiting old-time friends.

The annual picnic of the employes of the Northern Pacific railroad at Brainerd, which up to last year has always been held on the Saturday following the June pay day, will be abandoned this year, as the company is unable to spare equipment for a special train, as has heretofore been done. The day will be observed, however, and the shops will be shut down, many of the men visiting surrounding lakes.

BRAINERD MINISTER BECOMES PROFESSOR.

Brainerd, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Theodore L. Rosholt, formerly pastor of the Norwegian-Danish Lutheran Church of Brainerd, has accepted the professorship of mathematics and science in Glenwood academy, Glenwood, Minn., and will leave with his family some time next month to assume the duties of his position.

The Norwegian Lutheran Church of East Long Lake will build a new edifice this season, and a farewell meeting will be held in the old church next Sunday. This will be an all-day meeting, and several pastors and former pastors will be present. It will be the last meeting held before the old church is demolished.

PRACTICAL JOKE CAUSES INSANITY

Boy Fastened In Cow Stanchion and Loses His Mind.

Arco, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—A young son of Carl Hanson, a local butcher, is said to have become insane as a result of a practical joke.

The boy was employed at the home of a farmer southwest of Tyler, and while with his employer in the barn he was induced by the offer of a dime to place his head in the stanchion, in which the cattle are confined at milking time. This was then closed by his employer and nailed shut. The boy was unable to release himself and remained there several hours. Later in the day the farmer remarked to his wife that he wanted her to go to the barn and inspect a new cow he had purchased. When she arrived there she found the boy senseless on the ground, his head still fast in the stanchion, his face deathly blue and with marks of a struggle on his neck. He was apparently lifeless, but recovered after being taken home. His mind has since been clouded, and for days he bellowed like a cow. No legal action has been taken against the "joker."

UNKNOWN BODY FOUND.

Zeb Gooselaw Makes a Grim Discovery in St. Vincent Fence Corner.

St. Vincent, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Zeb Gooselaw made a grim discovery while examining a fence here when he came across the body of a main lying in a corner of the fence, about six feet from the Red river. The body appeared to be that of a laborer, about 50 years old. A watch and gold chain were found in the clothing, but nothing to indicate the identity of the dead man. The cororenr is looking into the case.

ALL BEMIDJI PRESENT.

Eighth Grade School Commencement Fills the City Opera House.

Bemidji, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The graduating exercises of the eighth grade were held at the City Opera house Wednesday night, and were attended by a large crowd which taxed the capacity of the hall.

The exercises were opened by an invocation by Rev. Mr. Broomfield. The class salutatory, "Legends of the Mississippi," was given by Willie Naylor. Mary Klien gave the class history, which was replete with eposkies of class events. "Boy Patriots" was the subject of an address by Walter Puphal. Alice Huntosh followed with a reading. Gladys Brannon announced the class prophecy. The valedictory was by Vivian Dwyer, who had for her subject "Who Succeeds." Olive Cunningham and Callie Arnold played a piano duet in an artistic manner.

Supt. Ritchie then presented the diplomas to the members of the class. The "Good Night" song by the members of the class closed the exercises, after which Rev. Mr. Peart gave the benediction.

JOB SHORT LIVED; LA VALK DROWNS.

Walker, Minn., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—A man named LaVolk was drowned in Leech river, near the government dam, Tuesday. He was a resident of Ontario, Canada, and had been at work less than fifteen minutes when he fell into the water and was drowned. The body was brought to Walker.

NOT ARRESTED FOR RIEL REBELLION.

Crookston, Minn., May 31.—The story which has been going the rounds of the papers to the effect that Albert Monkman, "a lieutenant of Riel's," has been arrested in Winnipeg, caused much comment in the Canadian west, as Monkman has for some years been living on his homestead on the banks of the Saskatchewan, near the scene of his exploits of 1885. It is not known who originated the story. Even if he were arersted now it would be for some ordinary offense, as he has already served his time for high treason, but no such person has been arrested in Winnipeg.

HUNGER COMPELS HIM TO SURRENDER.

Sioux Falls, S. D., May 31.—Edward Wilson, serving a life sentence in the Sioux Falls penitentiary for murder committed in Moody county, who was supposed to have escaped from the penitentiary Monday of this week, has surrendered himself to the prison authorities. When he made his escape he fell, injuring his hip. He was too weak to climb over the wall. He took refuge behind some cement barrels in the power house, where he remained until hunger compelled him to surrender.

JEALOUS LOVER IS DECIDEDLY POOR SHOT.

Barron, Wis., May 31.—Frank Capparo of Cumberland, Wis., will probably plead guilty to assault with intent to kill. He had a fight with a rival, named Gorddlo, who was going home from church with Capparo's sweetheart. Beaten in the fight, Capparo went home and procured a rifle and fired twelve shots at his rival's house. Each of the bullets passed through the house, but no one was hit.

MAY REFORM THESE BOYS

An Ashland Judge Places Five Bad Youths Upon Probation.

Must Report to Court Every Saturday for Six Months.

Ashland, Wis., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge McCloud has adopted a novel, yet commendable method of dealing with the case of five boys who have given the authorities no end of trouble of late. He has placed them on probation for the next six months.

The court has ordered the youths to report to him every Saturday for the next six months. The judge will then and there pass upon their conduct for the past week, and at the end of six months, if their record warrant it, the charge of despoiling boats, powerhouses and mills of brass and iron, will be dismissed. Should any of them have charges filed against them in the meantime, the case will be pushed, and the reform school, or some other place of detention will yawn for them. In rendering this decision, Judge McCloud evidently took into consideration the fact, that they not only confessed their crimes, but gave information which led to the arrest and fine of the party to whom they sold their ill gotten gains.

DIED IN THE FAR WEST.

Dell Hugaboom of Ashland Passes Away at Forsyth, Montana.

Ashland, Wis., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Dell Hugaboom, who died at Forsyth, Mont., Monday, will take place at his home here this afternoon. The body was brought home by the dead man's son, Clarence, who was with him at the time of his death.

For the past fifteen or twenty years Dell Hugaboom has been a resident of Ashland. There was never a Republican caucus or convention, up to three or four years ago, that he was not prominent in it. He was a candidate for treasurer in 1901, in a four sided fight between Post Keenan, Arthur Nolty, Harry Higby and Mr. Hugaboom. From about 1890 to 1903, he was a delegate to nearly every convention held at Ashland. He had the reputation of being an honest, reliable man, and had few enemies. Two or three years ago he became afflicted with rheumatism, which reduced him to a shadow of his former self. He went to Montana last fall.

COULDN'T STAND IT.

Chicago Physician Takes Life Beside Wife's Grave In Wisconsin.

Waukesha, Wis., May 31.—Dr. J. K. Jamison of Chicago committed suicide by shooting at the grave of his wife at the Catholic cemetery in the town of Genesse. Dr. Jamison and Miss Ethel Gibson of this city were married about two years and a half ago and went to Chicago to reside. They were most devoted to each other, and Mrs. Jamison's death on Feb. 2 last was a great shock to her husband. Constant brooding over his wife's death is believed to have been the cause of the suicide.

SEVERAL SENTENCED BY WISCONSIN JUDGE.

Grand Rapids, Wis., May 31.—Before adjourning the term of court, Judge Webb passed sentence upon several who had been found guilty, or had pleaded guilty, as follows:

Albert Krutzz, five years in the penitentiary for criminally assaulting an 8-year-old girl, near Kellner station. Krutz was not tried for the offense, he having pleaded guilty immediately after his arrest. M. L. Ohnstadt, the Arpin well driver, three years in the penitentiary for having stolen some 20,000 cigars from the office of the Oftelie-Stonedahl Land company, at Pittsville. Ohnstadt broke down and cried like a child when sentence was passed upon him. It was his first offense. His accomplice, George Baker, pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary, and was given five years in the penitentiary. This will make the second time that he was sent to that institution. He took his sentence with a smile, and seemed indifferent to his surroundings.

WISCONSIN IN BRIEF

Ashland—William Goetzeenberger, one of the pioneer residents of Ashland, died at his residence in this city Monday morning, at the age of 74 years.

Eau Claire—Berger Kristofferson, aged 14, was fatally injured Thursday while stealing a ride on a freight train with two companions. Kristofferson fell from the top of a box car under the wheels of the train. Both of his legs were cut off and also his right arm.

Grand Rapids—Jack Sanderson, a hermit, who lived alone and apart from any near neighbors, near Linwood, was found dead in his bed. He had lived in the neighborhood of Linwood for upwards of twenty years, and was always considered a recluse.

La Crosse—The eastern district of the Norwegian Lutheran synod of the United States, comprising the territory between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic ocean, began a week's convention here Thursday, twenty-one states being represented.

Wonderful Eczema Cure.

"Our little boy had eczema for five years" writes N. A. Adams, Henrietta, Pa. "Two of our home doctors said the case was hopeless, his lungs being affected. We then employed other doctors, but no benefit resulted. By chance we read about Eclectric Bitters; bought a bottle and soon noticed improvement. We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy was completely cured." Best of all blood medicines and body building health tonics. Guaranteed at all drug stores. 50c.

UPPER MICHIGAN

IS KILLED IN OSCEOLA

Antone Sormin is Struck by Skip in Shaft Number Six of Mine.

Dead Man Neglected to Close Gate Leading Into Shaft.

Calumet, Mich., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Antone Sormin, who was killed in the Osceola mine, will be held tomorrow. He lost his life in shaft No. 6 of the Osceola, Monday, while two of his fellow workers narrowly escaped death.

It appears that the unfortunate man neglected to close the gate leading into the shaft. A skip passing shortly afterward smashed the gate. The men neglected signalling to the surface to have the skip stopped before proceeding to move the broken wreckage of the gate. They were engaged removing the debris when the skip came down, striking Sormin and killing him instantly. The jury at the inquest brought in a verdict of accidental death.

Antone Sormin was 22 years of age and single.

NEW MANAGERS OF ARLINGTON HOTEL.

Calumet, Mich., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas and John Shea, sons of the owner of the property where the Arlington hotel stands, will take over the management of this hotel. In all probability the new managers will put an addition to the building. This hotel is the largest in Calumet and, with the proposed alterations, it will be one of the best in the upper peninsula. The present building was erected in the early '90s. The present manager is Ed Merz.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Houghton—The friends in Houghton of Charles Spaulding of the Soo are agreeably surprised to hear that he has been appointed assistant superintendent at the government locks to fill the vacancy made by the death of John McNaughton.

Calumet—President Fitch of the Mineral Range railroad has communicated with the Calumet Businessmen's association to the effect that the request for reciprocal switching arrangements with the Copper Range railroad can now be granted. The matter will now be taken up with the interstate commerce commission at Washington, D. C.

Hancock—The delegates who will represent the local courts of Foresters of America at the session of the grand court to be held at Detroit next week, will leave Sunday. The delegates from Court Pride are W. V. Barkell, Frank Blyth and Marmaduke Trebilcock and from the other court, P. J. Verville, O. Hacine and Charles Auger.

Houghton—Mrs. F. W. Sinclair and daughter left yesterday afternoon for a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Sinclair's parents in Kansas City.

SHOT IN LEG.

West End Boy Injured by 22-Calibre Rifle.

William Berg, a 14-year-old West end boy was accidentally shot through the leg just below the knee yesterday by a 22-calibre rifle in the hands of Hugo Edden with whom he was hunting near the end of the Highland car line. The two boys had started out early in the afternoon to look for a small game in this vicinity and were walking along together when young Edden started to load his gun. In some manner the weapon was discharged just as he was snapping it together again. The bullet pierced Berg's leg and he sank to the ground.

He was assisted to the car line by his terror-stricken friend and taken home. The wound is not thought to be at all dangerous, and the lad will probably be as well as ever in a week or two.

TO DECIDE ON PAVING

Grand Forks Council Will Settle Matter at Today's Meeting.

Committee Back From Calumet and Said to Favor Blome.

Grand Forks N D., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council is expected to reach a decision tonight on the paving question. The committee that visited Calumet, Mich., to look over the paving at Red Jacket and other places, is said to be more than ever in favor of the Blome paving. According to the committee's figures, the difference in the cost of this paving and others recommended by those not posted on the subject will be, including interest, about $75,000.

Among other things the committee examined Blome paving, which has been laid for ten years and found it in excellent shape. The trip to Calumet was an interesting one. The committee saw 50,000 square yards of Blome paving laid there and failed to find a single citizen who was not a strong endorser of that kind of paving.

The committee seems to think that the people are not aware of the facts in the case and do not fully understand the merits of the paving which it recommends.

MANY WANT PARDONS.

North Dakota Board Will Have Lot of Applications to Consider.

Bismarck, N. D., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the state board of pardons meets here June 3, there will be twenty-five or thirty applications for pardons to be considered.

Among the applications will probably be that of Joseph Till, convicted a number of years ago for murdering a man named miller in Pembina county. The Austrian consul at Chicago is interested in the case and will probably be present when the hearing is held. William H. Martell of Grand Forks, a negro, who killed another man and was sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment, is another applicant for pardon and there is the usual number of applications from prisoners who find it interesting to file applications at nearly every board meeting in the hope that some ray of good fortune may light their way to a pardon.

FARMERS' BIG MEETING.

North Dakota Agriculturists to Gather at Mandan June 24.

Mandan, May 31.—The big three-day meeting of farmers, dairymen and stockgrowers, to be held in Mandan June 24, 25 and 26, will be one of the largest of its kind ever held on the slope. A partial program of the event has been arranged.

On the first day there will be a meeting of the North Dakota Live Stock association, at 10 o'clock, with Prof. W. B. Richards in charge. In the afternoon there will be a farmers' institute.

On Tuesday, the second day, there will be a farmers' institute during the entire day. Some of the ablest speakers in the Northwest have been secured for the institute sessions.

On the last day the dairymen will have full sway. At 10 o'clock the first meeting will be held, and Assistant Dairy Commissioner R. F. Flint will be in charge. The subjects to be taken up are numerous. All of them, however, will be very interesting. There will also be a butter competition and three prizes are to be awarded. In the afternoon the prize winners will tell how they made their butter.

NORTH DAKOTA MEET OF EPISCOPALIANS.

Fargo, N. D., May 31.—The three days' session of the convention of the Episcopal church of North Dakota, here, has ended. The attendance was large, and the interest greater than in past years.

The finances of the church over the state are in fairly good condition, and the interest in church work has increased greatly during the past year.

The following delegates were elected to the conference of the sixth missionary department of the church: Rev. S. Currle of Park River; Archdeacon Jones of Bismarck, Dr. A. M. Deed of Rolla, Rev. E. C. Johnson of Devils Lake, Rev. G. P. Burleson of Langdon, R. B. Blakemore of Fargo, W. S. Port of Casselton, Elbert Webber of Tower, Col A. P Peake of Valley City, and F. E. Luche of Mandan.

An appropriation was made for the girl's dormitory at the Valley City normal, and an appropriation was made for Secretary Burleson of Grand Forks.

The committee on memorials reported and tributes were paid to the life and work of Rev. H. J. Sheridan, Rev. Charles Turner of Larrimore, Rev. H. N. Harrison of Pembina, Hon. Seth Newman of Fargo, and Hon. B. S. Russell of Jamestown, all of whom died during the past year.

DAKOTAS IN BRIEF

Grand Forks, N. D.—In the case of James B. Smith against the Northern Pacific railway, tried in the United States district court, the jury returned a verdict of $1,291.58. Smith was injured while on a train.

Benoit, N. D.—The elevator which the Crookston and Red Lake Falls Milling company lost by fire at Benoit some years ago is to be rebuilt this summer and will be ready to receive the crop this fall.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Tuesday afternoon at the university the speakers for commencement were selected. There were eight contestants, the faculty members acting as judges. The five successful speakers are Helen Shanley, Hazel Barrington, Harry Cooper, J. F. Conmy and J. F. T. O'Connor.

Bathgate, N. D.—John B. Chale, an old resident of Pembina county, died at his home in Winnipeg Friday night, May 24, at the age of 63 years and 4 days, of heart failure.

Larimore, N. D.—Charles M. Flett of Larimore has received notice from headquarters at Washington of his having passed the required examination for admission to Annapolis and will leave during the month of June for the academy.

North Dakota.—As a result of his having been struck by a piece of rock, while at work for Contractor Duncan, laying a foundation, Joseph Fletcher was obliged to have his right eye removed in a Grand Forks hospital. A glass eye was put in its place.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Roselle Knott in "Alice-sit-by-the-fire."
METROPOLITAN—Long Stock company.
BIJOU—High-class Vaudeville.

Roselle Knott.

Miss Knott, now appearing in the character of Alice-sit-by-the-fire, is a society woman, a home woman, a mother, and one who has made a study of the character which Mr. Barrie writes about. She is said to have secured a perfect conception of of th role she assumes, and presents to her audiences what the critics have been pleased to designate "a perfect performance." She is well supported in her work by a company of merit, including Eric Blind, the well-known English actor, who had been a member of the late Sir Henry Irving's company for several seasons; Robinson Newbold, Ernest Truex, Miss Grace Gibbons, Miss Viola Knott, Mrs. Codrington-Webber, Miss Molly Diskin and others equally well and favorably known.

In presenting Miss Knott in "Alice-sit-by-the-fire," Manager Shipman accomplishes a piece of theatrical work which began more than a year ago, and was never without its troublesome features. Three times has Manager Shipman endeavored to arrange for Miss Knott's appearance in the famous piece Miss Ellen Terry was originally seen in in Europe, but he did not succeed until this year.

Saturday Matinee.

The usual bargain matinee will be given tomorrow afternoon at the Bijou for school children. Record-breaking holiday crowds packed the popular theater yesterday, and seemed thoroughly pleased with the strong bill presented this week.

THE GERMAN WAY.

Translated for "Transatlantic Tales," from Wochenblatt: Prior to the last solar eclipse the colonel of a German regiment of infantry sent for his sergeants and observed: "There will be an eclipse of the sun tomorrow. The regiment will meet on the parade grounds in undress uniform. I will come and explain the eclipse before drill. If the day is cloudy the men will meet in the drill shed as usual." Whereupon the sergeants drew up the following order of the day: "Tomorrow morning, by order of the colonel, there will be an eclipse of the sun. The regiment will assemble on parade ground where the colonel will come and superintend the eclipse in person. If the sky is cloudy, the eclipse will take place in the drill shed."

DOCTOR'S ALL AGREE THIS TIME.

The most eminent writers on Materia Medica, whose works are consulted as authorities and guides in prescribing by physicians of all the different schools of practice, extol, in the most positive terms, the curative virtues of each and every ingredient entering into Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. In fact it is the only medicine, put up for sale through druggists for the cure of all diseases of the mucous surfaces, as nasal catarrh, throat, laryngeal, and bronchial affections attended by lingering, or hang-on-coughs that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any amount of lay or non-professional testimonials.

Do not expect too much from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will not work miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. Nor is the "Discovery" so good for a sudden attack of acute cough, but for the lingering, obstinate, hang-on-coughs, accompanying catarrhal, throat, laryngeal and bronchial affections, it is a most efficacious remedy. In cases accompained with wasting of flesh, night-sweats, weak stomach and poor digestion with faulty assimilation, and which, if neglected or badly treated are apt to lead to consumption, the "Discovery" has proven wonderfully successful in effecting cures.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, bitter or sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, ulves and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the care of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by enclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R.V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value.

Some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for healing ulcerations, regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

It's an insult to your intelligence for a dealer to endeavor to palm off upon you as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, ulves and other manifestations of impure blood. "just as good," or even better. You can hardly afford to accept a substitute of unknown composition and without any particular record of cures in place of Dr. Pierce's medicines which are OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and have a record of forty years of cures behind them. You know what you want and it is the dealer's business to supply that want. Insist upon it.

With tricky dealers it is different.

Something else that pays them a little greater profit will be urged upon you as

S.S.S. A CERTAIN SAFE TREATMENT

Even if mercury and potash could cure Contagious Blood Poison the condition in which these strong minerals leave the system would make the "cure worse than the disease." But they cannot cure the vile disorder; they can only cover up the symptoms for awhile or mask the disease in the system, but as soon as the treatment is left off the hideous symptoms return. Mercury and potash eat out the delicate lining of the stomach and bowels, produce chronic dyspepsia by drying up the gastric juices, cause the teeth to decay, and often completely break down the constitution, and where they are used in large quantities, the bones become affected, while the disease for which one has so long taken this destructive treatment has not been cured. Contagious Blood Poison is a disease it will not do to trifle with. It is a vile, dangerous and destructive disorder. When the blood becomes infected with its virus the mouth and throat ulcerate, hair and eyebrows come out, glands in the neck and groin swell, copper-colored spots appear on the flesh, and in severe cases sores break out on the body, the finger nails drop off and the sufferer is diseased from head to foot. S. S. S. is the only known antidote for Contagious Blood Poison—the one remedy that is able to get to the root of the disease and force out every particle of the poison so that there are never any signs of its return. It is purely vegetable, made entirely from roots, herbs and barks of known curative value. Instead of leaving bad after-effects as some medicines do, S. S. S. tones up every part of the system and puts every part of the body in perfect health. It will also remove any lingering effects of former mineral treatment while eradicating the poison from the circulation. Special book on the home treatment of this disease and any medical advice desired furnished free to all who write.

NEW STEAMER THOMAS F. COLE GIVEN ROYAL WELCOME TO HER HOME PORT

NEW STEAMER THOMAS F. COLE PASSING THROUGH THE PIERS.

Magnificent was the welcome given the monster new leviathan of the Great Lakes, the steamer Thomas F. Cole, the new addition to the fleet of the Pittsburg Steamship company, when she steamed into her new harbor and her home port for the first time yesterday afternoon. The Cole is the largest vessel on fresh water and the largest exclusive freight handler in the world.

The people of Duluth of all classes turned out to pay tribute to the great craft and to the man for whom she was named, the head of the Oliver Mining company and one of Duluth's foremost citizens. The piers at the entrance to the ship canal were lined with a throng of citizens anxious to catch a first glimpse of the monster ship and hundreds more had gathered at the dock at the foot of Sixth avenue west where the steamer tied up after entering the harbor.

Nearly 400 of Duluth's representative citizens were taken to Two Harbors on the special train yesterday morning to meet the new steamer at that point and a number of Two Harbor people joined the party which then boarded the vessel lying at the ore dock. The boat had arrived at Two Harbors early yesterday morning and had been waiting for the receiving party for several hours.

The special train which left the union depot at Duluth at 8:45, consisted of three day coaches and one baggage and smoking car. The First Regiment band occupied the first coach and the invited guests and officials of the road occupied the second. The third car was reserved for the ladies.

Dimensions of the Boat.

The actual length of the steamer Thomas F. Cole is 605½ feet, which is six inches longer than the next largest vessel on the lakes. She was launched several months ago at the yard of the Great Lakes Engineering works, Detroit, and is 58 feet beam, 32 feet moulded depth. She has a triple expansion engine, 24, 39 and 65 by 42-inch stroke. Her two boilers are 15 feet 4½ inches in diameter and 11 feet 6 inches long. She has some of the most powerful pumps on board any of the lake boats, and every part of her machinery is of the latest and most improved pattern. One of the lunovations on the new steamer is modern automatic refrigerator system, which does away with the necessity of carrying ice even in midsummer, and keeps the cold storage room at the freeizng point continually.

Up forward on the steamer the fittings are most handsome, and the officers' quarters almost palatial. There is room for the accommodation of eight passengers on this magnificent craft, and the staterooms are well equipped and finished handsomely in white. The pilothouse, which is entirely covered over, is a large, commodious room, with windows on every side. There are many novel features which can be found in this little room, and it was a popular place for the visitors. One dense has been spared to make the steamer the finest on the lakes and every improvement in the art of shipbuilding has been added to this new craft.

THOMAS F. COLE.

briefly on behalf of Mayor Cullum, who found it impossible for him to make the trip, in welcoming the steamer and her captain and crew.

Mr. Fesler Speaks.

"I consider it a great honor," said he, "to be called upon to take such a responsibility of welcoming this great ship to her home port. It was only a pressing engagement which prohibited the mayor from being present on this occasion, and I am somewhat reluctant to take the responsibility of speaking in his place. But when I started out on this trip I made up my mind that I was going to bring this boat safely into port, or it wouldn't be my fault.

"The arrival of this carrier to this port means much to us and the whole of the lake district. I wish merely to express the feelings of myself and other Duluth people in welcoming this great leviathan home. It is only just and fitting that she should be known by the name of our foremost citizen. I welcome this great steamer, Thomas F. Cole, to the Duluth harbor, and I welcome her master, Capt. Morgan, may they both sail these great lakes many years and visit the port of Duluth numberless times in the future."

Captain Is Called.

Mr. Fesler's remarks were loudly cheered, and then Capt. Morgan was called to the stand and delivered a neat speech, thanking Mr. Fesler and others on the boat for the warm welcome extended him and his ship.

"The idea of calling on an old shellback like me for a speech," said the captain. "You should not expect a man of no more education than I obtained in the little log cabin home in which I was brought up, to deliver a speech when there are so many eloquent men all around you. But I want to thank you all for the warmth of this welcome to Duluth, and I am thankful to the city attorney for giving us the opportunity of coming into your harbor. I hope this boat and myself may repeat this trip to your city many times in the future."

Three thundering cheers and a tiger were given for the genial captain, after which calls for Thomas F. Cole were made. Mr. Cole appeared to be in an excellent frame of mind, and had been enjoying himself on the boat which has been named in his honor, like a schoolboy out on a frolic.

Mr. Cole's Remarks.

"It is needless for me to tell you," said Mr. Cole, "of the great pleasure it gives me to note the many who accepted the invitation of the Pittsburg Steamship company to take the trip to Two Harbors to welcome this new boat of our and to help bring it in port. The hearty feeling of cordiality evidenced by you all toward myself and my family pleases me more than anything else. This is a splendid boat, and I am more than pleased with it. I'll say to Capt. Morgan that he has the finest vessel to sail on the lake, and I am glad to know him."

The crowd again gave three cheers for Mr. Cole and were then asked to assemble on the lower deck where the band was about to play patriotic music, and the members of the party were asked to sing. The band had made the trip of the big boat a pleasant one by playing intermittently, and when it struck up the familiar patriotic airs the guests joined in singing them.

Passing Boats Salute.

Several steamers had passed the Cole and at each passing the salute of whistles were exchanged by the captains. When the boat was opposite Seventeenth avenue east on which Mr. Cole's home is situated, another salute was given in honor of Mrs. Cole and son, Fred, who had been unable to make the trip on acocunt of sickness of the latter. The flag on the ship was also dipped in honor of the Cole family on shore.

As the steamer passed through the canal entrance the hundreds of citizens lined up on the piers welcomed her with a loud cheer. The salute of the numerous other steamers in all parts of the harbor resounded for many minutes and just inside the canal the big boat was met by a boatload of marine militia boys from the Gopher who gave the customary salute. After the vessel had been tied up at the Northern Pacific dock at the foot of Sixth avenue and those on board had descended the crowd on shore climbed over her sides and inspected her and all the improvements. All the afternoon there was a steady stream of visitors going on board the vessel.

Among those who had the affair in charge and were prominent in making it the success that it proved to be were Herbert W. Brown of the Pittsburg office and G. A. Tomlinson, prominent in marine circles at the Head of the Lakes.

List of Guests.

Those to whom the Pittsburg Steamship company extended invitations to make the trip to Two Harbors and return on the new boat were as follows: Thomas F. Cole, Messrs. and Mesdames W. J. Olcott, P. Chicago Inter-Ocean: Among the fifty-seven varieties of rumors which have sprung up over night since John W. Gates withdrew from active participation in the blither gambols of Wall street is one which relieves the tensity of strain on the souls who feared that John had lingered too long, and that his pockets on the call could show only a few tobacco crumbs. According to this new rumor, which involves Charles G. Gates, his son, the Gateses have passes up Wall street for a royal preserve—no unpardonable reference here to any of the fifty-seven varieties.

The rumor goes along North State street and Dearborn avenue, up and down Lake Shore drive, and criss-cross over the South side, that John and Charles Gates have leased a hunting estate in France, a preserve which was originally stocked by a king of France, and over whose broad acres the king used to ride madly to the hunt.

Wild bores and wolves are the untamed game which the Gateses according to the latest rumor, will pursue over courses once pressed by royal heels. The motor cars which Charlie Gates owns are going over with him, among that rippling specimen which Mrs. John Kling raffled of at $5 a chance at the never-to-be-forgotten streets of Paris, irresistible in her brown silk frock and her brown silk hat, whose diameter was two feet and whose circumference equaled the height of a strong man. Charlie Gates threw 200 times which makes a cool thousand he paid for the machine, and he has five others in his garage. But, luckily, the man whose bank account permitted him to be wheedled 200 times by little Mrs. Kling into taking a chance on anything. Perhaps the royal hunting grounds have a royal path to the wild boars and wolves over which a modern car may safely speed.

and steamship company the remaining three cars. About half of the party was composed of women, wives or friends of the gentlemen and it was a gala and jolly crowd which was carried over the Duluth & Iron Range route to Two Harbors.

The trip to Two Harbors was enjoyed by all on the train, although to most of them it was a familiar journey. Shortly after the arrival of the special at the north shore town, a procession of the members of the party and a number of Two Harbors citizens started down to the dock and boarded the boat. All had boarded the monster steamer at about 10:30 and the signal was given to loose her from the dock.

Parting Salute.

When the boat was released from the dock and the tug began to back her out of the harbor a great salute of whistles was given the steamer and the guests on board. Every boat in the harbor lent its aid in making the salute a fitting one for the occasion and the locomotives on shore and on the ore docks took it up until the noise of the combined whistling was deafening. As the breakwater was passed by the big steamer, the lighthouse keeper blew his foghorn and his warning bell in honor of the event.

Once fairly outside the entrance at Two Harbors, the tug left the Cole, which then turned slowly around until she was heading for Duluth when her great propeller began to stir up the water at the rear and the trip to the Head of the Lakes had begun. The vessel was not run at full speed as those in charge wished to give the visiting party a chance to make a thorough inspection of the boat and understand its many improvements and advantages.

Guides were distributed and the guests were shown through all parts of the magnificent boat, which is not only the largest vessel on the lakes but is fitted out in the finest style. No expense has been spared to make the steamer the finest on the lakes and every improvement in the art of shipbuilding has been added to this new craft.

Dimensions of the Boat.

The actual length of the steamer Thomas F. Cole is 605½ feet, which is six inches longer than the next largest vessel on the lakes. She was launched several months ago at the yard of the Great Lakes Engineering works, Detroit, and is 58 feet beam, 32 feet moulded depth. She has a triple expansion engine, 24, 39 and 65 by 42-inch stroke. Her two boilers are 15 feet 4½ inches in diameter and 11 feet 6 inches long. She has some of the most powerful pumps on board any of the lake boats, and every part of her machinery is of the latest and most improved pattern. One of the lunovations on the new steamer is modern automatic refrigerator system, which does away with the necessity of carrying ice even in midsummer, and keeps the cold storage room at the freeizng point continually.

Up forward on the steamer the fittings are most handsome, and the officers' quarters almost palatial. There is room for the accommodation of eight passengers on this magnificent craft, and the staterooms are well equipped and finished handsomely in white. The pilothouse, which is entirely covered over, is a large, commodious room, with windows on every side. There are many novel features which can be found in this little room, and it was a popular place for the visitors. One of these is an automatic whistling system, arranged to blow three short blasts every ten seconds during a fog. The new submarine signalling system, now being generally adopted on the lakes, has also been installed on this vessel.

Lunch Served.

Toward noon, when the journey to Duluth had been half completed, the signal was given that lunch was being served in the private dining room of the ship, and the guests flocked to the lower deck to partake of sandwiches and coffee in genuine picnic style. Cigars had been passed around to the gentlemen previously, and the captain's sideboard was at the service of those in the party who wished to partake of the refreshment. In charge at the sideboard was "The Hindoo Taneynes," who was as popular as any man on the boat during the homeward trip to Duluth.

After the visitors had been satisfied with the various forms of refreshments, they again began the inspection of the boat. The pilothouse, where the master of the vessel, Capt. J. W. Morgan, held forth, was at all times a popular place. Capt. Morgan last year sailed in the steamer Princeton of the Pittsburg company, and is one of the old-timers on the lakes. He first began his career as a mariner in 1864, in one of the early style of lake boats. The change from the little vessel in which he first shipped, and the great steamer of which he is now master, is a wonderful one, indeed.

When Duluth was distant about three miles, the guests were assembled in the fore part of the vessel, and the formal exercises, welcoming the steamer and her captain to Duluth, were enacted. Herbert W. Brown, local agent of the Pittsburg Steamship company, introduced City Attorney Bert Fesler, who spoke

POOR BABY'S FACE ITCHED TERRIBLY

Face and Neck Covered with Inflamed Skin -- Suffered Terribly —Mother Took Her to Doctors and Colleges to No Avail—Lost Faith in Medicines—Friend Suggested Cuticura Remedies and

CHILD IS NOW THE PICTURE OF HEALTH

"My baby's face and neck were covered with itching skin similar to eczema, and she suffered terribly for over a year. I took her to a number of doctors, and also to different colleges to no avail. Then Cuticura Remedies were recommended to me by Miss G—, who was telling me how they helped her. I did not use it at first, as I had tried so many other remedies without any favorable results. At last I tried Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent Pills, and to my surprise noticed an improvement. After using three boxes of the Cuticura Ointment, together with the Soap and Pills, I am pleased to say she is altogether a different child and the picture of health, and now I have a firm belief in Cuticura Remedies and would not be without them in the house. I will gladly let you publish this testimonial as I would like others to have the same benefit that we did, and you may be sure I will recommend them strongly to everybody I know and to those I don't know, too. Mrs. A. C. Brestlin, 171 N. Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 20 and 30, 1906."

CONCERNING WOMEN.

There isn't anything on earth like adaptability.

The governor strolled into The Herald office this morning. The Women's corner palpitated and the person who was going to be shook hands with very pleasantly in a moment or two, began to say the preamble to the constitution of the United States rapidly to herself in order to bolster up her courage and not get excited over the event and remember the equality of all men and that sort of thing. It goes like this: "We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, etc."

It is disgressing, of course, but here is a tip that will enable people to enter the presence of greatness without dying of fright. Say the preamble to the constitution of the United States. It has such a nice big mouth filling sound. "We, the people of the United States," just fairly roll it out and nothing will daze you. The governor approached and shook hands pleasantly and was for passing on when he heard the mutter "insure domestic tranquility," which place in the preamble of the constitution the agitated women's department had just reached.

"What's that?" inquired Mr. Johnson.

"It's the only thing that doesn't exist when housecleaning and preserving time is on," said the women's department.

"I think," said Governor Johnson "that housecleaning is quite essential—quite essential—to the household economic plan. Don't you think so?" he inquired earnestly. He inquired so very earnestly that it precluded the possibility of just agreeing with him pleasantly. One seemed impelled to give one's honest opinion.

"I-I-d-on't know what 'household economic' is," said the person who was questioned.

"Oh! That's nothing," said the governor easily. "I don't either, but it sounds all right, doesn't it? I approve of housecleaning because it is accomplished when I am not there. It is progress and wherever we find progress or can bring it, it is a vital and most essential thing. Housecleaning makes a condition in which people can live with greater ease and pleasure. Possibly not for me but for the person who institutes the cleaning. The house should be regulated in order that the women of it may live with the greatest ease and comfort and pleasure. We, many of us, have dust in our offices, but when we go home we don't insist upon it because most women live with greater freedom and happiness without it. The attitude of man in the home is another thing about which I feel most strongly. Men should not go home in a recumbent mental attitude. They should be as ready to discuss, pleasantly and intelligently the questions and matters of the day there as they have been abroad with business associates and casual acquaintances."

Hurrah for the governor.

I have no patience with the men who are affable and pleasant and interesting while abroad all day and who take the paper and relax entirely as soon as their house door closes them in. The poor soul across the table from him stands in silence as long as she can and then says timidly: "Say, dear, what do you think of the advisability of establishing——" "Yes, certainly," says "dear" in reply. Silence may reign again for half an hour or longer and then the hopeful creature thinking to make a cultured companion out of this boorish individual inquires gently. "Why don't you talk a little? You sit there engrossed in your paper, and I haven't a notion whether you have a head or not. Why don't you say something to me? And he, then, with the air of a martyr, casts aside his paper and says: "Oh, yes. To be sure. How are you this evening?"

"The heart of this question," continued the governor who was warming up to the subject, "lies in the training," and then he was called away.

Oh, for a few schools for the training of husbands and prospective husbands with a man of such ideas at the head!

ROSELLE KNOTT,
In "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire."

Personal Mention.

Miss Marion Klerin, 2820 West Second street, left yesterday for St. Paul where she will visit her sister for a few days and witness the laying of the cornerstone of the new cathedral.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Bemis left yesterday for Minneapolis where they will spend Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

"VIOLA" HER SUBJECT.

Roselle Knott a Most Enthusiastic Mother.

Miss Roselle Knott won't talk about anything but Viola.

Viola is her daughter. A delightful young 17-year-older, who is with her mother this year playing Amy in "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire." Amy is the daughter of Alice, so the stage situation but carries out the existence of life between these charming people. Miss Knott is charming to meet, most gracious and willing to talk—about Viola. "I am very reasonable about this matter," says Miss Knott, after dilating on the charms of Viola for some minutes. "It isn't because she is my daughter, you undersand, but Viola has had very fine educational advantages, and then she is really a student, and she looks at things with such an insight that it often surprises me. She is a worker, too, and I think I look at this as an unprejudiced person."

The interviewer would have liked to talk about Miss Knott's plans for next season, or her ideas of Barrie plays, or something like that, but Viola had the floor. "Is the stage the thing you would have chosen for her?" Miss Knott was asked."

"So long as I can be with her," said Viola's mother. "And, of course, I can be, for I will step away from stardom if she developes talent and ability of remarkable degree and be with her, and travel with and watch her." These words of motherly devotion were interrupted by a young person entering hurriedly. "Mother," she said. "I—oh, I beg your pardon, shall I go away?" She was invited to stay. This was Viola. She wore a little costume of blue, with a wide blue hat, trimmed in plaid ribbon.

"I've been shopping," she announced, and got this waist at quite a bargain. It was a sample waist, and a small size, so I got it cheap. Do you like it, Mother?" Mother approved.

Miss Knott is a great success in "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire," for like all of Barrie's things, there is in the play an undercurrent of something that the mere words do not bring out. In this play it is the mother love, which this woman has in a most remarkable degree, and the impossible thing would be not to show it. Duluth will see this delightful mother and daughter in the charming play during this week end.

TEACHER TO RETURN.

Mrs. McCurdy Again Engaged for Summer Cooking School.

Mrs. Emily McCurdy of Chicago will be the teacher of the summer school of domestic science, which will be maintained again this year by the Women's Council. The school is established in the basement of the Adams' school, and equipment for a class of twenty is installed. The school was started two years ago, with Mrs. McCurdy as the teacher, and the women who were closely identified with her work during the two sessions are delighted that she is again to be in charge. The session for 1907 will begin in July, and last during July and August. Last year 120 pupils were accommodated with two lessons a week, and it is planned to care for as many or more this summer.

To Speak Sunday.

Mrs. Abbey Snell Burnell, who has has been heard in her interesting recital of high caste womanhood of India, will be the speaker Sunday evening at the First Baptist church. At that time Mrs. Burnell will present her impersonation of "Menarchee." Mrs. Burnell was a speaker today at the missionary meeting at the First Methodist church, and the subject of her recital was the story of Chundra Lella. The recitals are given in the first person, and Mrs. Burnell wears the native costume of the women of the Far Eastern country. Many who have not heard her during the week are pleased at this opportunity.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Pineapple, 15 to 25 cents each.

Strawberries, 15 cents a box; $3.40 a case, or

Strawberries, 18 cents a box; $4.20 a case.

New potatoes, 40 cents a peck.

Green onions, 3 bunches for 25 cents.

Roasts and chickens.

Everything is cheaper, and the marketer for Sunday who has in the few previous weeks hesitated about which one of the luxuries will give the most satisfaction, need hesitate no longer. Cucumbers and pineapples and green onions and strawberries, not to mention new potatoes, are within reasonable stretching distance.

It is preserving time for pineapples, and the clever grocer is already beginning to put enticing signs on the price of strawberries per case, in order to bamboozle people into ordering cases. Maybe the majority of housewives won't begin to preserve yet for awhile, but they will think about it and talk about it for several weks before the real work begins.

There is still a luxury in the market about which one may cast one's dreams of pampered plutocracy. They are cantaloupes, spicily fragrant, nice, ripe, expensive, delicious cantaloupes.

Strawberries are nice, and pineapples are good, but it needed just the first importation of those lucious little melons to make one realize that a cantaloupe surrounded by a little platter of ice, a shake of salt, and a cup of coffee to make one supremely happy. It will not be yet, however, for a good many people must of necessity wait until the price is down to about 50 cents for half a bushel.

How to Wash Blankets

By HELEN HOWE.

To wash blankets so that they will best preserve their freshness is a matter of importance to a woman whose income does not permit of her sending them to the cleaners. One hesitates to destroy the new softness and the most careful cleaning at home is bound to take away from this a little, but to put away heavy blankets for the season with the accumulated dust of winter's use is even worse.

Necessary to a successful result in this cleansing is that the drying day shall be a good one. Some persons prefer a sunny day and others one that is windy, there being merely a difference of opinion as to which is the quicker for drying. A combination of sun and wind is desirable.

For this laundrying all small pieces of soap should be saved, and from then; a jelly prepared the day before the blankets are washed.

Shred a quarter of a pound of soap in a jug and pour on it a quart of boiling water. Stir the mixture until the soap is dissolved, add two tablespoonfuls of liquid ammonia, and set the jug aside to cool. The amount of jelly to be used depends upon the degree of hardness of the water.

With a water of medium hardness, half the quantity mentioned is sufficient to make a good lather in a tub of warm water. Prepare the lather by stirring the soap jelly in a little hot water, and then add more water until the whole is just lukewarm.

Take the blankets out of doors and give them a good shake, so that no dust remains, for if this is neglected the work of the blanket washing is doubled. Place in the water and leave them to soak for ten minutes. Then begin the cleansing process, which consists of kneading and squeezing rather than rubbing.

The blankets should be washed in two separate tubfuls of water, and then after a moment's immersion in clear warm water they should be wrung as dry as possible, shaken so as to raise the nap and hung up to dry.

Some experienced housekeepers will tell you that blankets should never be wrung, as it destroys their shape, and a professional laundress assures me that it is better to take them dripping wet and hang on the line without even attempting to squeeze. The water will run off of its own accord, and from time to time the blankets may be shaken on the line to help keep their softness.

One day's drying is not enough. They should be put back on the line the next day, and have a thorough sunning to prevent the least possible dampness remaining.

To make most secure from moths sew them into bundles. Do this by wrapping compactly and putting camphor or tar balls at each end. Then wrap unbleached muslin tightly about and close to prevent the intrusion of any pest.

Done up in this way will be quite secure and fresh for next winter.

MUDDY RIVER FISH STORY.

San Antonio Express: Several negroes came into the city the other day from the northern section of the city with long strings of fish.

They report that the rise in the river caused its water to get so muddy that the fish were forced to the top in order to get air, as the water was too impure to allow them to breathe sufficiently. The negroes report that they took sacks, nets and in some instances used merely their hands to scroop the fish out onto the banks of the stream.

FEEDING TREE TRUNKS.

Paris Cosmos: Mr. Simon, owner of an estate at Allaire, Morbihan, France, having proved that the death of numerous apletrees was the result of an affection of the rootlets, rendering them unable to draw from the ground the elements necessary for the life of the tree, conceived the idea of artificial nutrition by injecting directly into the trunk a liquid that might replace the sap.

The results were very satisfactory, and other trees, and even cabbages, cauliflowers and potatoes, have been similarly treated.

The fame of our Columbia $3.50 Shoes is spreading every day. Every casual buyer is turned into a regular customer and, as well satisfied people will do, helps to spread the fame of Columbia $3.50 Shoes by talking in their favor, which is the best of all advertising.

The trick is easy enough and it applies to most articles sold at the Columbia store. We give the people more for their money than other dealers do, or in other words, we are satisfied with less profit, depending upon the larger quantity we sell by coming out right at the end of a year.

Wear the Columbia $3.50 Shoes. They satisfy every inch of the foot.

PANTS SALE NOW ON

We don't make a noise unless there's something to holler about. We are hollering "Pants at $2.98" this week, because we started in this morning with fully five hundred Pants Bargains on our counter—"bargains" in the best sense of the much-abused word.

Our buyer secured the big lot for little more than half of what they are worth and we sell 'em in the same way. Most all of them are $5 Pants—some $6 and $7, and a few only $4 values, and there are enough to make the sale last for a few days.

CITY BRIEFS

Discuss Teachers' Salaries.

A meeting of the Commerical club municipal committee is being held this afternoon, and the question of school teachers' salaries is to be discussed. It is contended that the teachers should be paid better salaries. In the independent school district of Duluth the maximum for teachers of the sixth grade and under is $75 a month for nine months and for the seventh and eighth grades $77.50 for nine months. Up to two years ago the teachers received pay for ten months' work, but it was at that time decided to cut off one month's pay, or 10 per cent of the year's salary.

County Board Meeting Soon.

The next regular meeting of the county board will occur June 7. The board has set a number of hearings on road petitions for that date, also some hearings for the organization of new towns. It is expected that several applications will be presented for liquor licenses and renewals of the same and some of the tax matters that remain will likely be cleaned up at the June meeting.

Last Day for Licenses.

Any one caught selling milk after today without a license will be liable to prosecution. They will not only be liable, but they will be prosecuted, according to Deputy Dairy and Food Inspector Bennett, who says that steps will be taken to see that the law is strictly enforced in this particular. Everybody selling milk has been given fair warning that it will be necessary to procure a license, and they will have no excuse for selling without one.

Ladies Fed Many.

The ladies of the G. A. R. fed about 225 people at the dinner in Kalamazoo hall yesterday noon. Of those who participated about seventy-five were old soldiers, nearly fifty were Sons of Veterans and the remainder were ladies of the auxiliary organization to the Grand Army.

Enrolled at Customs House.

The actual enrollment of the steamer Thomas E. Cole at the Duluth customs house was accomplished today and Capt. Morgan obtaining his clearance papers at the same time. This additional vessel now brings up the total number of boats enrolled in the port of Duluth to 385.

Thirty-three Immigrants.

Thirty-three immigrants arrived in the port of Duluth this morning on the steamer from Port Arthur. Most of them were either English or Scandinavians and Inspector William H. Dean did not find it necessary to deport any of them. The usual number of foreigners who have been residing in this country for several years but who have never taken out naturalization papers were compelled to pay the head tax of $2 upon returning here after a visit out of the country. One, John Nelson, who keeps a boarding house on Fifth avenue came to this country in 1879.

OPERA HOUSE CROWDED AND MANY TURNED AWAY.

Tomahawk, Wis., May 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The graduating exercises of the Tomahawk High school were held in Searle's Opera house last night and several hundred people were turned away for lack of standing room.

The closing exercises will be held in the opera house this evening, at which time the diplomas will be awarded to the following members of the high school graduating class: Latin course, Miss Nell Eliza Ball; general science course, Misses Edith Wilhelmina Nelson, Maud Marian Scott, Cena Alelda Watten and Ruby Vivian Garland and Elmer David Foster; commercial course, Messrs. Floyd Lester Slater, Arthur Richard Oelhafen, Thomas James Houlehan, James Leonard Kopplin and Percy Theodore Lord.

THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND.

Milwaukee, May 31.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Kenosha, Wis., says: Mrs. Harriet Matilda Bain, aged 75, widow of Edward Bain, and one of the wealthiest women in Wisconsin, died at her home in this city today. Sorrow over the death of her daughter, Mrs. P. S. Newell of New York, caused an attack of apoplexy and Mrs. Bain had been unconscious since that time.

Mrs. Bain leaves an estate valued at several million dollars. She was interested in the Bain Wagon company, the Chicago & Kenosha Hosiery works, and had stock in several of the large financial institutions in Chicago.

Denver, May 31.—Walter S. Hessman, president of the Denver Union Water company, and one of the foremost capitalists and citizens of Denver, died suddenly today.

GREEN BUG IN NORTHWEST

Report Causes a Good Bulge in Wheat Market.

Flax Has a Good Advance in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 31.—Wheat had a firmer tone in all of the American markets today, the bulge in Minneapolis and Duluth being particularly strong because of reports that the green bug had made its appearance in South Dakota and Minnesota. The bulge was more than a cent in Duluth. The weather predictions and conditions were rather bearish today. Liverpool closed ¾d higher, Berlin 1⅞c higher than Wednesday and Budapest 3⅛c lower than Wednesday.

The Modern Miller was bearish this week. It says:

"Telegrams from Illinois millers report that rains are benefiting growing wheat. Drought conditions in most sections are fully relieved. Crop prospects elsewhere outside of Texas and the territories are satisfactory. Phast having a strong growth and a good color is a rule. No further damage by green bugs is noted."

The July option closed 1⅛c higher in Duluth, ⅜@⅝c in Chicago, ⅛c in Minneapolis, ⅝c in New York, ½@⅝c in St. Louis, unchanged in Kansas City and ⅜c lighter in Winnipeg. The September option closed 1⅛c higher in Duluth, ⅞c in Chicago, 1⅜@⅝c in Minneapolis, ⅝c in New York, ⅝c in St. Louis and ⅝c higher in Kansas City. The October option closed ⅝c lower in Winnipeg.

July corn closed ⅝c higher in Chicago and was ¾d to ⅞d higher in Liverpool. July oats closed ½c higher in Chicago. Car receipts at Duluth were 71, against 74 last year, and at Minneapolis 399, against 145 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 471, against 219 last year. Chicago received 25, against 7 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 711,000 bus., last year 315,000 bus. Shipments, 333,000 bus., last year, 274,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 203,206 bus.

Argentine shipments of wheat were 2,875,000 bus., against 4,111,000 bus., last week and 2,432,000 bus., a year ago.

Primary receipts of corn were 1,064,000 bus., last year 439,000 bus. Shipments, 686,000 bus., last year 478,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 68,750 bus.

Argentine shipments of corn 856,000 bus., against 732,000 bus., last week and 2,763,000 bus., a year ago.

Wheat was rather quiet in the Duluth market during the session. May wheat opened ¼c higher at $1.01 and advanced by the close to $1.01⅞, a gain of 1⅛c over Wednesday. July wheat opened unchanged at $1.01⅛, advanced to $1.01⅝ by 10:09, went off to $1.01½ by 10:10, reacted to $1.02⅛ by 12:18 and ranged between that and $1.02⅜ until the close, which was $1.02⅜, a gain of 1⅛c over Wednesday. September wheat opened unchanged at $1.01, advanced to $1.01⅜, declined to $1.01, rallied to $1.02⅛, declined to $1.02¼, rallied to $1.02⅜ and closed at $1.02¼, a gain of 1⅛c over Wednesday.

Durum wheat closed ½c higher for No. 1 and cash spring wheat was selling at the July price for No. 1 northern.

Flax was active and strong throughout the session. May flax opened 1½c higher at $1.26½, advanced to $1.28¾, declined to $1.27½ and closed at $1.27⅝, a gain of 2¾c over Wednesday. July flax opened ½c higher at $1.27⅝, advanced to $1.29⅜, declined to $1.25, rallied to $1.28¾ and closed at $1.28¾, a gain of 2c over Wednesday.

October flax opened 1¾c higher at $1.26¾, advanced to $1.28¾, declined to $1.27, rallied to $1.28¾ and closed at $1.27⅞, a gain of 1⅜c over Wednesday.

Cash oats closed ⅛ higher and the other coarse grains were unchanged.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Recede at Opening But Rally and Show Firmness.

Chicago, May 31.—A good deal of inherent strength was shown by wheat today. Sharp, fractional recessions were shown at the opening, but the market rallied almost immediately and continued to show firmness. The opening declines were due to the reports of general rains over Kansas, Nebraska and the Southwest, and also to the weakness at Liverpool, due to improved weather conditions in Roumania. But commission houses were in the market for all offerings, and their buying had its effect very quickly. July opened 1@1⅛c lower at 97⅞@98c, advanced to 99⅜c and reacted to 98⅞c. September opened ½@¾c lower at 99@99⅜c, sold at $1.00¾ and reacted to $1.00¼. December opened a shade to ⅜@½c lower at $1.00⅝@1.00½, and advanced to $1.01¾. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 490 cars compared with 340 a week ago and 226 for the corresponding day last year.

Wheat held quite steady until late in the session. On a report from a St. Louis farm paper that the growing crop was doing very well prices eased off. July closed easy, ⅝@⅞c higher at 99⅜@99¾c. September closed ⅜@⅝c higher at $1.00¾@1.00¾ and December ⅞c higher at $1.02½.

Corn was strong, notwithstanding the early decline in wheat. Cash grain is now in big demand, and cash interests and elevator concerns took all offerings. July opened ½@⅝c higher at 63¾@64c and sold at 64¼c. Receipts were 508 cars for the two days, 222 of contract grade.

Corn was very strong until late in the session, July advancing to 64½c. Near the close there was heavy selling on the heavy estimated receipts for tomorrow over 900 cars. The close was about steady, July ¼c higher at 63⅞c.

There was a good demand for July oats, and that option was firm and fairly active. Other deliveries were quiet, and July opened ⅝c to 1½c at 43@43¼c and sold at 43⅝c. Local receipts were 177 cars.

Provisions were quiet but firm, July pork was up 10c at $16.47½, lard 10c higher at $9.00 and ribs 5c higher at $8.87½.

Close: Wheat, July, 99⅛@99⅜c; September, $1.00⅝@1.00¾. Corn, May, 63¾c; July, 63¼c. Oats, May 48½c; July, 43½c. Pork, May, $16.35; July, $16.50. Lard, May, $9.22½; July, $9.27½@9.30. Ribs, $8.85; July $8.90. Rye, cash, 88@88c. Barley, cash, 68@75c. Flax, clover and timothy nothing doing. Cash wheat, No. 2 red, 98@99c; No. 3 red, 97@99c; No. 2 hard, $1.00@1.00½; No. 3 hard, 97@97½c; No. 3 spring, 95c@$1.04. Corn, No. 2, 64¼@65c; No. 3, 64½@64¾c. Oats, No. 2, and No. 3, nothing doing.

Minneapolis Wheat.

Minneapolis, May 31.—The flour market is unchanged. Millers report fair demand for flour and the stronger tone in wheat prices had a quickening effect upon buyers. The high prices, however, are still a handicap and distributors seem afraid to take hold with confidence. Shipments, 65,447 barrels. First patents, $5.15@5.25; second patents, $5.05@5.15; first clears, $3.85@3.75; second clears, $2.75@2.85.

New York Grain.

New York, May 31.—Close: Wheat—July, $1.05⅝; September, $1.05⅝.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, May 31. — Wheat — Spot, steady; No. 2 red Wester nwinter, strong, 7s 1d; No. 1 California, firm, 7s 1d; futures, quiet; May, nominal; July, 7s 2¾d; September, 7s 4d. Corn—Spot, ness dried, steady, 4s 11d; old Northern, firm, 5s 2d; futures, steady; July, 4s 11½d; September, 4s 10½d.

Grain Gossip.

Weather forecast for grain belt:

Illinois, Indiana, Lower Michigan and Wisconsin—Rain tonight and Saturday; colder Saturday; fresh to brisk northwest winds.

Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri—Rain tonight and in east Saturday; cooler tonight.

Upper Michigan—Rain tonight and Saturday; not much change in temperatures.

North Dakota and Montana—Fair tonight and Saturday.

South Dakota—Fair tonight and Saturday; cooler in east tonight.

Nebraska and Kansas—Fair tonight and Saturday, except rain in east portion tonight; cooler in east tonight.

Broomhall cables from Liverpool:

Wheat was steady at the start with values ½d to ¾d higher, being influenced by the light shipments from Argentina and the decrease in the visible supply there. Following the opening an easier feeling developed, prices losing ½d owing to the fact that only a small percentage of the shipments from Argentina went to the continent. Selling was also encouraged by the continued favorable reports from Russia and a poor inquiry for cargoes.

Corn was steady during the early trading with values ½d to ⅝d higher. Strength was the result of the firmness of La Plata offerings and the lack of sellers. The market was dull after the opening with nearby months unchanged and the distant months showing ⅛d decline.

• • •

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: At no time since the bull campaign began was the trade more surprised by the action of the market than this morning. The fairly good rains over Kansas and a number of other Western states led to some selling pressure at the opening. Then the market turned strong. The cause of the turn was the very good volume of resting orders in the hands of large commission people. As soon as the market began to harden many local bulls began to replace lines of wheat. Shorts were forced to cover on the advance. Crop damage at home and abroad is something that we cannot get away from and prices are almost certain to work higher as soon as the bearish effect of recent rains is forgotten.

Corn — Numerous reports came from Iowa saying much corn is not above the ground, that which is up is yellow and considerable replanting going on.

Oats—Bug damage reports continue to come from Illinois points. There is no tight left in the selling side. Northwestern line houses were lined up on the buying side of the July oats. We have persistently stuck to the bull of oats because of the very poor crop showing.

Stock Gossip.

Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: The president's speech was considered satisfactory by the trade in stocks and the market had a healthy tone throughout the early trading. Considerable profit-taking was seen, however, and shortly after midday the list started to sway. On every sign of strength many selling orders went into the market. It is evident that the bears have things pretty well their own way.

• • •

Walker Brothers to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market early was steady and in some cases inclined to be strong. About the noon hour, however, the market became quiet, and in the late trading sold off easily. We look for a dull and uninteresting market for tomorrow.

New York Money.

New York, May 31.—Close: Money on call steady 2@2¾ per cent; ruling rate 2½, closing bid 1½; offered at 2. Time loans steady, 60 days 3½@3¾; 90 days, 3¾ @4 per cent; 6 months, 4⅛ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 5½ per cent. Sterling exchange easy with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86.70@4.86.75 for demand and at $4.83.50@4.83.60 for sixty day bills; posted rates, $4.84½@4.87½; commercial bills $4.83¾@4½. Bar silver 67⅛c; Mexican dollars, 52c. Government bonds irregular; railroad bonds firm.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 31.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 15 to 37 points in response to the sensational gains reported in Liverpool and New Orleans over the local holiday, and continued rains in the South. Trading was very active and with heavy realizing with the new higher records for the season, prices eased off about 10 points from the best shortly after the call. The market showed no sign of weakness, however, owing to continued covering, and fresh buying which was attracted by the very bullish private crop reports from the South, unfavorable weather and expectations of a bullish bureau report next Tuesday.

Cotton, spot closed steady, 40 points higher; middling uplands, 12.90; middling gulf, 13.15. Sales, 3,700 bales. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: June, 11.44; July, 11.55; August, 11.56; September, 11.56; October, 11.57; November, 11.91; December, 11.95; January, 12.06; February, 12.08; March, 12.14.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Early Gains Wiped Out and Small Net Losses Recorded.

Market Steady at Start But Closed Easy and Dull.

New York, May 31.—First transactions in stocks after the holidays were at higher prices than Wednesday's closing. The gain in American car reached 1½, Reading 1⅛, Northern Pacific and Brooklyn Transit 1 and St. Paul Great Northern preferred, Southern Pacific, Rock Island and Amalgamated Copper large fractions. International Paper fell 1 and Canadian Pacific ¾. The volume of dealings was very moderate.

Moderate reasons followed the opening advance before the bulls started the list upward again. The bulk of the demand for the short interest centered in the stocks that were depressed early in the week, notably Reading, Amalgamated Copper and the Hill and Harriman stocks. Reading and Virginia-Carolina Chemical advanced 2½, Delaware & Hudson 2¾, and Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie 3¼. Locomotive was forced down 1 and United States Rubber second preferred 1¾.

The demand subsided to normal proportions and prices for active stocks sagged. Illinois Central, however, sold at an advance of 2½. New York, Chicago & St. Louis 3¼. Erie second preferred, American Smelting and General Electric 2; Erie first preferred and Central Leather 1¾; Minneapolis, St. Paul, Sault Ste. Marie, 1½ and Great Northern ore certificates 1¼. Bonds were steady.

Prominent stocks lost ground steadily during the noon hour, the reaction from the highest reaching 1 to 1⅜ for Reading, Union Pacific, St. Paul, Smelting and other favorites.

Prices stopped declining when a few buying orders were placed in the market, but the bidding ceased after the list became steady.

The market closed easy and extremely dull. The downward movement about wiped out the earlier gains and established general small net losses instead. Union Pacific and Central Railway of New Jersey fell 1; Canadian Pacific, 2¾; Northwestern, 2½. Money on call was firmer. Smelting preferred rose 1, Western Union 1½ and Adams Express 12.

AN APPEAL BY MEAT PACKERS

Want All Cattle Bought Subject to Post Mortem Inspection.

Chicago, May 31.—The executive committee of the American Meat Packers' association, whose membership embraces 275 large and small packers in twenty-nine states, met here today and unanimously adopted a resolution asking all inspected slaughtering establishments to buy cows and other "she cattle' subject to post mortem inspection by the United States government. The request was made that immediate effect be given the resolution.

Secretary George L. McCarthy of the association said: "The deceased cattle to which we object come from dirty, filthy farms, and it naturally follows that the dairy herds from which most of them come are diseased. The danger to the public by consuming milk and other dairy products from tubercular cows and cows suffering from other diseases would be appalling if it were generally known. The farmers who are responsible for these conditions of affairs have no incentive to keep their farms clean and their herds free from disease so long as they are paid full value for diseased animals sent to the market for slaughter, but when cattle are bought subject to inspection after death every farmer who has been negligent will immediately clean up his place and take measures to keep disease out of his herd."

GREEN BUG IN NORTHWEST

Report Causes a Good Bulge in Wheat Market.

Flax Has a Good Advance in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 31.—Wheat had a firmer tone in all of the American markets today, the bulge in Minneapolis and Duluth being particularly strong because of reports that the green bug had made its appearance in South Dakota and Minnesota. The bulge was more than a cent in Duluth. The weather predictions and conditions were rather bearish today. Liverpool closed 4d higher, Berlin 1¾c higher than Wednesday and Budapest 3½c lower than Wednesday.

The Modern Miller was bearish this week. It says:

"Telegrams from Illinois millers report that rains are benefiting growing wheat. Drought conditions in most sections are fully relieved. Crop prospects elsewhere outside of Texas and the territories are satisfactory. Plant having a strong growth and a good color is a rule. No further damage by green bugs is noted."

The July option closed 1¾c higher in Duluth, 4-8c in Chicago, 1c in Minneapolis, 5-8c in New York, 1-8c in St. Louis, unchanged in Kansas City and 3-8c higher in Winnipeg. The September option closed 1¾c higher in Duluth, 7-8c in Chicago, 1c in Minneapolis, 3-8c in New York, 5-8 in St. Louis and 1-8c higher in Kansas City. The October option closed 1c lower in Winnipeg.

July corn closed ½ higher in Chicago and was 4d to 4½d higher in Liverpool. July oats closed ½c higher in Chicago. Car receipts at Duluth were 41, against 71 last year, and at Minneapolis 320, against 93 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 361, against 210 last year. Chicago received 25, against 7 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 711,000 bus., last year 350,000 bus. Shipments, 335,000 bus., last year, 274,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 295,-000 bus.

Argentine shipments of wheat were 2,-376,000 bus., against 4,110,000 bus. last week and 2,432,000 bus. a year ago.

Primary receipts of corn were 1,064,000 bus., last year 520,000 bus. Shipments, 680,000 bus., last year 478,000 bus. Clearances of corn and wheat 68,750 bus.

Argentine shipments of corn 856,000 bus., against 752,000 bus., last week and 2,765,000 bus. a year ago.

Wheat was rather quiet in the Duluth market during the session. May wheat opened 1c higher at $1.0[illegible] and advanced by the close to $1.0[illegible], a gain of 1⅝c over Wednesday. July wheat opened unchanged at $1.01⅜, advanced to $1.01⅝ by 10:10, reacted to $1.01⅜ by 10:45 and ranged between that and $1.01⅝ until the close, which was $1.02⅜, a gain of 1⅜c over Wednesday. September wheat opened unchanged at $1.01, advanced to $1.01⅜, declined to $1.01⅛, rallied to $1.02⅛, declined to $1.02¼, rallied to $1.02⅝ and closed at $1.02⅜, a gain of 1⅜c over Wednesday.

Durum wheat closed ½c higher for No. 1 and cash spring wheat was selling at the July price for No. 1 northern.

Flax was active and strong throughout the session. May flax opened 1½c higher at $1.26¾, advanced to $1.28¾, declined to $1.27½, rallied to $1.28¾ and closed at $1.27¾, a gain of 1¾c over Wednesday.

July flax opened ½c higher at $1.27¾, advanced to $1.28⅝, declined to $1.27, rallied to $1.28¾ and closed at $1.27¾, a gain of 1¾c over Wednesday.

Cash oats closed ½c higher and the other coarse grains were unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Recede at Opening But Rally and Show Firmness.

Chicago, May 31.—A good deal of inherent strength was shown by wheat today. Sharp, fractional recessions were shown at the opening, but the market rallied almost immediately and continued to show firmness. The opening declines were due to the reports of general rains over Kansas, Nebraska and the Southwest, and also to the weakness at Liverpool, due to improved weather conditions in Roumania. But commission houses were in the market for all offerings, and their buying had its effect very quickly. July opened ½@¾c lower at 97⅞@98c, advanced to 99¾c and reacted to 98¾c. September opened ½@¾c lower at 99@99¼c, sold at $1.00¾ and reacted to $1.00¼. December opened a shade to ⅝@¾c lower at $1.02¾@1.02⅝, and advanced to $1.03⅜. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 490 cars compared with 330 a week ago and 225 for the corresponding day last year.

Wheat held quite steady until late in the session. On a report from a St. Louis farm paper that the growing crop was doing very well prices eased off. July closed easy, ⅝@¾c higher at 98⅝@99¼c; September closed ¾@⅞c higher at $1.00@1.00⅛, and December ⅞c higher at $1.02⅜.

Corn was strong, notwithstanding the early decline in wheat. Cash grain is now in big demand, and cash interests and elevator concerns took all offerings. July opened ¼@⅜c higher at 53¾@54c and sold at 54⅜c. Local receipts were 508 cars for the two days, 222 of contract grade.

Corn was very strong until late in the session, July advancing to 54½@-55c. Near the close there was heavy selling on the heavy estimated receipts for tomorrow over 900 cars. The close was about steady, July ¼c higher at 53⅝c.

There was a good demand for July oats, and that option was firm and fairly active. Other deliveries were quiet, and July opened ⅜c to 1¼c at 42@42⅜c. Local receipts were 177 cars.

Provisions were quiet but firm. July pork was up 10c at $15.47½, lard 10c higher at $8.30 and ribs 5c higher at $8.87½.

Close: Wheat, July, 98¾@99¼c; September, $1.00@1.00⅛. Corn, May, 53⅝c; July, 53⅝c. Oats, May 43⅜c; July, 42½c. Pork, May, $15.35. July, $15.50. Lard, May, $8.22½; July, $8.27½@8.30. Ribs, $8.85; July $8.90. Rye, cash, 88@88c. Barley, cash, 68@75c. Flax, clover and timothy nothing doing. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 99¾@$1.00¼; No. 3 red, 97@99c; No. 2 hard, 97@99c; No. 3 hard, 97@97c; No. 3 spring, 96c@$1.01. Corn, No. 2, 54¼@55c, No. 3, 51½@54c. Oats, No. 2, and No. 3, nothing doing.

Broomhall cables from Liverpool:

Wheat was steady at the start with values ¼d to ¾d higher, being influenced by the light shipments from Argentina and the decrease in the visible supply there. Following the opening an easier feeling developed, prices losing ½d owing to the fact that only a small percentage of the shipments from Argentina went to the continent. Selling was also encouraged by the continued favorable reports from Russia and a poor inquiry for cargoes.

Corn was steady during the early trading with values ½d to ⅝d higher. Strength was the result of the firmness of La Plata offerings and the lack of sellers. The market was dull after the opening with nearby months unchanged and the distant months showing ⅛d decline.

• • •

Logan & Bryan, Chicago, to Paine, Webber & Co.: At no time since the bull campaign began was the trade more surprised by the action of the market than this morning. The fairly good rains over Kansas and a number of other western states led to some selling pressure at the opening. Then the market turned strong. The cause of the turn was the very good volume of resting orders in the hands of large commission people. As soon as the market began to harden many local bulls began to replace lines of wheat. Shorts were forced to cover on the advance. Crop damage at home and abroad is something that we cannot get away from and prices are almost certain to work higher as soon as the bearish effect of recent rains is forgotten.

Corn — Numerous reports came from Iowa saying much corn is not above the ground, that which is up is yellow and considerable replanting going on.

Oats—Bug damage reports continue to come from Illinois points. There is no light left in the selling side. Northwestern line houses were lined up on the buying side of the July oats. We have persistently stuck to the bull of oats because of the very poor crop showing.

Stock Gossip.

Logan & Bryan to Paine, Webber & Co.: The president's speech was considered satisfactory by the trade in stocks and the market had a healthy tone throughout the early trading. Considerable profit-taking was seen, however, and shortly after midday the list started to sway. On every sign of strength many selling orders went into the market. It is evident that the bears have things pretty well their own way.

• • •

Walker Brothers to Paine, Webber & Co.: The market early was steady and in some cases inclined to be strong. About the noon hour, however, the market became quiet, and in the late trading sold off easily. We look for a dull and uninteresting market for tomorrow.

New York Money.

New York, May 31.—Close: Money on call steady 2@2¾ per cent; ruling rate 2½, closing bid 1½; offered at 2. Time loans steady, 60 days 3½@3¾; 90 days, 3¾@4 per cent; 6 months, 4¾ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 5½ per cent. Sterling exchange easy with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86.70@4.86.75 for demand and at $4.83.55@4.83.60 for sixty day bills; posted rates, $4.84½@4.87½; commercial bills $4.83¾@4½. Bar silver 67¾c; Mexican dollars, 52c. Government bonds irregular; railroad bonds firm.

The Cotton Market.

New York, May 31.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 15 to 37 points in response to the sensational gains reported in Liverpool and New Orleans over the local holiday, and continued rains in the South. Trading was very active and with heavy realizing with the new higher records for the season, prices eased off about 10 points from the best shortly after the call. The market showed no sign of weakness, however, owing to continued covering and fresh buying which was attracted by the very bullish private crop reports from the South, unfavorable weather and expectations of a bullish bureau report next Tuesday.

Cotton, spot closed steady, 40 points higher; middling uplands, 12.90; middling gulf, 13.15. Sales, 8,700 bales. Futures closed steady. Closing bids: June, 11.44; July, 11.56; August, 11.56; September, 11.56; October, 11.57; November, 11.91; December, 11.95; January, 12.05; February, 12.08; March, 12.14.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Early Gains Wiped Out and Small Net Losses Recorded.

Market Steady at Start But Closed Easy and Dull.

New York, May 31.—First transactions in stocks after the holidays were at higher prices than Wednesday's closing. The gain in American car reached 1½, Reading 1⅛, Northern Pacific and Brooklyn Transit 1 and St. Paul, Great Northern preferred, Southern Pacific, Rock Island and Amalgamated Copper large fractions. International Paper fell 1 and Canadian Pacific ¾. The volume of dealings was very moderate.

Moderate reasons followed the opening advance before the bulls started the list upward again. The bulk of the demand for the short interest centered in the stocks that were depressed early in the week, notably Reading, Amalgamated Copper and the Hill and Harriman stocks. Reading and Virginia-Carolina Chemical advanced 2½, Delaware & Hudson 2¾, and Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie 2¼. Locomotive was forced down 1 and United States Rubber second preferred 1¾.

The demand subsided to normal proportions and prices for active stocks sagged. Illinois Central, however, sold at an advance of 2½. New York, Chicago & St. Louis 3¼. Erie second preferred, American Smelting and General Electric 2; Erie first preferred and Central Leather 1¾; Minneapolis, St. Paul, Sault Ste. Marie, 1½ and Great Northern ore certificates 1¼. Bonds were steady.

Prominent stocks lost ground steadily during the noon hour, the reaction from the highest reaching 1 to 1¾ for Reading, Union Pacific, the St. Paul, Smelting and other favorites.

Prices stopped declining when a few buying orders were placed in the market, but the bidding ceased after the list became steady.

The market closed easy and extremely dull. The downward movement about wiped out the earlier gains and established general small net losses instead. Union Pacific and Central Railway of New Jersey fell 1; Canadian Pacific, 3¼; Northwestern, 2½. Money on call was firmer. Smelting preferred rose 1, Western Union 1½ and Adams Express 12.

AN APPEAL BY MEAT PACKERS

Want All Cattle Bought Subject to Post Mortem Inspection.

Chicago, May 31.—The executive committee of the American Meat Packers' association, whose membership embraces 275 large and small packers in twenty-nine states, met here today and unanimously adopted a resolution asking all inspected slaughtering establishments to buy cows and other "she cattle" subject to post mortem inspection by the United States government. The request was made that immediate effect be given the resolution.

Secretary George L. McCarthy of the association said: "The deceased cattle to which we object come from dirty, filthy farms, and it naturally follows that the dairy herds from which most of them come are diseased. The danger to the public by consuming milk and other dairy products from tubercular cows and cows suffering from other diseases would be appalling if it were generally known. The farmers who are responsible for these conditions of affairs have no incentive to keep their farms clean and their herds free from disease so long as they are paid full value for diseased animals sent to the market for slaughter, but when cattle are bought subject to inspection after death every farmer who has been negligent will immediately clean up his place and take measures to keep disease out of his herd."

BLAZE IN BASEMENT.

Fire in Golden Rule Store Does Extensive Damage.

A fire starting about 2 o'clock this morning in the basement of the Golden Rule store on East Superior street, from defective wiring, caused a rather serious blaze, nearly all the stock in the basement being burned and extensive damage done by smoke and water to stock and fixtures on the second story.

Dense volumes of smoke poured from the building during the blaze and the whole structure was threatened at one time. Several families living above the store were warned by Officer Roberg and escaped from the building. The stock and furniture on the upper floors of the building was damaged but little, however.

On May 8th an unfortunate fire visited our store at 17 and 19 East Superior Street, damaging the stock—mostly by smoke and water. We are compelled to take whatever prices we can get for it. Our store was filled with brand new, up-to-date merchandise, ready for the spring trade. The greatest damage done to these goods is a smoke smell, which a few hours in the open air will entirely dispel. It is a grand opportunity for the buyer, but a heavy sacrifice for us. The sale will start with a rush—BE HERE WITH THE CROWDS.

SALE COMMENCES SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 1.

GERMANS AND CANADIANS

Commercial War Has Been to the Disadvantage of Both.

The Newfoundland Bait Act Goes to the Privy Council.

Ottawa, Ont., May 31.—At a time when the United States is negotiating with Germany for a new commercial agreement, it might be pointed out that Germany has been endeavoring for some years past to be relieved of the surtax which Canada imposed against German goods entering this country. Germany penalized Canada because Canada was the mens of the denunciation of the German-Belgian treaties which prevented Canada giving a trade preference to Britain without Germany getting the benefit. The result was that Germany applied its maximum tariff to Canada and in return Canada hit back with the surtax. There have been efforts made on the part of Germany to come to an arrangement, but so far these have been fruitless. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Honorable W. S. Fielding are on the continent it is just quite probable that they will have a conference with the German authorities on the subject. It is not expected that any agreement can be made for giving Germany the intermediate tariff, but some of the principal items of trade between the two countries might be selected. When the United States and Canada are both concerning themselves in trade matters with Germany, it is of interest to note the development of trade with the Dominion as compared with the progress made by the United States.

With the application of the maximum tariff on Canadian products our exports to Germany fell off from $2,692,578 in 1902, to $1,872,567 last year. The decline of $800,666 is more than accounted for by the loss on breadstuffs and flax seed. On the other hand the United States has increased its exports to Germany during five years, 1902-1906, from $173,480,380 to $234,742,162. The increase of $60,000,000 is, however, due largely to the exports of such articles as raw cotton, copper, bar ingots, etc., lard, Indian corn and lumber. The increase in the exports of those articles alone account for $40,000,000. It is evident that there is a demand for many classes of Canadian goods in Germany and the market is a large one, worth cultivating, but it cannot be so cultivated so long as this country is discriminated against an dpreferential treatment is accorded its most formidable rival. But, Germany, too, has suffered from the tariff war with Canada, which she brought on. While she has been enabled to increase her exports to the United States by $34,000,000 in five years, her export trade to Canada has been reduced during the same time from $12,000,000 to $7,000,000, where she might reasonably have expected a large increase. Moreover, $4,000,000 of the German goods which came into Canada last year were subjected to the surtax of 33 1-3 per cent. Realizing as she does, the value of the Canadian market it is not to be wondered that Germany is seeking to establish better relations with us.

The Newfoundland bait act is to be taken in appeal from the supreme court of Newfoundland to the judicial committee of the privy council. In this way two alternatives will be presented to Britain, should the judicial committee decide in favor of the devision of the island court of last resort. The local provincial laws of the colony will have to be set aside or a new deal must be made with the United States in respect to the Atlantic fisheries, which will not only be satisfactory to the people of the colony, but also to the Canadian government. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is just as strongly in favor of the Newfoundland legislation as is Premier Bond. Imperial unity with local liberty is the Canadian premier's motto. The right of a colony to make its own laws within the jurisdiction granted under the constitution is even more sacred and more binding than a dominion or an imperial statute. The imperiling of existing friendly relations with the United States cannot stand in the way, nor would the good will of England long be sought for if such a course were to be pursued.

It should be mentioned that the Newfoundland bait act prohibits masters of United States fishing vessels from engaging British subjects for employment within the three-mile limit. American vessel masters sought to avoid this law by engaging Newfoundlanders outside the limit, and putting them to work within the three miles. Two of these Newfoundland fishermen were arrested for violation of the law, and a test case was made by the colonial government. The men were tried and sentenced to a fine of $500 each or three months' imprisonment, and upon appeal being made to the Newfoundland supreme court, the conviction was sustained. On behalf of the appellants it was argued that the bait act was inconsistent with the treay of 1818, and the modus vivendi arranged by the British and United States governments last year, but the finding of the Newfoundland courts is that, as the appellants are not American fishermen and enjoy no exemption from colonial laws, neither the treaty nor the modus vivendi is involved.

No doubt it would be a relief to the imperial authorities if the privy council were to upset the judgment of the colonial courts, but such a decision would certainly be unjust to the Newfoundlanders. Canada renews its modus vivendi with the United States each year, although there is a growing tendency against this. Still, Sir Wilfrid Laurier is not anxious to do anything to disturb the harmonious relations which have existed so long between the two peoples, although he acknowledges the unfairness of the Dominion carrying out its part when the United States senate refused to pass the Chamberlain Bayard treaty, to which the modus vivendi referred. The Canadian premier has also expressed the opinion that Premier Bond would have done better to have accepted the modus vivendi for the present and negotiate for a better settlement. That Bond has the right to refuse goes without saying, and it will be of great interest to see what the Bannerman government is going to do about it.

England sent far more immigrants to Canada than any other country during the fiscal period ending March 31. Next in order as a supplier of citizens to Canada was the United States, and in diminishing order came Scotland, Russia, Austria-Hungary, Italy, Ireland, India, Japan, Germany, France and Sweden. Almost every country in the world sent some persons to become subjects of King Edward in Canada. During the nine months which constituted the fiscal period 34,639 persons came from the United States, and of these 2,560 were returning Canadians. During the last four years more than 150,000 persons from the United States have settled in Canada, about 15,000 of the number being returned Canadians. For the nine-months period immigrants from Great Britain numbered 85,791, an increase of almost 19,000 over the same period in the year before. Of the British total, 41,558 came from England and Wales, 10,729 from Scotland and 3,404 from Ireland. There were arrivals of Russian and other European Jews in the period numbering about 6,000. Over half of them settled in the province of Quebec. Italy sent about 5,115 immigrants, and more than half settled in Ontario. Arrivals of other nationalities were as follows: Galicians, 1,652; Hungarians and Austrians, 1,200; Hindoos, 2,124; Japanese, 2,042; Russian, 1,027; Germans, 1,889; Norwegians, 876; Dutch, 394; Belgians, 650; Greeks, 545; Syrians, 277; Turks, 222; negroes, 108; Spanish, 29. From Newfoundland 1,029 persons came to Canada.

Canada's foreign trade is growing. The exports to Great Britain during the twelve months ended March, 1907, amounted to $134,469,430, an increase of $8,920,631, or about 7 per cent over the exports of the previous twelve months. Exports to the United States totalled $100,772,540, an increase of $20,145,508, or 22½ per cent. Canada's total exports to all countries amounted to $272,206,606, an increase of $32,482,960. The imports from Great Britain show an increase of $16,089,287, or 24 per cent, and from the United States $208,721,601, an increase of $39,751,452, or over 28 per cent. The increase of Canada's trade for all countries was over 21 per cent. So the United States is getting the best share, despite the preference to Britain.

SIXTY FALL INTO CELLAR

Collapse of Temporary Flooring Brings Injury to Several.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 31.—At the laying of the cornerstone of St. Mary's Greek Catholic church yesterday afternoon a temporary flooring collapsed, precipitating about sixty persons into the cellar, twelve feet below. For an hour the utmost excitement prevailed. The screams of those in the wreckage and groans from the injured could be heard for a block away. Ladders were secured from neighboring factories, and with the aid of the police, the injured were removed from their perilous position. Some were able to walk to their homes, while others were removed to hospitals in ambulances. The accident, it is said, was due to insufficient bracing beneath the new floor.

Bishop Hoban of Scranton, who went down with the crash, was at first reported to be seriously hurt, but this proved untrue. He was badly shaken up, however.

The priests injured were: Father Csopri, rector of the church, bruised and injured about the body; Father Gabriel Csopri of Perth Amboy, N. J., brother of the local pastor, bruised about the body, tongue badly injured; Father Kossy of Alden, Pa.; Father Jacovics of Scranton, Father Kaminsky of Kingston and Father Loughran of Scranton, who suffered severe bruises and lacerations.

TWO KILLED IN COLLISION

Street Cars Come Together at Elyria With Fatal Results.

Elyria, Ohio, May 31.—Crowded with holiday passengers, a Cleveland & Southwestern trolley car, running from Wellington to Cleveland, was struck on the rear end by a trailer, at the corner of Sixth street and Middle avenue, shortly before 6 o'clock last night, resulting in at least two deaths. Eleven persons were injured. Two of the injured, it is thought, will die. The dead:

H. M. BILLINGS, 65, Elyria.

W. E. ALLEN, 66, Elyria, claim agent of the Lake Shore railroad.

The fatally injured: Donald Sela, aged 5.

The seriously injured: E. O'Donnell, crockery merchant, Elyria, legs broken and otherwise injured; Mabel Dean, 15, Oberlin, leg broken, otherwise injured; Eunice Murat, 25, Elyria; Arthur Headley, Elyria; Jack Leslie, 27, Carlisle; George Chamberlain, 36, Madison, Ohio, both legs broken, condition critical; W. S. Avery, motorman, severely bruised and injured internally; Mrs. J. P. Sela, wife of Rev. J. P. Sela, of Elyria, slightly hurt; Homer Allen, severely injured; Margaret Butler, 17, slightly hurt.

The accident occurred not more than a block from the city hospital. The car had slowed down at Fifth and Middle streets, to allow three passengers to get off. The rear platform was crowded, and while the motorman was waiting for the passengers to alight, a car, which was trailing, crashed into the first one, crushing and mangling those on the rear platform and injuring several others.

NOT SO WEAK.

Young's Magazine: Dave Montgomery, who does acrobatic stunts in "The Red Mill," is a great admirer of the Irish. "An Irishman is strong even in his weakest moments," says Mr. Montgomery. "Listen to this:

"An Irishman, coming over on one of the big liners, was seasick and bending over the aril in great distress. An officer of the deck stopped near him and remarked:

"'You seem to have a weak stomach, Pat?'

"Straightening up and throwing out his chest, the Irishman replied:

"'Wake nawthin'! Oi'm throwin' as fur as anny wan on this ship, sor!'"

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE—
WHEREAS, default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage which was duly executed and delivered by Henry J. Bolley, unmarried, Mortgagor, to Claus E. Wilander, Mortgagee, dated the 4th day of January, A. D. 1906, which was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 10th day of April, 1906, at 8 o'clock A. M., in Book 192 of Mortgages, on page 297, such default consisting in the non-payment of the principal thereby secured, with interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent per annum from the 4th day of January, 1906, all of which became due and payable on the 4th day of January, 1906, and no part of which has ever been paid.
AND WHEREAS, there is therefore claimed to be due and there is actually due upon said mortgage debt at the date of this notice the sum of Two Hundred Thirty-one and 65-100 ($231.65) Dollars, principal and interest;
AND WHEREAS, said mortgage contains a power of sale in the form which has become operative by reason of the defaults above mentioned, and no action or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.
NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described therein, situated in St. Louis County, Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit: The Southwest Quarter of the Northwest Quarter (SW¼ of NW¼) of Section Twenty-seven (27), Township Fifty-one (51) North of Range Eighteen (18) West of the Fourth Principal Meridian of Minnesota, according to the Government Survey thereof, which premises will be sold by the Sheriff of St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front door of the courthouse in the City of Duluth, in said County and State, on the 29th day of June, A. D. 1907, at 10 o'clock A. M., at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and taxes, if any, on said premises, and Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars attorney's fees, stipulated for in said mortgage in case of foreclosure, subject to redemption at any time within one year from date of sale, as provided by law.
Dated May 8th, 1907.

LAST DAY FOR TAXES

Penalty Attaches on Unpaid 1906 Real Estate Taxes.

County Treasurer's Office Very Busy Place at Present.

This is the last day for paying either the whole or one-half the real estate taxes for 1906, without a penalty attached.

County Treasurer Holgate's office force was very busy today attending to those who personally appeared at the courthouse to pay their taxes, while the mail brought in hundreds of certified checks. The personal payments are attended to first, and after today the clerical force in the office will turn their attention to the checks. It is likely some weeks will ensue, however, before some of those who paid their taxes by check will get a receipt.

The law provides for the payment of the realty taxes in two installments, if the taxpayer so desires, or it may all be paid at once.

On June 1 of each year a penalty of 10 per cent shall accrue and thereafter be charged upon all unpaid taxes on real estate on the current lists in the hands of the county treasurer, and any county treasurer who shall make out and deliver or countersign any receipt for such taxes without including such penalty therein shall be liable to the county for the amount of such penalty. It is provided that when the taxes charged against any tract or lot exceed $1, one-half thereof may be paid prior to June 1, whereupon no penalty will accrue, and the remaining one-half of the tax may be paid prior to Nov. 1, without penalty attaching.

This means that any person with taxable real estate who forgot to pay either the whole or one-half their taxes before the county treasurer's office closed this evening, will have to pay a 10 per cent penalty on the whole amount of the tax.

At the rate the checks have been arriving at the county treasurer's office, and from the fact that the office has been pretty well filled with taxpayers for several days past, it is quite probable that the delinquent list will not be very large this year. The delinquents are more apt to be people whose tax is so small that a 10 per cent penalty would make but a few cents difference, and who might have forgotten to attend to the matter. Those who pay the largest taxes are most apt to attend to the matter on or before June 1, as the 10 per cent penalty on taxes amounting to several hundred dollars is no small item of extra expense for carelessness.

Real estate taxes are assessed against the land and not against the owner, for that reason because of the frequent transfers of title that sometimes occur on certain tracts or parcels of land, it would be impracticable to send out tax notices, such as are sent out in case of personal property taxes, where the persons directly taxed are notified to pay the county treasurer the amount assessed. Real estate taxes create no personal liability and they are not a lien on the other land of the owner. For the purpose of taxation the hand of the state is always on all property within its jurisdiction.

On the first Monday in January each year the county treasurer makes returns to the county auditor of the tax lists in his hands. The auditor compares them with the statements of taxes receipted and each tract and parcel of real estate against which any part of the taxes remains unpaid is deemed delinquent and an additional five per cent penalty is attached.

On or before Feb. 1, each year, the county auditor files with the clerk of the district court a list of the delinquent taxes upon real estate, such filing being deemed a complaint in an action of the county against the delinquent real estate. After judgment is rendered the annual tax sale occurs on the second Monday in May each year, all the lands against which judgment for taxes has been entered being sold for such taxes.

NARROW ESCAPE OF DULUTH MEN

Edward Murphy and Byron Culbertson Get Ducking Near Tower.

Edward Murphy and Byron Culbertson of Duluth had a narrow escape from drowning in the lake near Tower Monday. The story has just reached the city. The two men were on a fishing trip, and started out from town in one of the new-fangled steel boats.

They had gone about half way across the lake when they decided to change seats. Both stood up, and as they were attempting to pass each other the boat gave a sudden lurch and turned bottom upward, precipitating its occupants into the water. The ice left the lake only a few days ago, so the bath was a chilly one.

Neither of the fishermen knew how to swim, and the situation looked very serious for a minute. Fortunately for them, the boat, though made of steel, was fitted with air-tight compartments, and did not sink. They managed to flounder within reaching distance of the craft, and hung on until their danger was seen by the occupants of a small gasoline launch, who went quickly to their assistance. What might have resulted in a fatal accident had no more serious results than a bad scare and a wetting.

LEARNING TO WRITE AT 80.
Pittsburg Dispatch: Mrs. John Young, residing near Overfield, in Barbour county, W. Va., has learned to read and write at the age of 80. She undertook the task because she desired to write a letter to a daughter, Miss Anna Young, in Washington.
Mrs. Young's granddaughter was her tutor. When she began studying Mrs. Young did not know a letter of the alphabet. Now she writes a legible hand.

DESERTS OF ASIA.

Boston Transcript: Just north of the Himalaya mountain range in Chinese Turkestan lies a belt of land which is watered by north-flowing rivers. These, however, do not flow anywhere, but lose themselves in the sand of the desert.
The worst deserts of America are mere child's play to the desert conditions in this part of Asia. In many places there were formerly, 1,000 or 2,000 years ago, a condition of soil and climate so that they could support a considerable population. There are the remains of villages and even cities, which must have had water in large quantities in places now far distant from any reliable source of supply. So dry is the country that ruins of wooden houses which have been exposed to the weather for ten centuries or more have hardly the beginnings of decay.

TRIAL IS RESUMED

One Witness Tells of Defendant's Affection for His Wife.

Three witnesses were on the stand in the Argyle trial, which was resumed in Judge Cant's room this morning, after the national holiday of Thursday.

The cross-examination by the state of Jacob Johnson, a witness for the defense, was completed shortly after the court opened, and Mrs. Welling, who with her husband were close friends of the Argyles for some time, testified in Fred M. Argyle's behalf.

Mrs. Welling' tetimony varied a little frem that she gave at the former trial of Argyle for assulting his wife, in that she stated things, from her recollection, that she did not mention at the former trial. These related principally to Argyle's conduct toward his wife and the general treatment that Mrs. Argyle accorded her husband in public and before their friends. Mr. Welling also testified to the general good character that Argyle bore before the shooting occurred.

James L. Crawford, of the firm of Durkin & Crawford, undertakers, was also a character witness for Argyle. The defendant formerly worked for Durkin & Crawford at various intervals when their regular man was away, and Mr. Crawford testified that so far as he knew Argyle was always trustworthy and bore an excellent reputation.

It is understood that the defense has a large number of character witnesses yet to be called, and will also introduce more or less expert medical testimony relative to Argyle's mental condition at the time that the shooting occurred.

The state, it is expected, will introduce expert medical testimony in rebuttal.

From the present indications it looks very much as though the trial will last well into next week.
